RALSTON LOOMS AS DEMOCRATIC DEADLOCK PICK

Indiana Senator Is Old, but Vigorous.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Entertaining visions of the Democratic national convention next year deadlocking on the candidacies of William G. McAdoo and Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama, Indiana Democrats are grooming United States Senator Samuel M. Ralston as a suitable compromise candidate for the Democratic nomination for president.

Senator Ralston, who in personal appearance and attitude on public questions, reminds his friends of Grover Cleveland, is attracting much attention also in other parts of the country where Democrats are speculating on the difficulties either Underwood or McAdoo will encounter in winning the necessary two-thirds of the convention and on the compromise possibilities.

At this writing he is easily the most prominent presidential possibility in the Democratic party next to McAdoo and Underwood.

Seek Man for Second Place.

A good many Democrats who are convinced that neither McAdoo nor Underwood can be nominated are canvassing the possibilities of a running mate for Ralston. As Senator Ralston is a dry, some Democrats have suggested that it would be good strategy to pick an eastern wet, like Gov. Al Smith of New York or Gov. George E. Silzer of New Jersey for second place on the ticket.

The Indiana delegation will be solidly for Ralston. Tom Taggart, the Democratic leader who put the quietus on the Al Smith boom for President in the middle west, has said Indiana will support Ralston, and that settles it.

Objection is already heard that Ralston is too old for the Presidency, being nearly 66 now. If nominated and elected he would be 67 on taking office, older than any President save William Henry Harrison, who died after serving one month. Ralston, however, is as active and vigorous as a man ten years younger.

Where Age Wouldn't Count.

Probably in a contest between the Republican candidate conducting a front porch campaign and Senator Ralston strenuously stumping the country, the question of age would disappear largely as a factor.

Mr. Ralston is a lawyer and farmer who has been active in Democratic politics all his life. He was a Cleveland elector in 1892 and was elected governor in 1912. His administration was noted for reduction of taxes and the institution of numerous reforms. He decisively defeated Albert J. Beveridge in the senatorial election last year, his victory being aided if not made possible, by Republican knifing of Beveridge.

Doesn't Want to Be a Candidate.

The senator is not going after the nomination despite the encouragement of his friends and admirers. His feelings in the matter he summed up by saying:

"I really want to end my life there and to live the rest of my days just as I am living them now, on the farm among the hills of Indiana, with a law business that ranks well and honorably."

The senator said that he is a person of two strong hatreds. One is of high taxes and extravagance in government, the other is war. He thinks the league of nations points the way to abolition of war, and though some other Democratic leaders are becoming afflicted with cold feet on the proposition he is as much in favor of the United States joining the league as is Woodrow Wilson.

"The time has come in the history of the world," he said, "when the stronger nations must band together for the purpose of outlawing war.

In Sympathy with League.

"I am heartily in sympathy with the league of nations idea. I do not believe it is possible for this country to stand on an isolation platform much longer if world civilization is to be saved.

"What I most desire is that the time will never come again when we will be called on to send American boys to fight in a European war.

"My notion is that a real world court, one with the power to enforce its decrees, would go a long way toward outlawing war in the future. Our whole international policy should be divorced entirely from party politics.

"We are a part of the great world now for all time and we must function accordingly. I am for parties in American politics, but when we touch the international question then we should function as a nation, and not as any particular party organization.

"So I shall vote with the Republicans if it is necessary to compel our adhesion to the world court."

EXTRA HOLES.

Hagen	4	4
Sarazen	4	3

BY HUGH FULLERTON.

Pelham Manor, N. Y., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A braw laddie by the name of Giuseppi Pesandra tonight holds the title of champion of champions at golf.

Guiseppi, whose nom-de-golf is Gene Sarazen, won the title this afternoon when he defeated Walter Hagen on the thirty-eighth hole of the national tournament of the Professional Golfers' association. He thus retains the crown which he won last year at Oakmont, Pa.

Who Is the Greater?

Sarazen won, but the match did not decide whether he or Hagen is the greatest golfer of the country. The only conclusion which can be reached from today's contest is that there is no greatest professional golfer in the world. Although Sarazen finally won, there was nothing to choose and honor enough for all—the dubs included.

It was a heart-breaking match for players and spectators. Hagen and Sarazen ended all square, both in holes and strokes, in the eighteen hole morning round. Sarazen won the advantage on the twenty-first. He got the twenty-third and twenty-fifth. Finally at the start of the thirty-fourth hole he was 2 up and only three to go.

Hagen Recovers Stroke.

Then Hagen, seemingly beaten, took the thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth, making them all square. On the thirty-sixth green Sarazen was badly disturbed by the gallery, but curled a putt around Hagen's half-stymie and the ball plopped in. Hagen, as he putted, turned and started for the clubhouse, thinking the match won, but the ball failed to fall, and they halved in 4s and went to the extra holes.

The thirty-seventh hole was halved with two birdie fours, and they came to the thirty-eighth. The hole is a peculiar one. The tee is on a hilltop, close to a boundary fence; a high copse faces it, and the ground slopes down to a narrow valley. Around the corner, 310 yards away and behind a garden lined with high trees, lies the green.

Ten thousand persons who had fought, raced, and dripped perspiration to watch the struggle lined the green ten deep, and the hillsides were black with them. The sun was setting behind cloud banks and a breeze had sprung up as Hagen, dark, his good humor exhausted, took the honor.

Walter Drive in Sand Trap.

His drive carried high over the hills, over a tree, and sank with a plunk into the sand trap to the right of the green, scarcely twenty feet from the cup.

Sarazen, hurling the remnant of his strength into his stroke, sent the ball high over trees, over the house in the garden, and it fell with a thud in the tangled rough fifty feet from the flag and behind a high mound.

The end was in sight for some one. Sarazen, calmly studying the shot, wiped his brow, walked forward to the top of the mound, sized the situation, and walked back. Hagen, in the sand trap, studied his shot while the gallery, rampant as it had been for hours, sank into silence, breathless almost.

Gene's Perfect Shot.

Sarazen selected his club, a mashie niblick, and, as if in practice, pitched the ball over the mound onto the green and it stopped four feet from the pin while the crowd, emitted a scream and then fell silent again.

Hagen studied long. He knew that upon the next shot depended the title of professional champion and all the emoluments that go with it.

Then he shot. A spurt of sand flared up, the ball jumped against the low bank, rolled back and the Hagen admirers groaned. His second desperate effort, dropped the ball almost into the cup but failed.

An instant later Sarazen, steadying himself, rolled down the putt and retained his title while the crowd rushed over the green, ignoring the pleas

ILLINOIS A. C. HELD UP BY TWO MASKED ROBBERS

Two young men entered the Illinois Athletic club early this morning, and after ordering the night manager, G. A. Bagg, the elevator man, and five scrub women into an elevator and telling them to go to the roof, took $75 from a cash drawer and escaped.

The elevator was stopped at the third floor and the switchboard operator was told to notify the police.

J. F. Bassiger, a member, asleep on that floor, was aroused and went down with a gun, but the men had gone. Police searched the lake front, but were unable to find the robbers.

The men were well dressed, wore handkerchiefs over their faces, and carried guns. They appeared to be slightly intoxicated.

KIN OF SHERIFF IS SUICIDE; BROODED OVER AILING SON

David Hoffman, a relative of Sheriff Peter Hoffman, committed suicide last night in his home at Gross Point. Despondency over the continued illness of his 5 year old son, Wilton, was given as the cause.

Wilton is in Evanston hospital. Several times Hoffman and his brother, James, gave blood for transfusion operations, but the boy's condition grew worse. Yesterday he was so weak that physicians would not allow the father to see him. Hoffman was disconsolate.

"This will be the last supper I will eat with you and the children," he told his wife at the dinner table. She became alarmed and hurried over to a neighbor's house for help.

When they returned, Hoffman was found dead with a shotgun still held between his knees.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Sale by the William G. SIX ARRESTED IN 'WHITECAP' PLOT

Judge Edwards' Brother Held in Kidnaping.

D. A. Hutton, assistant fire chief of Waukegan, and five other citizens of that town, including well known business men, who are alleged Friday night to have flogged two farmer boys, kidnaped them and held them prisoners in the Waukegan city jail until daylight yesterday, without due process of law, were arrested last night on charges of assault and battery at the direction of State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county.

The boys, who exhibited bruised bodies to the state's attorney, are J. R. Cadmore and Arthur Marquist, sons of farmers living about two miles north of the city.

Told to Check Spooners.

Sheriff Edwin Ahlstrom had received a number of complaints from farmers in that vicinity against "petting parties" held in closed automobiles along the roads near their homes at night. The spooners, it was charged, mixed "moonshine" with their petting, often became boisterous, and frequently damaged property. The sheriff directed the farmers to obtain the license numbers of the cars of the offenders and report them to him.

Acting on these instructions, young Cadmore and Marquist began taking the license numbers of a long line of cars parked near their farms Friday night. The first car was that of Frank Klarkowski, son of a wealthy Waukegan merchant. Klarkowski, according to the boys, suddenly leaped into his car and drove to Waukegan. He is alleged to have gone to the police station, where he met Hutton, and the two gathered the other members of a "posse," Russell Edwards, brother of Circuit Judge Claire C. Edwards; Edward Hoff, an auto salesman, and Nate Rosenblum, a merchant.

Boys Beaten and Jailed.

They drove to where the cars were parked. There they were joined in whipping the boys, it is alleged, by Edward Tornquist, son of another Waukegan business man. After the boys had been flogged, they said, they were dragged into a car and taken to the Waukegan jail, where a second beating was administered. No charge was placed against them. They were liberated at daylight.

Farmers north of the city were so incensed over the affair, they demanded action by the state's attorney. Warrants were issued by Justice of the Peace Hoyt, who, because of the prominence of those involved, fixed the bonds at only $500.

CHICAGO WIFE RACING TO HER DYING HUSBAND

Alpena, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Racing 500 miles from Chicago by automobile, Mrs. A. E. Bonneville was today attempting to reach the bedside of her husband, Dr. Bonneville, here before he died. Mrs. Bonneville left Chicago last night immediately on being notified that her husband had been injured in an automobile accident and that his death was a matter of only a few hours.

Dr. Bonneville was driving four miles north of Alpena when his car was struck from the rear by an automobile driven by an unidentified man and pushed into the ditch, where it overturned. Without stopping to learn his victim's fate, the other motorist sped away. Dr. Bonneville was unable to give any description of the fugitive.

Bandit Beauty Bares Life as Siren of Crime

Miss Peggy Burke, a 21 year old adventuress with the fleeting smile of Mona Lisa and the sheen of rare silk in her raven hair, last night completed to the South Chicago police a detailed confession of an amazing career of crime.

1—The girl's story directed against herself the suspicion that she may have been the "girl with the smile" in the Tesmer murder case.

2—She accuses her former husband and erstwhile companion in crime of the murder of Edward Lange, a watchman on the Belt railway, who was shot to death on the night of May 28, 1922.

3—She played the part of "phantom bride" in mock marriage ceremonies in order to relieve would-be bridegrooms of their money.

4—She lured druggists into spooning parties while her companions looted whisky stocks and cash registers.

5—She admits acting as lure in from 30 to 50 holdups.

While the girl was making her final statement to Policeman Joseph C. Lamb in the South Chicago station the state's attorney's office stepped into the case.

Quizzed on Tesmer Killing.

Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman, under the direction of State's Attorney Crowe, questioned the "crime siren" in detail. He indicated the prosecutor's office is interested because of the Tesmer murder angle. Frederick Thompson, the "man-girl" now held for that murder, will face trial in the next few days, Mr. Gorman stated. The Burke girl in her confession vaguely mentioned Thompson several times.

Angelus Liskas of 7053 South Halsted street and his cousin, Frank Vournazos of 8160 South Western avenue, were arrested with the girl on charges involving the watchman's murder and also certain robberies. Anthony Lambros of 3011 East 92d street; Thomas Flatley, a beer driver, and Michael Carras of 3315 East 92d street, were arrested in connection with her story of the "phantom bride" episodes.

THE CHAMELEON GIRL

At eighteen, Peggy told the police, she had a consuming ambition to become an adventuress of the Spanish type, a woman of the world, reptilian, ebon of hair and eyebrow, alluring—a sort of sublimated Theda Bara in real life.

But she was blonde, with a wealth of carroty red hair and ruddy cheeked with none of the lights and shadows of the somber Castilian beauty and none of its olive creaminess of skin.

So she practiced the art of makeup, far more than most girls of 18 practice it nowadays. She rubbed her face with creams and yellow oils. She dyed her hair jet black nad smoothed it tightly over her head.

Blonde Peggy Vanishes.

It was a marvelous transformation finally, she said. When she looked in a mirror her heart throbbed at the beauty of the face that smiled back at her—the face of a sinuous, black-tressed beauty, with eyes at once dreamy and alluring, and beaming a gleam of something dangerous.

"My eyes are black and bright, and that helped a lot," said Peggy. "Believe me, men fall for eyes like that. They fell like tenpins for me!"

To complete the illusion, Peggy told every one she met that she was Spanish and changed her name from Peggy Burke to Señorita Marguerita Buerque—and there she was!

Picks Husband for Helper.

Señorita Marguerita's operations now became such that, as she tells it, she frequently needed an accomplice or two. She acquired a husband. She said she deliberately selected a chauffeur as best suited to her plans and was married to Angelus Liskas on April 19, 1922.

The girl confessed to from thirty to

GERMAN ARMY'S THREAT MAKES DICTATOR BOW

Friction Adds to Civil War Peril.

BULLETIN.

DUSSELDORF, Sept. 29.—(By United Press.)—Three persons were killed in a clash between German separatists and Belgian troops of occupation, a dispatch from Hamborn said tonight.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—At 6 o'clock this evening Dictator von Kahr of Bavaria defied the national government by refusing to obey the first order which the war minister sent to him. This order directed that Herr Hittler's treasonable publications be suppressed.

At 10 o'clock tonight, when the specter of civil war suddenly arose because the Berlin government made the order a vital issue, Dictator von Kahr crawled.

Nevertheless, a critical situation has arisen over Herr von Kahr's first defiance, and this is made more serious by his refusal to recognize Gen. Lossow, military commissar for Bavaria, as his superior.

Bars Law Against Monarchists.

Herr von Kahr today declared the law "for the protection of the republic" passed after Dr. Rathenau's assassination null and void in Bavaria. This law forbids attacks on government heads, preaching monarchism, and other actions, which Herr von Kahr considered unbearable.

The German government was prepared to issue orders to Gen. Lossow to proceed with a military force and raid Herr Hittler's publication. If Herr von Kahr had opposed this with troops a military decision would have been invited. But Herr von Kahr apparently decided to postpone such a decision.

Herr von Kahr, however, is inviting trouble. After raiding the Socialist newspapers, homes of Socialist members of the reichstag, and labor headquarters today, he banned all meetings of Socialist protection organizations, while encouraging meetings of armed monarchist organizations.

Seeks to Avoid Bloodshed.

Until now the Berlin government has closed its eyes to Herr von Kahr's dictatorship, hoping he would recognize Gen. Lossow as his military superior, thus diplomatically ending the intolerable situation.

Wilhelmstrasse does not want to shed blood. It is busy enough with France and the Rhineland separatist and communist movements without having a civil war added. Should Herr von Kahr refuse to back down it is believed the government first will use other means, such as a blockade of Bavaria.

The railroad workers' union today offered this solution to the government. Coal supplies for the winter will be stopped, as well as all food and passenger traffic from all sides except foreign. Bavaria's only remedy then will be coal and food from the Rhineland through French aid, and Berlin refuses to believe that France will support the Bavarian separatism and Herr von Kahr's coup.

Order Bavarian Strike.

The Socialists and labor unions today after a conference here with Munich leaders decided to try to paralyze the dictatorship through calling a general strike in Bavaria on Monday.

The league of communist youth and the league of German nationalist youth today engaged in battle in Muenster. All the boys were under 20 years of age. Erich Kuhl, communist leader, was killed. Several nationalist youths were arrested.

URGES MONARCHY

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MUNICH, Sept. 29.—Stirring an audience of nearly 5,000 with tales of the prowess of the German fleet, Admiral Scheer today called for a restoration of the monarchial flag—and with it, of course, a monarchy — throughout Germany.

Admiral Scheer indicated he had no patience with the passive resistance. He recounted exploits of the German cruisers Emden, Karlsruhe, Dresden, and Koenigsberg and the deeds of the German submarines, and he declared the British fleet ran away from the Germans at Jutland. The Germans, although inferior, had won the battle, he said. When they wished to continue the fight to the finish the following morning there was no English fleet to fight.

This, he declared, indicated what

Germany could do, and he called on every German true to the fatherland never to forget the wrongs France had done to the Ruhr.

Justifies U-Boat Warfare.

Admiral Scheer justified the submarine warfare by declaring American ammunition had been shipped and American made weapons, shells, and small arms and ammunition were being used against the German troops even in 1914.

The rally, sanctioned by Dictator Von Kahr, certainly contained no hint of separatism.

Tomorrow at Beyruth Herr Hittler's partisans will hold a monster mass meeting. Gen. Von Ludendorff and Herr Hittler will speak.

Herr Von Kahr today repealed the national protection law, which is aimed at the monarchial and nationalistic group. He sought thus to purchase the full co-operation of the Fascisti organizations. If national German government sharply opposes Bavaria's repudiation of this law, Herr Von Kahr believes it will invite behind him the three factions of Bavarian monarchists, who are now at loggerheads and therefore offer no real danger to the German republic.

DELAY RHINE REPUBLIC

BY THOMAS RYAN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

DUSSELDORF, Sept. 29. — Tomorrow's separatist demonstration here will be the last before the establishment of a Rhineland republic, Joseph Matthes, separatist leader, told THE TRIBUNE in an exclusive interview tonight.

Herr Matthes said he prefers to establish a republic through evolution, but he will use revolutionary means unless the German officials in the Rhineland join the movement peaceably.

"We will proclaim a republic before the end of autumn. The republic will grow with the Rhenish grapes next spring," he said. "We will proclaim it in a place least expected. Paris is the best place for the announcement."

Close Dusseldorf Cafés.

Commenting on the local authorities closing all the restaurants and cafés during the separatist convention tomorrow, Herr Matthes said he would not take the responsibility for the results when the thousands of people become hungry and thirsty. Under the order, all the people of Dusseldorf are expected to remain off the streets or be considered enemies of the fatherland.

Herr Matthes said that Chancellor Stresemann sent agents last week to Cologne and Dusseldorf to offer the Rhineland a federal status like that of Bavaria, but the separatist party rejected it.

"We have formed committees which soon will become provincial governments, taking over power from the Prussian officials," he said. "I will assume dictatorial powers. Other officials do not need to be Rhinelanders, but they must swear allegiance to the Rhineland ideals.

"Our frontiers must be wider than the present occupied zone, including Elberfeld and Barmen. We will not dissolve the trade unions, but will convert them to Rhenish unions. We consider the present an opportune time to declare a republic, because of the political and economic breakdown of the reich."

Riot in Suburb.

Herr Matthes was accompanied by a personal bodyguard to prevent assassination.

Hostilities opened early today when a crowd of supposed separatists attacked a Dusseldorf suburb. The garrison of six policemen were rescued by reinforcements. The anti-separatists are armed with iron bars.

Seeks to Conciliate France.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 29.—The German revocation of the ordinance of Jan. 15, which suspended delivery of materials in kind as well as reparations, leaves Chancellor Stresemann free to make new proposals or reiterate the offers of former Chancellor Cuno of June 7, according to political circles here tonight.

Berlin's prompt retirement of the objectional decree is regarded as a conciliatory step which will help in restoring amicable relations and renewing diplomatic conversations.

BOGUS SENORITA BARES CAREER AS SIREN OF CRIME

Holdups, Mock Marriage, and Killings in Tale.

fifty holdups in which she and Liskas played the leading rôles and in some of which she says Vournazes assisted them. She would walk down a south side street, she said—47th, 43d, 35th, or Grand boulevard—and cast her alluring midnight glances at men who passed.

Always in her wake would creep Liskas with his ready cab. Soon she would meet a man willing to flirt. She would smile, engage him in conversation, and walk along with him, then suggest a taxi ride.

Like Lambs to Slaughter.

"Why," she said, "the men would leap at the suggestion. I would turn and Liskas would drive up. We would get into the cab and then Liskas would drive us to Washington or Jackson park. He would get out in a dark spot, bounce the man over the head with his crank, and then we would take the man's money and leave him there.

"Of course, I would be kind of careful whom I picked out. I usually took drunks, or men who looked as though they were married and would be afraid to tell."

So things went on until, she says, she learned Liskas had slain the watchman, Lange. Killing was not in her books, she said; it made her shudder. She was granted a divorce from Liskas on Dec. 9, 1922, by Judge Walter Steffen.

THE PHANTOM BRIDE

Peggy, the Spanish senorita, then told of one of the "phantom bride" episodes—an interlude over which she smiled.

"I met Anthony Lambros and he wished to marry me," she said. "He was wild about my Spanish type. I found out he had $700 and decided to 'take' him for it.

"So I told him to come with me for the license and bring his money along. At the city hall I had Liskas and Vournazes waiting with Tommy Flatley. I told Lambros to give them $10 and they would get the license while he bought my trousseau.

"Certainly a Dumbell."

"He did. He took me to a State street department store and bought me a wonderful dress and wedding veil. Then we went out to a flat I had at 4715 Calumet avenue. Lambros was certainly a dumbell. Liskas and the other two were waiting for us. Flatley had turned his collar and vest around and he performed the marriage ceremony.

"I got Lambros to give me his $700 and when he came home next night I was gone. I had moved all the furniture to another flat during the day."

THE GREAT DRUG GAME

Meantime Peggy had created diversion for herself by making the acquaintance of druggists. She would lure them into rear rooms, she said, and while they were there her companions would loot the stores of whisky and money. She cited several such cases which have been verified by the police.

About her operations at the time of the Tesmer murder the girl is reticent and vague. Sergt. Lamb says there is apparently a period of time which she cannot or will not explain. Prosecutor Gorman also indicated this. Mrs. Tesmer will view the girl either today or tomorrow for identification purposes.

Threatened with Death.

Both Peggy and the police have received threats of death since her arrest and since she started to make admissions. Peggy told the police that on the night of her arrest, while she was in the women's quarters at the Hyde Park police station, a man climbed on an adjoining building, pushed open a window, and, revolver in hand, asked other inmates of the women's quarters for Peggy.

"When I saw the window being pushed up slowly," she said, "I knew it was some one to get me. They had threatened me. I crawled under a bed and told the other girls to say I wasn't locked up there. The man went away."

HER SMILE ROBBERS' LURE

Blonde Peggy Burke, 21 years old, used cosmetics to transform herself into a Spanish beauty with flashing black eyes and a fleeting Mona Lisa smile, then launched on a career as crime vampire, she confessed last night. Five men are being held as accomplices.

Meeting to Aid De Valera Will Be Held Here Today

Resolutions looking toward the aid of Eamon De Valera, "president" of the "Irish republic," now imprisoned in Dublin, are expected to be adopted at meetings today in many cities, according to George McGrath, a Chicago Irish leader. The Chicago meeting will be in North Side Turner hall and will be presided over by Prof. Joseph F. Donnelly. Charles Edward Russell will speak.

PURLOINED $1,500 PUTS NURSE AND SWAIN IN CELLS

Evelyn Gates, a comely nurse living at 1311 East 47th street, and her sweetheart, Clifford Rupright of 1416 East 47th street, were arrested by Lieut. Michael Grady. It was the end of a gay trail of motor rides, dapper clothes and parties.

Four weeks ago Evelyn applied for a maid's position at the home of Eugene Mandel, 1357 Hyde Park boulevard. As she was leaving she paused to rifle the mail box. One letter contained a check for $1,500. Evelyn, it is charged, endorsed it and opened an account at the South Side Trust and Savings bank. By way of adding a touch of verisimilitude, she purchased a bond there for $500.

Then she and Rupright set out to enjoy their wealth. They bought clothes and a motorcycle with a side car. While touring Wisconsin they grew tired of the motorcycle and purchased an Oakland automobile. Later they traded it in and got a second hand Pierce-Arrow. Then Evelyn rented an apartment.

Then the coppers came.

RAIL BOARD VOIDS PACT CALLING FOR UNION LABOR

Holds Workers Can't Be Forced to Get Cards.

Advocates of the open shop in industry claim an ally in the United States railroad labor board, as the result of a decision yesterday.

"A railway employés membership or nonmembership in an organization should not be matter of compulsion," the labor board ruled in sustaining a complaint of the Switchmen's Union of North America against a contract of the San Antonio and Arkansas Pass Railway company with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, guaranteeing that 85 per cent of the carrier's yard employés be members of the brotherhood. The board thus declared this stipulation void.

Case Has Anomalous Turn.

An anomaly of the case is that, because the switchmen's union is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, it leaves the federation on record as opposed to the closed shop.

The dispute followed dismissal of C. A. Brown, San Antonio and Arkansas Pass railway switchman, through operation of the percentage provision of the carrier's contract with the trainmen's brotherhood. The board directed that he be reinstated, with seniority rights unimpaired, and that he be paid for time lost, "less any amount he may have earned while engaged in other employment."

A point brought out in the evidence of the case, which the board emphasizes in its decision, was that the Switchmen's Union of North America "negotiated the first percentage agreement ever executed, but that organization has renounced the practice and become the victim of it."

Common Prior to War.

Such contract provisions of carriers with the trainmen's brotherhood were common before the period of federal control of the roads, but, during the war, were abrogated by Director General McAdoo. Since return to private control some roads have recognized the percentage practice and others have repudiated it.

"That the rule in question is discriminatory and unfair is beyond controversy," reads an excerpt from the labor board's decision: "A railway employé's membership or nonmembership in an organization should not be a matter of compulsion.

"He should not be coerced either by the labor organization or by the carrier in the exercise of his right to join an organization or to make a choice between two rival organizations. Anybody interested in the organization affiliations of an employé can find abundant methods of a legitimate nature to bring to bear upon him.

No Dissenting Opinion.

"It must be remembered that railway employés have not advocated the closed shop, and this principle has not been recognized elsewhere in the railway service."

The decision, which is said to have been drafted, for the most part, by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the board, came through without a formal dissenting opinion, although two members are reported to have voted against it.

"Backward, Turn Backward—!"

"Time in its flight" underwent a figurative check of one hour last midnight (which used to be 1 o'clock) when remembering Chicagoans gave the minute hand of their various timepieces a backward twirl of one hour. Thus the city awoke this morning in tune to central time instead of to eastern, as has been the case during daylight saving. $27,874,700 NEW BUILDING COST ON SEPT. RECORDS

Month's Permits Exceed August's in Value.

Permits for construction of $27,874,700 worth of buildings—residences, apartment buildings, office buildings, factories and other structures—were issued during September, according to the report of Chief Plan Examiner Edward H. Nordlie to Building Commissioner Frank L. Doherty yesterday. A total of 1,209 new building projects were authorized.

Exceed August Figures.

Value of the new buildings to be erected under the month's permits exceeds the August total by $7,740,550, and is more than double the mark set in September, 1922, when permits were issued for buildings valued at $12,263,100.

Although the total of 337 permits for apartment buildings for the month is 105 less than those issued in August, the new buildings will contain [illegible] flats, or ninety more than begun last month. Permits for erection of [illegible] residences were issued in September, as compared to 824 in August.

WALTON CALLS OFF SPECIAL VOTE SET FOR TUESDAY

Acts as Both Sides Halt Court Actions.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—A proclamation indefinitely postponing a special state election scheduled for Oct. 2, in which would have been voted upon an initiated bill empowering the state legislature to convene and investigate official acts of the executive, was issued shortly after midnight by Gov. J. C. Walton. The governor ordered the proclamation enforced by all civil and election officials in the state, but did not invoke the aid of the military enforcing martial law. He said the short time remaining before the election makes it impossible to adhere to the law.

The governor added that because of the importance of the constitutional amendments at issue, it is essential that the "great body of electors" be notified through the proper channels.

Withdraws Court Action.

The proclamation came a few hours after court action, instituted late yesterday to keep the measure off the ballot, had been withdrawn on agreement of opposing sides in the controversy, thus permitting the state election board to include the initiative proposal on the ballot.

When located early today, W. C. McAlister, secretary of the election board, announced he already had sent orders to the various county boards to print the ballots and set the machinery in motion for the election Tuesday.

"I did my duty as I saw it," Secretary McAlister said. "It is the governor's business if he wishes to call off the election."

Silent on Initiative Measure.

Governor Walton did not mention the initiative measure in his proclamation. The referendum provided that a majority of the lower house of the legislature may convene without a call from the governor to investigate state officials. Had it been passed in the election, the house would have been empowered immediately to convene to consider impeachment charges against the executive, which already have been formally drafted by a majority of the body.

The governor recited in the proclamation that court proceedings involving his authority originally to call the election had prevented the secretary of state from complying with the law which provides that questions at issue shall be published in newspapers in each county at least five days before the election.

Dismiss Law Suits.

The proceedings instituted by Campbell Russell to force on the ballot an initiative measure authorizing the legislature to convene by a majority call to investigate the official acts of the governor were withdrawn earlier in the night by agreement of counsel.

At the same time, attorneys for the executive withdrew their application which had resulted in the issuance of a temporary injunction restraining the state election board from entering the proposal on the ballot.

Russell applied for a writ of mandamus to force the proposal on the ballot after counsel for Gov. Walton had obtained the temporary restraining order.

This order was dismissed by the court when the opposing sides agreed without explanation to abandon their respective actions.

Attorney General George Short, who appeared for Secretary McAlister, the "interested party," contended that the court may not decide in advance of an election the validity of measures to be submitted.

Calls Election Illegal.

The election will be illegal in his opinion, Gov. Walton declared prior to issuing his proclamation.

The state Supreme court ruled Thursday that the election would be legal.

Gov. Walton said he could cite many reasons to substantiate his claim, chief of which is the failure of the state election board to follow the law compelling publication of election issues five days prior to the date for the election.

A $55,000,000 soldiers' bonus and four other constitutional amendments were included in the election call to be voted upon.

Tar Victim Sues Klan.

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—S. K. Lesky of Ellsworth, Kas., filed suit in United States District court here today against the Ku Klux Klan, asking $150,000 damages for injuries he said he received when he was tarred and feathered in Tulsa county in July of last year.

Prominent individuals, including Richard Lloyd Jones, newspaper publisher, and Charles B. Peters, Tulsa oil operator, were made joint defendants in the action.

GIRL DIES AFTER OPERATION; TWO DOCTORS NAMED

Investigation of circumstances leading to the death of Miss Mollie Monieson, 18 year old Toronto girl, who died yesterday morning in the county hospital as the result of an illegal operation, was ordered last night by Deputy Coroner Samuel L. Davis.

In a dying statement Miss Monieson named Mrs. Mabel McAvoy of 2500 Walton street and two physicians. She said a friend recommended that she see Mrs. McAvoy.

When, on Wednesday, her condition became critical, Miss Monieson told her sister, Mrs. Harry Robinson of 373[illegible] Montrose avenue, with whom she had been staying, about the operation. As Mrs. Robinson and her husband came to the Walton street address to investigate, two automobiles, thought to belong to the physicians, were leaving. Their license numbers were turned over to the police.

$150,000 BUILDING OWNER ARRESTED AS $10,000 THIEF

Samuel Kofman of Ellensburg, Wash., vanished two years ago after stealing merchandise valued at $10,-000 from W. G. Curtis, it is charged, and came to Chicago to become a financial power. Police of the detective bureau yesterday arrested a man whom they believe to be Kofman.

Following Kofman's disappearance, an extensive search was made for him. In February the police thought they had found him here, but he eluded them. Recently they learned he had finished an eighteen apartment building at 1941-55 Winnemac avenue. Plans were made for his capture.

Sergts. Carr and McGinnis of the bureau went to the building valued by real estate agents at $150,000, to rent one of the four room apartments. They met Kofman, who was using the name "Hoffman," they declare.

Convinced they were correct in their identification of the man, they made the arrest and took him to the detective bureau, where he is being held.

While Kofman refused to make a statement until he has had an opportunity to consult an attoney, Sergts. Carr and McGinnis said that upon coming to Chicago two years ago he had sold the goods stolen in Ellensburg and invested the money. Now, they say, he possesses property in addition to the $150,000 building in Winnemac avenue.

NEW QUAKE HITS JAPAN AS RULERS BOW IN TEMPLES

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

OSAKA, Japan, Sept. 29.—There was a sharp earthquake at 6 o'clock this morning, centering close on Nara. The tides at Osaka are irregular and the populace is excited.

The imperial ancestors are now being ceremoniously informed of the details of the earthquake and fire. A messenger from the emperor today visited the tombs of the first emperor, Jimmu, and the late emperor, Meiji, at Nara, to read an announcement of Japan's disaster. The prince regent conducted an announcement ceremony before the sacred mirror at the imperial palace at Tokio yesterday. He is also sending a messenger to the grand shrine at Ise, the head shrine of the Shinto faith, to invoke peace and safety for Japan.

Revised estimates place the earthquake loss at 10,000,000,000 yen ($5,000,-000,000). The insurance loss was 2,500,-000,000 yen ($1,250,000,000) in Tokio alone. Less than half the losses were covered by insurance.

FATHER KIDNAPS GIRL, ESTRANGED WIFE CHARGES

Margaret Eyles, 11 year old daughter of a San Diego, Cal., piano manufacturer, was kidnaped by her father yesterday as she was returning from a shopping trip with her mother, Mrs. Blanche Eyles, the latter reported to the police last night.

Mrs. Eyles was separated from her husband three months ago. She left their California home and her two sons, Ralph and Walter, and returned to her father's residence at 4351½ North Ashland avenue.

Yesterday she and Margaret alighted from a motor bus at Sheridan road and Montrose boulevard. A minute later, she said, her husband jumped out from the shadow of a doorway and grabbed the little girl's arm. Mrs. Eyles cried out.

"Let me at least say good bye to her," she pleaded, but her husband, according to her story, knocked her down and scurried away with Margaret.

STAGE COUPLE SHUN DIVORCE; LIVE APART TO GAIN HAPPINESS

New York, Sept. 29. — [Special.] — "Yes, that's just it," remarked Mrs. Richard Bennett, known to the stage as Adrienne Morrison. "It's simply a 'personality separation, a six blocks divorce.'"

Mrs. Bennett was sitting on the edge of the bed, explaining her version of why she and her actor husband decided to seek more joy by living apart. Today she finished moving into the top floor rear of the vividly painted studio building, and her share of the Bennett household effects were stacked about in disorder. The hammers of a couple of upholsterers were active.

The arrangement, said Mrs. Bennett, was that Constance, 18 years old and in the movies, should live with her. Constance has returned home since the annulment of her marriage with Chester Hirst Moorehead of Chicago, whose father is Frederick E. Moorehead, 221 East Walton place. The young couple separated in January of this year, ending a "puppy love" romance and elopement in this city. The second daughter, Barbara, who is 17, and is studying dancing, will live with Mr. Bennett. And Joan, 1[illegible] years, when she returns from the St. Margaret's school, Waterbury, will live fifty-fifty with each of the households. Eventually, admitted Mrs. Bennett, the two older girls will have their own flat. Only the future holds the answer to whether the Bennetts will further complicate the housing shortage.

DEATH LIST 22 IN IOWA-NEBRASKA VIOLENT STORM

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—Three more persons were added to the known death list in the floods and tornadoes and cloudbursts which visited a part of Iowa and Nebraska last night and today. A man was drowned at Lincoln tonight when he drove his team of horses into a ditch. Two others were killed at Seneca late Friday when their home was razed by a tornado, reports received tonight said. Twelve year old Goldie Collier died in a Council Bluffs hospital from injuries she received when struck by flying débris. The death list now stands at twenty-two. Property damage is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Twelve were killed at Louisville, Neb., when the house in which they were congregated, to mourn the death of Mrs. Mary McCarver, was washed from its foundation into Mill creek.

At Council Bluffs five persons were killed outright when they were struck by flying débris.

Another deluge of rain accompanied by hail struck the city about 6 o'clock tonight.

FIFTY RIDE IN ONWENTSIA HUNT AND NONE FALLS

Fifty scarlet coated gentlemen and their ladies attended the first of the season's hunts at the Onwentsia club yesterday as compared to only sixteen who participated in the inaugural chase last season. No falls marred the hunt. Among those who responded to the first call of Austin H. Niblack, master of the hunt, were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ryerson, Jack Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss L. Coonley, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, Ben Behr, Mrs. David Adler, and Mrs. William Swift.

U. S. ARMY READY FOR TROUBLE AS FILIPINOS VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MANILA, Sept. 29.—All the United States army troops here have received orders not to leave their barracks and to hold themselves in readiness on election day, Oct. 2. The election district comprises Manila Bay, Batan, Rizal and Laguna provinces. The Manila garrison is commanded by Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who is responsible for the preservation of order in the city.

The army has a large garrison at Fort McKinley, five miles from Manila, composed largely of Philippine scouts. The Fort McKinley garrison has arranged for motor truck and rail transportation to all points in the election district, and the troops will immediately reinforce the constabulary in case of serious trouble.

The election will be bitterly contested, the Democrats openly threatening to "spill blood" if the coalitionists do not give them a square deal at the polls. The coalitionists are making every effort to elect their candidate, as they feel that defeat would be tantamount to repudiation by the people of their activities against Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood.

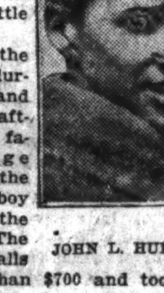
Stylishly Attired Woman Leaps 22 Stories to Death

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A stylishly attired young woman ended her life today by leaping from the twenty-second floor of the Fisk building, in West 57th street. In her handbag was a note saying:

"I am Alice Clausen. Please notify H. P. Clausen."

BOY, 17, HOPS OFF FOR ST. LOUIS IN AIRPLANE HE BUILT HIMSELF

John L. Huber of 929 Foster avenue, 17 years olds and a junior at Lake View High school, took off from Ashburn field yesterday afternoon in a homemade airplane. He was bound for St. Louis on a little week-end trip.



JOHN L. HUBER.

John built the plane himself during vacation and odd moments after school. His father, a garage man, donated the motor, but the boy obtained all the other parts. "The Crate," as he calls it, cost less than $700 and took six months to construct.

Recently John carried his mother as a passenger, achieving an altitude of 4,000 feet.

STOKES DRAMA SHIFTS EAST TO DIVORCE TRIAL

Chicago Inquiry Traps Many Witnesses.

The scene of action in the "Stokes scandal" will shift to New York tomorrow. At 10 o'clock in the morning the divorce suit of the New York millionaire, W. E. D. Stokes, will go to trial, despite Chicago revelations which, state officials say, have uncovered a plot to defame the character of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes so she could be divorced and deprived of her dower rights of more than $1,000,000.

Many witnesses upon whom Stokes had relied to testify that his wife once was known at the Everleigh club and other Chicago underworld resorts will be missing. One is in jail facing charges of conspiracy and attempted bribery. Others have repudiated their statements and confessed they were paid to make them. One or two have fled—not only from the Chicago investigation, but from the divorce suit.

Expect Indictments Here.

Indictments charging conspiracy, expected here soon, might have an effect on the New York trial, state officials said. One of the men expected to be named is closely connected with the handling of Stokes' side of the divorce case, while others were expected to be called to New York as aids.

Mrs. Stokes probably will remain in Chicago for a few days, in view of the possibility that she will be wanted by the grand jury. During the New York trial, however, she is expected to take the stand in her own defense and in prosecution of her cross bill.

Possibility of postponing the trial is remote. It frequently has been delayed, the last continuance being granted on agreement of the attorneys that it would go to trial tomorrow.

May Rush Witnesses East.

If the New Yorker goes through with his announced attempt to involve Mrs. Stokes in Chicago's underworld, it is likely that a dozen or more witnesses who testified in the state inquiry here will be rushed to New York.

The Chicago inquiry, under direction of Charles Wharton, assistant prosecutor, is declared to be complete except for the gathering up of a few loose ends of evidence. It will take several days to get it all before the jury.

Stokes' attorneys yesterday had the $50,000 slander suit of Hal Billig, Chicago realtor named as correspondent by the New Yorker, transferred to the federal court. Charles Erbstein, Billig's attorney, made no objection.

"We are ready for trial anywhere at any time," he said.

Nugent Letters Bared.

Letters which passed between Robert H. Lee, the special deputy sheriff alleged to have been a Stokes "pay off man," and Dan Nugent, Stokes' New York attorney, were revealed during the day by state officials. They name men who acted as affidavit gatherers and deal with certain affidavits alleged to have been obtained by Nugent himself.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR.

Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and thirty-five leading universities and found to be superior to ten ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene [coal oil].

The inventor, L. P. Johnson, 609 West Lake street, Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on ten days FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Advertisement.

FACING TROUBLE

RUBYE DE REMYER.

This picture of the movie actress was taken at the time Paul Helleu, famous French artist, declared her to be the most beautiful woman in America.

FATHER ACTS TO PART SON AND MOVIE BEAUTY

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Detectives from Los Angeles left for Denver tonight to break up the love affair between Rubye De Remyer, moving picture actress, and Ben Throop, son of a Pennsylvania coal millionaire.

For several years the young Pittsburgher and the movie girl have been living together, in New York, Hollywood, Denver, and other cities.

Wife Refuses Divorce.

There is a wife, but she is in London, and it has been declared that she is unwilling to give her husband a divorce. There was a money settlement between her and Throop, it is said in Hollywood.

It was declared that Throop kept two expensive establishments in Los Angeles, in one of which lived Miss De Remyer's mother. Rubye and young Throop came to Hollywood some time ago. Rubye appeared in two pictures in small parts. Nothing like the parts she used to have when she was younger—when artists voted her the most beautiful woman in America and producers were running around each other to get her signature to contracts. Among those who termed her "the most beautiful woman in America" was Paul Helleu, the famous French artist.

Father Hires Detectives.

It is declared that Throop's father knew of his son's infatuation, but that he was unable to do anything about it. Now, however, it seems that the boy is ill, and it is for this reason his father has hired the detectives.

ITALIANS RETURN $500,000 FROM GREEK INDEMNITY

Mussolini Directs Sum Be Used to Aid Refugees.

BY V. DE SANTO.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, Sept. 29.—[Tribune Radio.]—Premier Mussolini today ordered that out of the 50,000,000 lire [$2,500,000] paid today by Greece as indemnity for the Janina murders, 10,000,000 lire [$500,000] be returned to Greece for the relief of needy Greek and Armenian refugees from Anatolia, living in Corfu and other Greek cities.

Sig. Mussolini's decision has created a pleasant impression here. It is interpreted as evidence that his insistence for money as part of the penalty was not intended to make profit out of the loss of Italian lives.

It is said that the decision undoubtedly will make a good impression in Greece, also, and that it will serve to establish good relations and friendship betwen the two nations. It is pointed out that Italy wishes these relations resumed and that it also wishes to resume trade to the mutual advantages of the two nations.

It further is said that a good part of the remaining 40,000,000 lire $2,000,-000] will be given to charity, both abroad and in Italy.

Boy's Rifle Hangs Fire; Kills Playmate When It Goes Off

George Whiteside, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Whiteside of Zion City was shot and killed in a swamp west of Zion yesterday by Claude Warner, a 14 year old playmate. NO PORK CHOPS FOR U. S. SLAVES' KIN IN GAMBIA

Go Back to Clothes and Huts of Natives.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BATHURST, Gambria, British West Africa, Sept. 27.—Descendants of liberated American slaves, repatriated to Africa by American abolition societies in 1823, have petitioned the governor of this British possession to specify the day during the next three months when they may celebrate the centennial of their establishment on MacCarthy Island in Gambia river.

On this island, 160 miles due west in the jungles and mangrove swamps of the interior, where monkeys, hippopotami, and crocodiles are listed as public nuisances, I had the opportunity of meeting and talking with the children and grandchildren of the transplanted American slaves and to note what progress they had made during a century of freedom under the British flag.

Their knowledge of the land that liberated them was practically nil, and only the dimmest memory of slavery days has come down to them in legend and folklore, but they were well aware of and grateful for Great Britain's part in their repatriation, which consisted in purchasing MacCarthy Island from native chiefs for bottles of trade gin and in protecting the newcomers from savages.

Back to Land of Fathers.

Thus their fathers were landed back on the coast from which it is estimated that more than 3,000,000 were carried away in slave ships. Sir John Hawkins in 1562 was the first Englishman to participate in the slave traffic, which he did under royal permission.

Georgetown on MacCarthy island is a community of galvanized roofed trading posts and the residence of the English commissioner and his wife who are the lonesome king and queen of some 30,000 natives.

Iron fences, bolts, chains and padlocked gates around the moss covered peanut warehouses on the river front, together with a row of green painted iron lamp posts down the center of the town's grass overgrown quiet street, impart a notable English appearance to this jungle island, which is further emphasized by native policemen, barefooted and trousered like Boy Scouts, and wearing chin strap pill box hats like those of London messenger boys.

Many Live in Native Huts.

The natives live in one story huts of brick, plaster, or stone, but many have returned to native made shelters of mud and bamboo matting. A small proportion dress partially if not entirely after the European fashion, but the majority find it more comfortable to adopt the prevalent native garb of flowing blue or white cotton gowns, turbans and native slippers.

There are one Protestant and one Catholic church in Georgetown, but Mohammedanism undoubtedly is more popular, while the belief in "juju" or witchcraft marks the larger number as plain pagans. Most of those professing Christianity send for a voodoo man of death when death approaches and they purchase death oaths, charms and samulates with which to appease the devils and the evil spirit of the beyond.

Few of them speak perfect English. In a floorless wood plastered hut, I talked with Whitaker Melbury, 75 years old, whose father had been a slave in America. His bald black dome with a fringe of gray hair and gray beard gave him a perfect Uncle Tom makeup, and his cabin undoubtedly was as dirty as Simon Legree's slave quarters. But Uncle Tom's cabin probably never contained a conspicuous photograph of Queen Victoria, reverently placed on a dressing table and flanked by lithographs of British coronations. A further comparison of Mrs. Stowe's character was made impossible by old man Melbury's plain pronunciation of the word "fawncey."

Use a Jungle Jargon.

Between the few black Gambians who speak pure English and the great majority who speak only the jungle jargons of Mandingos, West Jollofs, and Fulahs, is the serving and boat boy class, which makes use of pidgin English in common use betwen the whites and blacks all down the west African coast. Some idea of this language may be obtained from a reproduction of Traveling Commissioner Whithead's explanation for my benefit before his black cook.

"Barra," he said. "Barra, here come white man from Merik, long way, long time, plenty travel voyage, just eat chop you makem here. This boy Barra, he great daddy cok—makem plenty food ground nut chop—he know all king chop."

This was the commissioner's recommendation in the only brand of English Barra could understand, and Barra interrupting his broad white toothed smile long enough to separate a monkey and porcupine engaged in an unequal batle under the kitchen table, replied:

"Me likem, makem good chop and passed top side for massa."

"Boss Agent for God."

"Massa" is the common form of address between whites and all blacks except a comparatively few better educated ones. The bishop of Sierra Leone once heard his black servants boasting about him in pidgin English as being the "boss agent for God."

I do not believe that the American Negroes would be much taken with the native food in Gambia, which is mostly rice and fish, relieved in season by bananas and other locally grown tropical fruits. Eggs are rather unpopular, chickens are an untouchable luxury, and the delight of pork chops unknown. But these former American blacks can purchase openly across the bar in either of Bathurst's two saloons any quantity of English gin or Scotch whisky.

The only restriction imposed by the authorities is that the alcoholic beverages sold be of good quality. The "trading" gin and greased lightning Scotch served in the old slaving days, which were calculated strong enough to change kinks to bristles, are strictly barred, but strange to remark, the natives prefer light French wines to the higher proofed painkillers.

From the old records of the colony it would appear that the number of whites who finished off on rum was not far from the number of those people who went down before the ravages of disease and the debilitating effects of the climate. Beer is a popular breakfast food in Bathurst, and wine is professionally prescribed with whisky and soda.

Trained Artisans Scarce.

The occupations open to schooled natives could hardly be called more plentiful than they are in America. In Bathurst there are three Negro lawyers who function as justices of the peace, and three Negro doctors. Almost all the clerical work is done by blacks, but there is a scarcity of trained artisans, carpenters, masons, and blacksmiths. Many are employed by traders as shop assistants.

The women are not generally educated, polygamy is practiced, and domestic slavery is recognized, although any commerce in slaves even between natives is forbidden.

Agriculture constitutes the only industry and most of the work is done by Senegalese farmers who come into Gambia during the peanut planting season and rent ground from which they harvest crops before returning to their homes in French territory which borders the entire colony on the north, south, and east.

Real Peanut Millionaires.

Some Negro land owners might be called peanut millionaires, with wharves and towns along the river which forms the only source of communication in a country which exists solely by reason of this trade. Last year the colony exported 65,000 tons of peanuts, worth approximately $5,000,000. Cotton and sisal have been almost entirely neglected in favor of peanuts from which English chemists during the war extracted the glycerin necessary to feed the guns. The colony imports cotton goods from England, sugar from France, and flour, gasoline, and timber from America.

The possession is divided into the colony comprising the town of Bathurst and MacCarthy island and the protectorate which includes the rest of the territory. In the protectorate the government refuses to permit white planters to get a foothold, and there is the purest policy of safeguarding the land for native exploitation only. English and French commercial interests are represented by bankers and traders only.

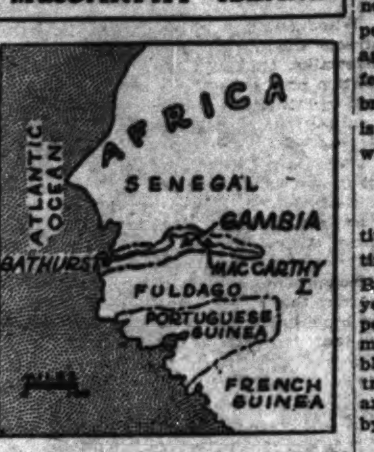
A Modern Feudal System.

C. R. Workman, the acting crown governor of Bathurst, has almost complete powers which he pursues through native chiefs and headmen in a modernized feudal system conducted with complete absence of any interference with native customs and regulations. The natives of the protectorate are not British subjects, but are called protégés.

Outside of the customs the principal revenue is derived from a hut tax of 4 shillings per year, which is collected by the headman of the village and paid to the government by the chiefs. The headman gets 10 per cent and the chiefs get 40 per cent of what they collect. No military conscription exists, as in the French colonies, but the native chiefs perform work with conscripted and unpaid labor upon receipt of suitable presents from the government.

One company of native volunteer infantry, officered by Englishmen, a small police department, and a small river gunboat, represent the entire armed force. Until two years ago Gambia was without public debts, but it now owes $1,000,000 as the result of a demonetization scheme, in which French 5 franc pieces which were generally circulated were cashed in on a sterling basis. When the result was melted down, Gambia found that it had short changed itself a cold £2,000,000.

MacCARTHY ISLAND



MacCarthy island is located 160 miles west of Bathrust, British West Africa, amid jungles and swamps. It is inhabited by the descendants of freed American slaves, who were sent back to Africa by the abolitionists in 1823, just 100 years ago. The present inhabitants have forgotten America except in legend and are loyal to Great Britain.

Fireman Dies Same as Brakeman He Tried to Save

Fred W. Eckhardt, 28 years old, River Grove, and Leonard F. Haldell, 36, Franklin Park, two trainmen on the Indiana Harbor Belt Line railroad, died yesterday in St. Francis' hospital, Blue Island, from injuries received in a double accident at Highlawn, Ill., on Sept. 10. Eckhardt, a fireman on an eastbound freight, saw Haldell, a brakeman, knocked down by the School street bridge. Rushing to Haldell's assistance, Eckhardt was himself struck by the Atlantic street bridge.

PLOT TO GRAB "L" FOR EDISON CO. LAID TO INSULL

Suit Asks New Trustee or Receiver for Lines.

Samuel Insull, president of the Commonwealth Edison company, is accused in a bill filed yesterday in Circuit court of conspiring with the late William G. Beale, attorney for the company, to so manage and control the affairs of the Chicago Elevated railroads, for which they acted as trustees, as to bring the lines in a reorganization under the full control of the Commonwealth Edison company.

The bill, filed in behalf of Charles J. Felt and Charles E. Dickinson, holders of preferred stock in the Chicago Elevated Railroads Collateral Trust, which since 1914 has held the assets of the companies, charges that under the reorganization plan the preferred stockholders will secure nothing.

It asks the removal of the present trustee, the United States Mortgage and Trust company of New York City, apointed by Mr. Insull to succeed himself, and the appointment either of another trustee or of a receiver to take charge of the assets of the companies.

Charges Against Insull.

The charge laid against Mr. Insull, as set forth in the bill, is that while acting as trustee he managed the business so as to pay in full the obligations of the elevated roads excepting the indebtedness to the Commonwealth Edison company as a result of the electric power furnished. This indebtedness was permitted to grow, the bill asserts.

Under the reorganization plan, by which the companies will be consolidated and placed under one head, the Commonwealth Edison company indebtedness is to be exchanged by the roads for common capital stock of the new corporation, according to the bill. The new company is to have a common stock issue of 203,295 shares, of which the Edison company will receive 101,795 as payment of the past due power bills, according to the bill, which further avers this will give the electric company a majority of the stock and a controlling voice in the new company.

Recites Deal of 1914.

The bill sets forth also that in 1914, when F. A. Vanderlip, Henry A. Blair and Samuel McRoberts, also named as defendants, were trustees of the collateral trust, gold notes aggregating $14,000,000 were issued by the trustees, secured by stock certificates for the entire capital stock holding of the trust, which were deposited with the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, now the Illinois Merchants Trust company.

Since 1919, the bill alleges, the trustees, including Mr. Insull, have permitted the interest on the gold notes to default. Now, the bill states, the Illinois Merchants Trust company has advertised the collateral for sale, the sale to be held in New York City on Oct. 3. The only bidders at the sale, it is averred, will be the note holders, a committee of whom has drawn up the reorganization plan.

Wants Sale Stopped.

The bill asks that the proposed sale be stopped by court injunction. A complete accounting of the acts of all trustees and of the affairs of the companies, is demanded in the bill, which asks the court to dissolve the trust, and to equitably distribute the assets.

The default of interest payments on the gold notes was caused, the bill avers, by the making of unauthorized loans by the trustees, including Insull, to himself as receiver for the Chicago & Oak Park Elevated Railroad company. Another cause, the bill states, was the unwarranted and improvident extensions and additions to the roads at a large cost.

Deny Conspiracy Charge.

The bill declares that the elevated roads are now being profitably operated and that there are prospects of continued large gains in revenue.

R. Floyd Clinch, a member of the gold note holders' committee of reorganization, said yesterday that the allegations of conspiracy as contained in the bill are "utterly without foundation and can be readily disproved."

"Litigation of this character, involving large reorganization, is not new. The protective committee has functioned for the protection of all note holders, and the reorganization plan offered in the only effective, fair and practical one which the protective committee was able to work out."

'NO-JURY ARTISTS' TO GIVE BENEFIT BILL TOMORROW

"Hang us while we're alive," plead more than one hundred "no jury artists" of Chicago, who are giving a cubist ball tomorrow night at the Trianon for the benefit "of the living."

The Art institute, they explain, is fine for dead artists, but Chicago needs a building where the works of living painters may be exhibited. The "no jury" society, of which Rudolph Weisenborn is president, revolted two years ago from the jury system in vogue at the Art institute. Since then this group has held an annual independent exhibition elsewhere. This year's showing starts tomorrow morning in a loop department store.

AUTO DEATHS OF 10 YEARS EQUAL 5 BIG DISASTERS

Iroquois Fire, Eastland, and Titanic in List.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

	Dead.
Johnstown flood	113
Iroquois fire	575
Eastland disaster	812
Lusitania	1,198
Titanic	1,517
Total	4,215
Killed by automobiles in Cook county in last ten years	4,192

Automobiles, honking their way through Cook county for the last ten years, piling up twisted bodies, spilling youngsters' toys, and scattering books clutched by lifeless school children, killed 4,192 persons. This is just twenty-three less than the total lives lost in five great disasters—Johnstown flood, Iroquois fire, and the Eastland, Lusitania, and Titanic ship catastrophies.

If the motors that have careened into old women crossing streets, crushed 5 year old children into the curb, and run upon the sidewalk in pursuit of victims, could bring back to life their dead of the last decade, they would make a town with an aproximate population of Sycamore, of Wheaton, or of St. Charles.

Greater than War Regiment.

This phantom village of the automobile's dead would be about 400 more than a war time strength regiment. And it was only a seventh of that number that comprised the famous "Light Brigade" who met death when they took the Russian guns at Balaklava in the Crimean war. That was before the days of the speeding motor car.

But the dead are buried. And the coroner's office goes on recording figures.

Since the first of January there have been 514 auto killings in Cook county. The first 500 of this number are divided into the following age groups:

Under 6	52	10.4%
From 6 to 15	104	20.8%
From 15 to 20	14	2.8%
From 20 to 40	115	23.0%
From 40 to 70	192	38.4%
Over 70	25	5.0%

If this basis of age average is applied to the entire 4,192 killed in the ten year period, the estimate shows that [illegible] of that number were under the age of 6 years.

Figured in School Terms.

Put life into these little children again and send them to kindergarten. Figuring thirty seats to a class, it would take fourteen such classes to accommodate the crowd. There would be just one vacant seat.

Take the next group—grammar school boys and girls knocked down and taken to hospitals to die, or killed instantly, perhaps left in the road to be identified by a bloody school book. There are 838 of them. Seating them twenty-five to a classroom, the board of education would need thirty-three more rooms, if the autoist had not taken his toll of grammar school children since 1913.

The high school, 117, could replace the entire graduating class of many of the city high schools.

The auto, during this period, was not, however, partial to the young. It killed 964 [based on the ratio for the first of this year] persons between the ages of 20 and 40. The group between the ages of 40 and 70—including heads of families, housewives, grandparents—lost 1,592.

And there were 209 past 70 years old who met their death by automobiles.

Compared With Other Hazards.

The coroner's record lists fourteen industrial hazards causing accidental death. But the whizzing auto is more dangerous than suffocating gases, than burning metal, sudden explosions, electrocution or scalding water. The motor car is more fatal, statistics show, than the entire fourteen hazards.

Industrial accidents, the chart shows, through the years have been cut down, until the total for the past decade registers 2,981. Auto deaths, however, had been consistently mounting from 136 in 1913 to 736 last year. For the ten years they beat the industrial figures by 1,211.

It has been far safer during these ten years to get overheated in the sun than to cross the street in the vicinity of an auto. There have been only 408 deaths from heat.

Lightning and Drowning Figures.

A bolt of lightning is 16,000 times more humane than the wheel of a machine. Lightning took 26. Better swim into deep water, away from a life guard, than jay-walk across a Cook county street. Deaths from drowning total 2,324.

It takes five major causes of accidental death—heat, lightning, alcoholism, drowning, and tetanus—even to approximate the work of the speeder and the careless driver in the last ten years. And even then the figures, amounting to 3,998, fall 194 short of the automobile bill total of 4,192.

Even disease bacilli can't compete in killing with the touring car and truck.

Contrasted with Disease.

According to statistics compiled by Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen, the total deaths resulting from all contagious diseases in the last five years is 441 behind the number of deaths resulting from automobile accidents for the same period.

In the last five years, Dr. Bundesen points out, whooping cough claimed 721; scarlet fever, 634; measles, 628; typhoid, 160; infantile paralysis, 96; smallpox, 24; and chickenpox, 15. This is a total of 2,278 as against the auto's record of 2,719.

But the pleasure vehicle, and the business motor, in peace times, in the fresh air, away from industrial hazards, have to kill only twenty-three more people to balance exactly the death record of the Iroquois fire, the Johnstown flood, the sinkings of the Eastland, the Lusitania, and the Titanic.

If they take only eight more victims the motors will have killed 210 times as many people as lost their lives in the Chicago fire.

FAIL TO CLEAR SLAYING.

An open verdict was returned yesterday at the inquest over William Greshan, colored, shot by an unidentified assailant at Chicago Heights. Deputy Coroner J. J. Dedrick conducted the hearing.

ARGENTINE HOUSE PASSES 3 BILLS TO CURB PACKERS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 29.—The Argentine chamber of deputies in the last meeting of this legislative period, which lasted until a late hour last night, applied the gag rule and railroaded through three measures designed to control the meat packing industry.

The three bills were approved as amended by the senate, thereby requiring only the president's signature to become a law.

One bill provides that all sales of live stock be on a live weight basis; another, fashioned after the United States stockyards law, practically gives the minister of agricultural plenary powers in controlling the packing industry, while the third empowers the president to fix a minimum price at which cattle may be purchased by packers and maximum prices at which meat may be sold in Buenos Aires and national territories.

AUTO, CAR CRASH HEAD ON; BABY DEAD; FIVE HURT

All in Machine Suffer Skull Fractures.

Cook county's automobile death list since Jan. 1 reached 514 last night when Helen Webster, a 3 months' old baby, died in Mercy hospital.

The baby and five other persons were injured when an automobile in which they were riding collided headon with a Cottage Grove avenue car at 20th street and Indiana avenue. At Mercy hospital it was stated the baby's father, Clarence Webster, 1625 Prairie avenue, was not expected to live through the night.

Skulls of All Fractured.

The other victims of the accident, taken to St. Luke's hospital, are: Mrs. Annette Webster and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Armstrong and their daughter, Ethel, all residing at the Prairie avenue address. All were said to be suffering from skull fractures.

Last night's fatality was preceded by the death of a man 45 years old, believed to be Joseph Schwartz, 1746 Roosevelt road, who was struck by a truck driven by Ferdinand Goldenberg, 2349 Milwaukee avenue.

Goldenberg was not held when police learned he could not avoid striking Schwartz.

Boy Run Down; Driver Held.

Edward Meyers, 11, 1829 Indiana avenue, was said to be dying in Mercy hospital as a result of injuries sustained yesterday, when he was struck by an automobile driven by William Walker, 1820 North Washtenaw avenue. Witnesses told police that Walker was driving at thirty-five miles an hour. Walker was held.

Miss Lorraine Wilson, 18, of 912 South Hamlin avenue, was severely injured when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a taxicab driven by Walter Mecek, 3240 South Homan avenue, who was held.

City Physician David J. Jones will attend the sessions of Judge John F. Haas' Speeders' court to observe the mental attitude of the motorists arraigned.

Maps Out Questions.

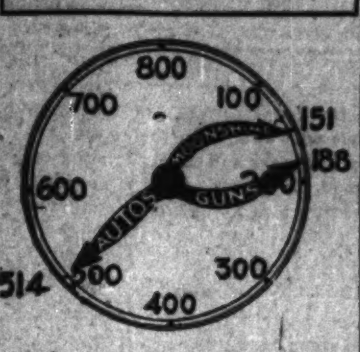
Dr. Jones, acting at the suggestion of Chief of Police Collins, has mapped out a series of questions for each person arraigned. He hopes to determine whether mental traits are in any way responsible for the speed craze. His observations, together with recommendations, will be transmitted to Chief Collins.

In the two Speeders' courts last week 1,072 motorists were fined a total of $4,316, an average of only $4 per violator. The banner day was Monday, when Judge A. M. Eberhardt fined 142 motorists a total of $729. On Tuesday Judge John F. Haas fined 112 violators a total of $635. The smallest receipt day was yesterday, when Judge Haas assessed total fines of $23 on twenty motorists. Chief Justice Harry Olson has indicated that changes in the Speeders' court assignments will be made this week.

15 Killers Held in September.

Fifteen automobile killers were held to the grand jury on charges of manslaughter during September, Coroner Oscar Wolff announced yesterday. The total held over during the nine months of this year is now ninety-three, almost three times the total number held in 1922, when thirty-two motorists were bound over on manslaughter charges. The ninety-three motorists represent 18 per cent of the 512 drivers whose automobiles caused fatal injuries to that number of persons.

HANDS OF DEATH



The clock indicates the number of deaths caused by automobiles, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

Engineer Urges City to Raise Sidewalks to Cut Traffic Knot

When pedestrians are taken off the streets and put on second story level sidewalks, Chicago's loop traffic congestion problem will be solved, according to Edward H. Bennett, prominent engineer-architect and member of the Chicago plan commission, who returned last Thursday from a three months' tour of Europe.

Evolution of a program to include elevated sidewalks and depression of cross streets at main traffic intersections could well be woven into the Chicago plan, he suggested. He pointed out that the constant construction of huge buildings in the loop with resultant increasing concentration of business in a small area makes the downtown traffic problem more acute each year.

Would Have Intensive Study Made.

Mr. Bennett urged that the present city administration, which promises completion within its term of office of the major phases of the Chicago plan, set aside funds for the use of Charles H. Wacker and the commission for an intensive study of the loop problem.

"A most valuable contribution to this city would be a practical plan for the duplication of traffic levels in the loop," said Mr. Bennett. "Heavy traffic was separated from lighter traffic on Michigan avenue, it was done on the Roosevelt road bridge project and ultimately it will be accomplished in the South Water street improvement.

"After heavy and light traffic have been separated, I am convinced that the next and final step in the solution of traffic problems confronting us in the loop is the separation of pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

"It has been suggested that we confine pedestrians to sublevel sidewalks. Logically, the thing to do is to lift them into the air. Then you can create at that level magnificent shop windows, free from the level of the traffic, which would be able to take the full width of the roadway below.

Trucking on Lower Level.

"Second story passengerways might be erected in the present alleys, almost doubling the advertising show window frontage of buildings and leaving the entire lower level for trucking. In a word, by separating vehicular and pedestrian traffic through a raised level for the latter, you can create a machine in the center of the loop that could probably handle traffic for all time to come.

"It means that the whole ground floor might be given up to vehicular traffic, permitting a much heavier volume of traffic in addition to increased parking space for motors. Convenient parking of automobiles is a prime necessity for all businesses, but under conditions in Chicago are changed, the automobile in time will be unable to come into the loop. It is best to provide for parking and still have room for traffic."

MAYOR CLOSES 35 SALOONS AND BREWERY "MINT"

In Fight to Finish It, Dever Announces.

Ink and a pen wielded by Mayor William E. Dever yesterday closed thirty-five more saloons, two drug stores, and a brewery. And the mayor announced that he was "just starting."

"I am getting into the swing of battle," he said to reporters after he had revoked the thirty-five retail beverage licenses. "I am convinced that a public official should not start what he cannot finish, so I am in this to the finish. We are gaining all along and will win this fight. Our policy will be to hammer away along the same lines."

Brewers Become Millionaires.

The brewery closed was one owned by Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, now millionaires, but before prohibition citizens of no commercial rating. The place was known as the Monroe Products company, and located at 2606 West Monroe street. The mistake of the brewery officials, the one that caused the revocation, was refusal to permit health department inspectors to enter the plant. Indeed, the inspectors claimed they were harshly ordered from the premises.

To date the score stands: Saloons closed by Mayor Dever, 380; reopened by court order, none. Rather than face total defeat on the first attempt to force the mayor to permit a place to reopen, Attorney Maxwell Herman asked dismissal of his petition for a writ of mandamus in behalf of Charles Bidwell, druggist.

By its dismissal, which was without prejudice to the submitting of it to another judge, Bidwell gave himself another chance and a continued ray of hope to the saloonkeepers who have similar appeals pending or ready to file. It is expected by attorneys representing many of the bar owners that they can force reissuance of the licenses inasmuch as none of the revocations were based on a conviction before judge or jury of violation of the prohibition laws.

Police Continue Activities.

Police captains were in the office of Chief Collins all morning, being told that the drive against cheating soft drink parlors must not cease. Quite a number of miscellaneous arrests were made.

Charges were filed with the civil service board by the chief against Capt. Thomas Wolfe, who has been under suspension for more than a week. The specifications are inefficiency and neglect of duty in not holding under arrest Daniel McFall, then a deputy sheriff, who has since been indicted on the charge of murder in the death of Jerry O'Connor. Capt. Wolfe permitted McFall to go after questioning. Later Chief Collins caused his rearrest and bail was fixed at $50,000. Attorney William Scott Stewart agreed yesterday to surrender McFall Monday to save a forfeiture of the $50,000 bond.

Switches Plain Clothes Men.

Every detective at the Summerdale station was ordered into uniform last night and Capt. Martin O'Malley was directed to replace them with men heretofore in the uniform rank. No reason was given, but the switching of plain clothes men was regarded as part of the campaign against saloons. Mayor Dever lives in this police district, and Chief Collins recently led a squad of raiders through the district unannounced to the station force. Many prominent cafes are in the district.

Alleged Drugger of Prince Jailed by Italian Police

TURIN, Sept. 29.—Marino Guagnelli, charged with participating in the drugging and robbing of Prince and Princess Giustinni Bandini in Rome on July 7, is under arrest here. Bonds worth 200,000 lire were found in his possession. Alfredo Ciuchi, his alleged confederate, was arrested shortly after the crime.

MAKES THE DEAF HEAR.

Remarkable Invention Enables the Deaf to Hear All Sounds Clearly.

Every one who is troubled with deafness in any form will be interested in the announcement of the Dictograph Products Corporation, Suite 1301, Candler Bldg., No. 220 West 42d street, New York, that they have at last perfected a device which will enable every one whose auditory nerve is not entirely destroyed to hear as perfectly as one whose hearing is normal. To test it thoroughly they sent it to a number of people who had been deaf for years and they report most gratifying results. Many state that they hear the slightest sound with perfect ease and that their natural hearing has been greatly improved. The manufacturers are so proud of their achievement and so confident that every deaf person will be amazed and delighted with it that they offer to send it to any one by prepaid parcel post on ten days' free trial. They do not ship C. O. D. nor do they require any deposit, but send it entirely at their own risk and expense, allowing the user ten full days to try it and decide whether he wants to keep it or not. As there is no obligation whatever, every one who is troubled with deafness in any form should take advantage of this liberal free trial offer. Just send them your name and address for descriptive literature and free trial request blank.—Advertisement.

HIKING OVER AUTUMNAL FIELDS

With the advent of autumn, hikes of the Prairie club have been marked by rewards to the woodland wanderers of landscapes touched by nature into stretches of fairyland artistry. The hike conducted yesterday was between Glenwood and Thornton, Ill., and covered a stretch of unusual beauty. The field where the photograph was taken was a veritable riot of color, intensified by the patches of brilliant and subdued shading decking the wooded knoll shown in the background. Much of the hike was through a stretch of the forest preserve.

U. S. INDICTS 15 IN HEITLER 'PLOT'; 2 DRY AIDS HIT

Confessions by Two Lead to Bills.

Indictments charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, conspiracy to commit an unlawful act, and illegal sale of liquor were returned yesterday by the federal grand jury against fifteen men in connection with the "Mike de Pike" Heitler liquor case. Bench warrants were issued for all those named in the indictments and deputy marshals were sent to apprehend them.

Information on which the fifteen were indicted is said to have been furnished through confessions made by Mandel "Manny" Greenburg and Nathaniel Perlman, who have been convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary.

Those indicted are: Ben Smith, Morris Smith, Samuel Smith, Alex Smith, and Meyer Smith, all in the wholesale drug business; Joseph and Morris Goodman, brothers, automobile dealers; Simon and Samuel Cohen, former liquor dealers; Joe Ruttenberg, Morris Levy, Harry Kessler, Ike Goldberg, John McFarland, and Michael Torpy.

Charge $27,000 in Bribes.

Torpy and McFarland, prohibition agents at the time of the alleged conspiracy, were reported to have received $20,000 to guarantee protection. The Goodman brothers are charged with having paid Greenburg $7,000 as the price of his silence in connection with the sale of the liquor.

In September, 1920, it is charged, 1,000 cases of whisky, valued at $200,000, were purchased from a Louisville distillery on a forged federal permit. The deal was said to have been engineered by the Smiths and Goodmans, and delivery was to be made to Heitler. But as truckmen were removing the whisky from the cars in a Chicago railroad yard another gang of liquor dealers held up the chauffeurs and took the spirits. The federal authorities learned of the transaction and made several arrests.

Two Confess Plot.

Perlman, Greenburg, and Heitler were sentenced in May, 1921, but sentence was stayed pending action by the Supreme court. Last week Greenburg and Perlman appeared before Assistant District Attorney Edwin L. Weisl, it is said, and confessed their part in the deal, implicating those indicted yesterday. Threats have been made to kill them, it is reported, and they have asked government protection.

In the first indictment it is charged that the fifteen conspired to defeat justice by paying Greenburg for silence. The second indictment charges conspiracy to violate the prohibition act. Bonds for these two indictments were set at $5,000 on each charge, and at $2,500 on the third, which charges unlawful sale of liquor.

CITY ASKS FOR ACCOUNTING OF TUNNEL COMPANY

An accounting of the business of the Chicago Tunnel company and the Chicago Warehouse and Terminal company, owners and operators of the sixty miles of tunnel underlying the city's business district, was demanded by Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch in a petition filed yesterday in the Superior court.

More than $1,000,000 due the city as its share of the tunnel company's gross receipts remains unpaid, according to the petition, which charges that false reports of their earnings have been filed with the city by the companies. His frequent request for permission to inspect the records of the company to verify the reports were refused, Mr. Busch declares.

Under the terms of a thirty year lease awarded the two companies in 1899, the city was guaranteed a sliding percentage of participation in the gross earnings of the tunnel. During the first ten years the city was to receive 5 per cent, 8 per cent during the next ten years, and 12 per cent until the contract expired.

MASON & HAMLIN

Musically the most beautiful Piano the world has ever known

FOR more than two-thirds of a century the name Mason & Hamlin has stood for devotion to an artistic ideal, in the manufacture of musical instruments. Believing that there is a constant demand for a product of the highest excellence, the Mason & Hamlin Company has held steadfastly to its original principle, of supplying instruments of the rarest artistic merit.

The Mason & Hamlin Piano represents a determined effort to produce the finest instrument of its kind, with a willingness to go to any expense necessary to obtain this result. If a greater expenditure could produce a finer piano, its creators would unhesitatingly make the investment. The Mason & Hamlin Piano costs more than any other; but those competent to judge declare that its worth far exceeds its price, for into it is built that which is beyond the measure of money.

We invite you to hear and play this extraordinary instrument. On exhibition and sale in Chicago only at the music rooms of the attended the interment this afternoon of his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Emily Gorman Webb of New York, in Laurel Hill cemetery.

Mr. Webb, ignored at the interment by W. T. Hunter, uncle of Mrs. Webb, and other friends of Mrs. Webb, was surrounded by a number of his friends, who were frequently called upon to administer to him on the way to the cemetery. The services were held up five minutes when Mr. Webb broke down and leaned weakly on the arms of his friends under great emotion.

A brightly colored taxi in which rode two members of the New York detective homicide squad called to mind the investigation by the New York authorities into the cause of the death of Mrs. Webb.

SISTER'S PLEAS FAIL TO MOVE BABY ABDUCTOR

He "Gave It Away" and No Trace Is Found.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29.—While Mrs. Rachel Fleghels, sister of Alphonse Vlemminck, pleaded with her brother to "tell the truth" about what he did with the infant son of William Greatrex, given to Vlemminck by mistake at the Evangelical Deaconess hospital, the man continued to reiterate his original story that he had given the baby to a stranger from Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Fleghels came here from Belgium on Aug. 20, she told police, to adopt the baby about to be born to Vlemminck's daughter to save her brother from "shame and disgrace."

Plans Made Week Before?

"A week before the baby came," Mrs. Fleghels said in her statement, "he told me I need not worry about having to take the baby back to Belgium as he had found a nice couple without children who would adopt it."

The sister said on the night of Sept. 24 her brother went to the hospital, saying he would bring the baby home. The daughter left shortly after, asserting she was going out to make some purchases. About 10 o'clock, according to Mrs. Fleghels, her brother returned with a bundle containing some unsoiled baby clothes "and inquired anxiously where Yvonne (Eva) was." He then left the house and an hour and a half later returned with his daughter. "He seemed excited," the sister told the police.

No Clews in Sight.

Search by Boy Scouts, under the direction of police detectives, failed to bring any additional clews. William Greatrex, who returned from Toronto, Canada, Wednesday after the funeral of his wife there to find his baby missing, still hopes that his child may be found alive.

OPPOSES DANCE

Mrs. C. C. Cramer, manager of the City Hall Square building, in which is housed the "Up-in-the-Clouds" dance club, which has been attacked as an "immoral gathering." She was snapped in Judge Hugo Friend's court, where the existence of the club is at stake.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Noisy Squirrel Starts Cops on Burglar Chase

Responding to an alarm of burglary at the home of Bently S. Handwork, 2720 Lincoln street, Evanston, early yesterday, Sergt. H. E. Ruland found members of the family shivering on the front porch and the living room in possession of a noisy squirrel.

"UP IN CLOUDS" DANCERS SHAKE FEET ONCE AGAIN

Given One More Whirl Pending Ruling.

Following Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend's decree yesterday that Harry W. Standidge, president of the "Up in the Clouds" club, could give "at least one more dance," the night elevator in the City Hall Square building made more than fifty trips last night to the twenty-first floor.

The dancers didn't perform the minuet, but they were just as decorous as their grandparents might have been. Six inches apart was the rule. The slightest indication of a "shimmy" was stopped simultaneously by Mr. Standidge, by Floor Manager Jack Normand, and by a score of dancers.

Future Fate Undecided.

For hovering over the dance was the threat of Attorney Fred Burnham, counsel for owners of the building, to stop all "public dances" in the building.

Tuesday night, when the next dance is scheduled, the hearings on the propriety of the dances will have been completed, it was agreed, and Judge Friend will have decided whether the dances should go on or be stopped.

Lawyers Review Testimony.

The lawyers told Judge Friend yesterday morning what had gone on during the weeks of hearings before Master in Chancery Ninian H. Welch. Their accounts of which way the testimony leaned varied a lot.

"Why, judge," declared Mr. Burnham, "their own witnesses proved that the dances are so highly objectionable as to warrant immediate suppression."

"It's not true," retorted Attorney Harry Standidge, president of the lofty club, and his lawyer, James F. Bishop. "We are ready now to have Master Welch make his report."

Hear One More Witness.

But Master Welch couldn't see his way clear to such a hasty decision. It was decided that the only additional testimony required was that of Miss Claire C. Cramer, manager of the building. She is to tell, it was said at the hearing, of the leases and maybe of the dances.

Club Official Arrested.

James T. O'Neil, 4725 Calumet avenue, assistant manager of the "Up in the Clouds" club, was arrested last night, charged with passing bogus checks and forgery.

O'Neil, it is alleged, forged the name of Sydney B. Meyer to a check for $40 on the Northern Trust company, which the police say O'Neil stole from Meyer, his attorney, while consulting him regarding a divorce suit instituted by Mrs. O'Neil.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Louis Panzer, recently mentioned in THE TRIBUNE in connection with the Stokes case, states that he is a member of the Moody Bible institute, not a student.

Jerome Patrick, who recently died in New York, was not Alice Brady's leading man during her present engagement in "Zander the Great," now playing at Powers' theater. He played the leading part only when that show was in New York.

WEALTH—
How to Attain It

"Bills, bills, bills," sighed Jim Richards as he surveyed the accumulation of mail on the first of the month. "Margaret," he said, turning to his wife, "it seems impossible for us to save money. Our income and outgo balance altogether too well. But, for the life of me, I can't tell where our money goes."

"Well, I'm doing my best, Jim."

"I know you are, my dear," he said. "But it's discouraging, to say the least. I'm going to see whether there isn't some way of planning our expenditures so that we can really save money."

Richards began making inquiries. To his surprise he learned that many of his acquaintances were using a budget plan with success. But it was not until he mentioned the matter to his friend Clark that he really got the information he desired.

"I've got the very thing you want," was Clark's enthusiastic remark. "I'm not good at keeping figures and if there's anything I don't like to do it's keeping a complicated and confusing expense record. The book I use, 'WEALTH—How to Attain It,' contains a plan that is simplicity itself. Yet it's surprisingly thorough. It only takes a few minutes a day to keep it up. I've tried it for two months and already I've saved more money than I ever did before in the same length of time.

"This book provides a complete expense record for every month, and a summary for the year. It's easy to keep, because the page explaining how to use the record lists alphabetically the various items of expense and how they are to be entered. Then, too, it contains suggested budgets for incomes from $125 a month to $50,000 a year. It suggests methods for accumulating money, offers some practical investment suggestions, and provides a complete record for your investments.

"Get this record book, Jim, and you'll save money more easily than you ever did before. I know, because I've tried it."

"WEALTH—How to Attain It," size 9¼x11¼ inches, is now in use by thousands who never before had followed a definite plan for saving money. Practical, simple, thorough, it has demonstrated its usefulness in stopping leaks and accumulating reserve funds. THE RIGHTS OF THE INDIVIDUAL.

The American people—we repeat it—ought to be giving some very earnest thought to the conditions exposed in Oklahoma. Not the thought of the Pharisee. The phenomena of bad politics, bad government, bad citizenship dramatized by Walton and by the Ku Klux Klan in that community are not peculiar to Oklahoma, though for the moment they have a violent expression there. What all Americans ought to be meditating upon is not the sad state of things in a wild and woolly district of our surviving frontier, but the prevalence of similar evils throughout our country.

The costly folly of choosing men like Walton for high public office is no monopoly of Oklahoma's. The narrow and selfish and subversive influences upon which he played so profitably to win election are no monopoly of Oklahoma's. They are disclosed in the politics of every state and city time and again, as Chicago and Illinois have sad occasion to admit at this time. The American people need more discrimination in their choice of agents and a better grip on the principles of good citizenship.

But that is only one side of the tablet Oklahoma holds up for our warning. The other presents to us the vicious and demoralizing phenomenon of the klan. Ostensibly the klan is an organization for the support of law and lawful conduct. But its method of compelling lawfulness is a negation of law. It practices lawlessness with the pretense of creating respect for law and good conduct.

There is conscious hypocrisy in this, the object of the conscious hypocrites being political jobs or the wreaking of private grudges. But the feature of klanism which is most serious is its unconscious inconsistency which arises out of a lack of intelligent comprehension of the principles of American citizenship and, in fact, of any tolerable order of civilized society.

It is this phase of klanism which touches American character in the quick. It is this which runs through our American life and expresses itself in many demoralizing ways. The quintessence of it is disregard for one another's rights. Under the guise of moral betterment, with often, and perhaps usually, a sincere motive—along with other motives—to improve conduct, all sorts of self-appointed mentors group themselves to legislate without law, to enforce without authority, to impose their conceptions of right upon their equals, to try them and execute upon them.

But the same spirit enters the field of legislation, and laws are demanded and generally obtained, which invade private conscience and override the individual liberty.

It is time for every American who cherishes the American conception of individual liberty to consider this pervasive tendency. The night riders who turn out in masks to whip women whose conduct they suspect or to mutilate or drive away men whom they cannot bring to book under the law are sensational offenders against a government of laws. Too often the evil they represent is condoned, but on the whole we can see that it is an evil, and in the main public opinion does not countenance it. But invasions of the principles of individual liberty in the form of laws are more dangerous offenses against Americanism than the outrages of violence we are quicker to condemn.

The eighteenth amendment was fixed upon the fundamental law by men and women who gave no thought either to the nature of the constitution, which it violates, or to the principles of individual right which is the foundation of Americanism. The amendment, the Volstead act, and the various state laws passed to force a code of private conduct upon individuals are all a defiance of this essential principle. They are not limited to the proper scope of the police power. They transgress the protective barriers which our American conception of freedom sought to build about the rights of the individual and in transgressing they have broken down its defense against any other invasion.

The highly moral and substantial citizens who helped to procure the imposition by law of teetotalism ought to see beyond the end of their noses. They have contributed in a powerful way to the disposition to tyrannize and to disregard private rights. The disposition of masked censors to set up their own notions of right or interest as justification for lawlessness is only a crass expression of the disposition to disregard private conscience and impose upon private conduct regardless of the rights of the individual. Prohibition is not merely a public measure directed at a public condition. It derives its force from the instinct to impose conduct upon the individual. It is an attempt to impose a theory of private morality, to overrule the right of private conscience; and it certainly opens the way to invasion of all private rights, that of property, as well as the remaining guaranties of individual freedom which the bill of rights sought to protect from all probable assaults or infringements.

Americanism rests on faith in the individual. We are plagued today with persistent efforts to enchain him in the name of some fancied social good. It is the greatest danger that has attacked our harmony and progress and its possibilities are unlimited. To prate of respect for law is futile unless our laws and the spirit which produces them are founded on the essential respect for the individual and his rights which is the soul of Americanism.

KEEP THE ALIEN-MINDED OUT OF THE U. S.

Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the house immigration committee, and Secretary of Labor Davis are preparing a new immigration bill. The most important change suggested is that of basing estimates of the numbers admissable upon our foreign population of 1890 instead of 1910, and of limiting the number admissable to 2 per cent of that figure plus another 2 per cent of blood relatives. The bill must command the attention of every one interested in the welfare of this country.

Inasmuch as immigration has been much heavier since 1890 than before that date, it is probable that the new bill would not increase the total of immigration. That, however, must be made certain before it can be approved. We are, even under the 3 per cent law, receiving more undesirables than we can well absorb. Any measure which might increase the number of such undesirables must be viewed with alarm.

The change of basis from 1910 to 1890, however, is encouraging. The 1910 basis allows a maximum of immigration from southern and eastern Europe. Many of these immigrants have proved themselves to be undesirable. Their training, experience of government, customs and habit of life makes it difficult for them to understand American ideals and standards. The 1890 basis, on the other hand, would allow a maximum of immigration from northern and western Europe. These people are of the blood of those who founded the United States and who have brought the country to its present greatness. In 1890 the foreign born in this country from northern and western Europe comprised 11.23 per cent of our total population. In 1910 this proportion had shrunk to 7.12 per cent and in 1920 to 5.22 per cent. In the same period our proportion of foreign born residents from southern and eastern Europe had increased from 1.36 per cent to 6.02 per cent.

Under the first year of the 3 per cent law, Greece, Poland, Palestine, Syria, and a few minor countries all succeeded in crowding in their quotas, and sometimes more. The United Kingdom, Scandinavia, and Germany were short. The immigrants we least desired were eager to come, and those we most desired were not. More recent reports, however, show greater immigration from northern and western Europe.

That is what we need. It is folly to qualify and hedge on the issue. People who have proved themselves unable properly to govern themselves, people reared in a condition of chronic economic and social depression, people of nations which cannot solve their problems at home, are not the people we want to welcome to America. When they do come a large number of them become parasites, not producers, many become criminals, others are public charges for various reasons, and still others are actively engaged in demoralizing our political and social systems. For the future of the nation the majority of those immigrants we do admit should be of the blood and antecedents of those who founded the United States and made it great.

If the new bill will work to that end it may be approved. But nothing should be allowed to increase the total of immigration to our shores.

THE FORD LEGEND.

We have said that the task of explaining why Henry Ford is not a suitable individual to be President of the United States is going to be difficult, and numerous letters from his partisans do not encourage us to hope otherwise. It is going to be difficult, not because the reasons are not plain, but because they are plain—so plain that if a man does not see them for himself it is necessary to go very far back to meet his mental processes. It is much like proving that 2 plus 2 are 4 to a man who thinks they are five. Gilbert Chesterton in one of his vivacious essays says that he can reason with a man who says he believes in God because horses have four legs, but not with a man who believes in God because horses have five legs.

We confess to feeling a good deal that way when a Ford partisan excoriates us for referring to Ford in a spirit of irony and demands that we give reasons for our opinion.

We are far from taking Mr. Ford lightly as a candidate, although, as we have explained, we do not think he will be nominated or if nominated elected. But it is not impossible, despite the much vaunted common sense of the American voter, that Mr. Ford may prove to be the open coal hole in the sidewalk of our progress.

For Henry Ford as candidate has in his favor a great many if not most of the popular fallacies we cherish in our beloved country. We doubt there ever has been in our history a person who seems to have fulfilled so many of the things most of us wish were true about life. His popularity is the outstanding case in popular opinion of what the experts in psychology call wishful thinking. That is why he starts miles ahead of any ordinary public man. Argument must meet and overcome the will to believe the contrary. It must compel men to give up or lay aside a deep seated wish, a cherished if half-conscious dream.

Ford is a Cinderella in overalls. He is David slaying the Goliath of Wall street. He is Dick Whittington and Jack the Giant Killer. We want to believe in fairies. The story of Ford's rise to fame and fortune is a fairy tale come true. We want to believe in miracles. Ford is a miracle man. We really admire great wealth and success. Ford is one of the richest of men and made his money in a way we can all approve. Of recent years there have been perpetual attacks upon wealth and success which have made us all uncomfortable because they cheated us of a common dream and shook our faith in the kind of achievement we could all understand and in some degree hope for. They filled us with disquieting doubts of our American scheme and held us up as dupes and victims. We like to be self-confident and friendly and optimistic. They infected us with fear of ourselves and of others and offered us pessimism in place of optimism. Ford's success and his genius for advertising himself as a plain man full of the milk of human kindness restore all the pleasant assumptions of the American mind. Therefore his success does not rouse envy.

His pose of plain man swings open the door of hope to us all. His scorn of his limitations excuses our own. His advertised amiability justifies to our conscience our innate admiration of riches and success.

To combat Ford is to combat what we all want to believe of life and ourselves.

THE COMMUTER'S TICKET.

The Harvest Moon and the Autumnal Equinox: Mists arising from the quiet lakes at dawn but whisked away before the sun to unveil the waters which have no ripples but are still mirrors of the flaming maple and the red and bronze of oak. The lake is sapphire ringed with fire, which gleams and does not consume. The scarlet of ox blood, the glow of burnished copper, vernal green in the pine, tarnished yellow in the white birch.

The warmth of day grows, but even the aspens are at rest and all the earth hums with cricket and yellow jackets. White moths float out over the water. Red squirrels are in the oaks and the thump of falling acorns is loud: the blue jays are silent, winging across the thoroughfare. The splash of a fish is startling. Chickadees are in the low limbs of the white birch overhead.

Buckwheat in the clearing has been cut and the stubble is red in the sunlight. Pumpkins are yellow where the corn has been cut. The red clover is in stacks and the simple harvest of the clearing is ready for the harvest moon, a pale disk of white visible as the sun dips west. Moments have had no motion and hours have not been formed, but the sun takes its candles. As the moon grows luminous out of mist the sky and the woods, and the lake which mirrors both, are in a common flare of altar fires to the season which has gone and the season which has come. The year is over the great divide. The equinox has come under the harvest moon and silently with the woods aglow at night, the days take the downward road to the end.

USING THE FARMER.

The Democratic national committee, through its chairman, Cordell Hull, is making a feeble effort to discredit the Republican national administration by capitalizing the farmers' discontent. The tactics employed are a demand for an extra session of congress to relieve the unfortunate farmer through special legislation. It is assumed that if the extra session is not called the administration will be put on record as opposed to the farmers' interests, and that the farmers will therefore flock to the Democratic standard.

That is cheap politics of the cheapest sort. The American farmer is too wise to be deceived by such folly.

Mr. Hull demands that an extra session shall, among other things, prove the administration's disposition to relieve the farmers by "effecting a prompt reduction of existing profiteering tariff rates and transportation rates and by offering some moral and economic coöperation to stabilize and unfetter international trade conditions."

Such a demand is palpably false in implication as well as unsound. It implies that the so-called "profiteering tariff rates" were forced upon the farmers. Mr. Hull knows, and all intelligent farmers know that that is not true. The high tariff on agricultural products was given to the farmer at his own demand, expressed through the agrarian bloc in congress. No student of the tariff or of economics doubted at the time that it was an error which would do the farmer more harm than good. Time has justified that belief, but the fault lies not with the administration, but with the farm bloc and the farmers who supported the members of that bloc.

Mr. Hull also knows and every intelligent farmer knows, that the last congress gave the farmers of this country virtually everything asked in the way of assistance through legislation. Twenty-six specific pieces of legislation were passed at the demand of the farm bloc. The fact that some farmers, especially the grain raisers, are still in difficulties, cannot alter that fact. If the legislation has not helped them it is because their own men in congress, forming the farm bloc which dominated that body, were unable to devise laws which would overcome the laws of supply and demand. The same would be true in the event of a special session, and Mr. Hull knows it. He is merely trying to make Democratic capital out of the farmers' discontent. That's one thing that is the matter with the farmer. He has been used instead of served by the members of the farm bloc, and by politicians such as Hull, who seek his vote.

CHICAGO AND OUR WATERWAYS.

[Montreal Star.]

The small but enthusiastic group of American financiers and company promoters who are so anxious to tinker with our natural system of water transportation and to dredge the great St. Lawrence so that they themselves may accumulate richer dividends from power schemes and from the expansion of their inland ports, continue to conduct their campaign of intensive propaganda with determination and presumably at considerable cost. From Chicago comes a telegraph dispatch from a reputable news agency which opens with a statement that will be news to many Canadians. "Anticipating favorable action from Canada within the next six months on the great lakes-St. Lawrence waterways project."

It would be interesting to know upon what basis the anticipations of these Chicago gentlemen are based. It is true that there was a suggestion put forward during the last session of parliament, the reëcho of a hundred similar official and unofficial promptings during the last few years, that Canada and the United States should coöperate in a vast scheme to "improve" the waterway system of this continent. Whatever may be the merits or demerits of the plan, it is abundantly clear that Canada is in no position today to embark on any grandiose scheme of development. Canada, limping along the path of industrial progress, with the millstone of her state railways clogging her steps, would be mad to consider the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars at this time.

The estimate made by the American engineers at the time the proposal was laid before Mr. Mackenzie King was $400,000,000, although it was distinctly stated that this sum was only to cover a modest preliminary scheme. Canadian engineers are on record that this estimate is low. As it is proposed that Canada should pay one-half of the cost, it will be necessary for the Dominion to find between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000 if the "favorable action" which Chicago predicts is something more than the rosy dream of the promoters and propagandists.

Chicago is indeed so anxious that Canada should come into this scheme that its financiers have declared that they are quite willing to find the money if the Dominion has any difficulty in floating the bonds, provided of course they are backed with the security of our resources. The bait may be tempting to those promoters who "think in millions," but two-thirds of Canada's present ills are due to the fact that in the past she has too often listened to the seductive wooing of such daring financiers.

FOODS THAT HELP TEETH.

THERE is a growing belief that the quality of the teeth have quite as much to do with decay as does cleanliness and care.

The milk teeth are formed before the baby is born. The quality of the teeth, that is, how well they will resist decay, is determined by the food the mother eats during the later months of pregnancy. The second set of teeth, the permanent teeth, begin to form during the later months of pregnancy and the process of formation continues for about fifteen years. The proper frame work of tissue having been built up and the proper amount of lime having been deposited, in a certain sense, the tooth is built and nothing remains for it but to cut through the gums, take its place in the arch and start the lifelong job of grinding food.

The old idea was that the tooth, once formed, never changed. The new idea is different. Even such stable and unchangeable structures as bones and teeth change somewhat as occasion demands. Witness the change in certain bones during puberty and adolescence; the change in the shape, due to change in the hip bones; the change in expression due to change in the face bones.

When a woman is pregnant she needs more lime than her food sometimes supplies. Witness how some pregnant women lose their teeth. The growing baby needs more lime than the mother's food supplies, whereupon she gives up some of the lime in her own teeth and bones.

A child needs four times as much lime in its food as an adult does—that is, pound for pound of weight. It needs it to grow bone and teeth. Having attained growth, the need for lime in the diet stabilizes and unless the adult is a woman and becomes pregnant, it may remain so. However, our civilized diet is short on lime. If it is unusually short, or if the individual develops certain diseases which put on him a great need of lime, he may draw on his teeth and, in that way, make it easy for bacteria to break them down and cause decay.

In an editorial in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, Sherman is quoted as saying that a lime shortage is the only deficiency in the American diet. The editorial suggests that we add more lime foods to our daily diet. The great lime foods are milk, cheese, nuts and the bran and outer parts of bread, grains and cereals. One need is to have plenty of base-ash ingredients in the diet.

Breads are makers of a highly acid ash. The lime richness of a whole wheat bread is not even enough of an advantage when unsupported to offset the disadvantage of its acid ash. The foods which make the best base ash are the vegetables and fruits. Therefore, a diet should be rich in these, rich in milk and only fairly rich in whole grain breads and cereals and in meat and eggs if the teeth are to be protected from decay.

There is advantage in eating fresh, natural, unfabricated foods near the source.

Of course none of these suggestions mean that the cleanliness of the teeth should be neglected.

RINGWORM IS INFECTIOUS.

Mrs. F. S. writes: I am troubled with ringworm. I get them on my left shoulder blade. I paint them with iodine a few times; they disappear for a couple of weeks and then appear again.

I notice a few days ago you replied to a question on how to prevent reinfection. How can I do so?

REPLY.

The organisms can be spread by clothing. The underclothing should be sterilized by heat.

It is spread by people.

A person with ringworm can reinfect you.

CURING CIGARETTE HABIT.

E. H. L. writes: Please inform the writer the best way and a sure way to stop the cigarette habit.

I have been smoking for the last ten years and have the habit bad, and need more than will power to stop.

REPLY.

Send stamped addressed envelope for formula.

When this preparation is used, the smoke does not taste right.

Some people can overcome the habit by using this aid.

GIRL NEEDS EXERCISE.

B. B. B. writes: 1. Is 114 pounds heavy enough for a 15 year old girl who is 5 feet 7 inches tall?

2. What should be done to correct round shoulders and a hollow chest?

3. Would shoulder braces help?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. Swim, row, wrestle, exercise on bars, ladders, and ropes; putting up your hair is good exercise.

3. No.

NOT THE LUNGS AND STOMACH.

J. A. writes: Will taking about an ounce of cod liver oil a day help the lungs and stomach?

REPLY:

No.

IODINE AND SULPHUR.

E. D. C. writes: What will cure ringworm on a person's face?

REPLY:

Paint it daily for three days with iodine. Follow with sulphur ointment applied daily. This will cure all cases where the eruption is not in a hairy area.

NEIGHBOR'S ASHES.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Friend of the People.]—For the last two years my neighbor's ashes have been falling into my yard from a poorly constructed receptacle which was nailed to my fence without my permission. The owner pays no attention to my requests to remove this or furnish a more stable receptacle.

M. N. K.

Notice has been served on adjoining property owner to provide receptacles for the accommodation of ashes and other refuse, which he states he will do.

THOMAS H. BYRNE,
Superintendent of Streets.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly inform us the laws of Illinois pertaining to judgments from the common court in a city of Oklahoma? The holder of this judgment (which was taken on a forged note by reason of defendants not appearing in court) claims he can at one and the same time sue and attach defendant's effects and that defendant has no redress whatsoever, as he states the courts here act the same as those in Oklahoma.

L. W.

Attachment is permitted against nonresidents of this state, and on certain other special facts. He is right in that the judgment would, if the court had jurisdiction, be conclusive here. If the judgment debtor has a defense he should submit the facts to an Oklahoma attorney and have the judgment act set aside there if possible.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THEY HAVE TO TREAT ALL ALIKE.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it not against the constitution of these United States to bar healthy children from the classroom of the public schools?

They were barred because their mother refuses to allow them to be examined by medical students, internes, or M. D. professors.

I send the children to school twice daily and they are denied access to their books because they have not been examined. I am fully capable of examining and knowing the physical condition of my own offspring. The children are sent to school for mental, not physical, examination, but according to the school the children must submit to one or suffer the loss of both.

MRS. M. M.

We see no legal objection to such examination.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ARRANGING STOCK OWNERSHIP.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 26.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there any way a husband and wife can hold stock shares as joint property so that either party may order transfer of the same without the signature of the other during lifetime of both parties, the survivor being free to take sole possession without legal formalities on death of the other party, in the same way as a joint bank account of husband and wife is handled? Could it be managed by having stock certificates issued in the name of "Mr. X. and Mrs. X. jointly and severally.

D. A. B.

We see no reason why corporation could not properly agree to recognize "A or B or the survivor of them" as owner. The more common arrangement would be "A and B or the survivor of them."

All the Reopened Banks Sustain Themselves Except the Union National.

CHICAGO.

The walks among the banks yesterday were not as interesting as those of last week, when there was really a disturbed state of feeling. Returning confidence was apparent everywhere, persons breathed easier, bankers felt better, and business began to assume a more cheerful and healthy tone. The enormous amount of currency imported from the East during the last few days and the speedy resumption of three prominent banks, could have no less effect than to infuse backbone into the backboneless, if there were any without that piece of anatomical hardware. The prospect yesterday had lost its gloomy tint, and the future seemed rosy and bright to financial eyes. Everybody maintained a stiff upper lip.

LONDON, Sept. 30, 3 a. m.—The sudden and unexpected dissolution of the "Brodick cabinet" has dumfounded the political newsmongers. Some ascribe it to the fact that John Redmond's speech of Sunday night has shown the uselessness of trying to arrange a conference on the Irish question. The lid, however, has been kept so tight on the ministerial doings on the Isle of Arran that speculation leads to nowhere, and it is still wholly unknown whether or not the Ulster problem had anything to do with drawing the members of the cabinet to Brodick. The morning papers are filled with rumors and discussions based thereon.

There were 104,586 Bulgarians wounded in the two wars and 7,824 are reported missing.

A MOTOR TOURISTS' CAMP FOR CHICAGO.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—In looking through the papers I see the proposed highway sign. Now why not just put up common wooden arrows like other towns have? But put up enough to do the tourists some good. Then take the money you save on the deal and make a tourist park.

Just think, Chicago, one of the largest cities, has no tourist camp, no arrows to tell where a person is going, or anything else. Why, even Muscatine, Ia., and oh so many other towns have camps. They have camp cook stoves, shower baths, and some of them even have a wash tub and wash board for the accommodation of the tourist. Some campers came here from Omaha, Neb. They could not find even a vacant lot where they could park and get any water or toilet to use. Chicago is surely the poorest got up town there is.

Now while you are marking the highways for heaven's sake fix up a tourist camp.

THE RAILROAD VS. THE COVERED WAGON.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Was interested in editorial today, captioned "What the Railroads Did," and in the letter of an Iowa farmer contained therein. The thought comes to me that only those of us who saw the west through the age of the covered wagon migration, to the building of the subsidized railroad, and the final race between various railroad companies to occupy virgin territory, with no thought of land grant or state, county or town bonds, can fully realize the meaning conveyed therein.

My father located a farm near the shores of the upper Mississippi before the breaking out of hostilities in the south, and here was our home for twenty years. During seventeen of those years I never boarded a railroad train, but meanwhile was familiar with the individual whistle of nearly every steamboat plying on the river.

Our market was within easy reach, so that one horse team could deliver 180 bushels of wheat at the warehouse in a day, dividing it into three loads. But with the farmer thirty or forty miles back from the river, conditions were as described in the above mentioned letter. Not more than thirty bushels could be drawn over the hard roads, crossing steep clay ridges and fording streams, and at least two teams must go together in order to help each other out of difficulties.

As a result of these conditions, the farmer so located scarcely knew of money as a medium of exchange, but everything was based on "barter and trade." Is it any wonder, then, that when the chance presented itself they were ready and anxious to vote the bonds of county or township to get any sort of a gimcrack railroad within reasonable distance? I have seen a railroad start west from the river, and run well across the state, when there was no bridge and no eastern rail connection, the dependence being upon steamboat transshipment during the season of navigation and teaming on the ice of the river in winter. This road was subsidized by both federal and state government, and the result was the building up of the back counties as could have been done by no other method.

Later I, myself, became a pioneer on the western prairies, pushing out along a line of grade stakes, where soon the rails were laid. The county seat location was platted before there were settlers enough to organize, and not a nickel of subsidy did that or the other roads in that wonderful race of building get from anybody. The road took us in, with our goods at reduced rates, and gave us free passes to ride on the same train with our stock.

What a change was this from a few years earlier, when the homeseeker with his family and his all, endured ships of a cross country wag quiring many weeks.

It is true William H. Vand out and swelled with pride as of "Our Country," meaning in which his company was freight, for it was to move that they took us there. Inste ing thanked for what he was the venture, a remark he is sup have dropped in jest to the eff the public might be damned, cause of his being most unm hammered. But Vanderbilt and of the railroad builders of th whether those roads were go aided or not—should be reco public benefactors.

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

ARIEL'S SONG.

By William Shakespeare.

Where the bee sucks, there suck I;
In a cowslip's bell I lie;
There I couch when owls do cry.
On the bat's back do I fly,
After summer merrily.
Merrily, merrily, shall I live now
Under the blossom that hangs on the bough.

THE furniture you want is here; maybe not on this page—we can't show it all in one page.

But it's here and we have some doubt whether you'll find it, in the same measure of quality and price-value, anywhere else. Anywhere else means, apparently, the whole country; for only the other day a visitor to Chicago from New York saw in our window, and bought for delivery to her home in New York, a bedroom suite the equal of which she declared could not be found in her home city.

We say that the furniture you want is here in this store. We know what's here, and we know the main facts about what you want.

You want an assurance of good quality; we give it; Scholle quality. You want an assurance of fair price for value; we give it; the prices are deliberately low. You want an assurance that if you feel that you have made a mistake, if there's any sense of reluctance or dissatisfaction with your purchase, the matter isn't irrevocable. We give that, too.

You're quite sure to find here just the oriental or domestic rugs that you may need—in addition to furniture. We're very proud of the rugs, and of the fine values they represent. You may buy rugs with the same feeling of security; every one of them is of real Scholle quality.

We sell furniture and rugs with the idea that satisfaction is a part of the transaction; you pay for the goods, but the satisfaction is guaranteed. We certainly wouldn't expect to keep your money if we didn't deliver the goods. We don't expect to keep it if we don't deliver the satisfaction.

Our guaranty is—Satisfaction or money back.

We hope you'll come and see the very beautiful goods we have for you

PARTY LEADERS TALK COALITION; ACHIEVE NOTHING

Jockey About a Bit and Will Confer Again.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The first real conference between the Republican and Democratic leaders who might back a coalition judicial slate if there should be one was held yesterday. No agreement was reached and another conference will be held tomorrow.

That there was no agreement was interpreted as a diplomatic Democratic refusal to accept some whom the Republicans have pledged their support in the event of coalition. A show down in the form of an "ultimatum," as it was jokingly referred to after the meeting, is expected tomorrow.

But the Republicans sponsoring those candidates insist that unless the Democrats accept them there can be no coalition. To say the least the Democrats are reluctant. If that feeling crystallizes into a definite refusal to help put on the bench Republicans slated before Democratic approval was obtained, there probably will be complete Democratic and Republican tickets put out.

Held in Brundage's Office.

The bipartisan conference was held in Attorney General Brundage's office. Other Republican group leaders present were State's Attorney Crowe, Charles V. Barrett, George F. Harding, and Sanitary Trustee Morris Eller. Eller is the father of Municipal Judge Emmanuel Eller, one of the candidates to whom the Crowe-Barrett group have pledged themselves. The Democrats were represented by George E. Brennan, City Controller Martin J. O'Brien, and Dennis J. Egan, who had just returned from an all summer absence from Chicago, occasioned by heart trouble.

Until this conference the general assumption has been that if there were coalition it would be by the Democrats having six of the eleven places to be filled by new men.

Insist on Miss Bartelme.

But new complication was injected when Attorney General Brundage, who was visited by Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, collector of internal revenue, and Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns, representatives of the Woman's Roosevelt Republican club, insisted that Miss Mary Bartelme, assistant to the judge of the Juvenile court, be given a place.

The Republicans already had slated Judge Eller, James W. Breen, State Senator Fred Roos, Assistant State's Attorney George Gorman, and Municipal Judge Howard W. Hayes. There also had been some pressure brought to bear for ex-Judge Jesse Holdom, and some Democrats are said to favor him. So with Miss Bartelme's name added the conferees were facing the question whether Republicans could have six or even seven places.

Where the Hitch Came.

The proposal was that each side have five places and that the woman candidate be given the odd place. And about there things stopped, for none of the Republicans was willing to slaughter his own man candidates. The backing behind Holdom was fairly solid and the Democrats couldn't see giving the Republicans more than four of the eight new judgeships and one of the three vacancies. This latter concession they considered generous as all three vacancies were left by Democrats.

Another angle that wasn't discussed much but threatened trouble was the county board vacancy caused by the death of Daniel Ryan. One proposal in outside discussion of coalition had been that there could be a swap here—that the Democrats wouldn't go after the coronership held by Oscar Wolff through election by the county board, if they were not opposed in filling the Ryan place.

But it was whispered some Republicans are determined to make a fight for the vacant commissionership because it means control of the county board and all its spoils.

FOILED

Joseph Grazine, wealthy planter of Hammond, La., whose demand for extradition of Marie Olmstead, purported "slave girl," whom he accused of theft, was refused by Judge Joseph B. David.

OUR JAWN TO BE A 'CUNNEL,' SUH! IN OLD KAINTUCK

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—From today forward Norman Hapgood of New York, editor of Hearst's International magazine, and John T. McCutcheon, famous cartoonist of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, are to be addressed as "colonel" by all Kentuckians. Their commissions, duly executed by Gov. Edwin P. Morrow, are in the possession of Mayor Huston Quin of this city, and are to be forwarded at once to the two new members of the governor's staff.

The compliment in each case is in recognition of the service done to Kentucky's name and her people in connection with the publication in the October International of "Col." Irvin Cobb's article, "My Guide Book, Kentucky." Cobb, a native of Paducah, Ky., and a former reporter in Louisville, has already been commissioned.

With the commissioning of Cols. Hapgood and McCutcheon, the governor broadly intimated that other literary men, cartoonists, and publishers, who in a similar manner contribute to the fame and glory of Kentucky, especially in connection with Kentucky's 1924 homecoming, would be similarly honored.

ELLIS, MAN WHO WOULD BE KING, DEAD IN MEXICO

New York, Sept. 29.—William Henry Ellis, romantic figure in America's international affairs in 1904, died in Mexico City on Sept. 24, according to cable advices received today by his family.

Known as "the man who would be king," Ellis' career was a varied one. Cowboy, ranchman, banker, broker, promoter and later diplomatic envoy to Abyssinia, Ellis, in his ambition to be king of Abyssinia, led a life of adventure.

In 1904 he induced the state department to draw up a treaty with King Menelik of Abyssinia as the first step in a plan to oust Menelik. The revolution never materialized, however, and Ellis turned to Mexico.

He was either a Cuban or of mixed parentage, but preferred to be known as a Cuban.

OFFERS DR. FREW CHARGE OF NEW JUVENILE HOME

Superintendency of the new Juvenile Detention home, West Roosevelt road and Ogden avenue, was offered to Dr. Angus M. Frew yesterday, according to announcement by Anton Cermak, president of the county board.

Dr. Frew, who is at present connected with the Harvard school for boys, was recommended by a number of persons, among them being Dean James Parker Hall of the law school of the University of Chicago, President Cermak said.

At the conclusion of the conference at which Dr. Frew questioned President Cermak about the duties of the superintendent he announced that he would make a decision in a few days.

JUDGE RELEASES SLAVE GIRL; HITS AT HIDDEN HAND

Invisible Power in Case Seen by David.

After denouncing the "invisible influences attempting to take a 21 year old girl from the protection of the courts of the north to a state of slavery in the south," Judge Joseph B. David yesterday dismissed charges of robbery against Marie Olmstead, purported "slave girl," from Louisiana, and discharging her from custody.

The court hearing, marked by battles between Chicago attorneys and those from the south, was for the purpose of reviewing charges that the girl had stolen a diamond ring from Joseph Grazine, wealthy Italian planter of Hammond, La. She was arrested in Chicago several days ago.

Judge Probes Both Sides.

Grazine and four attorneys appeared before Judge David to offer evidence in support of there plea for extradition. Immediately the court began an investigation of both sides of the case—the charges that the girl was a thief, and her story that she did not steal the ring, but fled north after escaping from the Grazine plantation, where she was a "slave."

Miss Olmstead testified she was given the ring by Grazine two years ago. She said she had gone to work for Mrs. Grazine as a servant, but after a few months was not permitted to leave. On one occasion she ran away and two days later Grazine took her back to the plantation, she said.

Girl Shows Bullet Wounds.

"One night he shot me when I attempted to run away," she told Judge David, displaying the scars of bullet wounds in her breast." Finally I got away and took the first train to the north. As I stepped from the train in Chicago I was arrested."

Grazine testified the girl was employed by him, but denied he had ever used compulsion to keep her in custody. He admitted shooting her, but said this "was purely accidental."

"Isn't it a fact you want her back because you have been instructed by the Ku Klux Klan that she might tell what she knew up here?" asked the court.

"I know nothing about the klan," was the reply.

Lawyers Tilt Over Klan.

Attorney Robert McKee of Hammond, La., was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Milton D. Smith.

"You are a member of the klan, are you not?" he was asked.

"No."

"As a klansman," continued Mr. Smith. "You are under orders to bring back this girl at any cost, are you not?"

"I am employed to prosecute her and send her to prison for the crime——"

"You mean to a pot of tar and a pile of feathers," broke in the prosecutor.

ALL OF TRAFFIC TOWERS IN USE BY NEXT TUESDAY

All the new traffic lights on Michigan avenue from Randolph to 22d street will be put in operation next Tuesday, it was announced yesterday, following a conference between officials and engineers of the south park board and representatives of the Yellow Cab company. Satisfaction was expressed at the success of the first section of lights, from Randolph to 7th street. John Hertz, president of the Yellow Cab company, who donated the system, and John Ritchie, president of the Motor Coach company, declared the system would speed up Michigan avenue traffic nearly 20 per cent as soon as motorists had become accustomed to it.

WRECK VICTIMS STILL BURIED IN WYOMING CREEK

Rising Waters Delay Work of Rescue.

Casper, Wyo., Sept. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—Although forty-eight hours have passed since Denver-bound Burlington passenger train No. 30 plunged through a bridge into Cole creek, east of Casper, carrying many of the passengers and crew to death, it still is impossible to tell the exact number of fatalities.

Sand swept down by a second rise in the stream last night today was piled over and around the cars and although fifty men toiled all day only three bodies were brought out.

One Pullman car, a chair car, a combination car and a smoker followed the locomotive into Cole creek Thursday night. Only the top of the Pullman car is visible.

Tells of Marvelous Escape.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 29.—How he escaped, first through the fortunate overturning of his car, then through his being shot to the surface by some unseen force, and finally by the appearance of a log raft just he was was about to give up the struggle, was told by H. D. Bellrose, 30 years old, tire salesman of Denver, upon his arrival in Cheyenne early today, following the Burlington wreck near Casper, Wyo., Thursday night.

Bellrose was in the smoking room of the foremost Pullman when the train plunged. The car went down, the window was shattered, and water poured in. The car turned that side downward and landed in the bottom. Then there was another lurch and the Pullman rolled over. As it did so the water shot upward, and with it went Bellrose—clear to the surface.

TELEGRAPH AID TO RETIRE AFTER 52 YEAR CAREER

E. W. Hursen Is As Near As Your Telephone

Before the days of the "Hursen revolution" in funeral direction, the "nearest undertaker" would usually be called. In those days there was no use going beyond the immediate neighborhood. Service, such as it was, was the same everywhere. Charges were excessive everywhere. There was little or no choice between undertakers.

Neighborhood acquaintance means little today, when the people demand something better than they have ever before been able to obtain—and at a lower cost than they have ever been made to pay. Hursen, and Hursen only, has been able to supply this demand from the people of Chicago and vicinity—in all things pertaining to funeral direction.

As a result, "Hursen's" is today the largest and most highly esteemed institution of its kind in America. There are 3 Hursen establishments in Chicago, each built like a mansion. Does Hursen elegance of service, unsurpassed beauty of automobile equipment, and unexcelled quality of everything furnished, mean anything to you? A call from anywhere to any one of the 3 Hursen establishments will bring service within 30 minutes. Call Hursen, of course!

Lyon & Healy's Annual October Sale of Pianos

Returned from Summer Homes!

CLIP AND MAIL

LYON & HEALY, Inc.
77-83 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

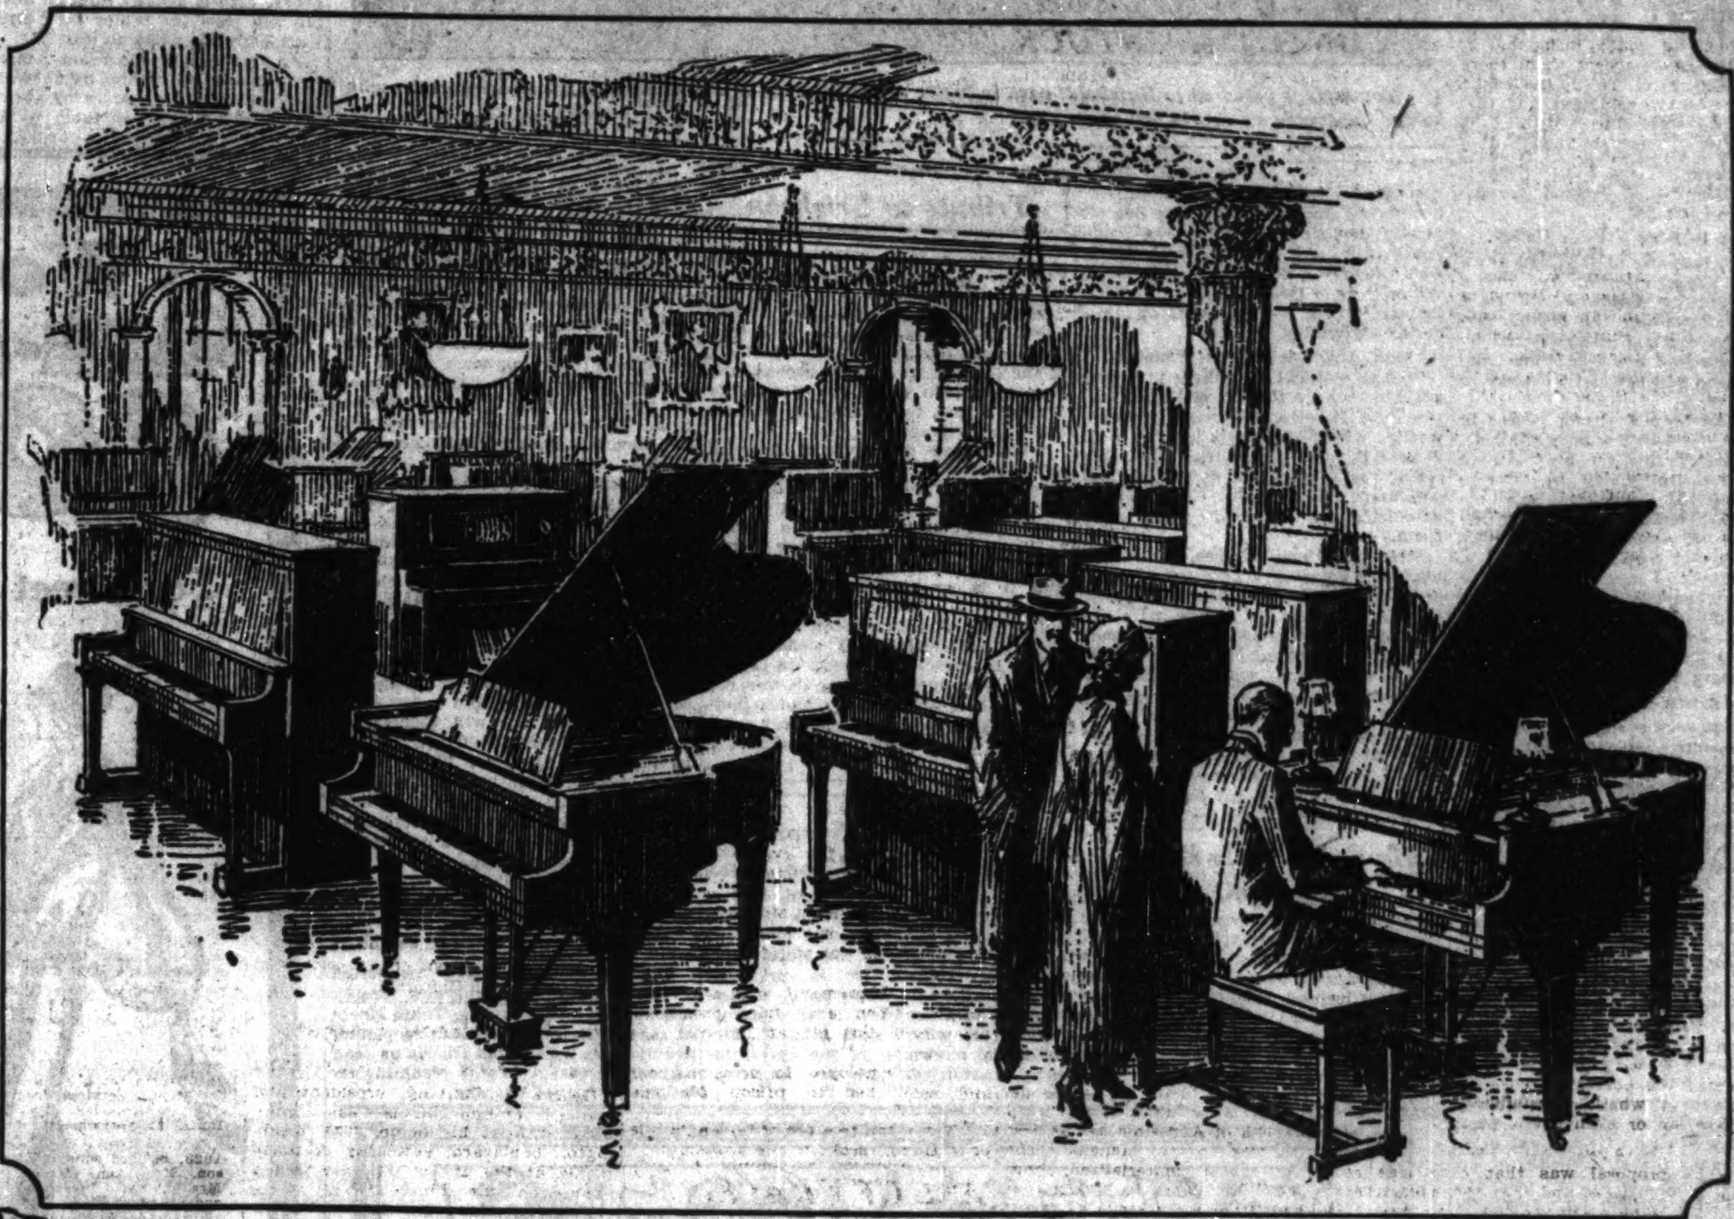
Gentlemen:

Will you please mail catalog and full information about the Pianos returned from Summer Homes. Also mail me a set of paper piano floor patterns [with life size Keyboard in colors] free.

*Name*________________________

*Address*________________________

HERE is your opportunity to beautify your home. Place in it a fine piano or player-piano bearing a famous maker's name. In this great sale, celebrated each year with increasing popularity, you will find many exceptional pianos, priced below their actual worth. They are pleasing in every respect, beautiful and durable, rich in tone. Come to see them. The sale is the most important event of the season.



The End of a Season

Each summer we rent pianos for use in summer homes. People of means who refuse to let music go out of their lives have us send instruments to Lake Geneva, Charlevoix, Oconomowoc and scores of other summer resorts. At such places they add music to the round of pleasure. When the season ends and country homes are closed, the pianos are returned to us.

This year rentals were many. Returns found our warehouse and salesfloors crowded. We must move this stock to give proper display to new fall merchandise. To insure the clearance of these used pianos, prices have been radically reduced. You save the rental paid and all deductions for usage. In some instances the amount thus saved is over $150.00.

Custom's Penalty

They are wonderful values. Used but little in good homes, their service has benefited them. As an automobile benefits from first use, they have been "limbered up". For practical purposes they are as good as new. In tone or appearance, they cannot be told from new. As used pianos their worth is high but custom, marking them used, lowers the price radically. On top of this we have still further reduced them to close them out.

Pianos to suit all tastes

Our 3rd and 4th floors and our branch stores are filled with beautiful pianos. Hundreds are shown. Dainty grands in the latest designs form a group of especial interest. Players notable for sparkling tone and responsive action form another. Then there is a profusion of uprights. The array of models and finishes is extensive. All are plainly tagged. All are very evidently unusual bargains. There is also a selected number of new but discontinued models which are included in this offering at figures at a decided discount from original prices. Also some fine pianos taken in exchange for Steinways and Duo-Arts. Resale pianos at $75.

Repaired, Refinished Retuned

All the pianos have been gone over carefully. Our shops have been busy the past several weeks preparing for this event. As a result the instruments are most attractive.

If you have no objection to past ownership and are interested in value and merit you can buy here safely and savingly. No one could tell these pianos from new. Come in to see them. The display is a revelation, even to experienced piano salesmen.

20 Reproducing Pianos

These are specials. Just received after slight use in nearby towns. Thoroughly reconditioned and guaranteed the same as new. Beautiful in design, lovely in tone. They have the latest improved action. They bring the great pianists to your fireside. Reduced for this sale, $500.

SMALL DOWN PAYMENT!

That is all you need now The balance can be paid in 28 monthly installments. The most modest family budget can accommodate the payments. You play as you pay and enjoy the piano to the full without worry or regret. All prices include beautiful bench. All pianos plainly tagged; the prices tell the story. Why not come in? Delay may mean that the especially attractive bargains will be gone, if you do not act promptly. If you cannot call, clip and mail coupon for a selected list of values. But do it today.

PLAN SHIFT IN POPULATION OF BRITISH EMPIRE

Premiers' Parley to Take Up Problem.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

STANLEY BALDWIN [K. & H. Photo.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—[Tribune Radio.]—The most important gathering which the rulers of the British empire ever held will begin Monday in Downing street, when the premiers will assemble for the purpose of deciding on a common future policy.

All the representatives have now arrived in London, except from Australia and Ireland. Premier Bruce and Senator Wilson of Australia are due to arrive on Oct. 4, and President William Cosgrave and Vice President Kevin O'Higgins of Ireland are expected Sunday night.

Baldwin to Bare Foreign Policy.

The first business of the conference after the formal opening by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin will be a careful statement of the British foreign policy, especially as affected by the conversations between Prime Minister Baldwin and Premier Poincare in Paris.

There has been a strong rumor in London in the last few days that Mr. Baldwin will propose a large British loan to France to enable the latter to carry on until reparations are obtained from Germany. The foreign office, however, assures THE TRIBUNE that this is not true.

As a matter of fact, even with the government backing it, it would be very difficult to induce English investors to loan any money to France until she shows some disposition to clear up her heavy war loans.

Conference to Be Divided.

The conference really falls into two sections—political and economic. The first, composed of the empire premiers, will meet in the cabinet room at 10 Downing street and will be presided over by Mr. Baldwin or, in his absence, the Duke of Devonshire, colonial secretary, while the second, known as the economic empire conference, will meet in the treasury, presided over by Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme, president of the board of trade. This will be composed of economic and financial experts.

According to the present arrangements the premiers will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and the economic body the other three days. All meetings will be secret.

While the premiers' conference, which will deal with political relations of the empire and to some extent a clarification of the relationship of its various units to the mother country, it will probably furnish more spectacular news than the economic conference from an empire viewpoint.

Seeks Markets in Dominions.

Great Britain is almost despairing of the restoration of European markets, on which she has depended for prosperity, and is now looking to the creation of great new markets in the British dominions beyond the seas which will absorb her 2,000,000 unemployed.

The dominions, however, if they are to become great markets, must be populated, and the definite policy is to draw the new population from the mother country, or at least from northern Europe. The example of the United States, overwhelmed by great masses of inferior immigrants, has been taken to heart, and the same mistake is not likely to be repeated by the British dominions.

The matter of imperial tariff preference is rather difficult, as the tariff preference on the part of Great Britain means a permanent British tariff. At present the British war tariff is maintained, but Great Britain never has officially departed from the free trade policy, and any proposal to do so is sure to rouse a determined opposition, not only from Great Britain but from Ireland, which fears a tariff on agricultural products.

May Abandon Title of Empire.

On the political side there is a proposal to abandon the title of British empire and substitute British commonwealth, which already is largely used. It is a fact, of course, that the term empire is misleading, as far as the dominions are concerned, Great Britain exercising no imperial power over them.

Even the crown colonies, which normally are governed from London, have a large measure of local autonomy, varying in extent, of course, with the development of civilization. Another reason for the change in title is the attitude of Ireland, which, while now quite content to be a partner of the British commonwealth, has a sentimental objection to the term dominion. As a matter of fact, she never has been in the same position as the dominions, being as much the mother country as England or Scotland.

HONOR AMERICA'S FIRST DISCOVERER

Rifle Bullet Fells Boy; Police Hunt Assailant

Peter Korutkin, 12 years old, of 2322 Rice street was shot in the leg yesterday afternoon with a .22 rifle in the hands of a man whose name the police have not learned. The boy was taken to the Garfield Park hospital. His mother was of the opinion the shooting may have been done by an angry janitor, but the police did not take the man into custody.

Tribute to Erickson

Chicagoans of Norwegian lineage gathered at the Humboldt park pavilion yesterday afternoon to honor the memory of Lief Erickson, the Viking whose galley touched the American shore some 900 years ago. Members of the Norwegian Singing society, the Norwegian Ski club, the Norwegian Women's drill teams and the various clubs participated.

"The Norse discovery of America in the autumn of 1000 is no longer a subject of controversy," declared Alfred O. Erickson, president of the Norwegian National league, in his address of welcome. "American historians recognize it as a historical fact, and it is so taught in the public schools."

Julius E. Olson, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, and Frank M. Padden, representing Mayor Dever, also spoke. Sept. 29 was set aside as Lief Erickson day by the Norwegian National league of Chicago and the New York American-Scandinavian foundation.

O, Mr. Defrees! Surprise Party's Planned for You!

Folks from home—Goshen, Ind.—will attend the party which the Indiana society will give in honor of Joseph H. Defrees at the Hotel Windermere, of which he is principal owner, on Oct. 13. The party is supposed to be a surprise to Mr. Defrees. "Which is why," said John T. McCutcheon, chairman of the entertainment committee, "we are announcing it."

ASK LA FOLLETTE AND WATSON TO DEBATE ON OIL

A debate on whether there should be government supervision of the oil industry, with Senator James A. Watson of Indiana opposing such action and Senator Robert La Follette of Wisconsin speaking in its favor, is expected to be the feature of the convention of the American Oil Men's association this week.

The convention, which will bring together a large number of oil men, opens on Tuesday at the Congress and concludes Thursday night with a banquet, when the joint debate will be held. Senator Watson has accepted the invitation of the speakers' committee, but no word has been received from La Follette. The latter, who is leading the fight in congress for government supervision of the industry, is expected back from Europe within a few days.

Among those who will address the convention are Mayor Dever; H. M. McKenzie of Superior, Wis.; W. H. Gray of Tulsa, Okla.; E. E. Smith of Rockford; G. I. Sweney of Peoria; C. D. Chamberlain of Cleveland, and Fred H. Wickett, Sheldon Clark, and Henry R. Rathbone of Chicago.

Japan Anxious to Renew Relations with Russia

TOKIO, Sept. 29.—[By Associated Press.]—Baron Ijuin, the new foreign minister, is quoted by the Tokio Hochi as saying the cabinet favors reopening negotiations with soviet Russia as soon as possible with a view to resuming relations with that country.

LEGION CERTAIN U. S. BONUS BILL WILL BE PASSED

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The soldiers' bonus bill is "absolutely certain" to become a law during the next session of congress, the national legislative committee of the American Legion will report to the Legion's annual convention in San Francisco next month.

Careful canvass made by the committee shows that it will pass in the house by a vote of 7 or 8 to 1, and in the senate with at least eighteen votes to spare.

Elections and Bonus.

"There has never been any question about the overwhelming desire of the house of representatives to repeatedly pass our bill," the report says, "and a careful check shows that as a result of the elections it will pass the lower house in the coming congress by a vote of 7 or 8 to 1. The situation in the senate also is greatly altered, and our bill will pass the senior body with at least eighteen votes to spare."

An analysis of the senate, man by man, carried in the report shows that the "holdover" senators number seventy-four, with fifty of them favorable and twenty-four listed as opposed. The number of new senators is twenty-one, and there is one vacancy.

18 New Senators Favor It.

"A first hand poll of the twenty-one new senators discloses," says the report, "at least eighteen of the newly elected senators will vote in favor of our measure, irrespective of a veto."

The committee's report also raps "big business," which it charges is continuing its opposition to the bonus with the slogan, "There'll be no reduction in taxes if the bonus bill becomes a law."

Restful nights make happy days

Restless, sleepless nights make unhappy days during which everything goes wrong. But you are happy and you accomplish things easily after a night of tranquil, refreshing sleep.

You can't rest well—you can't sleep well, on a body-cramping, sagging bedspring that twists your spine. Only refreshing sleep comes from perfect comfort. Therefore, the choice of a bedspring is one of the most important things in life.

A Rome Quality De Luxe Bedspring fits you—you don't have to accommodate yourself to it. It follows the curves of the body, supporting waist line and hollows as well as more prominent parts of the anatomy. If you are not up to par, just try a Rome Quality De Luxe Bedspring and note the difference.

Go to your dealer's today and ask for a Rome Quality De Luxe Bedspring. It is interchangeable, fits either wood or metal beds. A Rome Quality De Luxe Bedspring and a Rome Gothic Bed makes a most harmonious combination for pleasant, tranquil sleep. HER FIFTH IDEA OBTAINS FIRST CONTEST AWARD

There Are 93 Others' Hunches Taken.

BY NORA COLLINS.

This is the third week of the great $10,000 contest, in which $10,000 is offered by THE TRIBUNE for cartoon ideas!

Have you any?

Have you sent in yours?

Ninety-four prizes totaling $1,000 are awarded today for cartoon suggestions.

If you wish you may use the coupon which appears in the comic section today—but it is not necessary to do so. You may write your idea on a separate sheet of paper, being sure to number it to correspond with the number on the coupon today.

Chance for Every One.

As explained in last Sunday's TRIBUNE, an opportunity is being given to every one—men, women, and children no matter where they live, to suggest ideas for THE TRIBUNE'S enlarged comic section—eight pages in colors every Sunday.

Every week during the contest prizes are awarded for the ninety-four best ideas submitted. The prizes each week total $1,000. This continues for eight weeks. Then there is a grand prize of $2,000 at the end—$10,000 IN ALL!

If you sent suggestions in on coupon No. 2, which appeared in THE TRIBUNE Sept. 16, look over the list of winners printed today and see if your name is among them. If it is not—do not become discouraged.

Mrs. H. E. Montgomery, 3809 Broadway, Chicago, first prize winner in the list printed today says:

"I did not become discouraged after trying once or twice."

The suggestion—an idea for Gasoline Alley which won her first prize today is her fifth attempt. Mrs. Montgomery is the mother of two small children.

Just keep on trying!

It's Her Fifth Attempt.

Lose no time in writing that good idea of yours about the Gumps, or Walt or Moon Mullins or Smitty or Kitty or the Teenie Weenies or Harold Teen or perhaps Winnie Winkle.

Here are extracts from some of the mail received which may interest you:

To Sidney Smith: "Have Babe head saleslady for the combination brush and mirror."

"Have Andy lead an army of rescuers from America to Japan. Have him acclaimed the idol of the Japs who beg him to rule them. But Andy feels that he is needed in America to clean up politics. However, the Japs want him so bad they kidnap him and place him on the throne, etc., etc." Yet another writes: "Have Andy attempt to build a bridge across the Atlantic ocean! He can! He is capable of it! Have him also sell real estate on Mars!"

To Martin Branner comes a plea

COACHES WALT

MRS. H. E. MONTGOMERY.

"Please have the Winkle family go on a trip to the south seas, where they will find real adventure and perhaps a rich husband for Winnie."

"Have Perry a second Jackie Coogan," writes another.

To Mildred Burleigh comes the suggestion, "Bobbed hair is in style now. Please bob Kitty's."

Another admirer of Gasoline Alley suggests that Walt take Skeezix to church. Like most fat men, Walt gets drowsy and falls asleep, dreaming awful things about Skeezix's behavior in church — such as upsetting the collection plate, or putting Walt's watch in it — or seeing Skeezix marching down the aisle singing "Yes, we have no bananas," and a number of other stunts. In the end Walt wakes up to find Skeezix fast asleep beside him!

The rules governing the contest are below. Just read them over, and see how simple it all is.

Here Are Details.

1. To introduce the new enlarged Eight Page Comic Section of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE and to secure suggestions for it THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE offers $10,000 in Cash Prizes for Cartoon Ideas. One thousand dollars in cash will be paid every week for eight weeks; in addition, a Grand Prize of $2,000 will be paid for the best of all the ideas submitted.

The $1,000 given away every week will be divided as follows:

First prize	$ 250
Second prize	100
Third prize	50
Fourth prize	25
Next 25 prizes—$10 each	250
Next 65 prizes—$5 each	325
94 prizes, totaling	$1,000

2. Contest is open to every man, woman, boy, and girl, except employés of THE TRIBUNE and their families. It does not matter where you live.

3. You do not have to draw. Simply submit ideas in writing. Ideas must not exceed 200 words. You may submit as many as you wish.

4. Ideas may be submitted with coupons published in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Comic Section every Sunday, or on a separate sheet of paper. All ideas must bear a number. Ideas for this week should be marked "No. 4," both on envelope and inclosure.

5. All ideas must be addressed to the artist for whom the idea is intended, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. For instance, address ideas for "The Gumps" to Sidney Smith; "Gasoline Alley" to Frank King; "Winnie Winkle" to Martin Branner; "Smitty" to Walter Berndt, etc. All ideas must be in by 6 p. m. Thursday following the publication of the coupon. Winners will be announced in THE TRIBUNE the second Sunday following.

6. Originality of the ideas, neatness and clarity of expression will count.

7. All manuscripts and ideas submitted in this contest or competition become the absolute property of The Tribune company, and, without any consideration other than that provided in this contest, may be used by The Tribune company as it sees fit.

8. All entries will be judged by a committee of three from the staff of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, whose decision will be final. In case of ties the full award will be given to each tying contestant.

BALKED IN EFFORT TO SLASH THROAT, LEAPS TO DEATH

After failing to cut his throat with a knife because of his wife's intervention, Paul Marquett, plumber's helper, yesterday leaped through a third story window at his home at 2806 North Halsted street in view of hundreds of persons on their way to work. He was taken to Alexian Brothers' hospital, where he died. Ill health was given as the cause for his action by his wife.

senator said that the reverse of this principle, "the theory that the prosperity and strength of the nation can be developed best by helping the very rich to become richer more rapidly" is responsible for the present condition of the western farmers. He said this false principle was applied with extreme vigor by the federal reserve board in 1920. The farmers, he said, discovered that any measure of deflation tends to lower prices.

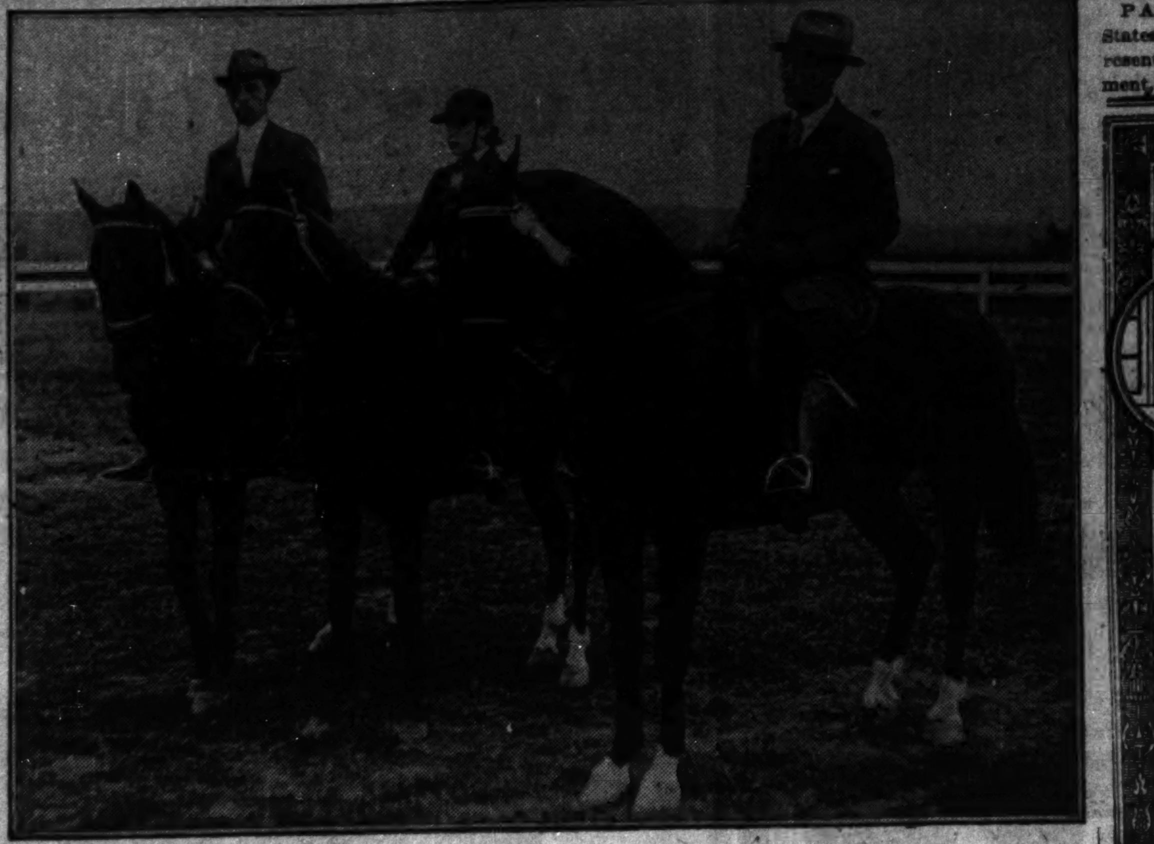
"How the Program Worked."

"There was particular illustration of this process in 1920 and 1921," he declared, "when the United States adopted the deflation methods in concert with British financial authorities."

The senator said that the G. O. P. politicians had been urging coöperation of the farmers for more than two years as the panacea for the results of deflation.

"That is a clever way of passing the buck to the farmers," he said "We have more farmer coöperation in Minnesota than is to be found in any state in the union, but we know that deflation is as bad for producers' coöperation as it is for the individual producer. We know that coöperation or economic organization of any kind is not a substitute for a just and honest government."

THIS HORSE SHOW UNHERALDED



Members of the Riding club of Winnetka journeyed to the Carleton Elmes stables at Golf, Ill., yesterday with their favorite equines dolled to their prettiest. There they staged a little horse show of their own with only their friends and members of their "circle" in the role of audience. It was a spirited show, however, and the judges had their hands full in separating the contestants for the various prizes. Exhibitors of the three blue ribbon winners, shown in the photograph left to right, are Arthur M. Cox, Miss Emma Woolfolk, 12 years old, and A. W. Shaw.

PARIS HEARS U. S. AGAIN PRESSES FRANCE TO PAY

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 29. — The United States is again making unofficial representations to the French government, urging a funding of the war debt as soon as possible. THE TRIBUNE's informant declares that the French government intimated that its position towards the repayment of its war debts to America is identical with its attitude towards Great Britain—it will only pay as Germany pays France, and whatever the United States demands to be paid must be added to the amount of the reparations which will be claimed from Germany.

SMALL NATIONS ANGRY AS LEAGUE SESSION CLOSES

Stirred by Lack of Action in Italo-Greek Row.

BY VINCENT SHEEAN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 29.—[Tribune Radio.]—The fourth annual assembly of the league of nations closed this afternoon with the election of non-permanent members of the council by corridor lobbying and negotiations among the big powers.

DR. GEORGES BENES.

The little entente gets a seat in the council by the election of Dr. Georges Benes of Czecho-Slovakia, while representatives of Brazil, Uruguay, Belgium, Sweden, and Spain were chosen. The great powers, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan, will remain in their four permanent seats.

Thoroughly disillusioned, the representatives of the little peoples are returning to their homes, angered at the inability of the league to force the evacuation of Corfu and realizing that it leaves the door open for any big power to take offensive action against them without starting measures to preserve peace, which the covenant provides.

U. S. Loses Drug Fight.

The American efforts to clean up the drug traffic were neutralized by the assembly's decision that no interference was possible in the production, transportation, and consumption of opium.

The council decided this morning to confirm the British and French mandates in Palestine and Syria in secret session. Delegates from the mandated territories who came to protest against the mandates and demand freedom, were refused a hearing.

Ask U. S. to Study Arms Pact.

The assembly voted to hold over the mutual guarantee pact, providing military assistance for signatories suffering aggression until the next meeting to allow further discussion. In the meantime the text of the pact has been sent to the various governments, including the United States, for study.

Article 8 of the proposed treaty provides that a nation need not be a member of the league to be a signatory of the pact. The article provides that the pact shall become effective in North America only when the United States signs it. The pact is designed to do away eventually with excessive armaments, leaving only forces sufficient to guarantee it.

Loan for Hungary.

The council appointed Henry Morgenthau, former American ambassador to Turkey, as chairman of the refugee settlement commission, which will effect a permanent solution of the Greek refugee problem.

The council approved in principle a loan to Hungary similar to that made to Austria. Representatives of the little entente present at the meeting agreed to the proposal. The league's financial commission was asked to prepare an immediate report on possible terms of the loan.

JOHN DUNN.

"Second Story Johnnie" Dunn, 73-year-old burglar and safeblower, who has spent thirty-one years in nine penitentiaries and other prisons, was "sentenced" for the forty-third time yesterday. But instead of being taken to a cell, the old man was removed to the Cook county infirmary, where he says he will "spend the remaining years in peace and quiet." He had been sentenced to the Bridewell by Judge Hugo Pam after pleading guilty to robbing a south side home, but Assistant State's Attorney Joseph P. Savage urged the court to send him to the infirmary because of failing health.

1,000 Wisconsin Students Take Military Training

Madison, Wis., Sept. 29.—Although compulsory military training at the University of Wisconsin was abolished by the last legislature, more than 1,000 students have already voluntarily enrolled for the military courses, a report today states. This is only about 200 less than were enrolled in the courses when they were compulsory.

U. S. PROTESTS CUBAN MERGER FOR RAILROADS

Sugar Interests Fight to Check Plan.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The state department today notified the Cuban government that the Tarafa railway merger bill, in amended form, as passed by the Cuban senate and house of representatives, is unsatisfactory to American sugar interests, and protests have been filed with the department against its becoming a law.

President Zayas will be urged by the American representatives in Havana to hold up signature of the bill until the department has had an opportunity to study the protests of the American interests affected by the measure and to decide whether it still has confiscatory features. This action on the part of the state department followed hearings yesterday of the complaints of attorneys for American interests.

Coincidentally with today's announcement, it became known that the state department has not withdrawn its objections to the lottery law, and that officials are still hopeful the Cuban administration may see fit to use its influence in bringing about the repeal of the law.

This measure was passed by the Cuban legislature over the veto of President Zayas after Ambassador Crowder had objected to it as a prolific source of graft and maladministration, and the Zayas régime had agreed that the views of the American government should be respected.

State department officials denied, however, that a flat demand had been made upon President Zayas at this time for repeal of the law.

The NEW Seven-Passenger Sedan

Anticipating the great demand certain to follow the presentation of this beautiful big Seven-Passenger Sedan, we arranged many weeks ago for an extra large shipment.

Today, as a result, we are able to offer to the Chicago public immediate delivery of this popular new enclosed model.

Come in and view the striking new Nash body design with its gracefully tilted windshield and long rolling fenders.

Sink back into the restful depths of the big, broad cushions. And observe, too, the comfort of the generously upholstered auxiliary seats, built like the rear seats.

Scan the list of carefully chosen appointments. Nothing has been omitted which could add to the value of the car or enhance your pleasure.

There's an automatic windshield wiper, a flush-type vanity and smoking set, kick plates, a heater, rear-vision mirror, new instrument board and a score of other fascinating features.

Judged either by its luxury, its comfort, or its spirited performance this Sedan is truthfully without a peer in its price class. See it today!

URGES YANKEES, BRITISH CONTROL OIL OF WORLD

Writer Calls Plan Only Road to Peace.

BY SHAW DESMOND.

[Public Ledger Foreign Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By Public Ledger Co.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Only one thing can prevent the international oil war that is coming—and that one thing an understanding between England and America, who, together, control possibly nearly four-fifths of the oil of the world, whether in production or in resources. Russia alone challenges that control.

Sees Perils for America.

In the preceding articles of this series I have tried to show how inevitable is a new world war for the control of oil, which has displaced both coal and gold as the main objective in man's ceaseless fight for power. I have shown how Europe is arming for the coming struggle. And I have tried to indicate, obliquely, how America is likely to be drawn into the maelstrom.

I believe very sincerely, after traveling nearly 40,000 miles in the United States and meeting all sorts and conditions of men and women, that the ordinary lines proposed for an Anglo-American entente are psychologically and factfully wrong.

I believe that certain facts will have to be faced if a genuine Anglo-American entente on oil is to come about and the peace of the world is to be secured.

Must Have Oil.

Few Americans fully realize the imminence of war in Europe and, with it, the fact, as mentioned, that no European statesman has learned anything from its lessons—save the lesson that power is to the strong—and that collateral lesson, that strength and oil control are synonymous.

Nor do they always realize that today two great European powers desire war with all their strength—that is, France and Germany. Another great power also desires it, though for different reasons—that is soviet Russia.

Here comes in the first of the bonds which should unite America and England in an effort to preserve the peace of the world.

The masses of both America and England do not want war in any form in Europe, or, in fact, anywhere in the world.

What Does Japan Want?

This desire for war is not only true of soviet Russia, itself essentially an Asiatic, not European power, guided by the Asiatic mind, but is true of another Asiatic power—Japan. Japan is out for one thing—oil. That is why it is bending all its energies to one thing—gaining control of China, which it believes to have vast oil resources as well as cast resources in man power.

In all this world-desire for war, the peoples of America and Britain stand almost aloine in their desire for peace. Despite any stray tendencies to belligerent policies by an occasional statesman in these countries, this central fact holds good. Here is the bond that unites them.

How to Prevent War.

What can they do to prevent the coming world war?

The writer at least believes that the greater the success of America in keeping her position toward Europe independent and free, the gerater will be her potency to world peace, because she will be of greater influence in the counsels of the old world.

The Anglo-American board of oil control which I am about to suggest could be held to strictly commercial lines, steered by the commercial interests of both countries, with, behind them, their respective governments to give points to their decisions. Under such a board, America could keep herself absolutely free from European political entanglements of the dangerous type.

Oil on Troubled Waters.

For such a board would concern itself with one thing, and one thing only: the control of oil, and with it "the holding of the ring" to keep the peace of the world.

If the three great world combines—the Standard Oil of America, the Anglo-Persian Oil and the Royal Dutch-Shell (English controlled) reached a firm understanding based upon honesty of purpose as to the control of the oil production of the world, then no other country would have power to make war with any real possibility of success, except Russia—and nobody really believes that the control of this great Asiatic oil power will indefinitely remain under bolshevik control.

These three combines would be in a position to "ration" oil to much of the rest of the world, selling enough for commercial uses in times of peace but, at the first prospect of war, choking the pipe-line to any country wishing to enter the lists and take the offensive.

In this connection certain facts have to be remembered:

First of all, both countries have all the oil resources they need and apparently for all time, and it is entirely to the interests of both not to enter into a fight to the finish for oil control, which would leave both impoverished and weak in the face of their enemies.

Secondly, we have the fact that their only serious competitor in the oil field, Russia, is the enemy of both, because it is the ever present menace to world peace, and is the fomenter of discontent and revolution. Russia has all the world against her.

Lastly, as air control depends on oil control in these days of the internal combustion engine, and as in wealth and resources either England or America should be able to put into the air three air squadrons to each one of any single competitor, it would seem virtually assured that air power would seem to rest in the hands of the two greatest white powers. This alone should make England and America arbiters of war.

Mrs. Mary Ballard Derby, widow of William M. Mrs. Derby, who inherited a third of her husband's estate, is a daughter of Addison Ballard, an early settler of Chicago. Mr. Keogh is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and Society of Colonial Wars.

Dad Houch Beguiled, Girl Given Control of Budget

Because Stanley Zolozinski, 2340 West 18th place, spends all his money on liquor, his 15 year old daughter, Josephine, was given charge of the family budget by Judge William L. Morgan yesterday. She will accompany her father to the store, receive his weekly pay check, and will report to Judge Morgan on Oct. 11, when it will be seen how the scheme works out.

OPERA PATRONS RUSH TO MAKE FINAL PAYMENTS

The Auditorium theater was crowded yesterday with opera patrons making final payments on subscription seats for the civic opera season, which commences Nov. 8.

An employé of the department disclosed that a number of wealthy Chicagoans hold subscription seats in the top gallery and sit with music lovers who are unable to spend more than $10, which is the lowest price for eleven performances on subscription.

"I always keep a pair of 90 cent seats, as well as subscription seats on the main floor," one woman said. "Years ago when I began attending the opera I wasn't able to pay more than 90 cents or $1 for a seat so I sat up in the top gallery with the rest of the fans, of which I was one. You really hear as well there as anywhere else in the theater.

"Later, when I was able to spend more for better seats, I did so, but I continued to buy seats in the gallery. Sentiment as much as anything else, I guess, for it was in the top gallery that I learned to love opera."

PAN-AMERICAN WOMEN TO HEAR HUGHES OCT. 12

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Hughes and the ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Beltram Mathieu, dean of the Latin-American diplomatic corps, will address the evening meeting of the Columbus day conference in the Pan-American Union building Friday, Oct. 12, under the auspices of the United States section of the Pan-American international women's committee.

The program of the conference, which is one of a series of conferences to be held simultaneously in the capitals of fourteen American republics, were announced today by Mrs. Glen Levin Swiggett, member of the international committee.

Mrs. Robert Lansing, chairman of the United States section of the Pan-American international women's committee, will open the conference in the morning. The address of welcome by Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union, will follow.

Addressing the morning session upon the general topic, "The Achievements of Woman in the Past," will be: President Mary Emma Woolley of Mount Holyoke college, "In the Field of Education"; Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, "In the Field of Letters"; Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer, writer and lecturer, "In the Field of Religion and Through Religious Agencies," and Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau, department of labor, "In the Field of Humanitarian Service."

$450,000 Y.M.C.A. Building to Be Built in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, Sept. 29.—A seven acre site has just been bought in the Nikeforieh district as a gift to the Young Men's Christian association. A building costing £100,000 (roughly $450,000) will be erected.

HOOPER SEEKS LARGER BUDGET FOR RAIL BOARD

Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board, will leave for Washington today to appear before the bureau of budgets in connection with the labor board appropriation, which last year was something less than $400,000. Chairman Hooper hopes to get enough this year to comply with a provision of the transportation act directing the board to conduct independent investigations of wages and working conditions of railway employés throughout the country, instead of relying largely on reports of surveys made by disputants.

Chicago's greatest restaurant for sea-food, fowl or meat specialties is the low priced North American

In almost every city of any size there is one restaurant or hotel which has become famous for its fish and sea-food. Usually it is some exclusive and high-priced dining place. Somehow it seems natural to expect to get the best sea-food only in an expensive restaurant. Yet, the most famous sea-food restaurant in Chicago is the North American where you serve yourself and pay low prices.

The North American sells more shrimp, lobster, halibut, white fish, scallops, oysters, crab meat and soft shell crabs than any other restaurant in Chicago—probably more than any other restaurant in the whole Country. And you can't get better sea-food anywhere, at any price. Following are a few of our famous specialties:

Blue Point Cocktail:	7 fine blue points (instead of the usual half dozen) on the half shell with cocktail sauce	25c
Oyster Stew:	An individual oyster stew, prepared before your eyes, with New York counts, containing a bottle of certified milk and a big piece of butter, and crackers	40c
Fried Oysters:	7 big New York Counts, fried to your order, with tartar or chile sauce or ketchup. . .	40c
Fresh Shrimps:	A dozen, with cocktail sauce	35c
Fried Scallops:	A big portion with tartar or chile sauce or ketchup	55c and our famous breakfast specialties:

Honey Waffles:	Cooked to your order, with 3 strips of Premium bacon or sausage, butter and pure maple sap or honey	25c
Bacon and Eggs:	2 fresh eggs, fried in butter and 4 strips of Premium bacon	30c

This is one restaurant where children are welcome!

You Need Not Be a Salesman

Tribune Want Ads eliminate the need for high selling ability. The salesman's work is largely that of convincing the prospect that he needs and can afford the article for sale. Those who answer Tribune Want Ads have already decided what they need and can afford to buy. You have only to show that your goods meet their requirements.

Mrs. N. J. Walsh, 2151 Irving Park Boulevard, ordered this Want Ad for Aug. 26:

FOUNTAIN, TABLES, CHAIRS, BACK bar, 2 glass cases, cheap if sold at once. 2151 Irving Park-blvd. Keystone 0825.

A few days afterward we received this report: "We sold every article with one insertion of The Tribune Want Ad. There were quite a few here to see the goods. Two Want Ads not in The Tribune failed to even bring an answer."

You, too, should get the most for your money by phoning your Want Ad to Central 0100. IT PAYS.

Peking is without a president, without a functioning cabinet, and without a parliamentary quorum, yet the masses of the 430,000,000 population follow their normal business.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur Smith, one of the oldest missionaries here, struck the keynote of the situation the other day when he said:

"China is on the edge of a precipice." Then, after a pause, he continued: "I have been in China for more than fifty years and China always has been on the brink of a precipice."

Little to Gain or Lose.

The only reason why what masquerades as a government is not pushed over the brink into the chasm is that as three-fourths of the population live on the verge of starvation nothing could alter their condition.

And so they show little interest.

The greater mystery about China is the attitude of its educated classes. Despite the work of the Washington conference, not one constructive step has been taken by those responsible for the Chinese government to put it in a position to receive any of the benefits offered as a result of that conference.

The central government is falling behind in its requirements at the rate of $5,000,000 monthly, due to the corruption of its officials and the failure of many of the provinces to remit to Peking.

Debts Fail to Worry Them.

On the occasion of the departure of John Jay Abbott, vice president of the Continental and Commercial bank of Chicago, he telegraphed his bank of the apathetic attitude of the ministry of finance, which, far from making an effort to meet some of the defaulted interest on the bonds floated by Mr. Abbott's bank, would not even discuss the situation with him.

The Shuntien Shih-Pao, a Peking daily, in commenting on this incident, said it was the death sentence for the government's finances.

Since that time Frederick Stevens, the American member of the banking consortium, has quit China, while all others who had been disposed to help also have gone.

The whole situation in China is so obscure that not even the old timers among the foreigners are able to fathom it. The story of the nation even up to the medieval ages required 354 volumes at the hands of a Chinese historian. How could a foreigner expect to know anything of China from the few pages at his disposal?

Yet China has the oldest civilization on the globe.

Eastern Asia was conquered by the Chinese in 2852, B. C.; its written history reaches as far back as 1766 B. C. At least there is a background of civilization stretching over 3,700 years.

Three thousand years ago the Chinese reached their zenith. They may not have advanced materially since then, but they have not gone backward.

Retain Confucian Calm.

Confucius taught that a man must attend to his own affairs and scrupulously avoid interference with those of his neighbor. Thus it is that with the existing chaos in Peking the great masses of Chinese go on with their affairs as usual. So long as their liberties are not interfered with they are not likely to be disturbed by the corruption and lack of government in Peking.

Militarism is the present curse of China. The upkeep of the vast personal armies of the Tuchuns has become a great burden upon the people, who, although the record of their country has been one of almost continual warfare, are by nature peaceful. They are willing to pay for a police force necessary to protect them from the bands of marauders that infest every country of Asia, but they are unutterably opposed to the vast armies that are being maintained.

Troops Costly Luxury.

One of the uppermost questions before the Washington conference when the subject of China came up for consideration was the question of the disbandment of the surplus troops. There are more than 2,000,000 troops under arms, according to popular report.

It is estimated that the military expenditures for the year 1919, the last year for which statistics are available, amounted to $207,832,482 [Mex.], or nearly one-half the total national income of the year, which was $490,419,736. Since then the army costs unquestionably have increased.

China must have an army of considerable size because of the vast wild areas which it contains, but the better class Chinese believe the limits set by the Washington conference are ample.

Missing Husband in Auto Sought by Lockport Wife

Emerson Hofstetter of 802 Theodore street, Lockport, left on Aug. 23 to visit his mother, Mrs. Fanny Parker of 741 Root street, Chicago. After spending one day here he disappeared. His wife has applied to THE TRIBUNE for aid in finding him. He is 38 years old, five and one-half feet tall, weighs 145 pounds, and has blue eyes. He drove a five passenger automobile, license number 380-061.

"Nut Act" Fails to Save Five Crap Shooters

Five men found playing dice in a poolroom opposite the Dunning insane asylum ran across the street into the hospital grounds and put on a "nut act" to persuade the police officers they were inmates. Michael Nicholette, 5257 Warwick avenue, arrested as keeper of the gambling house, identified them as the crap shooters, however. The police also took into custody James O'Neill, an attendant at the asylum, who they said, had told them the five men were patients.

STOCK RETURNS WITH TREAT FOR LOVERS OF MUSIC

Symphony Orchestra Head to Present His 'Elegy.'

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Frederick A. Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, has returned from a three months' trip in Europe, with a number of new works to present to Chicago music lovers.

Mr. Stock, who arrived yesterday on the Resolute, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Vera, today discussed his plans for the coming season.

"While in England," said Mr. Stock, "I obtained an unusual composition by Arnold Bax, one of the leaders among the younger group. It is called the 'Bax Symphony' and is a very beautiful piece. Another composition obtained there was 'Tam o' Shanter,' by Eugene Goosens."

Other compositions brought back by Mr. Stock include some by Hans Pfitzner and also "a dramatic symphony" by Otto Respighi, an Italian composer.

To Present Elegy Oct. 19.

When the season opens in Chicago on Oct. 19, Mr. Stock will present his "Elegy," written as a memorial to Clyde M. Carr, former president of the orchestra. This work which was completed by Mr. Stock while in Europe, will be given at the first concert.

The personnel of the orchestra is virtually unchanged, according to Mr. Stock; only two or three changes of minor consequence will be made.

"There is little new music in Europe," said Mr. Stock, "and in France I found nothing available. The futurists are busy in Germany, but as yet they have produced no real music.

"However, they are sincere in their work and a new type of music may develop out of the idea. Right now, their compositions sound like cats wailing on the back yard fence more than anything else. Not all of the German composers are futurists. Franz Scherer of Berlin has written some brilliant operas and there are others who are showing real talent.

Music Flourishes in Germany.

"In spite of conditions music still flourishes in Germany. I heard several of their greatest singers, the price for the best seats being fifty cents. In Berlin the Germans and Austrians are charged one price, the Poles just twice that and all foreigners pay five times as much. Still at fifty cents one gets his money's worth.

"Operas in Berlin are long. They begin about 6 o'clock and often last until 11. The Germans bring their lunch and during the intermission stroll about the corridors eating their sandwiches. The foreigners go to the cafés but the natives usually have spent their last mark to get into the theater."

Mr. Stock left this afternoon on the Twentieth Century for Chicago and expects to begin work with his orchestra immediately.

INDIANS THRILL WITH DANCES AT PALATINE PARK

Chippewa Chief in Citizenship Plea.

BY LOUISE JAMES BARGELT.

Today is Prairie club day at the forest preserve Indian program, Deer Grove park, near Palatine, Ill. If the crowds which attended the celebration yesterday, Kiwanis day, were any criterion of Sunday's attendance, the numbers of visitors from Chicago and its suburbs will reach into the thousands.

Dancing of the Indians is perhaps the most fascinating feature of the program and is comparable to nothing American or European in its color and movement.

Chippewa Makes Plea.

Duncange, a young Chippewa chief from the community of Reserva, Wis., which sent some seventy men to the front in the recent war, talked intelligently on the present needs and desires of the Red men.

"We volunteered and were accepted," young Duncange said in his labored but correct English, "and what we did over there can be learned from the records of the war department. When we came back every one praised us for our courage and our service, but when we ask for the rights of citizenship and of franchise, every one is silent.

"American men pride themselves on their fair play and their sense of justice. We are trusting and believing that it is after all only ignorance which keeps us from getting a square deal; that, if the American people really understand our wants and our deserts, it will not be long before we have them."

Deplores Lack of Interest.

William Madison, who is a Minnesota Chippewa leader, and who is also treasurer of the Society of American Indians, has expressed his regrets that it is only when he exhibits Indian war dances and ancient ceremonials that the public evinces any interest in the Indian.

SEEK HUNTER WHO BAGS HIS GAME IN ZOO

BUDAPEST, Sept. 29.—Budapest authorities have been obliged to detail detectives to protect animals in the Budapest zoo from an unidentified individual who has killed several valuable animals recently.

The only clew to the animal assassin is a finger that was bitten off by one of the lions. The victims thus far are Jonas, an old hippopotamus, a long time favorite of Budapest children; an ostrich, three alligators, and a baboon, the oldest inhabitant of the zoo. Tin cans, stones, and gun shot were fed to the hippopotamus; the ostrich fell a victim to food containing pins; the baboon was poisoned, and the alligators were stoned.

Asylums are being consulted with a view to discovering any discharged or escaped patients who gave symptoms of such a form of insanity.

WOMAN HELD FOR MURDER.

Mrs. Martha Matthews, colored, of 2951 South State street was held to the grand jury on a murder charge yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of her husband, Jesse Matthews. Testimony showed that she shot him following a quarrel.

BUILDING TRADES REFORM TO HAVE PLENTY OF HELP

Sixty Days Will Find 17 Presidents on Job.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Within sixty days the seventeen international presidents of the building trade department of the American Federation of Labor and the executive committee, including John H. Donlin, president, and the other officers will go to Chicago to settle the building trades disputes. This decision was embodied in a resolution introduced by George F. Hedrick, international president of the painters' union.

The resolution, as originally introduced, called upon President Donlin to go to Chicago to reorganize the Chicago building trades council. It was modified, however, so that all of the officers of the building trades department will take a hand in the settlement of the controversy which has almost wrecked the Chicago council.

Another Election in Sight.

The department was not asked to recognize either of the two sets of officers, but the resolution stated that in the process of reorganization an election should be called and new officers selected for the council.

As a result of the change in the resolution, both sides in the dispute claim a victory. Edward Ryan, who was elected president of the council two months ago, said that the international officers would go to Chicago to try to bring about an amicable adjustment of the controversy between the building trades, but that they would not go there with the purpose of holding an election. Ryan, who is president of the building trades that accepted the Landis wage award, opposed the resolution as it was worded when introduced but made no fight against its final adoption.

Non-Landis Unions Strong.

The other element in the controversy recently elected as president Arthur Wallace, business agent of the painters' union. Mr. Wallace said that the international officers would have to call an election in order to decide who was the legal president and secretary. An election, he said, would result in the defeat of Ryan, because the non-Landis award unions have more than twice the membership of the Landis award unions, and consequently twice the number of delegates who are authorized to vote.

It is believed that the Chicago building trades controversy will be taken up soon after the close of the American Federation of Labor convention next week.

Donlin and all of the officers of the department were re-elected by acclamation.

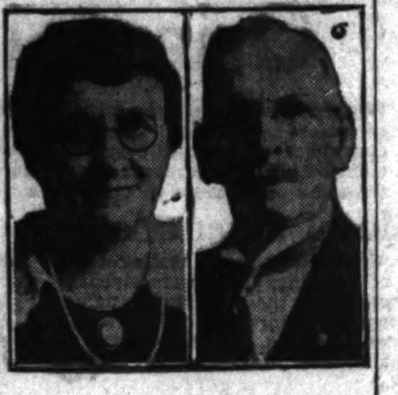
GOLDEN YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. James.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. James, 7245 Euclid avenue, who will have been married fifty years tomorrow, will celebrate the event by a dinner to their son and daughter and three grandchildren. Mr. James is 75 years old and his wife is 68. They have been residents of Chicago for many years.



Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Neff.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Neff, 411 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park, celebrated their golden wedding last Tuesday at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Allin, 4403 Washington boulevard. Their guests presented them with an anniversary gift of $100 in gold pieces. Mr. Neff is 72 years old and his wife 70. They have lived in and near Chicago for thirty-three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward De Briae. [Fein Photo.]

Five children and four grandchildren helped Mr. and Mrs. Edward De Briae, residents of East Chicago, to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. De Briae have lived in East Chicago for thirty-three years. He has been engaged in the insurance business and has served as city judge and mayor. Mr. De Briae is 80 years old and Mrs. De Briae is 77.

DEMOCRATS CRY FOES PASS BUCK ON TARIFF SLICE

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Democratic national committee issued a statement today, charging that the Republican administration and the Republican national committee are attempting to forestall a demand for tariff reduction by conducting a propaganda designed to place the blame for burdensome taxes and the high cost of living on state and local governments.

"Statistics dealing with taxation in the various states and municipalities are being gathered and disseminated by the department of the interior," said the Democratic statement.

"The Republican national committee is seconding the efforts of the interior department by broadcasting statements absolving the national administration from responsibility for the heavy expense of government and by indicting local authorities for 'waste and even graft' in the expenditure of tax money.

"While taxation in the states and municipalities has been growing larger, the Republican national committee contends, federal taxes have been reduced by $1,889,000,000 since the beginning of the present administration.

"Democrats not only challenge this statement, but assert that the only reductions in taxation made during the present Republican administration were in the repeal of the excess profits tax, which relieved big corporations and the multi-millionaire class of $450,000,000 taxes a year, and a reduction in higher surtaxes, which relieved the same class of $61,500,000 a year. There were slight reductions due to the repeal of the transportation and nuisance taxes, but this repeal the Democrats point out, was advocated by a Democratic president in 1919.

"The alleged reduction of taxation claimed by the Republicans," the Democrats assert, "is merely a reduction in revenues, which have fallen off more than a billion and a half under Republican rule, due to the Republican panic of 1921 and the falling of incomes upon which to pay taxes."

The Democrats argue that a reduction in the present tariff is the surest and quickest way to cut the cost of living. "A decrease of 50 per cent," the statement says, "would mean a saving of nearly $14 per capita."

Coolidge Aid Asked to Halt Negro Emigration

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—President Coolidge was urged today by H. L. Remmel, Republican national committeeman of Arkansas, to appoint a committee of representative Negroes to conduct a campaign of education designed to halt the Negro migration northward. Mr. Coolidge took the suggestion under advisement. Mr. Remmel said it was to the advantage of both the Negro and the south to curtail emigration, which during the last year amounted to between 150,000 and 200,000 Negroes.

GIRL VICTIM OF AUTO ROW BLAST AND FIRE DIES

Investigation of the double explosion of chemical tanks in the plant of the T. N. K. Rubber Goods company, 2101 South Michigan avenue, on Friday, was renewed by police and the fire attorney's office yesterday when one of the victims, a 19-year-old colored girl, died at St. Luke's hospital.

The dead victim, Edna Echols, 1850 Federal street, was hurled through the front of the building to the roof of a filling station. She was rescued by a colored porter of the Oldsmobile Motors company, 2000 South Michigan avenue.

Jacob Merz, 2434 Orchard street, owner of the rubber plant, and two other girl employés were severely injured by the blast. Fire originating with the explosion of a naphtha and benzine tank of the rubber company ate its way to the filling station below, resulting in the explosion of a large gasoline tank. The cause of the first explosion is not yet determined.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Just as bespectacled Lee Meadows was about to give the old "howdy do" to victory yesterday the party got rough. Killefer's Cubs, irritated over the fact that the Pirates had snatched away a two run lead in the eighth and then assumed one of equal proportions in the tenth, tore loose in their half of the extra frame, slammed five clean clouts to various sectors and scored three runs for a 5 to 4 triumph over the Buccaneers.

It made three in a row over the Pittsburghers who only a week or so back were speculating on their chances of breaking into the big series with its pot of coin. It also made fourth place a certainty for the Killefers and brought Grover Alexander's twenty-second win of the season, but without that up and at 'em finish, for which the Cubs are celebrated, the veteran speed baller would have been humbled despite some great hurling that held the invaders to one dinky hit for seven innings.

Pirate Guns Explode.

With Alexander knocking 'em dead and the Cubs boasting a two run advantage over Meadows as the finish neared, everything seemed set for a quiet burial of Pirate hopes. It wasn't to be however. The first explosion of the stirring conclusion came in the eighth when Rawlings doubled. Exclusive of Carey, who beat out a hit in the fourth and stole second, he was the only Pirate to advance to the midway station up to this stage. Then came the rambunctious Mr. Grimm with a swipe that settled in the left field seats. Two runs and a tie.

The Cubs came within a hair's breadth of breaking it up in the ninth, but a whale of a stop by Rawlings on Miller's drive back of second ended the inning with Grimes charging toward the plate with what would have been the winning tally had the ball escaped the agile fielder. Encouraged by this break, the Pirates went cruising in the tenth and came back with the two runs that for a few moments looked good for a win. The tallies weren't deserved, however, Hartnett losing a chance to retire the side runless when he dropped a throw at the plate.

Grimes Gets Four Hits.

The honor of starting the Cubs' final and profitable offensive fell to Grigsby, and Grimes finished it with his fourth hit of the day. Grigsby's contribution was a single, and Hartnett forced him. Callaghan ran for Hartnett, and O'Farrell, who batted for Alexander, pounded a single to right. Then Statz doubled, Callaghan scoring, and Vogel, who ran for O'Farrell, pulling up at third.

Another hit would end it, but Adams wasn't equal to the occasion, and tapped to Moore, with the result that Vogel was nipped at the plate. The rally seemed destined for an early death, but Grantham suddenly cracked one and it sailed past Meadows into center, Statz scoring the tying run, and Adams racing to third. Next came Grimes. He lined safely to center, Adams crossed the pan, and the 10,000 cash customers departed.

Last game of the at home season today.

Dayton U. Team Rolls Up Record First Day Score

Dayton, O., Sept. 29.—A football game which assumed many of the characteristics of a track meet resulted in a 141 to 0 victory for Dayton university over Central Normal of Indiana here today. Cabrinha, a Portuguese player, led the scoring with four touchdowns. Eight other Daytonians scored two touchdowns each.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

BIG TEN FOOTBALL.

With Chicago and Iowa tilting the preliminary lid yesterday, Conference football elevens next Saturday will open what promises to be the greatest season yet from the viewpoint of public interest.

It is too early to predict the caliber of sport except that available veterans from last year's squads, with added sophomore material, indicate better elevens at several colleges than in 1922.

On this basis, football critics seem inclined to rate Michigan, Chicago and Minnesota in the order named as title possibilities. If this forecast proves correct, the season will end again without a clearcut champion. Michigan and Minnesota meet at Ann Arbor in the final game of the season and one will be eliminated. Chicago, however, does not play either Wolverines or Gophers.

The Wake, however, does not consider these three invincible—any one may be bumped out. Michigan has Ohio State, Iowa and Wisconsin, besides Minnesota. The northmen have Wisconsin, Northwestern and Iowa, besides Michigan. Chicago meets Northwestern, Purdue, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio State and Wisconsin.

Stagg has a great set of backs. He always has been known for developing a good line. What Maroon supporters hope for is a greater versatility and deception in attack—or at least the use of such versatility and deception if possessed—and a generalship which will not repeat the Princeton "horror" of last fall.

Sing Me a Song.

Sing me a song of the dear long ago;
Forget for a night the jazz and the glow
Of the lights that wax pale with the coming of dawn.
Sing me a song of an age that is gone.
"Believe me, if all those endearing young charms"
Banishing thoughts of our fears and alarms.
My cares fall away like the leaves from a tree
At the first tender measures of "Mother Machree."
I'm weary tonight, for the way has been long.
Bring sweet contentment. Sing me a song.

Mah Jong.

There's always an argument in The Wake family as to the merits of "clearing" or "dogging" one's hand in Mah Jong. We take the latter view, in a general way, because of the possibility of getting out quicker. The missus obstinately clings to "clearing" and usually ended minus when we played the customary 300 limit with 600 for east wind.

Recently our guests have played with the limit off. In the last two sittings the obstinate one has quit 6,200 and 8,400 winner. We are not so dead sure of our position now.

And sent it to The Wake.
I thought it would be published
And a fortune I should make.

Alas! I was mistaken,
The Wake ne'er saw my stuff—
The poetry was excellent,
But it was not dumb enough.

FISTS FLY AS BELOIT ELEVEN DOWNS DE KALB

Beloit, Wis., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Showing fast early season form, Beloit college beat DeKalb Normal school here today, 33 to 7, in the opening game of the season. Beloit's veteran backfield baffled DeKalb, and McAuliffe and Vondrashek got away repeatedly for long runs. DeKalb's only score came in the first quarter when Warner picked up a fumble and raced eighty-five yards for a touchdown. Vondrashek sprinted eighty yards in the last quarter for a score.

The game threatened to halt in a riot just after the second half started, when Rossebo of Beloit and Snow of DeKalb mixed. Rossebo kayoed Snow with a right swing, and three other fights started. Police and coaches quieted the players, however. Lineup:

LUQUE WINS 27TH GAME OF SEASON FOR REDS, 11 TO 1

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Adolfo Luque won his twenty-seventh victory of the season here today when he pitched the Reds to an 11 to 1 victory over the Cardinals. He allowed only four hits, all singles. It was the last game he will pitch this season, as he starts for Cuba in the morning. This game brought him to the end of his season with twenty-seven victories and eight defeats, making him the leading pitcher of the major leagues for the year. Score:

STAND FALLS AT GAME; LAFAYETTE ELEVEN VICTOR

Easton, Pa., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Lafayette opened its football season on March field today by defeating Muhlenberg by the score of 20—6. A portion of the west stand gave way during the second period, injuring ten persons and halting the game. As a Lafayette play brought watchers to their feet in a cheer, the stands sagged in the middle and then with a loud crash crumbled, hurling more than three hundred persons to the earth.

The game was stopped for twenty minutes while the injured persons were being given first aid treatment. Five persons were rushed to the Easton hospital and five who were seriously injured were taken to their homes.

ONLY A BUMP ON HEAD MARS TRIP DOWN THE PLANK

Light Exercise Drill Is Planned Today.

FANS TO CROSS SEA

LONDON, England, Sept. 29.—A London tourist agency has organized a special trip to the United States for the race between Papyrus and the American champion 3 year old. Each member of the personally conducted party will pay £63 for second class passage on the Aquitania and hotel accommodations in New York for four days. For first class quarters on the liner the price charged will be £117.

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Papyrus will have his first work on an American race track tomorrow in preparation for his meeting with Zev or his rival, My Own, in the $100,000 international race at Belmont Park on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 20. It will mark the inauguration of a training campaign of three full weeks, which his trainer expects will fit him to run the race of his life against the American champion.

The first work will be no sensational trial—it will, rather, border on the commonplace. Papyrus will be saddled by his trainer, Basil Jarvis, and Eddie Banham, his exercise boy, will have the leg up. Papyrus will walk for one hour and a half and that is all of his first day's program.

A Very Tired Horse.

The English derby winner will have plenty of opportunity to get a complete picture of Belmont Park, of which he saw practically nothing this morning. He walked about in his own private paddock for about twenty minutes and then retired for the day. He had nothing more to do but eat and sleep or move about at his leisure, roll and kick up his heels to his heart's content if he so desired.

Papyrus didn't act as though he wanted to do much cutting up this afternoon. He was a very tired horse at the end of his long journey, and so was Bar Gold, his stable companion and lead horse.

"I do not know whether a horse feels like a human being after an ocean voyage," Trainer Jarvis said, "but, judging from my own feelings, he ought to be all in after his voyage and confinement. We will have to go slowly until he recovers his land legs with leisurely walks next week, and he will not be galloping for a week. It is very hot here compared with the weather he has been used to in England before sailing. I hope it will turn cooler before many days with bracing weather for his galloping.

Track Too Hard.

"There is where I would like to do my galloping," Jarvis remarked, after coming off the steeplechase course. "The turf is soft and resilient—better than our training grounds at home. Why, I could poke my stick right into the turf. But, of course, we cannot work on the steeplechase course. Papyrus will have to do his galloping on the surface he is going to race on."

Jarvis poked his stick into the dusty surface of the home stretch and shook his head.

"My, but this is hard—very hard," he said. And Dr. Pride-Jones also experimented with the surface and nodded in affirmation.

Quartered in Cosden Barn.

Papyrus tonight is quartered in the palatial Cosden barn. John Bull's invading champion first set foot on American soil when he was landed from the Aquitania today. There were no mishaps except a slight bump on the head in a doorway of the ship. He was then taken in a special van to his present quarters.

The great son of Tracery came down the gangplank like the gentleman he is, and followed his companion, Bar Gold. An escort of two motorcycle cops went with the van to Belmont Park, the trip being made in an hour and a half.

There will be a guard with Papyrus at all times while the horse is in this country.

The Question.

Whom do you think is the greatest heavyweight boxer of all time?

Where Asked.

Clark at Madison street.

The Answers.

George L. Moore, 3046 West Arthington street, commercial traveler—Jack Dempsey. His fight with Tommy Gibbons demonstrated that he can travel a long route with a clever fighter. His fights with Carpentier and Firpo proved that he can take a hard punch, then knock his opponent out.

Jack Phelan, 5728 Washington boulevard, advertising—Well, it isn't Dempsey. I believe the greatest fighting machine that we have so far seen is John L. Sullivan in the latter part of the gloveless age, the period when brute strength and stamina meant more than mere boxing skill.

Harry Whitver, Brevoort hotel, real estate—Why, I think that broad shouldered monarch of the ring, Bob Fitzsimmons, has them all beaten. He was the world's greatest fighter. He would have knocked Dempsey loose from his nosebag in the first half of the first round.

Peter Johnson, 666 South State street, chauffeur—John L. Sullivan; I'll stand for him every time. He held the championship longer than any of them, and there were real heavyweight contestants in those days. Sullivan would beat them all if of the same age and under the same conditions.

Abe Blinder, 7857 Schiller street, shoe store manager—I'd say Jack Dempsey. He's not as heavy as were some of the other heavyweights, but he has the endurance, the punch, and the skill to win over any of his predecessors. He would even beat John L. Sullivan.

GRIGGS' 52-YARD DROP KICK HELPS BUTLER COP, 26-6

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Chicago Y. M. C. A. college was humbled by the Butler college football eleven here this afternoon, 26 to 6. One of the features was a field goal made by Griggs of Butler in the third period when he booted the ball squarely between the uprights from the 52 yard line.

The lone touchdown made by the visitors came in the first period when Edgren carried the ball across after a series of brilliant open field runs. It was the first marker of the game, but Butler soon made a touchdown, and an extra point, and never thereafter was headed. Lineup:

BY TED ISERMAN.

University of Chicago gridders started their season with a victory yesterday, blanking Michigan Aggies, 34 to 0, at Stagg field in a game which was notable for the ragged playing of both squads, but which showed that the Maroons have talent which, with a fortnight's development, will put them in line for Big Ten titular honors.

The Midway warriors piled up their score with five touchdowns and four kicks after touchdowns. They showed their superiority early in the struggle, having the Aggies completely bested except when the visitors displayed flashes of fight which at times during the second and third quarters threatened the Maroon goal line.

Stagg's Squad Inexperienced.

The Chicago defense, while sufficient to stop the Aggies in their line plays, showed poorly, and a deal of brushing up must be done before the opening of the Big Ten matches with Northwestern Oct. 20. Sophomore linemen, many of whom were used, demonstrated considerable prowess on the Maroon squad, although the fact that Stagg's men lost 100 yards in penalties for offside testifies to considerable inexperience and overanxiousness.

In the backfield, too, the new men looked good, Cunningham at quarter, McCarthy, Schlaback, and Hagey at the halves, and Kernwein at full showing speed and strength, though their performances did not match the work of the veterans, Capt. Jimmy Pyott, Bill Zorn, Harry Thomas, and Johan Thomas. Pyott shows particular speed this season and his footwork once was used to good advantage when he raced through the Aggie line for 10 yards to score the Maroons' fifth touchdown.

Aggies Too Light.

The Aggies were too light to attempt to pierce the Maroon wall, so most of their efforts were from open formation, Richards, quarter, proving especially valuable in end runs, twice thrilling the 22,000 persons who witnessed the brawl by dashing down the field for big gains. In the latter sessions of the battle, the visitors tried a variety of passes, but only one, Neller to Ray Kipke, was completed, and then the ball was called back and the Aggies penalized for offside.

The Maroon offensive was simple, Coach A. A. Stagg holding his men down to a small number of plays in order to save his better tricks for more trying opponents. The Maroons completed five out of six attempted passes, two of which netted touchdown.

Score in First Quarter.

The Maroons' first tally came toward the middle of the first period when Campbell Dickson, end, fell on the ball which was passed high to Neller, the visitors' fullback, by Center Eckerman, and bounded over the goal line. Lloyd Rohrke, who previously had recovered the ball after another bad pass by Eckerman, dropkicked goal. Dickson scored again in this quarter when he received a long pass over the goal line from Pyott, and Rohrke again kicked goal.

The Maroons worked the ball to the Aggie goal line at the beginning of the second frame, and McCarthy, playing in the place of H. Thomas, pushed the pigskin across the mark. Lampe's attempted place kick for the extra point was blocked.

The third period opened with a flock of new Maroons on the field. They failed to make first down and when the Aggies took the ball the Maroons were beaten back to their 37 yard line, from where Neller tried to place kick a field goal. His boot fell short and Zorn recovered the ball on his own 5 yard line. A second attempt to place kick a field goal was made by Neller from the Maroons' 24 yard line a moment later, but the oval passed under the bar.

Dickson Scores Again.

The Midwayites scored their fourth major counter when, in the final quarter, Pyott again completed a long pass to Dickson, who received the ball behind the goal line. Pyott booted a drop kick for the extra point, and, a little later, after Pokrass had intercepted a pass and placed the ball on Aggies 10 yard line, tore through a broken field for the last touchdown. Caruso dropkicked goal, and the game ended with the Aggies failing to gain with a series of attempted passes.

IOWA TRAMPLES OKLAHOMANS IN 20 TO 0 GAME

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Fighting gamely and rushing the oval to within a foot of the Iowa line in the last quarter, Oklahoma A. & M. lost a shifty game on Iowa field, 20 to 0. The visitors throughout most of the game were unable to cope with Iowa's end runs. Fry at quarter back starred for the Hawks, breaking through into the open fields for long runs. Only five veterans played for Iowa. Passes completed to Hancock and Otte netted many yards for the Old Gold. For Oklahoma Hasbrook and Walker starred. Lineup:

PITT CRUMPLES BUCKNELL, 21-0, IN SECOND HALF

Lewisburg, Pa., Sept. 29.—After holding Pitt's powerful eleven scoreless for two periods in today's game, Bucknell's gridiron warriors crumpled under a forward passing and line bucking game, going to defeat, 21 to 0. Gustafson, who replaced Full Back Colonnan in the latter part of the second period, and Flanagan were the stars of the game. Near the end of the last period, Gustafson took the ball to Bucknell's 6 yard line for the first down. He hit the line again to within one foot of Bucknell's goal posts, and on his next attempt carried the entire Bucknell center line over with him. Lineup:

HAUGHTON'S COLUMBIA GRID CREW SMASHES URSINUS ELEVEN, 13-0

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—There was victory and glory aplenty for Columbia university this afternoon in marking the inauguration of Percy D. Haughton's coaching régime and for the opening of the Baker field, the Blue and White's new athletic site, when the Lion varsity eleven tore into a little team from Ursinus college and won by 13 to 0.

For a long time it looked as though the Ursinus men were going to hold the winners to a scoreless tie, while 10,000 people sat in the newly erected stands and watched the first half go by without a score.

CORNELL PLOWS TO 41-6 WIN OVER ST. BONAVENTURE

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Cornell opened its football season by defeating St. Bonaventure, 41 to 6, in a slow game. The Ithacans made six touchdowns by rushing and Henderson fell on a blocked kick for another. Cornell displayed a powerful rush line, which held the visitors from making a single first down.

KALAMAZOO, 13; LINDBLOOM, 7.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Fighting with unceasing determination against a team much heavier, Kalamazoo Central High school today defeated Lindblom High of Chicago, 13 to 7. Overconfident from past victories, the Windy City school sent its reserves into the first quarter, giving Central little trouble in passing the line. The team continued to make gains in the remaining three quarters even after the choice of Lindblom's teamsters had been put in play. Lineup:

TED COY PICKED AS GREATEST OF OLD ELI HEROES

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

ARTICLE III.

In the history of football at Yale there have been some wonderful players, warriors whose names are frequently mentioned at the present time despite the fact they played twenty-five years or more ago. In fact, Old Eli got an early start in football, and has retained its position as one of the leaders of the country, although the first Blue eleven was placed on the field in the early seventies.

During that span of years many wonderful players have been developed at the Connecticut institution, and most any of them could be selected as the greatest player who ever represented Yale on the chalk lined field. At New Haven it appears to be tradition for the players to know how to tackle, to check and lead the interference for desired results. There never was any question about the gameness of any warrior who ever wore a blue jersey, and when a Yale team was defeated it went down fighting.

Fight for Glory.

It was these great warriors, whose names are enrolled in football history at New Haven, who had so much to do with making football the great spectacle it is at the present time. Those men fought for the honor and glory of Yale, and at times played to the point of exhaustion. They gave everything that Yale might rule supreme on the gridiron, and this is the feeling of every candidate who has reported to Coach Tad Jones at New Haven this fall.

Walter Camp played on the Yale team back in 1880, and in 1913 had the rare distinction of having a son on the Old Eli squad. But the real stars did not appear on the horizon until the late eighties, and among these was A. A. Stagg, director of athletics and football coach at the University of Chicago. Stagg played an end, and was placed on the All-American team of 1889.

Since that time each Yale team has produced one or more players whose general play resulted in their being placed on All-American teams or being honored otherwise to such an extent that their ability was recognized, and they were looked upon as about the best in the country in their positions.

Coy All American.

In due respect to the great players who have represented Yale on the gridiron, the honor of being the most versatile and valuable player who ever wore the blue of Old Eli goes to Ted Coy, who played in 1907, 1908, and 1909. He played full back and was placed on the All-American elevens in his last two years.

Coy's great work in Yale's annual games with Harvard and Princeton is still fresh in the minds of those who saw those memorable battles. In his last year, 1909, he defeated Harvard by two drop kicks. In 1907, with Princeton leading at the end of the first half by ten points, Coy literally tore the Tiger line to bits in the last two periods, scoring two touchdowns, and Yale was triumphant, 12 to 10.

Although a great line plunger, one of the best in the history of the game, Coy was an end running full back and could drive off the tackles with the speed of a half back. In the interference he seldom missed his man and he was a tower of strength on the defense. He anticipated opponents' plays and moved to the points of attack quickly. He was a splendid punter and drop kicker and is generally considered as being about the best all around athlete who ever attended Yale. He played on the baseball team, was a shot putter and high jumper of no mean ability, and played golf and tennis.

While Coy is picked as the greatest football player at Yale, there were others upon whom the honor might be bestowed. Frank Hinkey was a wonderful end and Pudge Heffelfinger about the greatest lineman in the history of football. Then there was Bliss, Chadwick, Sharpe, Glass, Tom Shevlin, McClung, McCormick, Hickok, Butterworth, Adee, Murphy, Thorne, Fincke, De Saulles, Brown, Chamberlain, Stillman, McBride, Hale, Bloomer, Olcott, Holt, Hogan, Rafferty, Kinney, Roome, Forbes, Biglow, Knox, Veeder, Tad Jones, Cooney, Andrus, Hobbs, Kilpatrick, Ketcham, Romeisler, Talbot, Black, Callahan, Aldrich, and many others, but when offensive and defensive ability is taken into consideration together with the happy faculty to do things when needed, the honor must go to Ted Coy.

CARDINALS TAKE ON STRONG BUFFALO 'PRO' ELEVEN HERE TODAY

Chicagoans who revel in the professional football game are promised a battle royal at Normal Park this afternoon when the powerful Chicago Cardinals, headed by Paddy Driscoll and presenting a strengthened lineup, swing into action against Buffalo All-Americans at 2:30 o'clock.

The Cardinals are in top form for a bruising scrap, having trained steadily for three weeks. The Buffalo battle front includes Glenn Carberry, captain of Notre Dame last year; Mian Gulian, captain of Brown university, and Frank Culver, captain of Syracuse, all stellar linesmen. Other visitors will be Tommy Hughitt and Pat Smith, former Michigan backs; Luke Urban, Bob Nash, and Frank Morrissey. The lineup:

PENN GRIDDERS CRUSH F. AND M. BY 20 TO 0 SCORE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Lou Young's debut as Pennsylvania's head coach got away with a bang today when the Red and Blue beat F. and M. in the Franklin field stadium, 20 to 0. This was just six points better than John W. Heisman's team did against the Lancastrians a year ago. To help open the season, 31,000 persons turned out. Lineup:

ARMY SMOTHERS TENNESSEE GRID MACHINE, 41-0

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Army defeated University of Tennessee handily today in the opening game of the local season, 41 to 0. Fumbling was in evidence only once. The southerners got within striking distance of Army's works for the only time of the game in the third period, when the best executed play in their repertoire, a long forward pass, Bone to Hatcher, put the ball on Army's 26 yard line. Bill Wood, who starred for Army today, intercepted the next toss, and ran the ball back out of the danger zone.

Tiny Hewitt, former University of Pittsburgh star, who is a plebe at West Point this year, was in the thick of many plays. Other cadets who distinguished themselves were Ed Garbisch, Sandy Goodman, and Gus Farwick, all veterans. Lineup:

PURPLE VARSITY SCORES 12 POINTS ON FRESHMEN

Northwestern's varsity, somewhat scrambled by the absence of many members in class, clashed with the freshmen yesterday morning for the first time this season. Both teams showed early season sluggishness, and the varsity was only able to score 12 points on the yearling crew, one by the touchdown route, and the other six points by a pair of drop kicks.

For the varsity, Rae Lauder did the most tricks, carrying the ball well, while Tim Lowry, center, and Larry Horton, on defense, showed prowess. Wallace Banner returned to the full back assignment from end and did effective work at backing up the line. For the freshmen Dalrymple, 240 pound center, showed to best advantage.

Almost all of the Purple's early injuries are healed or nearly so. Graham and Martin, the two quarter back aspirants, whose bumped hip and shoulder kept them off the field, are again in the lineup, Bill Christman's wrenched back has been strengthened; Bob Wienecke's boils have been treated by a specialist, and he is back in a suit; Bob Mullaney's sprained ankle has healed sufficiently enough to allow him to get back into play tomorrow. Carleton Johnson is the only man on the hospital list, with another sprained ankle as his trouble.

Sam Taylor, colored end, who has been going strong all season, is still on the doubtful list scholastically.

The Purple squad sat in the stands at Stagg field yesterday afternoon and watched the Maroons roll up the score on the Michigan Aggies. The annual Maroon-Purple clash is set for Oct. 20.

TIGER, ARMY SCOUTS SEE NOTRE DAME ROUT KAZOO ELEVEN, 74 TO 0

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 29.—A score of scouts from Princeton and West Point watched Notre Dame defeat Kalamazoo in the opening game of the football season here today, 74 to 0. The Kalamazoo line offered little resistance and failed to make one first down. Mather, right half back, carried the opening kickoff ninety yards for a touchdown, the feat making the third consecutive season that a Notre Dame player has carried the first kickoff of the game for a touchdown.

The brilliant running of Mather, Crowley, and Don Miller, and Bergmann, backs, and the defensive work of Walsh, Brown, and Oberst, featured the game. Lineup:

Touchdowns—Maher, 5; D. Miller, 2; Enright, 1; Crowley, 2; Livergood, 1. Referee—Lipskie of Chicago. Umpire—St. John. Head linesman—Wyatt, Missouri. Score by quarters—Kalamazoo, 0, 0, 0, 0; Notre Dame, 27, 27, 20, 74. Points after touchdown—Berman, 3; Crowley, 4; Layden. Field judge—Davies of Loyola.

Pullman A. C. Eleven to Open Season's Card Today

A. C. will open its football season at the new athletic field, 103d and Cottage Grove avenue, in a game with Rockford today. The game will be preceded by an automobile parade and band concert through Roseland, Kensington, and Pullman. Some of the city council, together with over 500 rooters from Rockford, are coming to the game.

Pavaloc and Casey joined the Pullman squad during the week, and will be in Sunday's game. The Rockford team has been strengthened by the addition of Comstoch, Urban, and Kappa, college players of experience.

Dartmouth Grid Team Is Victor Over Norwich U.

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Dartmouth defeated Norwich university, 13 to 0, here this afternoon, in a football game which showed that both teams are in pre-season form. Dartmouth made twelve first downs to two by Norwich.

NAVY'S AERIAL ATTACK BRINGS 39-10 VICTORY

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 29.—Unable to cope with a bewildering series of forward passes in the early stages, William and Mary college of Virginia went down to defeat before United States Naval academy, 39 to 10, today.

The Middies circled the ends for substantial gains at times, but had little success with plays directed between tackles, so strong was the work of the visiting forwards, the Todd boys playing an especially creditable game.

The southerners played a second string team to a standoff in the second period, each scoring a touchdown. An eighty yard run from scrimmage by Flippen, Navy, featured the game. Lineup:

NAPERVILLE COLLEGE BOWS TO KNOX, 13 TO 0

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—In the opening game of the season for both teams the Knox college football eleven defeated "Hap" Collins' Northwestern college, Naperville aggregation, 13 to 0, this afternoon. Naperville did not threaten once. Senn, Hermetet and Negley starred for Knox, while Gingrich and Umbreight were Northwestern's stellar performers. Lineup:

KNOX [13].	NORTHWESTERN [0].

MOONEY'S KICK GIVES LOYOLA WIN OVER LANE

BY WALLACE ABBEY.

Capt. Jim Mooney of Chuck McGuire's Loyola academy eleven, who last week ruined the debut of Se with a neat boot from the field in the last few minutes of play, yesterday repeated his performance, kicking Lane down to a 3 to 0 defeat on the winner's field in the initial appearance of Coach Fausel's squad. Four thousand saw the contest.

Mooney's opportunity came within five minutes after the game started. The Catholic lads ripped Lane's line for two first downs and then a pass, Ladner to Bill Mooney, placed the oval on the fifteen yard line. The Loyola pilot, with the wind at his back, lifted a perfect one between the bars.

During the first three periods Lane was helpless, although it gained consistently through the line and held well. It was the punting of Jim Mooney, most of whose kicks averaged 50 yards or even more, which kept the ball out of danger.

Lane Showers Passes.

Spurred by imminent defeat, Lane in the final period resorted to passing and managed to get the ball into Loyola's territory for the first time. During this flurry Fausel's men completed five of ten attempts through the air, but the 18 yard line was the nearest they could approach the goal. On two occasions Rane and Bahusky, fleet Lane backs, were thrown for telling losses.

Aside from Mooney at left tackle Loyola had no outstanding performers, the backs, Finn, Ling, Ladner, and Sauter, failing to make much headway through the forward wall. The line work was often ragged, while the ends, Boex and Bill Mooney, were able to complete only three of seven attempted passes, some of which they dropped after having them in their arms.

Lane Backs Fast.

Lane's back field proved fast and able to smash through, but penalties and punk work on the line at times retarded their progress. France, at center, was responsible for some wild throws. Rane and Capt. Bahusky were easily the stars of the losers.

After Loyola had scored, the contest settled into a struggle for distance through the lines, and honors were about equally divided. McGuire's boys soon found out that their kicker was the best, so when progress could not be made Mooney was called on. Before the main contest the academy lights trounced Central high of Hammond, 19 to 0, with Harvey doing most of the scoring. Heavy lineup:

ELGIN, 21; AUSTIN, 0.

Elgin, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Elgin outplayed Austin in every department, to the tune of 21 to 0, today. Not once did the visitors get past Elgin's 35 yard line and they completed only two first downs. Elgin pulled a long forward pass at the start that netted a 40 yard gain, and before the first quarter was over, had scored a field goal and a touchdown. Bolger once intercepted a pass and raced 55 yards for Elgin's end to touchdown.

BOWEN, 21; ROCKFORD, 0.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Rockford's line was weak today and Bowen High of Chicago defeated Rockford heavyweights, 21 to 0. Hackett scored the first touchdown in the second quarter after a series of smashes. Thompson kicked goal and made the remainder of points for Bowen with two touchdowns and goal kicks. Rockford lightweights defeated Byron, 7 to 0, in a preliminary game. Lineup:

MOOSE HT., 16; W. AURORA, 0.

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Mooseheart football eleven opened the 1923 season with a 16 to 0 victory over West Aurora here. Two fumbles, one on the very first play, paved the way for the Mooseheart touchdowns. Capt. Robotham of West High was forced to watch the game from the side lines because of injuries.

WAITE WINS OPENER.

Toledo, O., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The crack Waite high school eleven started on their way to another national high school championship here this afternoon by defeating the Stat Glenville high eleven of Cleveland, last year's state champions, 7 to 0.

MOONEY'S KICK GIVES LOYOLA WIN OVER LANE

BY WALLACE ABBEY.

Capt. Jim Mooney of Chuck McGuire's Loyola academy eleven, who last week ruined the debut of Senn with a neat boot from the field in the last few minutes of play, yesterday repeated his performance, kicking Lane down to a 3 to 0 defeat on the winners' field in the initial appearance of Coach Fausel's squad. Four thousand saw the contest.

Mooney's opportunity came within five minutes after the game started. The Catholic lads ripped Lane's line for two first downs and then a pass, Ladner to Bill Mooney, placed the oval on the fifteen yard line. The Loyola pilot, with the wind at his back, lifted a perfect one between the bars.

During the first three periods Lane was helpless, although it gained consistently through the line and held well. It was the punting of Jim Mooney, most of whose kicks averaged 50 yards or even more, which kept the ball out of danger.

Lane Showers Passes.

Spurred by imminent defeat, Lane in the final period resorted to passing and managed to get the ball into Loyola's territory for the first time. During this flurry Fausel's men completed five of ten attempts through the air, but the 15 yard line was the nearest they could approach the goal. On two occasions Rane and Bahusky, fleet Lane backs, were thrown for telling losses.

Aside from Mooney at left tackle, Loyola had no outstanding performers, the backs, Finn, Ling, Ladner, and Sauter, failing to make much headway through the forward wall. The line work was often ragged, while the ends, Boex and Bill Mooney, were able to complete only three of seven attempted passes, some of which they dropped after having them in their arms.

Lane Backs Fast.

Lane's back field proved fast and able to smash through, but penalties and punk work on the line at times retarded their progress. France, at center, was responsible for some wild throws. Rane and Capt. Bahusky were easily the stars of the losers.

After Loyola had scored, the contest settled into a struggle for distance through the lines, and honors were about equally divided. McGuire's boys soon found out that their kicker was the best, so when progress could not be made Mooney was called on. Before the main contest the academy lights trounced Central high of Hammond, 13 to 0, with Harvey doing most of the scoring. Heavy lineup:

ELGIN, 21; AUSTIN, 0.

Elgin, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Elgin outplayed Austin in every department, to the tune of 21 to 0, today. Not once did the visitors get past Elgin's 35 yard line and they completed only two first downs. Elgin pulled a long forward pass at the start that netted a 40 yard gain, and before the first quarter was over, had scored a field goal and a touchdown. Bolger once intercepted a pass and raced 55 yards for Elgin's end to touchdown.

BOWEN, 21; ROCKFORD, 0.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Rockford's line was weak today and Bowen High of Chicago defeated Rockford heavyweights, 21 to 0. Hackett scored the first touchdown in the second quarter after a series of smashes. Thompson kicked goal and made the remainder of points for Bowen with two touchdowns and goal kicks. Rockford lightweights defeated Byron, 7 to 0, in a preliminary game. Lineup:

MOOSE HT., 16; W. AURORA, 0.

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Mooseheart football eleven opened the 1923 season with a 16 to 0 victory over West Aurora here. Two fumbles, one on the very first play, paved the way for the Mooseheart touchdowns. Capt. Robotham of West High was forced to watch the game from the side lines because of injuries.

WAITE WINS OPENER.

Toledo, O., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The crack Waite high school eleven started on their way to another national high school championship here this afternoon by defeating the Star[illegible]ville high eleven of Cleveland, last year's state champions, 7 to 0.

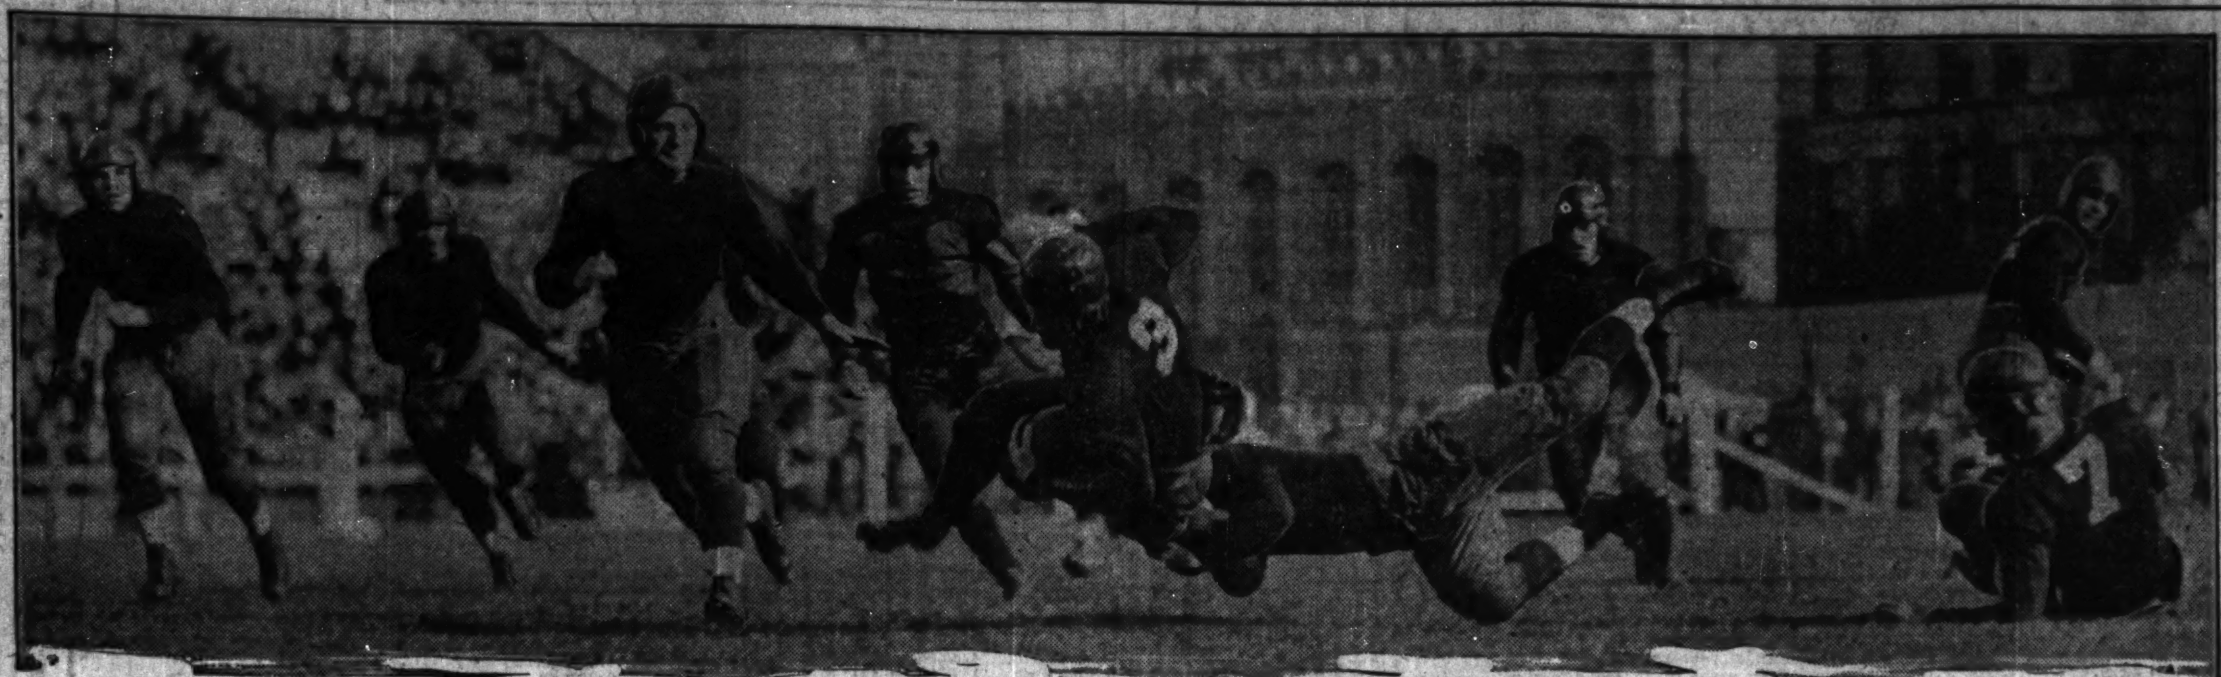
THE AGGIES TACKLE HARD



This unusual football picture was taken in the first game of the University of Chicago grid season, the Maroons beating the Michigan Aggies, 34 to 0. The photo shows Bill Zorn, Stagg's plunging full back, with an opponent hanging to one foot. The Michigan boy tackled Zorn so hard that the force threw them both into the air, and the photographer caught them just before they hit the ground. To the extreme right can be seen Lampe, Maroon end, sprawling on the ground, while to Zorn's right is Law, the Maroon quarter. Jimmy Pyott, Maroon captain, is coming up behind the tackler to get into the play.

DE PAUL CRUSHED BY LAKE FOREST

Lake Forest toppled De Paul university yesterday morning on the Chicago school's north side gridiron, 21 to 6. Two of the three touchdowns scored by the victors were made by kicks blocked near the opposition's goal line. The third counter came when Peterson caught a pass from the De Paul back field and, having intercepted it, wriggled through a broken field and made his touchdown after a 50 yard jaunt.

THORNTON WINS, 12-0.

Thornton High blanked Downers Grove on the loser's field, 12 to 0. Anderson and Hodge, who piloted the south siders, gave some excellent exhibitions of football. Lineup:

MORTON UPSETS DOPE; BEATS PROVISO, 13-0

Displaying a brand of ball which could not be equaled by its opponent, Morton High yesterday defeated the veteran Proviso eleven, 13 to 0, in the opening game of the suburban season at Cicero. The victory was the upset of the day, the Maywood crew having rated as a strong contender for the league title.

Quarter Back Crabtree did all the scoring for the victors, crashing through for two touchdowns and kicking one goal. The other Morton backs, Winkler, Larimer, and Moulton, worked in machinelike form. The Morton lights swamped the Proviso youngsters, 19 to 0. Heavy lineup:

	MORTON [13].	PROVISO [0].
R. E.	Weick	Millard	L. E.

NEW TRIER AND WAUKEGAN TIE.

New Trier and Waukegan battled to a scoreless tie in a suburban battle at Indian Hill, neither being able to muster the punch needed for a touchdown. Jones, Martin, Moad, and Jarrett did the backfield work for Coach Linden.

OAK PARK WINS TWICE.

Oak Park made a strong showing in its first appearance of the season, both heavies and lights beating Harrison Tech., the former, 24 to 0, and the latter, 9 to 0. The games were played at Oak Park. Ferrette, Gary, and Hall made touchdowns for Coach Winter's heavies, while Hall added a field goal and kick after touchdown. The Harrison line was unable to hold the heavy backs. Heavy lineup:

	OAK PARK [24].	HARRISON [0].

SENN HEAVIES LOSE TO EVANSTON, 13 TO 8, BUT SENN LIGHTS WIN, 13-6

Levison, rookie full back for the Evanston heavyweights, twice traveled 40 yards down the field to give Evanston high a 13-8 victory over Senn, yesterday at Evanston. The Senn lights battled the Evanstonians to a 13-6 win, by making two touchdowns in the last quarter.

Levison made his first counter in the first quarter, when he scooped up a fumble, after Capt. Don Grimes had tackled a Senn back. In the fourth quarter he took across the winning tally on a beautiful pass from Sam Adams.

Senn scored its touchdown on a pass, Launsbery to McClure. The safety was called when Paul Hassel held the opposition behind his own goal line. Lineup:

CHICAGO LATIN WINS.

Chicago Latin school spoiled Waller's first showing yesterday, winning, 12 to 7, at Lincoln Park. Dolan and Agar scored for Latin and Wahne for Waller. Both the winning touchdowns were scored in the first quarter, after which Latin was held well.

DE PAUL LOSES TO ST. PHILIPS, 18 TO 11

St. Philips, playing for the first time in the Catholic High School league, yesterday upset De Paul academy, 18 to 11, in a hard fought battle on the De Paul field. Downes, the St. Philip full back, crashed through the line for a pair of touchdowns, while Half Back Sweeney was responsible for the remaining marker.

Huppert, right half for the losers, crossed the goal line and then kicked over the extra point. De Paul's remaining points were scored by safeties, Biezel and McEnroe being responsible. Lineup:

	ST. PHILIPS [18].	DE PAUL [11].

The Yellow Cab football team, averaging 204 pounds, will start against Englewood Crescents at White City this afternoon.

FOUR WEST VIRGINIA WESLEYAN GRIDDERS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Fairmont, W. Va., Sept. 29.—Four members of the West Virginia Wesleyan football team were seriously injured today in an automobile accident near White Rock while the team was en route to Fairmont, where they are scheduled to play West Virginia university this afternoon. Those injured were:

Roy A. King, full back, Koolo, W. Va.
Edward Trainer, tackle, Parkersburg, W. Va.
John Moore, guard, Weston, W. Va.
George Stewart, half back, Pennsboro, W. Va.

In attempting to pass another machine, the players' automobile turned over on the interurban car tracks and was hit by a street car. The players were removed from under the automobile before it was hit by the trolley and were taken to a local hospital, where doctors forebade all to play in the game.

TILDEN, 12; PARKER, 7.

Two touchdowns, one by Quarter Back Brusiner, and the other by Full Back Lutz gave Tilden High a 12-7 victory over Parker yesterday in a fast game at White City. Sink scored one touchdown for the losers, and White booted the ball over after the goal had been crossed, which was one thing Tilden's kicker was unable to do. Lineup:

	TILDEN [12].	PARKER [7].

WOODSTOCK WINS.

Des Plaines, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Woodstock high trounced Maine Township preps, 19 to 0, here today.

JOLIET PREPS NIP ENGLEWOOD WITH KICK, 9-7

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Englewood High heavyweight eleven lost a hard fought game to Joliet High, 9 to 7, here this afternoon. Joliet scored first on a kick from placement, but Englewood then rallied and carried the ball down the field from the 50 yard line for a touchdown, Joyce, the Purple right half, putting the oval across. A blocked punt in the second quarter gave Joliet the game, Girard running 30 yards for a touch down.

The two elevens battled on even terms in the last two periods, although Englewood twice got within Joliet's 10 yard line. Lineup:

	ENGLEWOOD [9].	JOLIET [7].

HYDE PARK, 12; SCHURZ, 0.

Hyde Park downed Schurz, 12 to 0, at White City park, Norton and Barelli crossing the line. The Schurz line held well during the first quarter, but weakened in the latter part of the game. Lauder and Dygert divided honors as quarterback for Coach Scanlon, while Hart, Houston and Williams did good work at half. Lineup:

Like most men and women who have found the Packard their logical choice you, too, will serve your own best interest if you study carefully the Single-Six in relation to economical buying.

You will learn from the reports of Single-Six owners that you can expect 16 to 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline and 20,000 miles to a set of tires.

You will find that they have learned there is so high a re-sale value, such small repair bills and so little depreciation, that good business judgment necessarily dictates the Single-Six as the one choice.

APPERSON

Lever which pre-selects gears

Keep Your Hand On the Wheel and Shift Gears

THE old hand-shift lever is gone for all time. In its place is a simple and strong mechanism which shifts gears mechanically. The hand-shift lever is replaced by the selector located on the steering wheel post which is operated by the thumb or forefinger without taking the hand from the wheel or the eyes from the road.

The mechanical gear-shift removes the tenseness and strain of driving. It is the greatest advancement in the industry for easy, safe and more enjoyable driving, whether in the most congested traffic or on the open road.

Move the selector to the gear desired and throw out the clutch in the usual manner—that's all there is to shifting gears on the APPERSON.

You must see this car and operate the gear-shift yourself to appreciate the tremendous importance of this engineering achievement. The ease and pleasure of driving an APPERSON will amaze you.

Thirty years of engineering have produced a car in this new APPERSON Six that is years in advance of any other car on the market to-day. When you drive it you will see the truth of this statement. Make an appointment now.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Maurice Archdeacon dumbed the Sox into a defeat this afternoon and then dumbed them into a victory, after which Pop Gleason dismissed him for the day because he was getting blind staggers on the field. The Browns took the first contest 6 to 5 and the Sox grasped the twilight session by the same score. The electric signs on Grand avenue were blinking before the final fray was won.

The doings of Brother Archdeacon formed a large portion of the incidents. In the ninth of the first session he was on third and Hooper on first with one down when Collins started a prospective drive to right center. Jacobson snared the ball with one hand, but Archdeacon, instead of standing on third, wandered off the base and failed to score before Hooper was doubled. That ruined a tie.

Calls Another.

In the closing affair Archdeacon propelled a slow roller towards third after Robertson had doubled. Archdeacon suspected it might be a foul, but it was not. Two hands were out at the time, and Ezzell cast the apple to the stands, allowing Robbie to tally and Archie to make second, after standing at the plate until the wild heave was committed. Hooper blasted Archie home with a single.

The Browns made one in the fourth when Williams was safe on Collins' error and Jacobson doubled. In the sixth the Sox accumulated two on a pass to Sheely, Barrett's sacrifice, a single and steal by McClellan, and Schalk's double.

The Browns came back with one on two hits and an error by Hooper, then the Sox tallied in the seventh when Ed Collins smote a homer into the right field bleachers, but the hostiles again tied it up on Ezzell's double and Bowman featured.

Sox Win in Ninth.

The Sox won in the ninth. Crouse batted for Robbie and walked. Elsh ran and stole second, scoring the deciding tally when Hooper singled to right. Leverett pitched the ninth and held the enemy safe.

Blankenship went the route in the first game, but was ill treated by his associates. In the second chapter, McManus singled and took an additional base when McClellan threw wild. Severeid sacrificed, and Jacobson singled McManus home. Hooper tied it in the third with a home run to the right field pavilion roof. In the fourth Williams sailed the ball over the right field fence, Severeid singled, Jacobson doubled, and Schleibner hoisted a sacrifice fly.

The Sox got after Kolp in the fifth. Archdeacon, Hooper, Collins and Sheely singled, while Barrett doubled, the result being three runs. Then Wright did the flinging. The tie endured until the seventh. Two hands had expired when Barrett muffed Tobin's liner. Blankenship cut loose a wild pitch, and Williams was passed. Blankenship made a balk, allowing Tobin to tally. Williams came home on McManus' single.

One run had been made by the Sox in the seventh when Hooper walked and Collins doubled. The details of the valiant attempt to tie it in the ninth and the stupid work of Archdeacon already have been recited.

The series ends tomorrow with one game, after which the Sox return to Chicago to engage the Tigers.

Hugh Fullerton's Dope on World Series City Series

SHORT STOPS

	Offensive.	Defensive.	Total.
Yankees	743	440	1,183
Giants	772	416	1,188
TOTAL INFIELD VALUES.
Yankees	3,316	1,718	4,034
Giants	3,392	1,694	4,086

New York Giants hold the advantage in the study of the value of the infields for the purposes of a world's series between the two teams. Bancroft, slipping and in poor condition, losing almost ninety points from his average standing, still stands slightly ahead of Everett Scott as a shortstop, even though Scott, as he now is going, leads him heavily in the defensive department of the sport.

Scott is one of the wonder men of baseball, a great player who can not hit heavily, but who, by his mastery of defensive work, his brains, steadiness and his ability to hit when hits are needed makes up much of his lack of sheer hitting power.

Couple this with the fact that Bancroft has been through a bad siege of illness, is not near his best and has been throwing in erratic manner, and the Giant admirers of Bancroft will not wonder that he does not show more.

Bancroft Off Regular Form.

There is no doubt this year that Bancroft is not at his best nor near it. Last season he was in bad shape, rallied and played great ball in the series, but there is small chance that he will do so again.

But he is a great player, a stronger and more dangerous batter and a faster man on the bases than Scott, who, however, is more dangerous in the matter of long drives.

The completion of the study of the infields shows the Giants leading by only fifty points, a margin of which is not sufficient to decide any world's series. Outside of a long drive by Kelly or Pipp or Groh's hitting behind runners there is not a really decisive punch in either infield to be reckoned with.

The Giants certainly are superior, but their superiority lies largely in the fact that, on the third base side of the infield they are superior in attack.

The difference of defensive strength among third basemen is hard to figure, for the simple reason that third base is of minor importance in defense. The third baseman has so many fewer chances that the position value in defense is small—but those hits that do go past third basemen are destructive.

Infields Well Balanced.

Both infields are extremely well balanced and, if Groh and Bancroft should be in perfect condition [which they will not be] the Giants would have a larger lead simply because Groh and Bancroft can outhit their rivals.

Usually in such series the "weak" hitters get all the better of it for the reason that after pitching hard to star batters pitchers are liable to take chances with the weaker hitters.

The Giants hold a slight advantage both at third and on the complete infields. We shall now examine the outfields, where conditions may be reversed.

SHORT STOPS

	Offensive.	Defensive.	Total.
White Sox	707	388	1,095
Cubs	720	396	1,116
TOTAL INFIELD VALUES.
White Sox	3,291	1,647	4,938
Cubs	3,313	1,597	4,910

It is a terrible knock on any shortstop to say he is inferior to either Sparky Adams or to McClellan, but the cold dope proves that, for purposes of a series between Sox and Cubs Adams, weak and one tracked as he is, is 21 points better than the shortstop of the Sox.

These are two of the weakest members of any major league team, but being well matched they keep the balance between the teams unchanged and the dope figures show that the total infield strength of the Sox is just 28 points greater than that of the Cubs, a difference so slight that it means practically nothing.

McClellan, a veteran, who has tried for years to make good, has found a regular job simply because there was no one else to play short. He is scarcely a major league player, although a hard working, earnest fellow who is trying all the time.

Adams Hustles All the Time.

Adams is a spry, hustling boy who mixes brilliancy with startling misplays, who gets balls out of position—but gets them; who isn't fast but appears to be because he is spry and quick moving. He has hit around .275 for the season and is not a good hitter at that. But he figures to hit the Sox pitchers as well as he hit the National league twirlers on the average, and he can hit left handers in spots.

The comparative study of the infields shows the Cubs leading, but by so scant a margin that it is not a decisive element. The fact is that the Cub strength is more evenly divided, and the high standing, especially in attack, of Eddie Collins holds the south side team up. Collins figures extremely well for this series, regardless of the fact that he has slowed up considerably in defensive work.

The Wrecking Crew.

Collins, Sheely, and Grimes are "break up" elements, dangerous in case a long hit is needed, especially on the short north side grounds.

Collins, who has changed his style of hitting and is taking his wallops at balls that look good to him rather than waiting to hit the one the old science of the game decreed should be hit, is a tremendous element. He is liable to break up any game if those in advance of him can reach the bases. He can hit any pitcher the Cubs have, excepting Alexander when Alex is going well, and he is extremely liable to try for long drives in the coming contests.

In defensive play the White Sox should be steadier and more reliable, due largely to the youth and inexperience of the Cubs, especially around the vital spot at second base. Collins' experience is a big help to McClellan and they work together much more smoothly than do their opponents.

Although the Sox hold a slight advantage on the infield, the study of the outfields may prove the north siders stronger as a regular team. Tomorrow we will tackle the left fielders.

RED SOX BEAT YANKS TWICE TO END HOME SEASON

Boston, Mass., Sept. 29.—Red Sox closed their home season today by defeating New York in a double header, 5 to 4, and 3 to 2, the second game going sixteen innings. Shawkey pitched fourteen innings of the second game, and then gave way to Piepgras, who walked Mitchell in starting the sixteenth. Picinich sacrificed, and then Piepgras made a wild pitch, placing Mitchell on third. Donaghue walked, and Burns singled to center, scoring Mitchell with the winning run. Scores:

GIANTS BOW TO DODGERS.

New York, Sept. 29.—Brooklyn defeated the champion Giants today, 5 to 1, McGraw working a number of his recruits. Brooklyn won in the seventh, when errors by Gaston and Wilson, two youngsters, gave them two runs. Ruether held the Giants to three hits. Fournier hit his twenty-second homer of the season. Score:

AMER. GIANTS WIN IN 13TH.

Although awarded fifteen bases on balls, Logan Square could not come through with a much needed hit yesterday at the northwest side park, and after thirteen innings of desperate struggling American Giants took the battle, 6 to 4. Two singles was all the Callahan crew could collect off four pitchers. In every inning there were men on bases for the home crew, largely through wild heaving. Miraculous fielding several times saved the Giants. Score:

HEATHCOTE ASKS BAN BE LIFTED

Outfielder Cliff Heathcote of the Cubs, who, on Sept. 17, was suspended for the season by John Heydler, president of the National league, yesterday appealed his case to Commissioner K. M. Landis. Heathcote was set down for howling over a decision that precipitated the bottle shower during the game with the Giants, Sept. 16. A clause in the rules and regulations of the big leagues provides that a player suspended for a period of more than ten days can appeal his case to the commissioner. The club officials, feeling that Heydler's penalty was too severe, are supporting Heathcote's stand.

PYOTTS BATTLE WITH SQUARES HEADLINES SEMI-PRO CARD TODAY

THE city semi-pro race encounter between Logan Square and the Pyotts, carded at Billy Niesen's ball yard this afternoon, will be a sidelight to the celebration planned by Ald. Maypole of the 28th ward by admirers, who will present him with a $4,000 automobile before the game. Dolly Gray will take the slab for the home team, with Dick Cantwell as his opponent.

Having taken a new lease on life in the last two games, the Normals, with a much improved hurling staff, which includes Baichly and Baxter, formerly of the Pyotts and the Midwest base ball league, will appear at the American Giant park. Two games are scheduled with Rube Foster's gang. Foster also has bolstered up his club, having recalled three players from other clubs in the Negro National league.

St. Michaels and the Cermaks, principle contenders for the Dever cup championships, meet at Cermak park. While the Saints are visiting, the Merry Gardens and Chicago Giants will loccupy their park. A north side rivalry tilt between the Belle Plaines and Chicago Blues is carded at Kranz field.

Semi-final matches in the Judge Barasa cup race will have West Side Sportsmen pitted against Lemont, Ill., at Polk and Des Plaines. The L. P. C.'s will play at De Paul field in the other semi-final. Other games today:

Pop Anson's vs. Rose Hills, at Logan square. Apex A. C. vs. Aces at Logan Square. Chicago Feds vs. Seske Boosters, at Atkins and Freund park. Home Runs and Enterprise A. CERMAKS BEAT GARDENS, 5 TO 1, IN DEVER SERIES

Clustering all their hits in three innings, the Cermaks held their position at the head of the procession in the Dever Cup series with a 5 to 1 victory over Merry Gardens at Cermak park yesterday. Today's battle with St. Michaels at the same field is looked upon as the crucial battle of the series. Miller's double in the seventh with two mates on the paths clinched the victory for himself. HISTORIC BOUT OF CENTURY AGO HAD QUICK END

BY FRANK SMITH.

Mulling around some musty records recently we ran across some mighty interesting data—to us, at least—on old time and recent fights, so we thought we would pass it along.

It is believed that the reprints will recall to veteran ring fans some things they might have forgotten, incidents in critical battles that are worth retelling and remembering.

To the Boxing Blade we are indebted for the privilege of recounting these incidents and will start off with something none of us can remember. It has to do with the battle between Sir Dan Donnelly of Ireland and George Cooper, heavyweight champion of England. Remember it? No? Of course not, because it was staged 108 years ago on the Curragh of Kildare in Ireland. The bout ended in the eleventh round—the Irishman winning by a knockout.

Bout Inspired Song.

The bout inspired the following Irish song that is sung unto this day in Ireland:

Come all ye comrade Irishmen
And listen to me song,
And hould your wisht and clinch yer fist,
For that won't take ye long,
While, I a song unfold to ye
Sung wid joyish air,
It's about the Cooper-Dan Donnelly fight
On the Curragh of Kildare.

So here's to Dan, our noblest son,
No other need him dare,
For today he made the English run
On the Curragh of Kildare.

The Duchess of Argyle, an ardent supporter of the Irishman, went to Donnelly's corner after the third round, when it appeared that Cooper had the better of the battle and said to Dan:

"I have bet a fortune on you this day, and if you will fight as you can fight, you can have every dollar I win. I want you to go into the next round and whip Cooper to death. I know you can do it."

Irishman Starts Fight.

In the next round, in response to the appeal of the duchess, Donnelly went at his opponent like a tiger and it was all over with the Englishman from that time on. An account of the final round—the eleventh—follows:

Donnelly came to the scratch looking fresh and strong. Cooper landed left to Donnelly's head and clinched. Donnelly got his back to the ropes, grabbing Cooper by the neck with the left. The Irishman showered a dozen rights to Cooper's face and body. They broke and Donnelly landed left to body and right to jaw. Cooper fell like a dead man.

The account of this battle does not state if the duchess kept her promise to Donnelly.

How John L. Sullivan, who later became the most popular heavyweight America ever saw, or probably ever will see, won the American heavyweight title from Paddy Ryan at Mississippi City, Miss., Feb. 7, 1882, is told in an account of the eighth, and final, round:

They had hardly got under way when Sullivan landed an awful punch to the champion's jaw, knocking him senseless. It did not seem possible that Ryan could respond, but he gamely came to the center at call of time. Both tried and then ran into a clinch. Sullivan was the stronger and soon fought the champion to the ground. Ryan was all in. Nature asserted itself and he could go no further, so Johnny Roche threw in the sponge.

OLYMPIA MEETS SPARTA-UNIONS AT SOCCER TODAY

Local soccer players will hold their third round of league play today and one of the most interesting matches in the major league will be the meeting of Olympia and Sparta-Unions, at 19th street and 47th avenue. Both are Bohemian clubs from the west side, and there is keen rivalry.

Another close match is expected when Bricklayers clash with the Swedish-Americans at 35th street and Cottage Grove avenue. The Swedes lost Magnuson and Carlson, who joined the Bricklayers, but have been strengthened by the acquisition of H. Johnson, a recent arrival from Sweden. The schedule:

MAJOR LEAGUE.

Thistles vs. Pullman at Cicero avenue and Roosevelt road; Olympia vs. Sparta Union at 19th street and 47th avenue; Bricklayers vs. Swedish-Americans at 35th street and Wentworth avenue. All games at 2:30 p. m.

DISTRICT LEAGUE.

First division—North Shores vs. Gary at Potter field, Evanston; British Legion vs. Y. M. H. A. at 35th and Rockwell streets; Western Electric vs. Chicago F. C. at 22d street and Kostner avenue; Ulster United vs. Harvey at 79th street and Drexel avenue.

Second division—Ravenswood vs. McKinley Park at Winnemac and Robey; Jugo-Slavia at Indiana Harbor. All games at 3 p. m.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE.

A division—Victoria vs. Vienna F. C. at Greenview and Wrightwood avenues; Swedish A. vs. Norwegian A. at Winnemac avenue and Robey street; Danish A. vs. Humboldt Park at Humboldt park; Sture at Lake Forest.

B division—Drott vs. Swedish III. at Washington park; Vienna II. vs. Norwegian II. at [illegible] and Fullerton avenues; Victoria II. vs. Western Electric B at Greenview and Wrightwood, 1:30 p. m.; Y. PUT BAN ON PRO BOXERS IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 29.—Neither Jack Dempsey, nor any other professional boxer may appear in the ring in Los Angeles, even at a benefit performance, because amateurs only are permitted to box by the California law, the city attorney's office had advised the board of police commissioners.

The ruling was made in connection with a request for a permit to hold a boxing program for the benefit of the Japanese relief fund.

SCHOOL TAKES UP BOXING.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 29.—Scientific boxing instruction will be introduced in Buckingham Junior High school, one of the larger schools, it was announced today.

2 BOXING SHOWS ON TAB FOR LOCAL FANS

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decisions of Tribune boxing representatives Thursday were:
At New York—Frankie Genaro beat Vicent Salvatore [12]. Izzy Cooper beat Marty O'Hara [6].

Two boxing shows are on tab for local fans this week. Tomorrow night at East Chicago, Ind., Sailor Freedman, west side junior lightweight, and Cowboy Padgett of Delores, Colo., meet in the star ten rounder. Sammy Mandell, fast junior lightweight of Rockford, is slated to tackle Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia in the feature ten rounder at Jim Mullen's arena in Aurora on Friday night.

Freedman and Padgett yesterday put the finishing hard licks to their training at the Arcade gymnasium and will only do light work today. Both are down to the required weight of 143 pounds at 3 p. m. and are ready to wage a hard battle.

Good Card at Aurora.

Mandell's opponent is credited with giving Johnny Dundee, the featherweight champion, a lacing, and comes here well recommended. He is a good two handed fighter and is said to be as clever as Sammy. Joe Jackson, a stablemate of Wagner, will also be seen on the card, being paired against Warnie Smith, Oklahoma cowboy. They will also box ten rounds at 150 pounds. A third ten rounder will bring together Patsy Flanagan of St. Louis and Charley Glaser of the south side at 124 pounds. Mandell, Flanagan, Glaser, and Smith are in hard training.

On the Freedman-Padgett card there will be a ten round semi-final between Patsy Rocco, East Chicago welter, and Frankie Hipplock of Pullman. An eight round bout will feature Shuffle Callahan of Gary and Johnny Heider of Milwaukee in the lightweight class, while Joe Franks and Freddie Brown, bantams, open the show.

Tickets at $3 and $5.

Tickets for both shows are on sale at at the usual places and popular prices of $3 and $5 prevail.

Jock Malone, St. Paul middleweight, is in town training for his twelve round decision bout with Lou Bogash at Bridgeport, Conn., on Thursday night.

Bud Taylor, Terre Haute bantamweight, will be in town Wednesday to prepare for Harold Smith, whom he boxes at Aurora on Oct. 12. This match has been in the makings for several months.

MOODY MISSION CHURCH LEAGUE BASEBALL CHAMP

Moody Mission annexed the junior championship of the Church baseball league by beating Grand Avenue Congregational, 7 to 1, yesterday for its second victory in the series. Kelley let the losers down with three hits. Score:

ERWIN GREER
2024 S. Wabash Ave.
CHICAGO, ILL.

Women have invaded almost every province of athletics, from croquet up, and this afternoon at the north shore polo field, Lincoln avenue and Peterson road, they will make their debut as automobile speed demons.

Queens of the speedway of the middle west who in practice have been reeling off the miles in less than sixty seconds will face the starter in a ten mile race in which victory will carry with it the right to challenge any woman driver in America for the championship. The winner also will be matched with the winner of the twenty-five mile race for men, the two to engage in a dual contest which will bring the program to a close.

Miss Elfreda Mais of Indianapolis is perhaps the most experienced of the field, holding the mile record for women of :52 2-5. Miss Mais has hung up a number of short distance records on the Indianapolis speedway.

Other women who will compete for honors are Miss May Smylie, Miss Teresa M. Putz, Miss Margaret Zimmerman, Miss Ruth Hambel, Miss Elinor Loftus, Miss Simmone Soudan, and Mrs. B. C. Brautigan. Mrs. Oliver G. Temme will appear in an exhibition race against time.

The two ten mile races for men, the winners of which will meet in the twenty-five mile event, will bring out a number of dirt track record smashers who already have made names for themselves at Hawthorne and at the Roby speedway, including Esthan Wenneston, Cliff Woodbury, Roy Nonnermen, and Harry Nichols.

MISSOURI PLOW HORSE WINS 15TH STRAIGHT RACE

Mount Vernon, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Winning fifteen consecutive races this season, Ossaleen, owned by W. R. Hall of Caruthersville, Mo., won the Jefferson County derby here, one and one-sixteenth of a mile, in 1:52¾ for a purse of $500. Ossaleen is a mare and was owned by a Hamilton county farmer, who cultivated a crop with the mare up to August when she entered the running races at the McLeansboro fair. Nearly 17,000 paid admissions were received today, a new record for the fair.

Harry Hartz Drives to Victory in Fresno Race

Fresno, Cal., Sept. 29. — Harry Hartz, driving a Durant special, won the 150 mile San Joaquin valley automobile race here this afternoon. Eddie Hearne was second and Jerry Wonderlich third. The winning time was 1:26:50.

GEORGIA ALL "HET UP" OVER M'TIGUE FIGHT

Columbus, Ga., Sept. 29.—With the champion and the challenger quartered near the fight arena, where the light heavyweight title of the world will hang in the balance here next Thursday, Columbus took on a "fighting mad" atmosphere with all paths leading to the training camps of Mike McTigue and 18-year-old Young Stribling, who has Capt. Bob Roper as a sparring partner.

McTigue's camp includes Joe Jacobs, his manager; Dia Dollings, trainer, and Willie Phieffer, a sparring partner. The high school boy challenger arrived here yesterday with his father-manager, Ben Smith, his trainer, and Roper and other sparring partners.

The arena has been completed and carpenters are now engaged on the ring. The arena has a seating capacity of 20,000, for which some 11,000 pasteboards have been sold in advance.

MURPHY WINS 2 EVENTS ON CIRCUIT CARD

Columbus, O., Sept. 29.—Thomas W. Murphy, the New York horseman, made a clean sweep of the two events on today's Grand Circuit card, the final of the local meeting.

With Peter Etawah, a favorite, he won the 2:05 pace. With Mary Anne, Murphy won the 2:09 trot. Summaries:

New Italian Mat Star to Show Wares on Friday

A new Italian heavyweight wrestler will be seen in action at the Star and Garter theater next Friday night in the person of Joseph Colerini. He was to have hooked up with last Friday's victor in the McGill-Freberg bout, but William Demetral, local Greek, challenged so vociferously from the ringside that the management decided to let Bill and the "wop" fight it out first and the winner between them meet McGill.

Colerini at present is making Boston his headquarters.

WOMEN SHATTER RECORDS IN TITLE A.A.U. TRACK MEET

Newark, N. J., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—One world's record was shattered, one American mark broken, and another American standard was equaled six times by four competitors today in the first national track and field championships for women held by the Amateur Athletic union here today. Prudential Insurance company team of Newark won the meet with 22 points, while the Philadelphia Meadowbrook club was second with 19 markers.

The world's mark which fell in the course of a day of interesting competitions was the record for throwing the baseball. Miss Eleanor Churchill of the Robinson Female seminary, Exeter, N. H., enjoyed this outstanding distinction of the day when she heaved the horsehide 234 feet 5¾ inches, displacing the previous world's record of 224 feet 2¼ inches which she established last year at Lewisohn stadium, New York.

Set New Relay Mark.

The American record breaking performance came in the 440 yard relay race when the speedy four representing the Meadowbrook club of Philadelphia scored an impressive victory in the remarkable time of :52 2-5. This time eclipses the listed record of :57 4-5 which is on the A. A. U. books to the credit of the University of California team. The Meadowbrook club four, however, have a mark of :52 2-5, made at the Wilco A. A. games recently, which stands as an unofficial record.

In the 100 yard dash the listed American record of :12 was equaled by four of the girl competitors in a series of dazzling sprinting duels produced in the trial heats, semi-finals, and finals. In the decisive test for the title Miss Frances Ruppert of the Meadowbrook club broke the tape a winner in :12, leading by a scant margin, Miss Marion R. McCartie of the City Bank club, New York, who had previously captured the 50 yard title in :06 3-5.

Equal Mark in Trials.

In the heats of the century the Misses Maybelle B. Gilliand, City Bank club; Miss McCartie and Miss Madeline Adams, Meadowbrook club, each equaled the listed mark. The unofficial American record is :11 9-10, made by Miss Helen Filkey of Chicago several weeks ago.

Three Newark girls took the first three places in the 60 yard hurdles race. Hazel Kirk of the Prudential Insurance company A. A. won the event in :09 3-5.

Joie Ray, crack Illinois A. C. of Chicago, middle distance runner, not only failed in his attempt to lower the world's mile mark, but finished fourth place in the handicap race, held in connection with the women's championships. Ray was clocked in :04:16, but this was considerably behind the accepted record of :04:12 3-5, held by Norman Taber, and the mark of :04:10 2-5 recently credited to Paavo Nurmi, Finnish star.

John Barnes of New York, who had a handicap of 120 yards, won the mile event. Melville Schaefer and William Goodwin, with handicaps of 120 and 90 yards respectively, finished second and third. Ray ran from scratch.

RECORD HORSEHIDE HEAVER

MISS ELEANOR CHURCHILL.

Fair brunette of the Robinson Women's seminary, Exeter, N. H., broke world record yesterday at national track and field meet for women at Newark, N. J., when she threw a baseball 234 ft. 5 3-4 in. The previous record, also made by her, was 224 ft. 2 1-4 in.

MAKING THE DUCK TRIP COMFORTABLE.

IT'S hard to beat duck shooting for fun, but gosh, what a lot of punishment a shooting trip can deal out to a fellow if he hasn't the proper outfit. We were conscious of this fact some days ago while up in Wisconsin at a time when some snow flurries and cold weather struck the northwoods country. There we were fairly bubbling over with the desire to spend some time in the marsh on those cold days and we didn't have everything that we wanted for such a trip, as who would have thought that old man Winter was going to slip us such weather so early in the season.

It won't be long before the north wind will start howling, the sleet will hit the duck marshes and in the teeth of this wind will come the big flight of waterfowl for which every shotgun fan is waiting. Meanwhile, this is the time to get ready for the big days by putting the outfit in shipshape order and practicing up on the old duck call. Maybe the decoys need a dab of paint, perhaps the duck boat ought to be caulked up a bit. We know one fellow who never fails to give his "duck" coat a water proofing treatment every fall. This is easily done, as the dope goes on with a paint brush and it sure does keep out the moisture.

Of course a fellow can tote along so much junk on a duck shooting trip that shooting becomes work instead of pleasure. On the other hand, there are several items in a duck shooter's outfit that are absolutely necessary for comfort, and to go out without them means a mighty nasty day in the duck blind.

It's easy enough to pile all the clothes you need on your back to ward off the cold, but keeping hands and feet warm is another question. We're for the idea of wool lined moccasins inside of the rubber boots. Many a time in November and December just two or three pair of wool socks have not kept out the cold on a day when the north wind was on the job. If you have been in the same boat better get a pair of those moccasins. They're the berries and spell comfort every time, as we first put on a long pair of wool hose that reach to the knee, step into the moccasins and then into the boots.

Keeping the hands warm is another question. Early in the season, when the thermometer shows a high mark, there is not much to worry about along this line. But later in the gunning season, when it is cold and rainy, it's a horse of another color. There is a dandy shooting glove on the market that fills the bill. It's a lined glove, so made that the trigger finger can be worked without having to uncover the whole hand. In other words, it makes it possible for a fellow to keep his hands warm and shoot at the same time. This is something, as the idea of having to sit on your hands to warm 'em after every shot is no fun.

It looks as if the ladies were going to step into the shooting game more than ever this fall. This is not surprising after seeing droves of 'em eating up the outdoor stuff this last summer. While in northern Wisconsin we saw them landing bass and muskies and in many cases doing as well or better than some of the old-timers. A twenty gauge double is the gun for those that are taking up the shooting game. It's light, easy to handle and hasn't much recoil.

BOWLING STARS ENTER FOR BIG SWEEPSTAKES

Class is going to tell in the fifth annual semi-annual classic sweepstakes tournament, promoted by Louis P. Petersen, to be held Oct. 6 and 7 at Petersen's south side room, 35th and Archer avenue. Bowlers from all sections of the country are scheduled to roll in the big individual bowling show.

Leading pin topplers from St. Louis, New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, and other bowling centers have already forwarded their entries to the tournament secretary, John McCue, and practically all of Chicago's better bowlers have enlisted.

224 Rolled Last Year.

Two hundred and twenty-four bowlers participated in the major individual tourney last April and there is every indication that a larger representation will be had this year. Prizes aggregating $5,600 were distributed in the former event, Bill Wernicke, a local man, carrying down first prize of $2,000.

Petersen's bowling events have grown from small proportions to something that is now conceded to be one of the biggest events of the tenpin season.

Smith and Blouin Enter.

Jimmy Blouin, world's champion; Jimmy Smith of Milwaukee, Bill Wernicke, present title holder, and other headliners in the sport are scheduled to perform. Eight games across sixteen alleys will be played.

At a suitable time prior to the opening of the tournaments, certified checks will be placed in the hands of Dave Luby, publisher of the Bowlers Journal, and the names of the winners will be filled in immediately after the close of the tournament, in order that the bowlers receive their money promptly. The first prize money will be the same as last year, $2,000.

YACHTSMEN PLAN TO BEAT CANADA MACKINAC ENTRY

Alarmed over the possibility that Canada may lift the famed Mackinac Island trophy, which for nineteen years has remained in the possession of Lake Michigan yachtsmen, local sailing enthusiasts are planning the formation of a syndicate to buy or build a yacht to compete against Venture, the speedy Toronto boat already entered for the race.

Chicago yachtsmen had come to believe that the Mackinac Island cup, emblematic of victory in the longest fresh water race in the world, was theirs by right, but the entry of Venture has thrown a scare into them. Venture, formerly the New York Yacht club's Istalena, is admittedly faster than anything Lake Michigan can produce, so plans are under way to form the syndicate.

The local enthusiasts hope that by the time the race is run, next July, a yacht from New York waters, or a speedy racing schooner from New England, will have been purchased or a suitable racer constructed to defend Lake Michigan honors.

Since it is no longer considered good judgment to purchase a big bulky car of the old-fashioned type with its rapid depreciation—and since one car is not enough when mother and daughter and son all want to use it at once—just remember that you can buy two distinctive, reliable, economical Jordans for the price of one of the old-fashioned cars.

BEGIN WORK ON NEW SPRING LAKE GOLF COURSE

HOLE-IN-ONE CLUB

RUFUS C. DAWES, prominent Chicago banker, teed off for the fifth hole at Bob o' Link yesterday, and found his ball in the cup, 150 yards away. He was playing with W. W. Ross.

W. W. Major elisted in the "ace" army yesterday by shooting the third hole at the Playmore course, 175 yards, in a single. His companions were J. R. "Ted" Sloan, the club instructor, R. D. Cunningham and N. Barsumian of Evanston.

BY JOE DAVIS.

Chicago's far flung line of golf courses is to receive a new addition in the Spring Lake Country club of Libertyville, the project having passed the visional stage, as work has been started.

The new club will be located on the 325 acre farm owned by G. T. Pushman. This is admirably adapted for golf purposes, being rolling terrain, well wooded, and containing an abundance of fine soil and sand, which will greatly minimize the cost of construction. The property contains a small lake, not at all of inviting appearance. The scheme of construction calls for two lakes, one of which will approximate ten acres, to be fed from the overflow from the big lake of St. Mary's college, situated to the west of the Spring Lake property.

Work Under Way.

The work of constructing and landscaping the two lakes has been begun by Swain, Nelson & Sons, it being the intention of the club officials to sand the bottom of one of them and utilize it for swimming purposes.

Tom Bendelow had laid out a course of approximately 6,495 yards, and was given a free hand in the matter of utilizing any of the land. With this liberal assignment, he was able to avoid dangerous paralleling holes, and has produced a layout which will compare favorably with any course along the north shore.

The property is surrounded by many large estates, and the owners of these are interested in having the property brought on a par with theirs. The trend of present day golfers is to locate near a golf course, and this feature has not been overlooked, as provision has been made for homesites.

Good Train Service.

The plan was told in detail at a meeting of prominent Libertyville citizens held last week in the guild house of St. Lawrence Episcopal church, the consensus being that such a golf course was essential if the village desired to keep step with the other towns along the north shore.

The North Shore Electric road has a station close to the south center line of the property, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad has a fifty-seven minute service to Libertyville. Four great auto routes, Milwaukee avenue and Telegraph, Sheridan, and Green Bay roads, run to the property.

The temporary offices of the club are in the office of Johansen & Johansen, in the Hartford building, Chicago.

GARFIELD PARK.

President J. C. Piety of the Garfield club, who is 55 years of age, reached the final round of the club championship by defeating Ray Kennedy, 1 up in 19 holes. He will meet Norman McLeod in the final. Mr. Piety started playing when the Garfield course was first constructed.

NORTH SHORE.

W. C. Braun won the Sports and Pastimes trophy at the North Shore club with a card of 96—25—71, Sam Hall being second with 88—15—73. R. C. Boozer, A. D. Collins and W. H. Hutson tied at 89 in the blind bogey event.

BEVERLY.

F. H. Morgan won the Inspiration trophy, defeating R. E. Davis, 4 and 3, in the final round. The open event was at eighteen holes, medal play, C. N. Babcock winning the low net prize with 87—13—74. On the north nine S. W. Sigler took the low net prize with 51—12—39, while on the south nine C. McDonald won with 44—5—49.

MIDLOTHIAN.

A card of 79 gave C. W. Booth the low gross prize, while J. A. Bender won the low net trophy with 82—10—72. In the sweepstakes the players were combined into two divisions, with the winners as follows: Classes A and B—J. A. Bender, 82—10—72. Classes C and D—C. E. Robinson, 100—23—77.

SKOKIE.

J. B. Henry went to the thirty-ninth green to defeat A. C. Stepan in the final round for the Vice President's trophy. Close play also featured the deciding contest for the President's cup, H. B. Kimbark defeating Dr. Frank Brawley, 2 up, at 36 holes. Kimbark at the thirty-fourth was 1 up.

RAVISLOE.

As a result of their semi-final victories yesterday B. C. Klauber and A. W. Joseph will meet in the deciding contest for the President's cup. Klauber in the penultimate frame defeated Mel Keim, 6 and 4, while Joseph disposed of W. Rosenthal, 3 and 2.

RIDGEMOOR.

John H. Victor, who has been playing in the low 70s throughout the season, won the club title yesterday by defeating R. E. Williams, 3 and 2. In the second flight Fred Lietzow defeated W. Hageman, 3 and 2.

RIVERSIDE.

Finishing 2 up against par, C. F. Hagedorn won the H. S. Stimson prize. Winners in the sweepstakes were as follows: Class A—Albert Seckel, 78—3—75; Walter Hillyer, 86—11—75. Class B—R. P. Rummer, 94—19—75. Class C—G. M. Silverthorn.

LA GRANGE.

The final round in the club championship contest brought out an interesting match, in which H. W. Walker, former star golfer of the University of Illinois, defeated Dr. Herbert C. Dewey, 2 and 1, in the 36 hole final. Winners in the other events were as follows: Blind bogey—E. M. Fry, 101—17—84; J. F. Chambers, 90—6—84; H. C. Fouchtage, 94—10—84. Sweepstakes: Class A, H. G. Spear, 81—4—77; H. R. Cossitt, 87—10—77. Class B—C. G. Whittle, 90—16—74. Class C—G. E. Mueller, 96—22—74.

BRIERGATE.

The club title will rest with A. J. "Buck" Ewing for a year. He defeated L. E. Miner, 8 and 7, in the thirty-six hole final. The new champion was 3 down on the first nine holes, taking 48 strokes. On the second nine Ewing made up his lost ground by shooting 38, and going to luncheon 2 up against his opponent. After luncheon it was a walkaway for Ewing, who had a medal round of 77.

GLEN VIEW.

George F. Henneberry, 76—2—74; R. F. Wortham, 88—13—75, and J. R. Guilliams, 89—13—76, were the winners in the club handicap event.

OLYMPIA FIELDS.

In the qualifying round for the George C. Nimmons trophy E. M. Gallagher had 88 as low gross, while H. N. MacKetchnie registered 96—22—74 as low net score. Don Hamilton and H. W. Craig in class A finished all even in the final round of the monthly class tournament. In class B, C. E. Barnes defeated H. C. Ramey, 2 and 1, at thirty-six holes, after tying in the first round. Dr. C. O. Young was the winner in class C, defeating A. L. Hampton, 5 and 4. The Harvest Home dinner was given at night.

IDLEWILD.

R. R. Glick advanced as a finalist in the novice tournament through the semi-final default of S. Rosenthal. B. C. Bachrach, the other finalist, defeated E. Guthmann, 4 and 3.

PARK RIDGE.

The low gross prize in the sweepstakes event fell to Dr. A. O. Young, who had a round of 42—43—85. J. E. Petrie and O. E. Grigsby tied at 79 for the low net prize.

Sarazen Beats Hagen on 38th Hole; Keeps Pro. Golf Crown and prayers of the greens committee, to carry him aloft and cheer wildly the little lad who, a few years ago, was caddy within a few miles of the scene and carrying clubs for some of those who cheered him.

It was a tremendous finish of the finest golf week in history and one of the hardest fought finals in history.

The strain told on Sarazen badly, and Hagen, too, was irritated—and once they so far forgot to observe golf etiquette as to snap at each other.

AFTERNOON DETAILS

They started the afternoon round with a gallery grown to huge size and racing hard. Their drives were equal on the first, but Sarazen reached the green with his second, while Hagen was 50 yards short and pitched beautifully eight feet beyond the pin. Sarazen's approach putt along a sloping hillside was bad, stopping seven feet short. Hagen missed his putt and they halved in fives.

On the second Sarazen drove over trees and houses and reached the green only to kick off into the trap. Hagen fired high over hill, trees, houses and garden and fell into rough just clearing the fence of a garden. Sarazen tried an explosion shot, missed it, failing to get out, but his second effort almost holed out. Hagen was short on his putt and they halved in fours.

Champion Forges Ahead.

Sarazen forged ahead at the twenty-first when Hagen's second found the rough behind a bunch of mounds, while Gene was pin high. Hagen made a fine out nine feet from the cup, and Sarazen came within a hair of an eagle 3, his ball hanging on the lip of the cup. Hagen failed to sink his putt and Gene won, 4-5.

They halved the fourth in par threes, both dropping their tee shots off the cliff onto the green, a foot apart. Hagen laid Gene a perfect stymie, and they halved in threes.

Sarazen leaped ahead at the fifth, shooting a magnificent birdie 3, which put him 2 up. They halved the next in par figures, and on the seventh Sarazen increased his lead by laying Hagen in a dangerous stymie.

Misses Trap by a Foot.

On the eighth Sarazen hooked his drive into the adjoining fairway and his fine long second missed the trap by a foot, and Hagen's second from the fairway was within two feet of Gene's ball. Hagen ran over and Gene was short, but both dropped the putts and halved.

Sarazen made a tremendous drive on the ninth, driving even with the pin at 294 yards, but the ball rolled into a side trap. Hagen's second was just on to the green, and he ran over. Sarazen made a fine out, and they halved and turned with Sarazen 3 up. It was no disgrace for Hagen, as Sarazen shot those first nine holes in 35, two under par.

Hagen was fighting then. They both drove to the tenth green and had to match for the putt. Hagen missed a 2 by a hair and had to be content with a half in threes.

Hagen recovered one of the lost holes on the eleventh by shooting a birdie 3. Both were on the green in 2, and Sarazen's long putt hung on the lip of the cup, while Walter dropped a long one and only 2 down.

Walter Outdrives Gene.

Walter strove desperately to win the twelfth hole. He outdrove Gene 30 yards, but Gene was close up on his second and Hagen far past the pin. Hagen studied his shot a long time, then missed the putt by three feet and halved in fours.

Both came within a fraction of an inch of sinking eagle threes on the 465 yard thirteenth.

Hagen, taking chances, tried desperately to gain on the fourteenth. The drives were even and Gene's second a spoon shot, was in trouble to the left. Hagen's jigger shot fell short, both got on in three and strove to sink long putts, failing by narrow margins and halving the hole in par fives. Hagen came close. His strong putt hit the back of the cup and bounded out.

Spectators Delay Play.

The next was halved in fours after a battle with the surging gallery which delayed play.

Sarazen wabbled from his gait on the sixteenth when Hagen dropped his tee shot hole high and twelve feet from the cup. Sarazen was short and dropped into a trap, was shot on his out, and failed to sink the putt, while Hagen dropped his safely for a three. This was the first hole Sarazen was above par in the afternoon round.

Then, while the gallery went all to pieces and disturbed the match, Sarazen broke and Hagen evened the match.

The eighteenth was halved when Hagen missed his putt.

THE MORNING ROUND

Sarazen started the morning round brilliantly and captured the first hole. Starting off, Hagen outdrove the little Italian, but his ball kicked into the rough almost back of a big tree. Gene reached within five feet of the green with his second, while Walter was thirty feet short, and, pitching too strong, ran eighteen feet past the pin. Sarazen's third hit the cup and hopped out, but when Hagen, half stymied, failed to sink his long putt, Gene took the hole and was 1 up.

The second turned to Hagen, 4—5, and they halved the third in par 5.

Both dropped the green on the short fourth, Hagen being seventeen feet from the pin and Sarazen forty feet away, on the edge between an old and the new green. He ran his approach up to twenty inches, laying Hagen a half stymie. Hagen tried to curl the ball around and made it reach the edge of the cup but it failed to fall and they halved again. The fifth was halved in par 4s.

Hagen Takes the Lead.

Hagen finally achieved the lead on the sixth. They drove equally, the balls lying five feet apart at the foot of the hill. Pitching over the high, rock hill to the blind green, Sarazen's ball hit the green surface and rolled into a trap while Hagen's landed on the front of the green. Sarazen pitched from the trap and ran the ball squarely across the middle of the cup, but too hard to drop and he went nine feet past. Hagen ran two feet past the hole and Sarazen missed the downhill putt, the ball curling off the edge at the last second. The seventh was halved.

Sarazen made a magnificent recovery on the eighth and perhaps saved disaster. Hagen had driven straight when Gene sliced a bit and landed his ball at the edge of a bridle path.

Using a wooden spoon, he slashed out and reached the green while Hagen sliced and landed back of a trap in light rough. He pitched out too strong and had a fourteen footer to halve the hole. Sarazen, playing safe, failed to run his approach putt close enough and failed to stop the six foot putt, letting Hagen halve a hole when the match should have been squared.

Hagen Leads at Turn.

The short ninth was beautifully played. Both dropped on the green, Hagen being five feet away, while Sarazen was fourteen feet past. Sarazen ran up close and half stymied Hagen again, and Hagen, trying to make the ball curve around that of his opponent, failed, the ball hanging on the lip of the cup. They halved again and turned with Hagen 1 up.

They halved the tenth also.

They got away tremendous drives, close to 300 yards, on the eleventh, and then Hagen wobbled. Sarazen laid his second almost dead to the pin, while Hagen was too strong and shot over into bad ground. He changed from mashie niblick to niblick, dubbed, and failed to get out of the rough. His fourth was over and Sarazen, playing safe, took a four and the hole.

Hagen drove the edge of the green on the twelfth and Gene pitched his second over the green. Hagen narrowly missed a try for a long putt, and they halved in fours.

Sarazen had one of my kind of holes on the thirteenth. He hooked into the sand trap of the sixteenth fairway, and on his second was badly stymied by a bunker. His third hit the bunker and seemed badly dubbed, and his fourth hit a bunch of trees, and he barely got out of his trouble. He pitched his fifth to within eighteen inches of the cup, but it was wasted, as Hagen, playing the hole perfectly, took a safe and sane four, and Gene conceded it, leaving Walter one up again.

Squared on the Fourteenth.

Gene squared the battle on the fourteenth. Sarazen had a lucky break. His drive narrowly escaped the rough. Then Hagen hit the trees with two shots and finally conceded the hole.

Hagen, however, took the lead again on the fifteenth. Sarazen drove into rough to the left and then came out and clear across to the rough and he was beaten.

They halved the sixteenth in threes, Sarazen saving himself by a wonderful explosion shot from the trap.

They halved the seventeenth in fives, Sarazen missing a chance to square it. He was on in two, but took three putts and lost another opportunity.

Then the little Italian, still smiling, evened up the day's work, taking the eighteenth.

MRS. BEAMISH SAILS.

New York, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Geraldine Beamish, member of the British women's tennis team that invaded the United States and Canada this season, sailed today for England on the steamship Franconia.

GARDNER WINS POWWOW MEET AT ONWENTSIA

Henry A. Gardner of Indian Hill won the main prize in the annual pow wow and golf tournament which finished yesterday at the Onwentsia club. He went around the winding trail with scores of 75, 82, 80 and 86, but was defeated in the first flight event by Wallace C. Winter, the Onwentsia southpaw, 1 up. R. H. Poole of Onwentsia took the award for low net with a total of 287.

The special prizes for the Papooses—players making their first venture in the pow wow, went to T. Clow, with a net of 155 for 36 holes, and Dick Cavanagh of Kenosha, former Wisconsin champion, who won the guest prize with 158. In honor of John T. McCutcheon, some genuine Indian summer weather was provided by the committee in charge.

A large number of prizes were awarded, the flight winners and runners up each receiving a trophy as follows:

First—W. C. Winter, Onwentsia, defeated H. A. Gardner, Indian Hill, 1 up.

Second—Samuel T. Chase, Onwentsia, defeated O. T. Wilson, Onwentsia, 1 up.

Third—R. H. Poole, Onwentsia, defeated R. E. Belknap, Onwentsia, 2 up.

Fourth—Stuart Logan, Onwentsia, defeated John T. McCutcheon, Onwentsia, 3 and 1.

First consolation—R. Ripley, Glen View, defeated J. C. Belden, Onwentsia, 2 and 1.

Second consolation—E. D. Shumway, Onwentsia, defeated C. H. McDowell, 6 and 4.

Third consolation—G. Richardson, Onwentsia, defeated L. Howe, Indian Hill, 3 and 1.

Other winners were R. H. Poole and A. Poole, 290, low net of member and guest at thirty-six holes Friday; O. W. Johnson, 74—7—67, choice eighteen of thirty-six holes Friday; O. W. Johnson, 79—10—69, low net score Friday afternoon, and Samuel T. Chase.

INDIAN HILL.

Francis R. Blossom won the club championship, defeating Edward M. Cummins, 3 and 1, in a 36 hole final, 3 and 1. He succeeds Henry A. Gardner. Blossom gained a slight lead on the first round, which he made in 77, as against 82 for Cummins. One match was played in the semi-final round for the class B championship, George H. Leslie, defeating John C. Harding, 2 and 1. Blossom also was first in the play for the H. G. Badgerow trophy, with a card of 82, G. E. Roth being second with 83, and E. M. Cummins and A. D. Edwards next with 84.

EXMOOR.

Over 650 members and guests attended the harvest home festival, J. S. Talbot winning the harvest home cup with a card of 102—30—72. The Last chance trophy, for which players who had not won a prize during the season were eligible, was won by W. B. Fitch, 83—4—77. G. W. Peck, 87—9—78, and Frank G. Hoyne, 101—23—78, being tied for second place. Winners in the class handicaps were: Class A, H. L. Glidden, 81—6—75, and F. G. Clement, 79—4—75. Class B, Irving T. Hartz, 89—11—78. Class C, J. W. Blackledge, 96—21—75. Class D, C. B. Cone, 111—30—81.

CHICAGO.

Jarvis Hunt won the Saturday cup with 89—18—71. Frank O. Wetmore was a close second with 91—18—73.

Elmhurst College Gridders Lose to Lake Forest, 31 to 0

Keeping the ball in the enemy territory most of the time, Lake Forest academy eleven yesterday defeated Elmhurst college, 31 to 0, at Lake Forest. Long passes and brisk charges through the line accounted for many of the gains.

LOCAL GOLF

THE Thomas cup, one of Chicago's historic golf trophies, went out of commission yesterday, when Walter L. Eulass, a pioneer member of the Calumet Country club won it, with a card of 85—9—76, scoring his third victory. The trophy was placed in competition when the club first was formed, and the previous wins of Eulass were in 1912 and 1915 over the old course at Burnside, where the pioneers used to swallow a daily quota of smoke from the Illinois Central shops and play golf all the year around.

Eulass won in one section of his year's contest and yesterday played against H. R. James and J. H. McElroy, the winners in the other section.

Calumet held its annual election last night, Henry B. Hull, being chosen president, succeeding James B. Rose. Mr. Hull was this year's vice president. Ralph C. Lusk is the new vice president, while A. L. Tolin, treasurer, and F. E. Bell, secretary, again were elected.

BOB O'LINK.

C. C. Fogarty with a card of 87—15—72 won the medal play handicap for classes A and B, M. L. Doty winning in classes C and D with 93—21—72. Winners in the sweepstakes were M. L. Doty, C. C. Fogarty, J. A. Rankin, J. F. L. Curtis, J. H. Wilson, C. Q. Watson, and P. M. Conrad.

HICKORY HILLS.

In the semi-final match for the championship at Hickory Hills F. Eskridge defeated James C. Dohney, 6 and 5, and Dr. G. B. Nugent won from James Armstrong, 5 and 4.

WESTMORELAND.

Frank Swirles won the Directors' cup, defeating H. J. Sloan, 7 and 6, in the final round; took the prize in the sweepstakes with 85—7—78, and tied with W. H. Watson in the blind bogey competition. The Fellowship cup reverted to H. C. Conine, who had 95—17—78.

OAK PARK.

W. G. Oliver was the chief winner, having 86 as the lowest gross score in class A, and topping all competitors in the sweepstakes. In the competition for the low net prizes in class A Joe Zook and L. D. Terreo tied with identical cards of 87—8—79. S. W. Thomas with 93 was the low gross winner in class B, while R. E. Roberts with 94—19—75 was the low net winner. In class C P. A. Beachy, 98, and L. C. Towle, 100—24—76, were the respective low gross and net winners.

EVANSTON.

Tying at 85, A. Kenneth, O. Cochrane, and W. W. Ahlschlager impounded the low gross prize in class A. A. H. McConnell won the low net prize with 85—10—75. Other low net winners were: Class B—R. Y. Sanders, 86—12—74, and E. C. Delmar, 91—17—74. Class C—R. G. Crandall, 93—21—72. Class D—F. Sherman, 105—26—79.

SOUTH SHORE.

The Trude family carried away the bulk of the prizes yesterday, Judge Daniel P. winning the first portion in the sweepstakes with 90—23—67 and permanent possession of the season's medal for Classes C and D players combined, while Samuel H. Jr. won the trophy donated by Ralph W. Parker for Class B players, with 80—12—68. In Class A, for the Parker trophy, A. Ellersgaard, H. M. Sedgwick, A. C. Jackson, and R. E. Hughes tied at 81—9—72. The quartet will play off later. Other permanent winners of class medals were H. M. Sedgwick, Class A, 72, and John F. Chelius, 70, Class B.

The Parker trophy for classes C and D players combined, lodged with G. F. Rummel, who had 96—30—66.

EDGEWATER.

Close finishes featured the matches played in the second round of the club championship contest, J. W. Moulding defeating Herbert A. Lundahl, 1 up in 21 holes; J. P. Strickland defeating T. W. Jordan, 1 up, and J. R. Murphy disposing of C. A. Tilt, 2 and 1. In the semi-final of the Old Boys' tournament, J. A. Demerath defeated R. A. Griefen, 2 and 1. The other match remains to be decided.

NATIONAL THREE CUSHION TITLE WON BY DENTON

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—Tiff Denton of Kansas City won the national three cushion billiard championship, as a result of the final play here tonight. In tonight's match Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia won from John Layton, St. Louis, former champion, 60 to 58, tying Layton for second place in the tournament, each having won 7 games and lost 5. Denton won 8 games and lost 4.

In the afternoon Denton easily beat Bob Cannefax of New York, 60 to 34, in sixty-eight innings in the semi-final game of the tourney. Denton was in fine form and at times resorted to safety play. His high run was 9 and Cannefax's 4. Score by innings:

CANNEFAX—000 010 110 100 020 000 101 010 002 001 010 101 000 000 000 020 000 024 000 003 110 100 00—34.

BIKE RACE FANS WANT ZEIGLER IN SIX DAY EVENT

Various employes of the Peoples Gas company and the Board of Trade, who already have taken hundreds of tickets for the first three nights of the six day bike race starting at the Coliseum Oct. 27, are eager to see "Red" Ziegler, Board of Trade messenger, turn "pro" and permitted to compete in the big event. "Red" has been one of the best amateur racers in the middle west for several years.

That there is no fan like a six day race fan was evidenced yesterday when William S. Behrens, a north side real estate dealer, purchased his tickets for the entire six days of the race.

Indiana Fox Hunters Will Hold Annual Meet Oct. 8-13

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Indiana Fox Hunters' association will hold its annual meeting at Marengo, Oct. 8-13. An interesting program has been prepared for the six days, including a derby race for all hounds under 18 months old and another race for dogs of all ages.

DISCARDING.

DISCARDING should be the most simple thing in auction bridge, but a large number of arbitrary conventions have made it very complicated. The natural thing to do is to throw away what you do not want. Therefore, a discard should mean weakness in the suit discarded. It is not, however, always possible to discard without unguarding a lesser honor in that suit. In such cases a player should discard first a high and then a low card from his strong suit; reversing the order of the discard reverses the meaning, which is also natural.

The kindergarten discard, that is seven or higher, always indictes strength, loses more tricks than any convention in the game because it cannot be used unless a player happens to hold the proper cards. A beautiful case of correct discarding is shown in the deal which follows:

West secured eleven tricks.

A real discarding problem occurred in the south hand at trick five. South could not echo to show strength in the spade suit because throwing away two spades would wreck that suit. Should he discard nothing but clubs he would be definitely informing his partner that he was protecting both spades and diamonds, which obviously would be false information. South, therefore, discarded his singleton diamond at once, which informed north that he must guard the diamond suit if possible, regardless of everything else. It was also necessary for north, however, to protect the king of clubs, knowing the ace to be in the west hand. As he was forced to discard down to six cards, and must keep four diamonds and two clubs, he properly discarded both the ace and king of spades. Had he kept either of these cards, the declarer would have made a grand slam. Players afflicted with the seven-eight-nine complex would have been helpless in such a deal.

BRADY TO DEFEND TITLE IN WESTERN OPEN GOLF PLAY

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 29.—Mike Brady of Detroit will defend his title as western open champion in the tournament of the Western Golf association, but to hold the crown will have to dispose of such players as Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Chick Evans, "Bill" Mehlhorn, John Farrell, Fred Sproegel, Jim Barnes, and Jock Hutchison, according to a preliminary list of tentative contestants made public today. The tournament will be played over the course of the Colonial Country club here Oct. 10-12.

Quaker City and English Cricketers End Day Equal

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—At the conclusion of the first day's play the All-Philadelphia cricket team and the Free-Foresters of England were about equal, the locals having been dismissed for 180 and the visitors running up 138 for six wickets when stumps were drawn. As it stands, the invaders are called upon to score 43 runs with four wickets still in hand, to equal the Philadelphians' total when play is resumed on Monday.

HAYNES 60

De Luxe SEDAN (NOT A COACH)

now $1895 (AT FACTORY)

This fine car spells dollar-for-dollar value in luxury, in performance, in comfort and in dependability to a degree never before attained by an automobile manufacturer.

To all lovers of motor car beauty and performance this new Haynes 60 De Luxe Sedan makes a striking appeal.

But only those in the habit of making direct comparison realize the full significance of this newest Haynes-built six cylinder motor [virtually vibrationless at all speeds]—the velvety, smoothness of its clutch, and the suave charm of its deep cushions.

It is this keen appreciation of all the values that makes motoring satisfaction which caused Haynes September sales to exceed July, the month that brought the greatest day's sales in the history of Haynes. See the Haynes yourself at our display rooms. Your judgment will approve its evident superiority.

The decision of the public resulting from a critical comparison, coupled with the sane, safe, conservative, financial policy is responsible for the fact that The Haynes Automobile Company is one of the few companies that is working at full capacity production.

Chicago motorists have discovered to their infinite satisfaction that all the wonder of the good Maxwell value at the new reduced prices applies as completely to enclosed as to open models.

Underneath a body of engaging beauty, rich finish, elegant appointments and equipment remarkably complete, there is, of course, the same expertly designed and soundly built chassis.

There is the same powerful, speedy, responsive motor usually featured by cars of much higher price. There is the same absolute dependability.

Furthermore, there is the economy of operating costs and the modest maintenance charges that have always made the good Maxwell in the judgment of shrewd buyers a preferred investment of the highest type.

And then, when they ride, they find such ease and comfort as they never before have experienced in cars that were formerly comparable to the good Maxwell.

All the remarkable features that led them to declare the good Maxwell touring car at the reduced price of $795 to be the greatest value in the world they are finding in the enclosed models.

The good Maxwell line of enclosed models is varied and complete—a type to meet every need, whether it be daily service for the family in city or country, or the practical requirements of the business or professional man.

The good Maxwell Chicago organization for sales and service is city-wide. There is undoubtedly a dealer in your neighborhood.

Vehicle Tax Goes to Smooth Vital Chicago Streets

Col. Sprague Shows 1923 Results of Repair Schedule.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

UNDER the direction of Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, the money paid to the city by motorists this year for their vehicle licenses has rebuilt some of the most important stretches of road in Chicago.

The days of haphazard tax expenditures, helping hands extended through the fund to utility corporations, and street improvements at the whim of aldermen are over under the new system developed by the commission, according to building experts. This year's work has been done under a comprehensive plan which cared for the main traveled streets and county connections first and relegated minor repairs to the end of the schedule.

Following is a detailed report of the vehicle tax division work, made by Col. Sprague to the Illinois Automobile club yesterday. It follows a request made by the club early in the season through Hugo Meyer, its manager, for a revision of the repair schedule and working methods:

"Our asphalt organization, which is the largest unit within this division, has practically completed repairs to all country road pavements leading to the city limits, which connect up with the out-of-town highways. They include to Sept. 14:

Street—	From—	To—
Peterson-av.	Ridge-av.	Cicero-av.
Milwaukee-av.	Gale-av.	City limits
Elston-av.	Lawrence-av.	Milwaukee-av.
Lincoln-av.	Berwyn-av.	Tessville
Crawford-av.	Bryn Mawr-av.	City limits
Kenilworth-av.	Western-av.	Kedzie-av.
Halsted-st.	87th-st.	107th-st.
Vincennes-av.	87th-st.	103d-st.
State-st.	95th-st.	103d-st.
95th-st.	Western-av.	Commercial-av.
Torrence-av.	108th-st.	130th-st.
130th-st.	Torrance-av.	Carondolet-av.
Indiana-av.	127th-st.	134th-st.

"This same force has also repaired all of the main arteries of travel throughout the city and is now assigned to the repair of less traveled highways and residential streets.

"At present we are in the midst of an experimental process with an asphalt retreading machine, which, judging by current results, will enable us to increase our yardage 200 per cent.

"Construction of pavement in two very important subways—namely: 51st street from Wallace street to Shields avenue and 47th street at Morgan street under the Chicago Junction railroad—is now under way and we hope to have the work completed in the very near future. Completion of repairs here will relieve a deplorable condition of long standing, which will prove a great boon to the general public which has occasion to use these subways.

"Other vehicle tax activities include 53,071 square yards of brick, 14,938 square yards of creosoted blocks, 29,265 square yards of granite repairs distributed in the following wards: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 20, 21, 22, 23, 25, 26, 27, 28, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 47, 49, and 50. Our cement forces have repaired 13,260 square feet of sidewalk and 7,109 lineal feet of curb and gutter in various parts of the city.

"The ward forces are through oiling and, with few exceptions, are done with macadam repairs. Approximately 143,322 square yards of macadam pavement were repaired.

"We have twenty-eight gangs distributed over the entire city on asphalt, brick, creosoted block, granite, macadam, cement, and emergency repairs."

Another report which Col. Sprague has submitted to the Illinois Automobile club shows that during the present season public utility corporations have been compelled at their own expense to restore the pavement in 10,000 locations where the streets were opened. The city restoration force also restored pavements in more than 4,000 locations opened by various contractors, and this work was paid for out of deposits made by the persons who opened the streets, a thing almost unheard of in Chicago for several years.

Some of the pavements restored were over excavations made two and three years ago.

All this work is being paid for by the motorists, and the vehicle tax fund can not be used for any purpose other than the repairing of streets.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom.

The Tribune will pay $5 each for questions accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune." For today's question Miss Margaret Fleming, 716 North Lockwood avenue, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

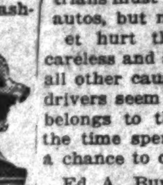
What is your idea of the proper punishment for auto speeders?

Where Asked.

Randolph street at Michiga avenue.

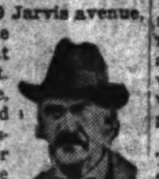
The Answers.

Lloyd Hamill, Glencoe, Ill., circulation man—Put them at good hard labor for about three months. And some of them ought to have to view the maimed and crippled victims of different accidents due to speeding. The viewing of speed victims should be about as effective a punishment as one could devise, it seems to me. It would teach a good lesson.

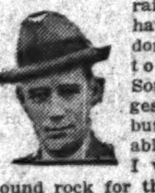


Christopher Gaul, 4926 North Washtenaw avenue, draftsman—Send them to jail at hard labor. I am a driver and have given this question some thought, and it seems to me that the best method for reducing auto accidents is to put speeders and careless drivers in jail at hard labor.

E. F. Macha, 2454 South Avers avenue, commercial artist—That's a pretty hard question. You published a picture a few days ago showing speeders working out their sentences in the Chicago prison quarry. I thought that a pretty good way to punish them. Some of those well to do drivers ought to be punished like that. It would take some of the vanity out of them.



W. H. Cochrane, 1219 Jarvis avenue, real estate—For the first offense they ought to be fined $15 at least. For the second offense, locked up and fined both. Of course pedestrians must look out for autos, but more people get hurt through the careless and speeding driver than from all other causes combined. Too many drivers seem to think the entire street belongs to them, and they begrudge the time spent in giving a pedestrian a chance to cross the street.



Ed A. Burklund, 4105 6th avenue, railroad man—Well, I have several ideas. I don't know which one to give preference. Sometimes I could suggest something terrible, but you want a reasonable answer. I believe I would just let them pound rock for thirty days or so—no fines or report slips or anything like that, and no getting out on bonds.

Fair Pilots Make Debut in Novel Speedway Event

AUTOMOBILE racing is the newest province of athletics to be invaded by women, and the North Shore polo field at Lincoln avenue and Peterson road this afternoon will be the scene of the first speed contests in which the queens of the dirt track will participate.

The card will start with a ten mile race for women, the winner of which not only will be entitled to challenge any driver of her sex in America, but will meet later in the afternoon the winner of the twenty-five mile championship event for men.

As an added attraction, Mrs. O. G. Temme, who has piloted racing cars for Barney Oldfield and Ralph De Palma, and who in practice has been reeling off half miles in 35 seconds, will drive a five mile exhibition race in an attempt to lower the record of five minutes and two seconds made recently by Harry Nichols of Whiting, Ind.

Mrs. Temme and Eileen Mays of Indianapolis, who has a number of remarkable speed performances to her credit, will be the favorites in the women's race. Other entrants include May Smylie, Elinor Loftus, Simmone Soudam, and Mrs. B. C. Brautigam.

In the heavy car class Roy Good will drive the Curtiss OXS, capable of being pushed to 130 miles an hour. This is the car in which Rance Olds met his death recently at the Roby speedway.

The meet, which will help to clarify the championship situation, is staged under the joint auspices of the Illinois Automobile club's racing committee, O. G. Temme, chairman, and the North Shore Speedway association.

The Stop's the Thing.

The police of New York City have not ceased their efforts to impress upon motorists there the importance of good brakes. The brake squad has been active in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens, and other sections of the city. On one day two of the officers connected with the brake squad arraigned twenty-five offenders in the Long Island City Police court, where all were fined and one motorist sent to jail for ten days because he could not pay a fine of $10 for operating a car with defective apparatus.

Her Mistake.

Because she came to work in her automobile, one of the scrubwomen at the Municipal Courts building in Detroit, Mich., was discharged. It is the policy of the department to give cleaning work only to women in need.

GOSSIP OF THE AUTO TRADE

THOMAS J. HAY gave the Chicago row a thrill last week when he took one of the new Chandler models out, invited a few veterans for a ride, and told the driver to run through the book of clutch tricks. The first test ran the car up to thirty-five miles an hour and shifted the clutch from "high" to second without a clash of gears. Further tests proved it impossible to clash or grind the gears in the newly developed "traffic transmission," which leaves gears always in mesh with the shaft turning free within them.

An entirely new automobile in a new price class has been brought out by the Olds Motor works in its new six cylinder model with a price range of from $750 to $1,100. Six body styles are offered. Deliveries on the new line will be made within a short time, according to factory announcement.

Paige and Jewett engineers declare they have solved the problem of finishing in baked enamel an automobile body built on a hardwood frame. The achievement appears in the new Jewett brougham to be introduced this week.

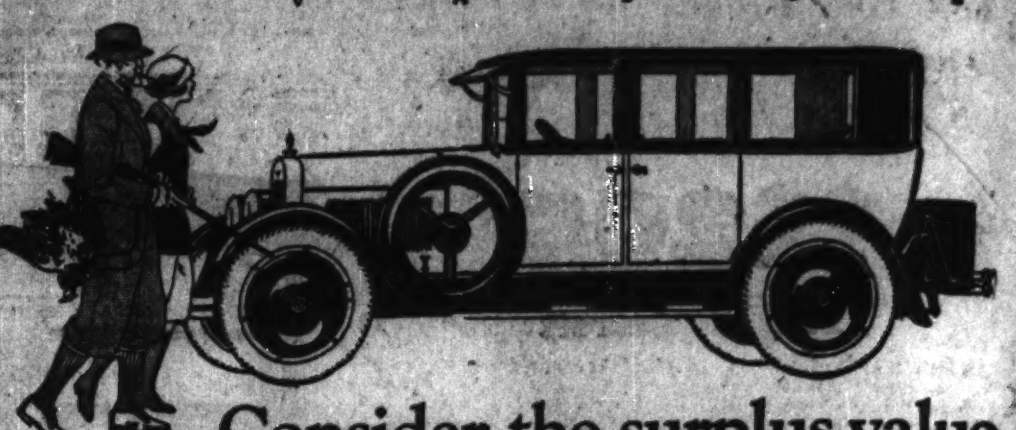
Lincoln shock absorbers have been adopted as standard equipment on all Case models, according to announcement made by the Lincoln Products company. Company officials also announced the appointment of Frank Mayo as vice president in charge of sales.

Monroe Motors, Inc., is now represented by six newly appointed dealers in Chicago and Evanston, all of whom are prepared to both sell and service the new Monroe models.

Walter C. Davis predicted yesterday that increasing demand for closed cars will keep automobile production at its present level throughout the fall and early winter.

COPY U. S. IDEAS.

For many years American automobile manufacturers have borrowed engineering principles from European cars and applied them to their own production. Today the condition is just the reverse. Engineering ideas, entirely developed in America, are being incorporated in European cars.



VELIE
VALUE

Consider the surplus value in this Velie Touring Sedan

Its wonderful Velie-built motor is vibrationless at all speeds—from two to sixty miles an hour. It is pressure-lubricated at every point, even the piston pins—adapted from airplane construction. Its counterpart cannot be found except in the very highest-priced cars.

Consider its handsome coachwork and choice mohair velvet-lined interior and upholstery with frosted silver fittings.

And consider this complete equipment:

Disc Wheels . Double Spring Nickeled Bumpers front and rear . . Two extra Cord Tires with tubes, rims and covers mounted on side carriers . . Luggage Trunk at rear containing two suitcases and hat box . . Aluminum Guard Rails protect rear of car . . Step-plates of aluminum on running-board . . Rear Vision Mirror . . Flower Vase of frosted silver finish . . Vanity Case . . Smoking Set . . Cigar Lighter . . Windshield Wiper . . Eight-day Clock.

This is one of the most popular models of Velie's most popular year. These are closed-car days. Buy your Velie now and make the most of the finest touring month in the year. Phone or call for a demonstration.

Last Longer-Less Adjustment

Buick Four-Wheel Brakes

Buick four-wheel brakes not only double the braking efficiency of the new 1924 Buicks by doubling the braking surface, but for the same reason lessen the wear on each brake mechanism in proportion. Buick four-wheel brakes last longer. They require less adjustment and the linings do not wear down as quickly.

Simple in construction and positive in action, Buick four-wheel brakes give added safety under all circumstances. They are of the Buick external contracting type and each brake has a three-quarter wrap or grip instead of the usual half-way grip.

Buick four-wheel brakes are operated with a slight pressure on the service brake pedal. They act quickly, smoothly and easily.

All 1924 Buicks (both fours and sixes) have these new four-wheel brakes. In addition, the 1924 Buicks embody further advancements in power, in construction and in beauty that make Buick more than ever "the Standard of Comparison".

Test Your Brakes and Save Lives, Say U. S. Experts

Congress in Buffalo to Urge Campaign in Many Cities.

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the opening of the twelfth annual national safety congress in Buffalo tomorrow, the police of that city will launch a special brake inspection campaign in the hope of reducing the number of automobile accidents.

This drive will enable the 4,000 delegates expected to attend the convention to see how control apparatus on motor vehicles is examined and it is likely that many of the visitors will return to their respective cities with a determination to initiate similar campaigns. The inspection will be handled in Buffalo by the local police in coöperation with Sydney H. Coleman, manager of the safety bureau of the Buffalo chamber of commerce.

Marcus A. Dow, president of the national safety council, who will preside during the convention, is in personal charge of the New York City department of public safety, which maintains a permanent brake test squad.

One of the most important subjects on the program of the congress is the question of how to reduce the number of traffic accidents. This problem will be discussed by well known speakers who have been studying the situation for years and they are expected to make several recommendations.

Chairman John N. Mackall of the state roads commission and Paul F. Stricker, director of the Baltimore safety council, have just completed arrangements for the establishment of automobile brake testing stations on ten of the main roads leading into Baltimore. It is planned to erect large signs on the roads 500 feet ahead of the stations announcing the innovation and instructing motorists to have their control apparatus examined. Men employed by the state roads commission will be on duty to report motorists operating cars with defective brakes.

W. Graham Cole, secretary of the Washington safety council, also is planning for the inauguration of a brake inspection campaign in the District of Columbia, in conjunction with the local officials there. The American Automobile association, which has its headquarters in the nation's capital, is interested in the movement.

Fred W. Johnson, managing director of the citizens' safety committee of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, is another advocate of brake inspection and the inauguration of a campaign in that city is being given consideration.

TUNE your motor with these stirring autumn days. The he-man footbal season has swung 'round again and, for the first time in middle west gridiron history, all season roads lead from Chicago to the big conference fields.

Here is a picture of the season as it will appear to Chicago's 300,000 motor fans. With the exception of the roads to Iowa City and St. Paul, motorists can drive to the games in comfort.

The road to Urbana is all paved via the Dixie highway and the new state road from Danville. Practically all of the bad going will be cut out of the route to Ann Arbor by homecoming day. Pavement reaches from Chicago to Janesville and all weather gravel into Madison for the Wisconsin fans. The Jackson highway has been repaired and is in fair to good shape into Lafayette. By going south to Marshall and using the National road, Ohio fans will find pavement all the way to Columbus.

Iowa is still a barrier. Last year scores of cars were stuck in the famous Iowa mud following the big Iowa game. Little better luck may be expected this year if it happens to rain hard the week of the big game, although solid pavement runs now from Chicago to Davenport via De Witt, and good roads are offered via Ottawa and La Salle.

Minnesota fans will take a chance with the weather. With a fair weather break it will be possible to reach St. Paul via the Yellowstone trail, but that motor trip is hardly advisable. Clip the map and put it deep in the old side pocket for the season.

France Buys 'Em.

Imports into France of foreign automobiles during the first four months of 1923 totaled 4,409, of which 4,061 came from the United States, 295 from Italy, and 14 from England.

The exports of automobiles from France in the same months totaled 7,941.

Exports 45% Better.

Motor truck exports from the United States in July amounted to 3,105, as compared with 2,129 in June, or an increase of 45 per cent. This does not include Canadian exports of United States companies or foreign assembly, which usually amount to nearly as much again.

Officials Find New Method of Road Inspection

A. F. BEMENT, vice president and secretary of the Lincoln Highway association, believes he has discovered a more rapid and particularly a cooler way of inspecting the conditions on the Lincoln way in the west. Arriving in Salt Lake City last week behind schedule, he found he had only a day in which to look over the road in western Utah from Salt Lake City to the Nevada line, a distance of over 140 miles, in which is comprised the famous Goodyear cutoff across the Great Salt Lake desert. The road from Salt Lake west to the desert traverses Fisher pass, constructed at the same time as the Goodyear cutoff. To go out over the pass and across the desert and return to Salt Lake City would have been a hard and difficult day's run of at least fifteen hours in a motor car.

But at Salt Lake is located one of the landing fields of the air mail service. Pilot Kenneth Unger, who has the hop from Salt Lake to Elko, Nev., twice a week, was not busy. Arrangements were quickly made. Bement, accompanied by E. S. Evans of Detroit, hopped off at the air mail field at 11 a. m., and covered 140 miles over the Lincoln highway to the Nevada line in 1 hour and 20 minutes. This is believed to be the first time road conditions have ever been inspected by airplane.

"We noted a heavy traffic on the highway," said Bement, "and found both Fisher pass and the Goodyear cutoff in exceptionally good condition. At an altitude of about 400 feet we observed the conditions on the desert cutoff from above very minutely. The road is dry and some maintenance has been accomplished at the west end by volunteer workers from Gold Hill."

Rising to a height of two miles over the desert the party gained an excellent picture of the situation in western Utah, at that altitude laid out like a topographic map below. "The old trail of the pioneers of the old overland stage—the old pony express route followed south of the desert via Fish Springs and later by the Lincoln highway before the Goodyear cutoff was built—could be easily seen to the south," said Bement. "Skull valley, Rush valley and most of the Great Salt Lake desert and a portion of Great Sale lake could be seen from a point 10,000 feet above Granite mountain.

"According to Pilot Unger this is believed to have been the first airplane flight above this section in this country, the air mail crossing the desert farther north on a bee-line between Salt Lake and Elko. It was an interesting experience to fly above those desolate wastes which but sixty or seventy years ago meant so many days of hardship and suffering to the pioneers, plodding those trails below in their stifling prairie schooners amid clouds of dust."

Radio Scores One.

A farmer in northern Illinois, according to Hoard's Dairyman, is located on a dirt road which is impassable during the winter if a frost comes when the road is in a rough condition. Last fall when the road was at its worst he got a radio warning of an immediate and heavy frost. Calling in his neighbors by telephone, they all got out and rolled the road. When the freeze came it proved to be permanent, and the radio owner and his neighbors had a boulevard to town all winter.

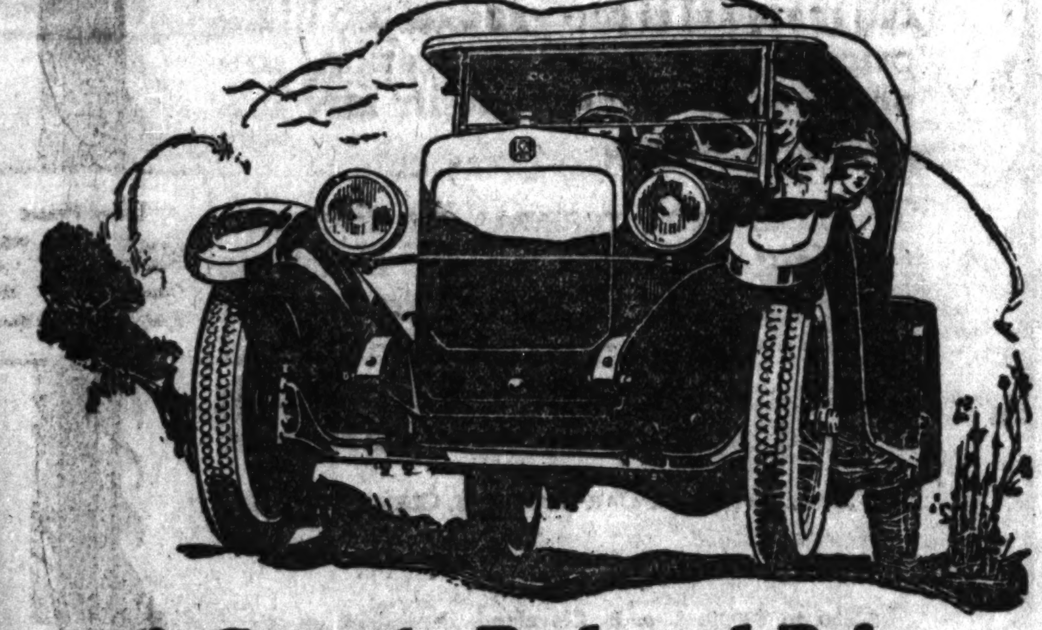
Voice in Capital to Discuss Autos with Middle West

FOR the benefit of clubs and motorists who have access to wireless receiving sets, the national headquarters of the American Automobile association, in coöperation with the Radio Corporation of America, will broadcast the latest information on road conditions and other subjects of interest to motorists through the newest and most modern station, "WRC," Washington, known as "The Voice of the Capital," every Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, eastern standard time.

"WRC" is broadcasting on a wave length of 469 meters. Radio corporation engineers state that the station will be heard in every town east of the Mississippi all through the winter and by many cities and towns beyond.

It is the purpose of the association to provide timely information in the weekly talks to motorists and there will be something of interest to each automobile owner "listening in." While special attention will be given to road and touring conditions based on accurate data provided by the national touring bureau, accident prevention, handling traffic, road building and maintenance, and other subjects of interest to the motorist will be discussed by recognized authorities.

Motorists who are also radio enthusiasts have been invited to send in to "WRC" or the American Automobile association problems pertaining to motoring and highways and the solution of these problems by the best authorities will be talked back to them and their fellow motorists, where the subject is of sufficient general interest.



A Greatly Reduced Price On A Big Value Car

The 1924 Columbia Six Phaeton—powerful and distinctive—is one of the most popular cars ever offered in the low priced six-cylinder field.

It has a very beautiful steel body—the longest ever mounted on a 115 inch wheelbase—finished in hard baked black enamel that retains its lustre longer than any other finish. Heavily cushioned, form-fitting seats, extra wide, give really exceptional comfort. Unusually fine and heavy genuine leather upholstery is used. Extreme care has been exercised in the details of this car's construction, and fittings and equipment are substantial in quality and well chosen.

At its greatly reduced price, the new Columbia Phaeton is easily the leading value among $1000 Sixes—a car that offers much more for the money than you expect and that is right in every detail. We invite you to come in, see this car, and drive it for proof of beauty and performance such as you never thought to find in so low priced an automobile. See also the richly beautiful Columbia Hollywoods—cars of character and custom coloring never before obtainable at a moderate price.

Here's the New Jewett Six Brougham, $1325

Lasting Lustre, Baked Enamel Finish by New Process

QUITE the smartest car the season has produced—just the achievement you'd expect from Paige engineers and designers. Jewett Six Brougham at but $1325 gives peak quality—the best value the Paige manufacturing organization ever produced for the money.

The lasting lustre finish is the result of a new process. Each steel body panel is separately dipped three times in finest black enamel, then baked—then separately fastened to the extra-large, extra-strong wood body frames. Wood frames—not steel—because wood reduces noise, absorbs vibration. Lift the rear seat cushions. See the steel body panels enameled on the inside, too—no rusting possible.

Never before could this finish be placed on a wood frame body. The intense baking heat would burn the frames. But separate pre-enameling and baking give you a car of lasting lustre. It gives the Jewett Six Brougham the rich black gloss all over the car, seen only on fenders of other cars. Trust Paige to contribute such a step toward lasting good looks!

Full, roomy comfort for five—extra long leg room in front. Two individual front seats which both fold forward, give easy entrance and exit from either side. Rear seat is of full width for three. Interior finish the kind you'll be proud of. Upholstered in velour. Remove the rear seat cushion and there's room for sample trunk or cumbersome baggage. Commodious trunk on rear is extra strong and well made.

Like all Jewetts the Brougham has full 50 horse-power, Paige-built motor that fills the hood. Hollow crank-shaft high-pressure oiling system gives silent smoothness and long life. Paige-Timken axles front and rear; ball-bearing steering spindles; 6-inch-deep frame. Ruggedness throughout that explains Jewett's acknowledged stamina.

Jewett Brougham performs like all Jewetts—goes from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds, in high gear; from 2 to 60 miles an hour, in high. Passes most any car on any hill. Gear shifting is rare, and easy when you do shift. A bare 3-inch movement of the lever.

Business men, salesmen, farmers, wives with children to look after—everyone will welcome this new Jewett Brougham. It is smart in appearance—permanently good looking. No apologies for the appearance of the finish—requires no attention but washing.

We are proud to have you drive this new model 5-passenger Brougham yourself. Give it any kind of a test you want—a test for performance, for comfort, for good looks, for safety and for convenience. (627-A)

Patience and Pep Needed in Tour of Dixie Roads

Detailed Report Paints Picture of Route to Florida.

ACTIVE work in permanent paving is going on in all directions through Tennessee and Georgia and, in addition, long stretches of gravel roads are being constructed. There are bad spots, but through the two states named the highways are showing marked improvement, say reports received by the Chicago Motor club, whose survey car has just finished the trip from Chicago to Jacksonville.

Last week's report covered the ground through Indiana and Kentucky into Nashville, Tenn. A digest of road conditions through Tennessee and Georgia into Florida follows:

Nashville to Chattanooga, 166 miles. Between Nashville and Murfreesboro, 31 miles, and a little beyond the last named place, the road is paved, but between these points a bridge is out and a 5 mile fair detour exists and will be used all winter. South of Murfreesboro the road is fair to mileage 50. Two bridges are out, necessitating a detour, a short one with a creek to ford and impossible in wet weather, and a longer one through Bellbuckle which can be negotiated in all weathers.

From Shelbyville, 56 miles from Nashville, the road is paved and open for 13 miles, while construction work is going on over a five mile stretch into Tullahoma, requiring a fair detour. Between Tullahoma, 75 miles, and Winchester, 90 miles, the road is poor, and it is rough into Cowan, 97 miles. Then comes a 13 mile stretch of good pavement up Mount Eagle, with an easy grade of from 4 to 6 per cent. Down grade, past the summit of Mount Eagle into Dove, the road is atrociously rough, varying from cobblestones to mountain rocks, and then comes dirt to Ketchall, 127 miles; into Jasper, 133 miles, it is rough; to Whitwell, 143 miles, fair. Up and down grade on Signal mountain the gravel road is good, and then comes nine miles of pavement over a beautiful road into Chattanooga, 166 miles.

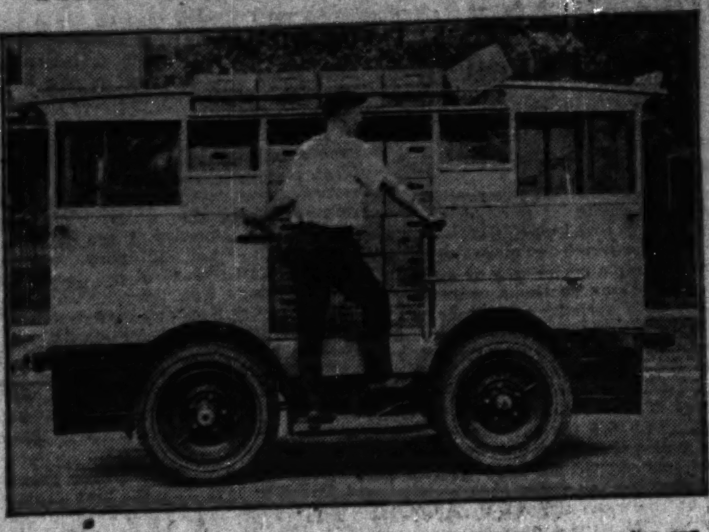
Chattanooga to Atlanta, 137 miles—Paved for 11 miles out of Chattanooga; then comes a 25 mile stretch that is being improved, with many relocations, necessitating a detour through Dalton, which is a good dry weather road. From Armuchee to Rome, eight miles, the road is paved; out of Rome, which is 69 miles from Chattanooga, there is a fair gravel road to Kingston, 84 miles. The next seven miles is a bad dirt road, followed by 25 miles of fair gravel. It is paved two miles into Marietta and six miles beyand, to Smyrna; then comes five miles of gravel and eight miles of pavement into Atlanta, 137 miles from Chattanooga.

Atlanta to Macon, 94 miles—Paved to Mount View, 9 miles; dirt next 20 miles into Hampton; paved next 11 miles to Griffin and 5 miles beyond to Orchard Hill, 45 miles from Atlanta. There is a short stretch of pavement between Orchard Hill and Barnesville, 55 miles, and pavement through Barnesville, otherwise dirt. From this point to Lorane, 28 miles, the road is dirt, but out of Lorane to Macon, 11 miles, there is pavement.

Macon, Ga., to Jacksonville, Fla., 260 miles—From Macon to Echeconee, 12 miles, there is pavement, then through Perry to Hawkinsville, 50 miles farther, the road is of gravel with a sand clay top, and while generally good when dry, it is somewhat slippery after a rain. There are two routes out of Hawkinsville, one by way of Rochelle, which is in reality a detour, and the other by way of Abbeville, 73 miles.

It is best to ask at the store at Hawkinsville which route is in the better condition. A good sand clay road is found from Abbeville to Fitzgerald, 95 miles from Macon; then pavement into Ocilla, 103 miles. Into Douglas, 128 miles, there is a good dirt road, with a little pavement in Douglas. The old road ran from Nicholls to Waycross, but a new route has been laid out through Alma, all good dirt except one rough new location before reaching Waycross. This will be finished and open in about three months. From Waycross, which is 177 miles from Macon, to Folkston, 212 miles, the road is poor, of sand clay surface. From Folkston at St. Mary's river to Jacksonville there is some sand, with one bad 6 mile detour.

THAT EARLY MORNING QUIET



Dobbin's doleful hoofbeats in the wee sma' hours of the morning are about to be stilled forever, according to reports from some of Chicago's biggest dairies. Above is pictured the latest type of milk wagon, produced by the Detroit Electric company. It is reported that more than 100 have been ordered to replace the old horse drawn wagons in Chicago.

COME in and see these exclusive engine features—usually found only on the costliest cars. They make the 1924 Oakland the finest of light-sixes and justify the continuance of Oakland's 15,000 mile guarantee and the mileage basis gauge of value.

1. L-head engine with Ricardo-type combustion chamber insuring great power at all speeds.
2. New type intake manifold and Stromberg carburetor of latest design. Impossible to place this carburetor out of adjustment.
3. Full automatic spark control, timing the spark to give maximum power at all speeds.
4. Larger and heavier crankshaft with larger bearing surfaces; new and more rigid crankcase of a type found only on higher priced cars.
5. Special patented bronze-backed bearings—insuring at least 40,000 miles without adjustment.
6. Larger valves of highest grade special alloy steel—insuring 15,000 miles without grinding.
7. Cylinder walls honed to the smoothness of glass. Pistons, rings, piston pins, and connecting rods like those used heretofore in Liberty motors and expensive cars.

See these and many other exclusive features at our special showing all week of the True Blue Oakland. Test the four-wheel brakes—admire the new Fisher bodies. See the entire car—note the lower prices—make your own comparisons. You'll be surprised and convinced.

I am writing to express the unanimous approval of the different persons in our company who have purchased your new Peerless models. Without exception, these cars have been operated in all kinds of territory, under all kinds of conditions. The performance has been perfect in every respect; the cars have given the utmost satisfaction.

We have been users of Peerless cars for many years, and there is no question but this latest model is the last word in perfection, both in mechanical and body construction, and in unusual comfort.

R. D. WARD,
Second Vice President
Ward Baking Co. New York City

Hardly a day passes without bringing fresh support to our contention that no American motor car, regardless of price, excels the New Peerless Eight in performance, dependability, beauty and comfort.

No single thing is left undone in the Peerless factory to insure and reinsure the splendidly superior results which Peerless owners enjoy.

No process, no precision machinery, is too costly if its addition accomplishes a still closer approach to perfection.

No material is too good or too high-priced if by its incorporation, improvement is wrought in any important respect.

These are the reasons for the continuing satisfaction of Peerless owners, their unwavering loyalty to Peerless, and the almost extravagant enthusiasm with which they describe their experience.

Price Revisions Put New Pep in Motor Industry

Engineers Go Round and Round on Brake Question.

BY WHITCOMB WILLIAMS.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—With no apparent between season lull in the automotive industry, the production for the 1924 season has already begun, and bids fair to continue unchecked throughout the fall and winter months.

Unlike past seasons, the industry finds itself enveloped in a new phase of competition created by new engineering practices which, combined with high points in production, have resulted in a wave of price revision in both directions—downward and upward. In addition, there are several instances where mechanical improvements have been made in models, but without any price changes.

Probably the most important change in the various models, the change most talked about, is the four wheel brake, which has been adopted by several manufacturers. This has been a subject of no small amount of controversy among the automotive engineers as to its merits or demerits. After exhaustive experiments by foremost engineers of the industry, there is a difference of opinions, with the result that many companies have adopted the system as standard equipment, while other leaders have rejected the new principle as undersirable, and will make their 1924 campaign with the old style, or rear brake, only. But of course it is up to the buying public—the final judge, and one season will be sufficient to demonstrate the advisability of equipping all makes of cars with the four wheel system.

Other improvements announced on the 1924 production are of minor importance, and will receive the unanimous indorsement of the buyers. The brake system during the coming year will be watched with considerable interest.

During the last month a majority of price change announcements were in favor of a downward revision on a moderate scale. Previous to that period price advances slightly outnumbered reductions. In practically all of the price cutting announcements thus far issued the maintenance of volume production throughout the entire summer, with similar indications for some months to come, is given as the reason for such reductions. Where price increases have been made, accompanying statements have been given of extensive new mechanical improvements in chassis or refinement in body designs or equipment.

Denial was made this week by B. J. Craig, a secretary of the Ford Motor company, to a report that has gained circulation in automobile circles that the company is about to reduce its prices on its various models from $25 to $65. It is believed the report started by the knowledge that the concern had accumulated a surplus of more than $400,000,000, thus being in an excellent position to meet the reductions made by its closest competitors, the Oakland and Chevrolet. Ford production for the present month calls for a daily output of 7,200, or a total of more than 185,000 cars.

During the first eight months of 1923 a grand total of 1,212,553 cars were produced at the Ford plants, and the average for the remaining four months is sure to maintain this average, if, indeed, it is not greatly increased. Incoming orders at the Ford plant shows a remarkable increase in the demand for closed models.

The high weekly production of Ford vehicles now stands at 40,979.

Never before has the demands for closed cars been so great as at the present time, and with winter just ahead, this demand shows a remarkable increase, and both body makers and automobile manufacturers are beginning to show signs of worry over the question whether or not the supply of bodies will be sufficient to satisfy the great demand that is sure to be made.

With the announcement of new models, and new body lines, the body builder has been called on to do the seemingly impossible. Never before has the public had such an array of cars from which to choose its car at so early a date. During the last two months more than fifteen companies have announced "something new and better" in the makeup of their 1924 vehicles, some of the manufacturers announcing changes bordering on the radical, and the prospective buyer is having a hard time deciding on just what make and model his new car will be.

The car that just at present is getting a majority of the attention is "something light, not too heavy, a six cylinder job of the closed type that will sell for approximately $1,000."

FARM AND GARDEN

Demand for More Milk Part of His Job, Farmer Told

DOUBLING the consumption of milk in the city of Chicago would be made possible if dairymen in this territory realized the value and importance of advertising as fully as do the men who sell canned beans, automobiles, clothing, pianos, and other commercial products. That is the opinion of M. O. Maughan, secretary of the National Dairy council, Chicago.

M. O. MAUGHAN.

Mr. Maughan and other dairy leaders believe the dairy farmer should be far more interested in his customers—the millions of persons who buy indirectly a bottle of milk from him every morning. The producer must be interested in marketing as well as producing if he is to succeed.

Proving Advertising Pays.

Coöperative advertising to increase the demand for more milk has been one of the most recent successful lines in which farmers have become interested. Dairymen around Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, and numerous other sections have already started this work in coöperation with milk distributors.

Pittsburgh is cited by Mr. Maughan to illustrate what farmers can do. Last year the consumption of milk was increased 11 per cent as a result of the dairy interests' campaign in Pittsburgh. There the milk is divided into two classes. Class 1 is the whole milk sold to the public, class 2 is the surplus used in making cheese and other dairy products. Class 1 netted the farmers about $1 a hundred more than the other class, and the campaign materially reduced the class 2 milk, lifting much of it into class 1. This increased the cash revenue to dairymen in that territory more than $37,000.

The campaign cost 1 cent on each 100 pounds of milk sold by producers, and distributors paid an equal amount. Farmers paid out $23,000 in the campaign and got a return of $37,000, a profit of $14,000. The consumption of milk is expected to stay up, and, therefore, farmers will get the extra $37,000 this year without any further cost.

The experience in Pittsburgh is being repeated in several other dairy territories.

What Contrasts Prove.

Another illustration to show what can be done in small towns is the milk campaign carried on in Mahoning valley in Ohio. In each one of four towns—Youngstown, Girard, Warren, and Niles—the same type of industries and people are found—all factors are practically identical. Last year in Youngstown where a campaign was made, the consumption of milk was increased 13 per cent, while in the other three towns, where no campaigning was done, the increase was only 2 per cent during 1922.

"The easiest way for farmers of the Chicago territory to get more for their milk is to help increase the demand, which would use up a larger percentage of the low priced surplus and make it possible for milk distributors to deliver more on each route," added the dairy council secretary. "Increased milk consumption in the city will mean a better price to the producer. This can be done without increasing the price to the consumer a single penny, because more will be consumed as whole milk which sells in the No. 1 class at a higher price than the surplus—class 2—milk used in making butter and cheese."

Start with Schools.

All of the educational work to increase consumption is done almost exclusively through schools and clubs in Pittsburgh, St. Paul, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Columbus, Cleveland, Boston, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Portland. Such campaigns are not being conducted in New York and Chicago territories, the two largest milk producing centers in the United States.

The principal feature in all of the educational and advertising campaigns in the various cities and towns is reclassifying the whole milk. Because of the value of milk, school authorities and club workers in all of these cities are anxious to coöperate to increase its use. School children are weighed and measured, and it is always revealed that from one-third to one-half of them are undernourished. Milk service is established in the schools and each child gets a half pint of milk and a graham cracker daily. Special milk and health plays are also given as a part of the dairymen's educational plan, in addition to talks and demonstrations explaining the value of milk throughout the year. This is done by workers sent out by the local dairy council or bureau.

HAMLESS HOG

KORANDA FARM CURIOSITY—Margaret, the bipedal hog on the Koranda farm near Davenport, Ia., is the only porker in the world that can walk on two front feet. In her mannish way of wabbling around in the barnyard, balancing herself with her nose, Margaret has managed to gobble up enough food to pile 300 pounds on her frame, worrying little over the fact that she will come up two hams short when consigned to the butcher.

Some Pointers About Poultry

Food is just as essential in producing feathers as it is in producing eggs—don't stop feeding your hens when they molt and quit laying. L. E. Payne, Kansas station, says to continue to feed them a laying mash, as they need the nutrients that were formerly required to produce eggs for developing new feathers. After the completion of the molt discontinue the feeding of the dry mash and keep the hens on a dry ration until about Jan. 1, when the mash should be resumed. Corn, wheat, barley, and kaffir, either singly or in combination, would make a good fall feed.

Peacocks, with their beautiful fan shaped, colorful tails, are 100 per cent Americans. They were once common in many dooryards of farm homes in various parts of this country, but were always considered foreigners. Dr. Frank B. Hanson of Washington university, St. Louis, believes he has proof that this bird is a native of the United States and not a native of Russia, as formerly believed. Fossil remains of the peafowl have been found in the asphalt pits of California, which in early times caught birds, animals, and reptiles, preserving them so completely that their skeletons are now found perfectly intact.

There will, no doubt, be a premium price paid for eggs coming from purebred, disease free hens in Illinois when the accredited hatchery system now being proposed in this state is put into operation. Flocks that have been bred right will stand the inspection preliminary to certifying in order that their eggs may be sold to hatcheries operating under the accredited system. It will pay to keep a good strain of chickens, cull carefully, and be ready to get your share of the business when hatcheries begin to look for flocks that can be certified.

Have you tried selling eggs to a select list of customers, using the direct mail system? A single postcard sent to a prospective city customer, announcing the fact that you are able to supply fresh eggs by parcel post, will often bring new business. Try it, and sell your eggs at a premium over local market price.

Open Car Owners—Now is the time to equip your car with winter comfort

COME in and see how the Clark California Top is built—and you will understand why we can guarantee no rattles or squeaks throughout life of car.

—why Clark Tops have established themselves as distinctive models for every make of car on which they were ever installed.

—why they stand alone as the tops that combine ideally the respective advantages of sedan and open car—proof against bad weather, wide open to fair weather.

Clark California Tops are made in Rolling Window, Stationary and Coach types. In the Rolling Window type, the rear windows roll quickly and conveniently into the roof, beneath the headlining—completely out of sight. The Coach type offers particularly smart lines and finish with oval windows in rear sides and dressy Coach irons.

Built standard for current models of the cars listed below; tops for old models also on hand; and built to order for any model of any car. We carry hundreds of tops in stock for standard cars.

Cold weather is coming—now is the time to see, decide and order. We can equip your car in a day.

OPEN SUNDAYS AND EVENINGS

YOU can enjoy the comforts of an enclosed car at small expense—and without the cumbersome looking, vision interfering, makeshift curtains and similar enclosures. $125 to $200 equips your car with this Bird-Sykes full-vision enclosure. Takes only two days from the time of your appointment. Arrange it now.

So Neat It Harmonizes with the Lines of Fine Cars

This full-vision enclosure is made entirely of steel tubing, glass and rubber. Each pane of glass is set weather-tight and rattle-proof in a rubber cushion. The outside edges of each frame are finished with extending feather-edge rubber. This rubber fills the space between frame and body, frame and top, and frame and frame. The frames never come in contact with the car or with each other, yet they are perfectly weather-tight and rattle-proof.

All doors open. Ample ventilation, easily controlled. No change required in touring top. Enclosure weighs about half as much as an average passenger. It can be removed in a few minutes for summer storage, and put on in a few hours. It stores flat against the wall; requires little space.

Don't take chances with human life driving with storm curtains which obscure vision. Remember, a few days' illness from exposure will cost you more than this enclosure. Prepare in advance for disagreeable weather. Our facilities are limited, and customers must take their turn.

Rex Enclosures Give Hupmobile Touring Models Closed Car Comfort

THE NEW HUPMOBILE REDUCED TO $1175
f. o. b. Detroit—Tax Extra

With the addition of Rex Enclosures, especially designed for the purpose, the new series Hupmobile touring car is quickly transformed into a snug and trim enclosed model.

These ingenious and well-tailored glass panels guarantee absolute protection from rain, wind and cold—in fact all the comforts that a closed car can give. Furthermore they are so cleverly designed and carefully fitted that there is never a rattle. They can be removed in 15 minutes.

The glass in the four doors is divided into two sections. The sections slide backward and forward to permit proper ventilation and easy signaling. Door panels become a part of the body doors and open with them.

Summer curtains are also furnished so that the Hupmobile touring car owner has a properly equipped open car for the warm months and a thoroughly protected closed car for winter. Let us show you a Rex Enclosure installed when you come in to study the improvements in the new series Hupmobile models.

The price of Rex Enclosures for the Hupmobile touring model is only $85

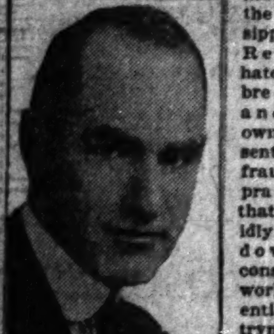
Central West Lays Plans to Abolish Chick Bootlegging

Accredited Hatcheries of Wisconsin Attract Wide Attention.

By Frank Ridgway.

BOOTLEGGING baby chicks through methods that rival rum runners who sell inferior booze under fake labels has become a thriving business for many hatcherymen and is undermining the poultry industry of the Mississippi valley. Reliable hatcheries, breeders, and farm owners resent these fraudulent practices that are rapidly tearing down the constructive work of scientific poultrymen.



J. D. HARPER.
[Kaufmann & Fabry Photo.]

It has been a common practice for hatcheries to use market eggs or eggs from poorer flocks for hatching purposes, and to advertise these baby chicks in glowing terms as high quality stock from leading egg producing and show strains, according to information given out by H. M. Lackie of the state department of markets in Wisconsin. He considers this gross misrepresentation of facts. "Cheap chicks are produced from cheap eggs, and reputable breeders of good stock do not sell eggs at market prices," he says.

Antis Lay Their Plans.

Throughout the great poultry belt of the central west poultrymen are awake to the importance and necessity of putting an end to chick bootlegging. For several months the antis have been laying their plans. They believe the elimination of dishonest chick hatcheries is a necessary step in hitching their horse to the right end of the cart before starting to town with eggs, fryers, and broilers all in the coöperative marketing basket. To carry their end of the load of a billion dollar industry breeders know they must begin building at the bottom.

The baby chick phase of the industry is regarded as the place where improvement can be most effectively started. The whole structure is to be jacked up, the sandy foundation—diseased, mongrel layers, and hatchery men's advertisements misrepresenting facts—will be discarded, and a superstructure plan of inspection certification, and accreditation with the qualities of solid rock is being constructed to make poultry raising in the future more secure.

Badger State in Lead.

Wisconsin has taken the lead in accrediting hatcheries and certifying farm hatchery flocks. Illinois will probably be next to take up the new plan; other states are considering it and are expected to fall in line within the next few years. The accredited hatchery idea is attracting such interest that it will no doubt be adopted nation-wide within the next decade.

More than forty hatcheries are operating under the accredited plan in Wisconsin. They put more than 4,000,000 "Wisconsin standard chicks" on farms in the Badger state last season. This does not include chicks sold outside of Wisconsin, the only state that is operating under this new plan.

The baby chick business has been growing by leaps and bounds and has been one of the important factors which have made it possible for farmers and poultrymen to increase greatly the size of their laying flocks without the necessity of producing their own chicks. Specialists are gradually taking over the work of incubating eggs and getting the broods started on the way. The day old chick business which experts believe is here to stay has become a commercial proposition and must be regulated and controlled for the benefit of legitimate hatcherymen and poultrymen.

Inferiors Must Go.

Mr. Lackie says that if poultry keeping on farms is to continue to progress and to become more profitable, better stock must be available. "And it is here," he says, "that the influence of the hatchery will be most apparent. No improvement will ever be made by flooding our farms with mongrel and inferior chicks. Enough of these are already found there. And no good hatchery business can be built up without recognizing the production of good chicks as a fundamental principle in that business."

Official recognition of hatcheries producing good stock in Wisconsin is given under the accrediting plan, worked out by the state department of markets in coöperation with the poultry department of the University of Wisconsin. The significance of it is that a definite standard must be followed in producing and selling baby chicks. Officials of the state department inspect farm flocks that supply eggs for incubation purposes to hatcheries. The hatcheries, in order to be accredited, must undergo rigid inspection and live up to the requirements laid down by the state department. Full details of the plan are given in a bulletin, "Wisconsin Accredited Hatcheries," issued by the state department of markets at Madison.

Committees at Work.

Illinois is seriously considering the accredited system to meet the needs of poultrymen in this state and will no doubt, use the Wisconsin plan as a basis. Two preliminary conferences have been held by representatives of farm flock owners, the state department of agriculture, and hatcheries in Illinois. Two separate committees, one representing the hatcheries and the other the breeders, were appointed at the recent meeting held in Springfield. These committees will present their accredited hatchery plans at a conference to be held in Springfield on Oct. 10.

The plan is being fostered by J. D. Harper of the Illinois Agricultural association, who says that if an agreement can be reached at the October meeting many of the hatcheries of this state will be operating under the accredited system by next spring, and thousands of high grade chicks will be put on Illinois farms in 1924.

The attempt to adopt the Wisconsin plan in this state, according to Mr. Harper, has not met with any serious opposition and, while it may be modified to some extent, leaders believe an agreement will be reached when the committees make their report next month.

Direction of the inspection work will fall in the hands of Harry W. Day, supervising director of standardization of markets, coming under the new standardization law passed at the last session of the legislature.

Illinois leaders and officials propose to go one step farther than Wisconsin to make secure the poultry industry of this state, which now produces a total of more than $67,000,000 worth of eggs and poultry a year, by requiring a test for bacillary white diarrhea. This disease is believed to be prevalent in the majority of flocks over the state.

Dr. Robert Graham, veterinarian of the University of Illinois, says the average of his tests for white diarrhea in flocks over this state is from 15 to 25 per cent. His tests cover a period of many years. The disease is preventable; it cannot be successfully treated with medicines, but can be controlled by eliminating infected birds and by the use of sanitary measures.

CHAMP THREE TIMES

HE'S 90 PER CENT PERFECT.—Walcowis Ollie Hylaard, aged Holstein bull, captured the grand championship honor for the third time at the recent Wisconsin state fair, winning in 1921, 1922, and 1923. When compared by actual measurements with the true-type model Holstein bull established by the National Holstein association, this bull measures more than 90 per cent perfect. He is owned by E. P. Coon, Dr. G. W. Post, J. W. Jones, and J. A. Craig, all Wisconsin dairymen.

Farmers' Bulletins Anticipate Problems

Larderers out on the farm are hustling around these days filling up the storehouse for winter, making fruit butters, digging sweet potatoes, cutting corn, packing fruits, shooing jack frost away, picking seed corn, making cider, and preparing for the first "hog killin'" day. Experts at Washington, D. C., have anticipated many of the problems that come up in the fall when the larder is being filled, and have prepared the following free bulletins and circulars in the department of agriculture to help the farmer out:

Farmers' Bulletin 900, Homemade Fruit Butters; 926, Some Common Disinfectants; 927, Farm House Conveniences; 970, Sweet Potato Storage; 992, Use of Machinery in Cutting Corn; 1067, Feeding Hens for Egg Production; 1080, Preparation of Barreled Apples for Market; 1096, Frost and the Prevention of Damage from It; 1160, Diseases of Apples in Storage; 1172, Slaughtering and Use of Lamb and Mutton, 1175; Better Seed Corn; 1186, Pork on the Farms; Killing, Curing, and Canning; 1194, Operating a Home Heating Plant; 1223, The Chinch Bug and Its Control; 1250, Green Manuring; 1264, Farm Manufacture of Unfermented Apple Juice; 1265, Business Methods of Marketing Hay.

Department Circular 166, Influence of Winter Rations on Growth of Steers on Pastures; 238, United States Grades for Potatoes Recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Important Autumn Conferences.

Sugar beet and cabbage growers will hold two important conferences this fall for the purpose of laying their plans to market these crops coöperatively. The western sugar beet growers will hold their conference at Denver, Colo., on Oct. 30. The cabbage growers will meet at Toledo, O., on Nov. 5. The Nebraska Beet Growers' association and the farm bureau in that state requested the American Farm bureau to call the meeting at Denver, which will be attended by representatives of beet farmers in California, Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, and several of the central states. While Ohio cabbage growers took the initial step in calling the Toledo conference, truck farmers in New York, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Iowa, New Jersey, and Virginia are expected to be represented.

More Motor Luxury for Every Penny Than You Ever Bought Before

When you examine the improved Chalmers Six and take your first ride, reject all previous standards suggested by the new low price—$1185.

First let the car—its appealing beauty, its splendid equipment, its rich appointments and its brilliant performance—tell its own story.

Of one thing you may be sure. It will be a story in values you have never heard before—a story that would be hard to believe, were the evidence not before you in concrete terms. Chalmers engineers, with greater experience and greater resources than are commonly available, have made the supreme effort.

It is entirely up to you to render the verdict. The nature of that verdict can never be in doubt, for we are confident you can buy in the improved Chalmers Six far more luxurious motoring for every penny expended than the industry has ever before offered.

Own Your Own Garage!!
Easy Monthly Payments—Just Like Garage Rent!

These world's famous "Presto-Up," patented, permanent Garages are easily within reach of all. Cheaper than garage rent because they pay for themselves in one year, earning 100 per cent on the investment for you. Many are buying double garages and allowing the rental on the other half to pay their installments.

Made Complete Here in Our Factory!

"PRESTO-UP" Patented Garages come to you in complete units, can be erected in a day, eliminating all the worries of buying lumber, hardware, glass, paints, etc., and the attendant annoyances and muss and fuss around your yard for weeks; therefore, do not be confused by attractive offers that mean only a load or two of rough lumber—when you buy a "PRESTO-UP" you can come here and see the buildings showing exactly how the finished building will appear on your lot. No guesswork, no substitution, no disappointments. "PRESTO-UP" Garages are permanent, much stronger than many garages built under old style methods.

Best Quality Material Throughout!

Only the best lumber used—extra heavy sills, plates and corner posts—clear kiln dried fir siding—fifteen year guaranteed slate surfaced roofing, all hardware, extra heavy hinges, patented door holders—patented "No-Sag" roof trusses, "No-Sag" auto doors. Auto doors painted both sides, balance of garage painted outside one good coat of house paint, trimmed in white. Many other exclusive features make them the best garages on the market. We invite your most careful comparison.

Quick Delivery!

Garages erected by customer can be delivered immediately. When erected by us a few days extra are required. Time payment orders require a few days additional.

All Other Sizes to Choose from at Proportionately Low Fall Sale Prices!

We Erect Them!

We erect garages and guarantee the work. Single garages put up for $25.00. Double garages, $35.00.

MASONIC TEMPLE AND THEATER ON "IROQUOIS" SITE

Colonial to Make Way for $5,000,000 Project.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's Rialto is to lose its most widely known landmark, the old Iroquois theater, where hundreds of Chicagoans were burned to death in 1903. The rebuilt Iroquois, now known as the Colonial, is to be wrecked and on its site a great sky touching Masonic temple with a tower climbing 300 feet above the sidewalk, and a theater with more than 3,000 seats, to cost $5,000,000, is to be erected from plans by C. W. and George L. Rapp.

This was learned yesterday when leases were signed whereby the Masonic corporation secured not only the Colonial theater but the John R. Thompson property adjoining on the east. This will give a frontage of 140 feet on Randolph for the new Masonic temple.

Lodges on Top of Theater Roof.

The eighth floor and the thirteen above it will extend entirely over the ceiling of the auditorium and will be devoted to lodge halls, with an enormous drill hall on the top floor. There'll be about seventeen halls, capable of accommodating more than 100 lodges, or all the Chicago lodges which meet in the loop.

Elmer E. Beach, grand master of Illinois Masons, has been working on this project for several years. He is a member of Beach & Beach, attorneys for the lessees.

Plan New Syndicate House.

Harry J. Powers stated that he and A. L. Erlanger, who, with Marc Klaw, compose the Metropolis Theater company, owners of the original leasehold, will build a playhouse elsewhere in the loop to care for productions now handled by the Colonial. It will be open season after next. Wrecking of the Colonial will begin next May.

The new Randolph street playhouse, as yet unnamed, will have its stage on the west of the property, as the Colonial does, with a mezzanine floor, a huge balcony, and an entrance into Randolph street forty-eight feet wide. The big stage will have a proscenium opening sixty feet wide. That it will be one of the largest loop playhouses will be seen when it is remembered the Chicago theater seats about 4,600, the Auditorium 3,623, and the State-Lake 2,750.

Who Will Lease the Theater?

One of the most interesting angles to the entire project is the question of who the tenant of the theater will be. This is to be announced shortly.

Now for the figures: The Metropolis Theater company, which holds a long term lease from the Levy Mayer estate, has subleased its property to the Masons for 127 years, $100,000 annually for the first fifteen years; $105,000 for the next fifteen; $110,000 for fifteen; $120,000 for fifteen, and $125,000 yearly for the remaining sixty-seven.

Long Term Rental $21,225,000.

To John R. Thompson the lessees will pay $40,000 annually for the first fifteen, then $45,000 for fifteen, and $50,000 yearly for the remaining ninety-seven of the 127 year term. The leases are dated May 1, 1924. The total rental will come to $21,225,000. Harry J. Farnham and Frederick T. Kuhn represented all parties. Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt were attorneys for the lessors.

The Colonial has had a checkered career. At the height of its prosperity it was nearly wiped out by one of the most terrible theater fires in history. It was reopened as "The Vaudeville," and then later the name was changed to the Colonial.

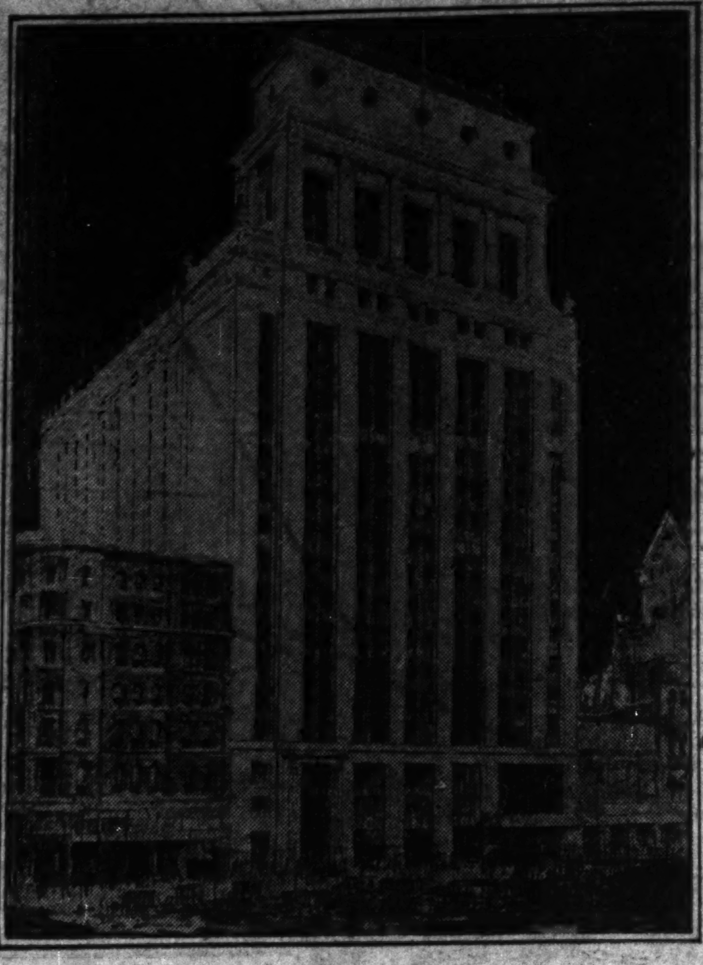
Cottage Grove Warehouse to Be Made Store Building

Kessel Brothers, a furniture and storage concern, at 4032 South State, have bought the five story store and warehouse building at 4312 Cottage Grove from the Flanders estate for $32,500 cash and will remodel into a modern retail furniture store and occupy it as soon as present lease expires. Alfred F. Donegan of Ross & Co. was broker. Jacob Brisgall was attorney.

BUYS HOUSES FOR GARAGE SITE.

Charles Parker, restaurateur, has bought two brick residences, lot 46x75, at 5106-08 Kenwood, from Adolph Walter, for a reported $21,250 cash, in order to secure space for a garage for his residence at 1321 Hyde Park boulevard. The O'Hern-Frear company was broker in both deals.

Masons' $5,000,000 Loop Temple



Above is Chicago's new downtown Masonic temple, to care for all the lodges which met in the old Masonic temple on State, now called the Capitol building, and many more. There'll also be a big theater in the rear, where the Colonial now is. C. W. and George L. Rapp are architects. More is told in a nearby column.

Subdivisions

Evanston is to have a new subdivision as a result of the Poor Sisters of the St. Frances Seraph of the Perpetual Adoration of Illinois selling 498x331 on Custer avenue, 439 south of Oakton, to Vincent M. Reed and Edward H. Payne for an indicated $40,000. Sherman avenue is to be cut through, and thirty lots, zoned for apartments, will be sold by Smart & Golee. There will be an east frontage on Custer of 498 feet and the same west frontage on Sherman.

One of the largest single pieces of unsubdivided property in Homewood, the thirty-one acre farm of Carl Puhrmann at Main and Ashland, was bought by W. H. Gladville, former Chicago druggist and now a resident of Homewood. The seller was the State Bank of Chicago, trustee for the Sherman T. Cooper estate. The property will be subdivided into 110 building lots, some 55x196 and some 60x196, with building lines and restrictions on residences. The subdivision is four blocks from the station. Three hundred shade trees will be planted along the streets to be cut through.

H. W. Elmore & Co. announce several more subdivisions. The twenty acres bounded by Forest Glen, Caldwell, Rogers, and Kercheval avenues, will be known as Elmore's Forest View. Rogers avenue will be zoned for business. Five acres bounded by 86th, 87th, Rhodes, and St. Lawrence and five acres bounded by 93d, 94th, Bishop and Laflin are to be placed on the market. Mr. Elmore says the total retail value is $350,000.

Talman & Thiele have purchased the land bounded by North, Bloomingdale, 74th, and 76th avenues, just north of River Forest, and will at once place it on the market. Lots will be sold with sewer, water, and cement sidewalks.

George A. Carelin is head of a syndicate which has bought twenty acres at the northwest corner of State and 79th from James M. Loughlin, for a reported $125,000. The property will be subdivided at once. Extensive improvements are announced. A store and office building will be erected at the transfer corner, and fifty-two flat buildings are contemplated. Brown & Hammer represented the seller and will handle the sale of the subdivision. F. A. Carelin & Co. represented the buyer.

PLANS BUILDING ON CRAWFORD.

Jake Ablin has bought the northeast corner of Crawford and Gladys, 125x100, for $37,000 and will erect a store, office, and flat building, according to Boehm & Winterson, who represented the buyer.

News of the Architects

Eliel Saarinen of Hensingfors, Finland, who in THE TRIBUNE architectural competition and for some time thereafter, was associated with Dwight G. Wallace and Bertell Grenman, announces that he has not been connected with them for some months. He has established himself temporarily in Evanston at 112 Maple avenue. His telephone is Evanston 5788.

SOUTH STATE STREET LEASE.

The Columbia Mills, Inc., shade cloth manufacturers, have leased from T. C. Dennehy the one story building at 1133 South State through Alex Friend & Co.

$250,000 ORIENTAL CAFE IS PLANNED FOR NEW UPTOWN BUILDING

Uptown is going to have one of the most elaborate oriental cafes in the country as a result of a lease signed yesterday for 15,000 square feet of space in the new three story Broadway-Halsted building, now under erection at Grace, Broadway, and Halsted.

Practically all of the second floor will be used for a Chinese and American restaurant to be operated by King Joy Lo, which now operates a cafe at 57 West Randolph street. Moy Wah June and his son, Howard S. Moy, cashier and vice president of the Equitable Trust company, have signed the lease which calls for a total rental of $720,000 for a thirty year term, or $2,000 a month.

The lessees state they expect to spend $250,000 in making it the most gorgeous cafe of its kind anywhere. It will have a large stage and a dancing floor for patrons. The lease starts Feb. 1, 1924. Irwin Grossman was attorney for the lessor, the Broadway-Halsted Building corporation, and E. A. Zimmerman represented the lessees.

After ten years' association with F. D. P. Snelling & Co. of 56 West Randolph street, A. G. Beiner has opened his own offices at 4614 Sheridan road, phone Ardmore 3143, under the name of A. G. Beiner & Co.

H. W. Croxton and Andrew G. Schneider announce the dissolution of the firm of Croxton, Schneider & Co. Mr. Croxton recently organized H. W. Croxton & Co., with offices at the same location, Leland and Kenmore.

Johnson Brothers of 4722 North Kedzie avenue, have opened loop offices at 128 North Wells street, phone State 2210 and 2211; also a branch office at 4807 Belmont avenue, phone Palisade 2671, under the management of Edward Shackell, who has been associated with them for three years.

Plan 42 Flat Building at Lawndale and Arthington

Simon D. Korman has bought the northeast corner of Lawndale and Arthington, 150x125, from Albin V. Regnall for a reported $17,500, through the J. C. Chutkow company, and will start work at once on a forty-two apartment building to cost approximately $250,000. Dubin & Eisenberg will be architects. Completion is set for May 1, 1924.

Makes $32,000 Profit on Roseland Cor. in 5 Months

Aleck L. Bernstein of Bernstein, Zolla & Bernstein bought the two story building at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and 111th place, in Roseland's loop, last May for $75,000. He has just sold it to Louis L. Gumbiner for an indicated $107,000. The 53x116 two story building contains stores, offices, and flats.

Jake L. Hamon Buys House on North La Salle Street

Jake L. Hamon, son of the late Jake L. Hamon of Oklahoma, has bought the three story residence at 1322-24 North La Salle, lot 50x153, from I. M. Marshall for a reported $45,000, subject to $19,000. Crowe Bros. & Co. were brokers.

POST COMPANY BUYS FACTORY.

The Chicago Concrete Post company has bought the property at Lawrence, Leland, and Lamon, formerly occupied by the Continental Chemical Works, for a reported $25,000, and will move there from 2017 Larrabee. Frank P. Murphy was broker, and Austin J. Rooney and John L. McInerney were attorneys.

NEW MARKET FOR NORTH CLARK.

Ditrich Lunde, wholesale meats, has bought the seventy feet at 1211-15 North Clark, with old improvements, from Lena Stein for $75,000 and will remodel at a reported cost of $100,000 into a large meat market, with offices above and a wholesale plant in the rear. I. H. Bellows of H. O. Stone & Co. and Earle Shilton were brokers.

J. E. EHRENHALT AND L. R. CERF IN NEW REALTY FIRM

Louis R. Cerf of Louis R. Cerf & Co., and Jacob E. Ehrenhalt, formerly sales manager of Mark Levy & Bro., have formed a partnership under the firm name of Cerf & Ehrenhalt and will have their offices in the Marquette building. They will deal in business and apartment properties and leases. Louis R. Cerf & Co.'s former offices also were in the Marquette building. The new organization goes into effect tomorrow.

Brokers' Notes.

Kelly Brothers, builders and real estate dealers, who recently completed and sold thirty-four bungalows on Clyde and Merrill avenues, between 80th and 81st streets, have opened a local office at 1527 East 63d, phone Hyde Park 5562. Their main office is at 5710 South Robey.

S. P. Linehan, formerly with Steinbach & Co., and recently with Hoffman & Co., has opened an office of his own at 4737 Broadway. His phone is Ardmore 3220.

L. J. White & Co., Inc., real estate dealers and builders, have established a loop office at 82 West Washington. Their north side office is at 2342 Devon avenue.

Louis T. Orr to Lecture to Y. M. C. A. on Renting

Louis T. Orr of the Howard & Orr company will be the lecturer at this week's Y. M. C. A. School of Commerce realty class. He will discuss "Residential Renting."

Owing to the number of applications for the course an additional class has been formed, as already announced, to meet at 7:55 on Tuesday evening, immediately after the regular class. There also will be a day class starting on Tuesday at 6:45 a. m.

BUYS CLARK-BRYN MAWR CORNER.

The fifteen flats and five stores at the northeast corner of Clark and Bryn Mawr were sold by Moe Shapiro to Hyman Halper for an indicated $161,000, subject to $61,000. Samuel Gonan of Harrison & Reidy represented the buyer and Schallman & Co. the seller.

$55,000 FOR WINNETKA HOUSE.

Fred W. Fairman has bought the nine room residence of Charles L. Weeks at 600 Ash street, corner of Walnut, Winnetka, lot 187x187, for a reported $55,000, through the Winnetka office of Hill & Stone.

TURN 'EM AWAY FROM NORTHWESTERN COURSE OF REALTY LECTURES

Classes in real estate practice are growing more and more popular. Close on the heels of the announcement that the Chicago Real Estate board's course at the Y. M. C. A. School of Commerce has had such a rush of would-be realtors that three seperate series will be given comes word from Northwestern university that its new realty coures conducted by the School of Commerce is turning 'em away.

According to Elmer Allen Claar, instructor in the Northwestern course, there was such an attendance at the opening lecture that it was repeated the following Wednesday night and now a third lecture is being considered. The regular lecture is held on Thursday evenings and the second one on Wednesdays.

Still another course of realty lectures is announced. The Knights of Columbus free evening schools for ex-service men and women, which open for the season Monday and Tuesday evenings, will have classes in each of the three schools in charge of real estate experts. The courses are free to all who have honorable discharges from U. S. service in the world war. Others are admitted at a minimum fee.

PLAN $700,000 APARTMENTS ON WOODLAWN AVE.

Work will start the middle of October on a $700,000 apartment project at 5020-34 Woodlawn avenue, from plans by Dubin & Eisenberg. There will be two buildings, one a court structure and the other "L" shaped. One will have seventy-four apartments and the other thirty-one. The total site is 207x298. The court building will have a lobby, 40x21, with fireplace, into which will open four entrances to twenty-four apartments. There'll be a 22x50 playroom. Completion date is set for next May. The owners are Sam Silverman and Simon Kerman.

Several Concerns Move to New Industrial Center

The announcement during the week that the Western Electric company had leased a big plant in the Ashland industrial center at 74th street and Ashland avenue leads to the discovery that eight other big concerns have located in the new factory district, although little was given out by the owners of the industrial center, the Ashland Industries corporation, at the time they settled there.

The others are Harris Brothers company, Winkler Reichmann company, Beckwith Iron company, Harvey Metals corporation, Leonard Machinery and Tool company, Machinery Warehouse company, Scott Manufacturing company, and the Miles Piston Ring company.

This property was the site of the gigantic Symington Arms plant, built during the war for government use. It is served by the Belt line and through roads.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

REALTORS PLAN ACTIVE THREE DAYS AT MOLINE

Convention Program to Be Elaborate One.

What Illinois realtors will do in the way of business and pleasure at the seventh annual convention of the state association, to be held at Moline Oct. 18, 19, and 20, was announced last night for the first time when the official program was given out.

JOHN W. McDOWELL.
[Nash, Peoria, Photo]

John W. McDowell of Peoria, president of the Illinois Realtors' association, will call the convention to order at 10 a. m. on Thursday. There'll be the usual address of welcome by the mayor, reports of officials, etc. At the afternoon session Paul Steinbrecher will deliver the keynote address, Frank Slosson will discuss "How to Determine Rental Values of Business Property," and William Babcock will talk on "The Broker and Appraisals."

Chicago President to Speak.

On Friday farm lands and home builders and subdividers will be the program. Negotiations are under way for former Secretary of Agriculture Meredith to speak. Raymond Hancock will discuss "Financing and Building Homes on Small Payments." Harry Goldstine, president of the Chicago board, will talk on the "Acquirement of Property by Condemnation."

In the afternoon C. D. Macpherson will tell of the effect of city planning and zoning on realty values; Eugene Brown will talk on "Advertising and Selling Subdivisions" and Mrs. William H. Wright of Oak Park will discuss "Result Getting Advertising and Putting System in a General Real Estate Office."

Maj. Max Murdock, assistant director of the department of registration and education of Illinois, will open the Saturday session with a talk on the Illinois license law. President L. F. Eppich of the national association will speak about that organization. H. U. Nelson, national executive secretary, will tell of the practical work of the national association. John Lyle Vette, attorney for the Illinois realtors, will deliver an address on "Legislative Accomplishments Past anr Proposed."

Dancing and Cards.

Moline realtors plan an elaborate social program for the visiting realty men and their wives. There'll be a luncheon and card party at the Moline Country club on Thursday afternoon. That same evening there'll be an informal reception and dance at the Hotel Le Claire.

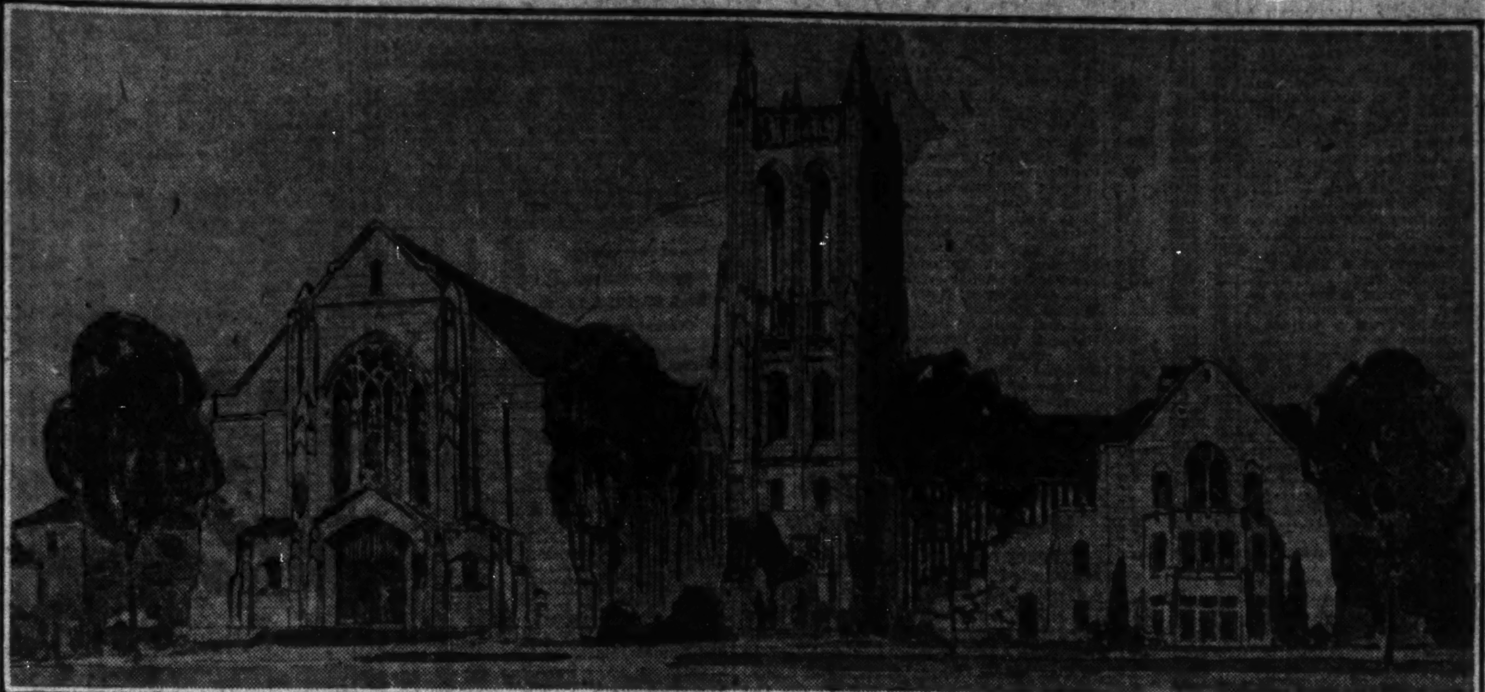
The next day a motor trip around the city, Moline, Rock Island, and Davenport is planned for late in the afternoon when the hard working realtors have finished their day's business session. The annual banquet will be held in the evening at the Hotel Le Claire. The Danville home town cup contest will follow the dinner. The Peoria realty board will give a real estate comedy.

Many realtors plan motoring to Moline. So far about seventy have signed up to journey along with the Oak Park board. A hundred are expected to go by train.

GARDEN FOR OLD FOLKS' HOME.

The Evangelical Lutheran Old Folks' Home association has bought forty acres one mile north of Arlington Heights and half a mile north of the home from Wilhelm Kehe at $14,000. It will be used as a garden for the home. Winton & Norton were brokers.

New Home of First Methodist Church of Oak Park



If Oak Park Methodists look at this page before they go to church this morning they'll see for the first time a picture of their new church edifice to be erected at Superior and Oak Park avenue. A pamphlet showing this same picture, in colors, will be distributed at services of the First Methodist Episcopal church today. The new building will take the place of the edifice at Lake and Forest, which burned on Feb. 19, and which had housed the congregation for half a century.

The total cost of the new building, according to the pastor, the Rev. Merle N. English, D.D., will be approximately $400,000. This includes land, parsonage, etc. It will be in English Gothic, of stone and half timbered construction, with a memorial tower, connecting sanctuary and church house, to be dedicated to the memory of the men of the church who served in the world war and whose names will be set in its walls.

"It will be one of the most complete churches in equipment in the middle west," said Dr. English, "making adequate provision for worship, a modern program of religious education, social and recreational activities. Separate rooms are provided for each of the departments of the church school, these rooms being equipped for the specific work the departments are to do.

"A special feature is being made of the small chapel, which will be finished the same as the auditorium and be used for small funerals, weddings, baptisms, and other services where the atmosphere of the sanctuary is desired, with accommodations for small audiences."

A nursery and space for storage of perambulators is provided for the beginners' and primary departments of the church school.

Tallmadge & Watson are architects. Foltz & Brand are associate architects.

HEFTER & WELLS AND E. B. BEATTY MERGE INTERESTS

Hefter & Wells and E. B. Beatty & Co. announce the merger of their firms under the name of Hefter, Wells & Beatty, Inc. They will occupy the present offices of Hefter & Wells in the Otis building and specialize in sales and leases of business property and chain store renting. The new firm has opened a branch office at 2327 East 71st street, corner Oglesby avenue, where they will conduct a general real estate business in south side properties.

SELLS STORES AT PROFIT.

Henry N. Misch bought from Attorney Samuel B. Epstein the seven one story stores fronting 125 feet on West 26th street, at at the northwest corner of Spaulding avenue, for a reported $86,000, through Rosenburg & Lurie. Mr. Epstein purchased the property through the same brokers last February for $76,000.

OLD HOMESTEAD OF R. T. CRANE TO BE TORN DOWN

Another old time show place of residential Chicago is to be torn down for apartments. Tomorrow the American House Wrecking company will start demolishing the famous old homestead of Richard T. Crane at 3319 West Washington boulevard. The old brown stone front house will be supplanted by a fifty-two apartments building to be erected by L. Susman. It will take just two and a half weeks to wreck the Crane house.

PLAN LAKE FOR WILD FOWL IN NEW PRESERVE

The forest preserve commissioners have bought 161 acres just north of Orland, at the southwest corner of 133d and Keane avenue, adjoining land they already own, from Frank R. Campbell and others for $44,530. An unusual feature planned is a lake of fifty acres to be made by building a dam. In the lake wild rice is to be grown and an attempt made to entice various wild fowl to it.

HOUSES AT EIGHTEENTH AVE. South of St Charles MAYWOOD ILL.
DESIGNED AND BUILT by MR. CARL FROETSCHER 127 Eighteenth Avenue MAYWOOD ILL.

There are seven FLAXLINUM insulated houses in this row. You can't buy a house anywhere that will save more fuel money and bring more all round comfort than one of these.

When Lower Fuel Bills Help Pay Off The Mortgage

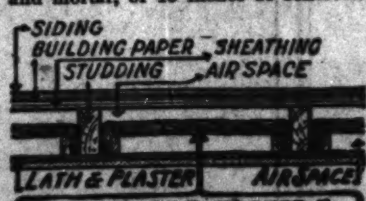
What Flaxlinum Is

FLAXLINUM is a felted material made of durable, chemically purified flax fibre. When built into the walls and roof of a house it seals the interior against outside temperature changes.

The tests of fourteen years in thousands of homes, as well as laboratory tests upon heat transmissions, prove FLAXLINUM the most durable, most efficient and most practical of all insulating materials. FLAXLINUM is made solely from pure linen fibres, yet costs little if any more than much cheaper made materials. Nothing else can pay such dividends in comfort and economy.

For walls it is made ½-inch thick with flanged edges to permit it to fit snugly between the studding. For roofs, sheets 1 inch in thickness are recommended. In applying FLAXLINUM no special construction is necessary. It will last as long as any house built. It will not crack, break or "sift down."

One-half inch of FLAXLINUM is equivalent in heat and cold resistance to 2½ inches of wood, eight inches of brick and mortar, or 13 inches of concrete.



FLAXLINUM
This is the Material that keeps the Cold Out

If all uneasiness about fuel costs and the comfort of the house in winter and summer could be removed who wouldn't build or buy a home of his own?

The unfamiliarity of houses and how they are built is perhaps keeping you from owning your home.

Then think what it means that Realtors and Contractors here are now building houses for sale lined with FLAXLINUM, the material that keeps out the cold.

Think of home in terms of lowered fuel bills that help pay the interest on the mortgage, in terms of comfort during the winter and cool bedrooms in summer. These are the qualities of houses lined with FLAXLINUM.

Then if you should ever wish to sell, see how your own comfortable and economical operation of that home will add to its resale value.

And there is another point also. The Realtors and Contractors who use FLAXLINUM are more than likely the ones who build strong substantial houses, houses as good as any ever built in years gone by.

If you want a home get the FLAXLINUM Booklet with its sample and story, and go to the Realtor or Architect and Contractor who can say "All my houses are lined with FLAXLINUM."

"Standard" PLUMBING FIXTURES

Each year an increasing number of large new buildings are being equipped with "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures. These are especially selected wherever dependability and reliability of functioning under hard usage is a necessity.

We maintain a permanent display of these fixtures at the Chicago "Standard" Showroom. Architects, builders and plumbers are invited to use this display for demonstrating efficient plumbing fixtures to their clients.

REFUTES "2% OF PEOPLE OWN 65% OF WEALTH"

BY SCRUTATOR.

In the next number of the Iron Age W. R. Ingalls, noted mining engineer and economist, will publish an article effectively disposing of the formula that "2 per cent of the population own 65 per cent of the wealth of the United States." Mr. Ingalls shows pretty conclusively that they cannot own more than 30 per cent of the nation's physical wealth.

Readers of this column will recall that this formula, which some of our "progressives" have recently dragged from library shelves to the hustings, was discussed here and the opinion expressed that it would not hold water.

The writer used census figures as to the ownership of farms and urban homes, the known figures as to the ownership of bank deposits, insurance policies and corporation securities, and pointed out that the character of other property such as automobiles, furniture and clothing, indicated its wide spread ownership.

The "two per cent, 65 per cent formula" was derived from probate court statistics. Only this week the writer has received from an Iowa attorney a most crushing refutation of the whole theory of determining the distribution of wealth by such methods, and also an acknowledgement from one of the authors of the formula, that he is of a different opinion now. These will appear later.

Mr. Ingalls approaches the problem of the distribution of wealth by making an analysis of known figures as to its distribution and also the distribution of the 67.9 billions of funded debts and bank debts. From this preliminary survey he makes an assumption, which is intentionally extravagant. He assigns to the "rich," the "2 per cent" the ownership of 75 per cent of all industrial property; 75 per cent of all stocks of goods; more than that of the stocks of gold and silver; all private foreign credits; $5,000 each of clothes, furniture and automobiles; all rented city houses; all other urban real estate; all state, county and city bonds; all the mortgages on homes and farms; one half the government bonds.

Subtracting from that stupendous total of wealth, only the known holdings of the savings banks and insurance companies, he gets the figure of 134 billions of dollars. But if the "rich" really owned all that, they would hold 46 not 65 per cent of the national wealth, using the lowest extant figure as to the total of national wealth, $272,000,000,000.

Approaching the problem from the capitalization of the income received by the rich, Mr. Ingalls shows how excessive the preliminary estimate of 46 per cent is. Taking the income tax returns for 1916, when only the rich were taxed and there were comparatively few tax exempt bonds in existence, and no high surtaxes to cause evasion by that means, Mr. Ingalls shows the 427,000 income tax payers that year, assuming them to be heads of families, represent only 1.7 per cent of the population, not quite 2 per cent.

The income tax statistics show the total income received by these taxpayers in the form of interest, rent, dividends, business incomes, and wages and salaries. Allowing landlords a 10 per cent return, a 5 per cent interest rate, and a 6 per cent dividend rate, and making the proper allowances for the other sorts of income and for home ownership, it is evident that this 1.7 per cent of the population in 1916 received an income which, capitalized, indicated the ownership of property worth only $68,000,000,000. This is only about 25 per cent of the total wealth of the United States in 1916. Making every allowance, this part of the population could not have owned more than 30 per cent of the physcial wealth of the country.

Allowing for intangible wealth, such as the value of going concerns above their reproduction or market value, it might be possible to capitalize the ability, experience, and personal organizations of the rich and all the other elements which enter into "intangibles," in such a manner as to give the rich enough "intangibles" to boost their wealth up to 46 per cent of the national total. Under this 1916 classification, the "rich" included everybody with an income of $3,000 and upward in that year.

Mr. Ingalls' paper, which is a most careful extension of the analysis essayed in this column, with an entirely different angle of approach in addition, ought to set the "2 per cent own 65 per cent" slogan to rest, but it will not. Like the myth of the 25,000 "war millionaires" it has become a legend and therefore immortal.

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

[Copyright: 1923: Fairchild News Service.]

NEW YORK.—The three day army surplus goods auction in Brooklyn brought total receipts of approximately $1,000,000. The attendance of buyers was large and bidding generally keen. A lot of Habutai silk aroused strong competition.

COHOES, N. Y.—Heavyweight underwear mills in this district are now in a good position as regards business, although there is by no means a rush for merchandise. Nevertheless, duplicate orders now coming in, while not individually large, bulk big.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Japan has removed import duties on a large list of commodities, effective on Sept. 17, according to department of commerce advices. Cotton and woolen yarns and goods, shoes, and clothing are among the items affected.

NEW YORK.—What is believed to be the first complete line of both hosiery and underwear ever to be offered by a single manufacturer selling direct to retailers will be placed formally on the market Monday. The line is that of Munsingwear corporation. Prices are reported to be about the same as those on last spring's line.

BOSTON, Mass.—The Kennedy company is incorporated under Massachusetts laws to bring into one organization ten Kennedy stores located in three New England states. The founder retains control. It is announced there will be no change in policy.

NEW YORK.—Higher prices for cotton hosiery have throttled buying, according to leading sellers here. Some heavy orders were being received before the advance became effective, but buyers now appear to have lost interest in the merchandise.

NEW YORK.—Healthy activity has been apparent in the local women's silk undergarment market during the last week or two. The threatened silk shortage, coming at the time of the normal holiday buying season, puts snap into the demand. Although stiff, prices are reported to be unchanged.

'Hold Back Your Hogs,' Is Advice of Everett C. Brown

The hog producers of the country need to stop and consider what they are doing, says Everett C. Brown, president of the Chicago Live Stock Exchange. Hogs have declined from $9.75 to $8.35 in the past three weeks. Fully 25 per cent of the receipts at Chicago the past week says Mr. Brown, have been thin light trashy hogs that are not wanted. This has had a depressing influence on the market values. Top hogs at $8.35 are entirely out of line with cattle at $12.90. If farmers get panicky and rush their hogs to markets this fall, he believes that the February, March and April market will be $2 to $3 above November and December prices.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Egg prices advanced 2c under an increased demand, with offerings not so heavy. Butter values were unchanged with trading fair. Live hens brought ½c advance, and spring chickens declined 1c.

In the potato market prices were unchanged with trade fair and arrivals 131 cars and 434 cars on track.

RAILROAD NOTES

Traffic reports given by leading officials of railroads operating east from Chicago and St. Louis indicate a practical maintenance of the high pressure operations of the last few months. In a few instances loadings have dropped for some commodities, but on the whole freight offerings are as large as any time so far, and in most cases are in excess of the totals of a year ago.

Officials of southern roads find a moderate movement of grain, especially of wheat to the gulf ports. The trade reports indicate liberal shipments of lumber, coal, and of general merchandise. Cotton movement is comparatively light so far. Buying of general merchandise, as reflected by the shipments, shows the result of high priced cotton.

Before January, 1925, the interstate commerce commission by law will compel railroad carriers to equip their systems with an automatic train control device, notices from the commission to the carriers yesterday advised. The cost of installation of a complete automatic service on all railroads of the country has been estimated as high as $1,000,000,000, it was said.

Primary Receipts for Week Drop 5,000,000 Bu

Primary receipts of grains last week aggregated 20,377,000 bu, a loss of 5,621,000 bu for the week and of 10,131,000 bu from last year. They were more than 4,000,000 bu under the five year average and the smallest in twelve years. Chicago received 3,468,000 bu, a drop of 2,466,000 bu for the week and of 4,719,000 bu from last year, being nearly 50 per cent under the five year average and the smallest at this time since 1909. Wheat receipts were the smallest in more than five years, and the run of corn at primary markets was the lightest at this period since 1919, when they were 2,230,000 bu.

Each added detail increases a Want Ad's selling power—

MRS. W. had tried vainly to rent her nicely furnished room through the following abbreviated Want Ad:

OAKDALE, 000—TO RENT—2 AND 3 RM. suite, nr. lake and pk.; reas. Grace, 0000.

The Want Ad was small and the season was slow and Mrs. W. did not get the results she expected The Tribune to bring her. She was advised by The Tribune's representative to run the Want Ad again, giving a little more detailed information, which she did as follows:

OAKDALE, 000—TO RENT—2 AND 3 RM. suites; real kitch.; porches; near beach and Linc. Pk.; low summer rates. Grace, 0000.

The results from the second Want Ad were much better and the room was quickly rented. This lady now believes the truth of The Tribune's slogan, "The more you tell, the quicker you sell."

Weighty butchers outsold light hogs for the first time of the season on the week-end trade, with top of $8.30, being paid for 250@290 lbs. averages, while best light stopped at $8.15. Since the opening of the week, when top light reached $8.90, and butchers $8.75, price range has narrowed considerable, outside demand favoring the weightier kinds, which is usually the case at this time of the year. Heavy butchers and mixed grades closed on a level with Friday, while light suffered further discounts of 10@15c, the latter reflecting 70c to $1.00 loss for the week. Bulk of sales lowered 60@65c under previous Saturday, with top off 60c at $8.30, while average lowered 65c at $7.65. Strictly choice heavy butchers were scarce and shared in only 45@55c of the week's loss.

Last week's hog receipts at 156,500 were within a few hundred of arrivals previous week, being 28,700 larger than a year ago, and 43,300 above the ten year average. Shipments from Chicago at 26,600 were smallest in several months, being 11,600 smaller than previous week. Last week's estimated average weight of hogs at 243 lbs. stands 3 lbs heavier than a week ago, 8 lbs lighter than a year ago and 13 lbs above the ten year average. The week's general average price at $7.95, lowered 30c below previous week, $1.30 under a year ago and $4.00 below the ten year average.

Heavy Cattle Receipts.

Last week's cattle receipts totaled 79,000, the largest since last December. About 29,000 of the arrivals were western rangers being unusually large for so early in the season. Prices for most natives and rangers declined 40@75c, with general average price of good native beef steers lowest in about two months at $9.85. Top steers sold early in the week at $12.90, with few good enough later in the week to sell above $11.... Quality graded poorest of the season. Top westerns made $8.85.

Lambs Slump Sharply.

Business transacted in the lamb trade late last week, reflected losses of fully $1.00@1.50, as compared with a week ago, with best price paid for killers at $13.00, standing $1.50 under a week ago and $2.00 below two weeks ago. Lack of demand for lamb on the dressed meat trade in the east, caused by warm weather, placed the local live trade on an uncertain basis. However, these conditions failed to break feeding lamb values, which figured within 15@25c of a week ago at the close, late top feeders at $13.25 standing 25c above best to killers. Aged sheep were 25@50c lower than previous week's close, while yearlings slumped 50@75c.

Receipts at Chicago for Monday are estimated at 23,000 cattle, 47,000 hogs and 35,000 sheep, against 42,022 cattle, 51,758 hogs and 41,161 sheep a week ago, and 30,409 cattle, 37,000 hogs and 26,343 sheep, a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 75,000 cattle, 150,000 hogs and 125,000 sheep, against 76,796 cattle, 128,626 hogs and 95,266 sheep, the corresponding week a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs for Monday range from 33,000 to 55,000. R. W. Oaks marked 33,000, W. S. Nicholson 39,000, F. Gehrmann 40,000, W. H. Overman 44,000, F. R. Burrows 45,000, F. W. Waddell 47,000, E. R. Gentry 49,000, E. S. Waterbury 52,000, and A. G. Welhener 55,000.

FLORIDA'S CITRUS FRUIT PRODUCTION.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 29.—Productions of citrus fruits in Florida for the season 1923-'24 is estimated at 20,000,000 boxes, according to the department of agriculture. Of this total about 12,000,000 boxes will be oranges and 8,000,000 boxes grapefruit. Last season the commercial crop totaled 16,900,000 boxes, of which about 9,700,000 boxes were oranges, and 7,200,000 grapefruit.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Speculators for the decline launched another attack on the stock market at the opening yesterday concentrating in the motor and accessory issues and a few specialties, but they encountered fair resistance and an irregular recovery was under way at the close. Studebaker was hammered down to 94⅛, a new low record for the year, but it snapped back later to 95⅝, last night's close. American Woolen touched a new bottom at 72⅛, but bounded back to 74 for a net gain of nearly one point on extensive short covering. Kelly-Springfield established a new low at 23⅞ and then rallied to 24½, off 1¼.

Independent steel stocks were again offered rather freely on reports of a continued decline in mill operations, Gulf States Steel breaking 2 points but recovering part of its loss later. United States Steel closed unchanged at 86⅛ after having sold nearly half a point below that figure. Beechnut Packing, Iron Products, Manati Sugar, Stewart-Warner, American Car and Foundry, Manhattan Electric Supply, and Stromberg Carburetor, off 1¼ to 3¼ points, were the most conspicuous heavy spots.

Commission houses reported that public interest in the market was negligible, short covering operations probably accounting for the gains of a point or more in Coca Cola, Corn Products, Jones Brothers Tea, and the Pan-American Oil issues. Northwestern railroad issues continued to lose ground in speculative expectation that their earnings will be materially impaired if the proposed reduction in freight rates on grain is made effective.

Active United States government bonds continued to slide downward in the brief session of the bond market, the tax exempt 3½s and third Liberty 4¼s each touching new lows for the year. The weakness of the government issues resulted not so much from selling pressure as from absence of buyers except at concessions. Dealers were unable to state when the government may resume its buying of these bonds. Youngstown Sheet and Tube 6s dropped 3¾ on dissolution of the offering syndicate.

There is reported to be a merry scramble among the financial institutions of Wall street for banking control of Jones Brothers Tea company since the pool met disaster, ending in a stock exchange failure. One banking house held 22,000 shares and has acquired considerably more in the last few days, while a brokerage house with which it was affiliated, and which was a member of the illfated pool, is reported to have started conversations with the banking institution, looking to combining the brokerage house stock with the banking house stock for voting purposes.

Friends of the stock market are prone to base their convictions in forecasting higher prices on the fact that since June 17 the composite average of fifty representative stocks has declined to its "resistance point," no less than nine separate times without breaking through. They point to the fact that in this period there has been change of administrative leaders, complete disruption of the oil industry by overproduction, a coal strike, a serious revolution in Germany, and a stock exchange failure or so, each of them a factor of importance in influencing the liquidation of stocks.

In the railroad district predictions, based on the earning statements that have been made to date, place the net earnings for August, figured on an annual basis in excess of 5 per cent. Some estimates, based on the large increase in comparison with July, are that the earnings will be 5¼@5½ per cent, but it is pointed out by the more conservative executives that the earnings will have to be approximately 16 per cent greater in August than in July to return the same rate on the annual basis, because August is normally a heavier month than July. The earnings for July were 4.93 per cent.

The Cuba Cane Sugar corporation, in a statement to the 8 per cent convertible debenture bondholders, says: "Pending a final closing and auditing of the books, earnings for year before payment of interest or taxes or deductions for reserves are estimated at $12,000,000. The $10,000,000 loan contracted in 1921, to prior payment of which 8 per cent bonds were subordinated, has been paid off and subordination of 8 per cent debenture terminated."

Savings deposits, as reported by 894 banks distributed throughout all sections of the United States, increased during August in all federal reserve districts except in the New York, Richmond, and Atlanta districts. Deposits for the entire country on Sept. 1 were $6,659,615,000, an increase of $4,811,-000, or .07 per cent, over deposits on Aug. 1. Compared with deposits on Sept. 1, 1922, increases were noted in all districts and for the entire country the increase was $619,-247,000 or 10 per cent.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company, and other leading oil companies have followed the White Star Refining company in reducing the price of gasoline at service stations in Detroit 2 cents to 14.8 cents a gallon. Kerosene has been advanced ½c a gallon by northwestern Pennsylvania refiners.

R. P. Lamont, president of American Steel Foundries, says the buying of new cars and locomotives is practically negligible on account of the high prices demanded for equipment. He added that new business so far as his company is concerned has not been in sufficient volume to maintain recent operations, which he expects will shortly taper off.

Steamers to carry ore on the great lakes next season have been ordered by the Ford Motor company, according to word from Detroit. The company has accepted bids of the American Shipbuilding company and the Great Lakes Engineering works for boats of the 600 foot class.

Business failures reported for last week totaled 357, as against 296 in the preceding week and 375 during the corresponding week last year.

Invest with Caution.

Don't rush blindly into an investment. Too many investors do this to their sorrow. Too many are carried away by enthusiasm engendered by a glowing account of big profits predicted for them by a high power salesman. They do not stop to think. (He gives them no time.) They do not wait to consider or investigate. They are spellbound by his eloquence and promises and often, before they realize it, they have subscribed for the security he is selling. He is there to make a sale and he does it. He may be a stranger; he may be dishonest or he may merely be over enthusiastic himself. But he gets the money and the investor has invested on faith in his promises.

There are certain rules of procedure to which the amateur investor will do well to adhere. Nowhere is caution more necessary than in investing one's money. Before even considering an investment one should make sure of the house through which the security is to be purchased. Investigate this carefully. Make sure beyond a doubt that the house is a reliable one with an established reputation for honest dealing—that it handles a good class of securities—that it is not a bucket shop. A reputable house will gladly furnish bank references if requested and the prospective customer may then inquire about it at the banks.

After having made sure of the investment house, the investor should decide what kind of securities are best adapted to his needs and means. If his means are limited, he may require the greatest safety. If he has a good steady income and some surplus funds with which he feels he can afford to take some chances, he may want something of a speculative nature where the element of safety is not so great, but where the speculative possibilities are greater. One who wishes to speculate should always figure the possibilities of a loss and be prepared to accept one if necessary. He should never speculate with more money than he can afford to lose. We do not recommend speculation.

When the kind of investment desirable has been determined upon, the investor is ready to look over the securities of this kind that the investment house has to offer and to accept suggestions of several issues of the type he wants. These should be carefully analyzed and compared. Independent expert advice should be sought if the investor is not thoroughly familiar with such matters. THE TRIBUNE Investors' Guide will be glad to render this assistance at all times.

If this course is pursued and only those securities selected which come up to the required standard, the causes for worry over the investment and the chances of loss will be largely eliminated.

Begin Now With This New 7% Bond Issue to Accumulate $5,000, $10,000, $25,000, $50,000 or More

A ROYAL ROAD TO RICHES—this is what the newspapers called compound interest in reporting a case now before the New York Supreme Court concerning an estate which less than fifty years ago amounted to $50,000, but now exceeds $1,000,000 in value, the increase being represented very largely by compound interest.

It takes something like this to bring home the fact that the way to get rich SURE is to invest in safe First Mortgage Bonds and re-invest the interest as received.

And even compound interest is speeded up by our plan which enables you to invest every dollar you set aside at bond interest without losing a single day. The results of using this plan are nothing less than marvelous.

And now we are anxious for you to send for this booklet of compound interest tables called "How to Live at Ease." For ordinarily our safe bonds pay the liberal yield of 6% or 6½%. But at present we have bonds of a superior new issue, secured by THE EVANSTON BLOCK, Main Street and Chicago Avenue, Evanston, Illinois, illustrated above —and these bonds pay 7%.

This then is the time to start on "the royal road to riches"—now, while you can get 7% instead of 6% or 6½%, and from as fine a bond issue as ever was offered. Let us send you, without charge, the compound interest booklet and also a circular of the new issue, fully illustrated in colors.

PROFIT TAKING SENDS AVERAGE OF GRAINS DOWN

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Large evening up operations in the September deliveries of all grain caused unsettled markets, and with profit taking in volume, prices averaged lower, the finish being about the bottom. Wheat and corn closed with a net loss of 1@2¼c, with oats off ½@1⅛, and rye, 1⅝@2⅛c.

The reaction Saturday was not surprising in view of the fact that values had been on the upgrade for two weeks and the weakened technical position. However, the undertone was not weak at the last and sentiment remains distinctly bullish in many quarters. At the last wheat was 1@2¼c, corn 1¼@2⅝c, oats ⅝@2⅝c and rye ⅛@1½c higher than a week ago. Lard finished 17½@22½c higher and ribs 52½c higher to 2½c lower.

Wheat News Bearish.

There was a lack of the aggressive buying of wheat futures in large quantities which was such a feature on Friday. Considerable buying and selling of September against purchases and sales of December was on with commission houses who were evening up in the nearby delivery. May showed more weakness than the December, the spread at the last being 4⅛c or ⅝c narrower than the previous day. Hedging pressure was rather pronounced at Winnipeg due to large purchases in the interior by cash interests, and export demand at the seaboard remains slow, although around 1,000,000 bu were sold f. o. b. Atlantic ports and Montreal late Friday.

Russia continues to make sales of wheat to the continent, with charters for eight steamers on Saturday and charters were made for two cargoes of wheat and five cargoes of barley from the Danube. Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅛d lower. Minneapolis mills are complaining of slow shipping directions on flour and are operating at about 50 per cent capacity. More hedging was in evidence there than of late. More favorable crop reports are being received from Kansas than of late, and the general outlook is very favorable.

Liberal Trade in Corn.

Corn values failed to get into new ground during the day. Longs in September let go freely with highest prices made at the start and the lowest at the last when sales were made over a range of ⅝c with 89⅝c the inside figure or 2¾c under the early top. Realizing sales were in evidence in the deferred deliveries throughout the day, although several strong commission houses became good buyers of December at the last. Cash corn dropped in sympathy with futures with last sales around 91¼c for white and mixed. Bids of 60c for new corn for deferred shipment in the Springfield, Ill., territory failed to buy much grain. Wet weather generally prevailed over the west.

September oats failed to receive as much support as of late and declined to around 2c under December at the last after selling at ½c under earlier in the week. There was a fairly good class of buying in the December and sentiment is becoming more bullish in some quarters. Movement continues relatively small.

Rye Closes at Bottom.

Liquidation was on in September rye, which dropped to 2c under the December at the close, against 1⅝c under at the finish Friday. The weakness in wheat led to local selling of the deferred deliveries. No improvement in the export demand was noted.

Provisions held within relatively narrow limits and closed with lard 2½c higher to 5c lower and ribs were unchanged. Strength in hogs had some effect, but the aggregate trade was not large. Packing of hogs at Chicago for the season to date aggregates 4,701,000, against 3,616,000 last year. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Unless there is more buying and Winnipeg shows strength and advances, wheat traders are disposed to look for lower prices. The short interest has been evening up and has been largely responsible for a good part of the recent advance of 5c to 6c from the low of the previous week, and the market has reached a stage where increased buying is necessary.

One of the local cash handlers was a large seller of September wheat early and a buyer at the last, late prices slipping off so fast that it was difficult to get rid of purchases on the break. In corn one of the cash houses was a large buyer and there was plenty of corn to be had always with trading at the last at 89⅝c to 90½c at practically the same time. September oats sold early at 1c under December and 2c discount at the finish, with cash houses the largest buyers at the close. The September as a whole went out as generally expected with trading largely in small lots.

Country holders of corn have secured large profits in September, which advanced from 69⅝c to 92½c for the season, with the finish at prices that showed good profits for all. September wheat had a range of 95⅝c to $1.23¾, the high price being made in March and the low several months ago. Oats sold between 34c and 46½c, going out at 40⅝c.

Frank Cheatle of the J. J. Badenoch Grain company, after a trip over Illinois and Iowa, says that corn has been badly hurt by frost. Wet, mild weather has prevented the grain from drying out, and he believes that the movement of the new grain will be thirty days later than usual and that there will be little new corn available before the middle of December. Farmers are not disposed to sell new corn freely, as they can get better prices from feeders than by marketing through the regular channels.

All September deliveries were cleaned up in the afternoon, deliveries for the day being 579,000 bu wheat, 320,000 bu corn, 106,000 bu oats, 53,000 bu rye, 15,000 bu barley, 5,100,000 lbs lard. For the month of September wheat deliveries aggregated 8,107,000 bu; corn, 390,000 bu; mostly in the last few days. Oats, 2,213,000 bu; rye, 2,106,000 bu; barley, 40,000 bu; lard, 7,430,000 lbs; short ribs, 1,250,000 lbs. Total deliveries of grain for the month were 12,856,000 bu. As the grains passed through many hands in the process of settling trades, the volume was increased many hundred times.

The general sentiment in corn favors buying on all good breaks, although there has been a good advance and corn prices looked high to old time operators. The impression is that after a good break corn will be a purchase. This is the theory on which most of the traders are working.

Renting farmers around Peterson, Ia., are paying $2 an acre cash advance for land over last season's prices, says a letter from a grain dealer there to J. J. Coughlin. Farmers there are buying automobiles and tractors on the installment plan.

Winnipeg received 1,954 cars of wheat Saturday, against 2,013 cars a week ago and 2,074 cars last year, with 2,300 cars of wheat in sight.

Canadian wheat is being imported by North Dakota mills, according to R. I. Mansfield, who returned yesterday from a trip in the northwest. The North Dakota state mill, a nonpartisan league venture, is amongst the mills that have bought wheat from that country. He says all the agitation in the northwest to have the government help farmers comes from bankers and others, the farmer apparently being satisfied that he can work out his own salvation.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of around 300,000 bu wheat were reported in all positions Saturday in addition to 1,000,000 bu sold late Friday, f. o. b. Atlantic ports and Montreal. No business in rye was claimed.

Chicago handlers sold 5,000 bu wheat, 20,000 bu corn, and 58,000 bu oats to the domestic trade.

Premiums on cash wheat at Chicago were little changed, with No. 1 hard 7@12c and No. 2 hard 4@6c over September, while No. 2 red was 5c over the future. Receipts, 60 cars. Outside winter wheat markets declined 1@2c. Wichita, Kas., reported the sale of a round lot of No. 3 hard winter, 13 per cent protein to an eastern mill on the basis of $1.24, Kansas City.

While cash corn closed about the inside figure of the day with mixed and white 91¼c for the last sales, the cash grain was disposed of before September dropped sharply. Receipts 98 cars. Outside markets were unchanged to 1c lower.

Offerings of cash oats were not large and demand moderate, with No. 2 white 1½@3c over September and No. 3 white September to 1½c over. Receipts, 83 cars.

COTTON MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—COTTON—Highest prices were made early, with a decline and close at nearly the lowest, showing net losses of 19 to 36 points. Trading was mostly in evening up accounts preparatory for the government report due on Tuesday. Favorable reports from Liverpool caused the early strength. This was followed by liquidation by longs and a break. Estimates on the probable showing of the government report vary greatly. Prices follow:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.	1922.
October	28.95	28.62	28.63	28.82	20.12

POTATO PRICES LOWER

Potato prices have declined to the lowest of the season, and there is reason to believe that the market is close to bottom and should rebound, says the American Farm bureau's weekly news letter. The commercial movement this year has been about 20 per cent less than the same time last year. On a per capita basis the estimated yield is 3.5 bu. In the last twenty years it has been 3.6 bu. Last year it was 4.1 bu. In the past a yield of less than 3.6 bu per capita has usually resulted in an advance in prices from the heavy marketing season in the fall to the following winter.

Canadian Railways to Go Limit in Moving of Grain

Toronto, Sept. 29.—"We are prepared to go the limit in assisting the moving of the western grain crop. We will cut our rates to the bone, so far as consistent with good business." Such is the summary of the attitude of the Canadian National railways toward the situation which has arisen out of the refusal of American ship owners to come under the Canadian tariff filing regulations as explained last night by Sir Henry Thornton.

It is understood that several American ship owning firms have given assurance that they will be prepared to handle Canadian wheat, with the result that over 27,000,000 bushels will move eastward in American bottoms before the close of navigation.

Sent Free on Request, a New Booklet Showing—

How a $3000 Investment Creates an Estate of $42,881.97

120 Monthly Payments of $25 each Provide a Comfortable Fortune in Your Own Lifetime and a Large Estate for Your Dependents

FEW people realize how simple and easy it is to build a large estate by saving a small sum regularly each month, and allowing the balance to accumulate at 6 per cent interest compounded semi-annually.

Our new plan of estate-building requires monthly deposits for a period of ten years only. After that time the estate continues to grow without further effort on your part. Throughout the entire period—even while you are saving—your money is invested in safe bonds and is earning compound interest at the rate of 6 per cent.

A Practical Plan of ESTATE-BUILDING

The following table compiled from our booklet, "A Practical Plan of Estate-Building," shows the size of the estate you can accumulate in 10, 20, 30, 40 or 50 years. In the event of your death after the expiration of the 10-year saying period, the totals would not be affected.

Amount of Estate at End of	$10 a month for ten years only	$25 a month for ten years only	$50 a month for ten years only	$75 a month for ten years only	$100 a month for ten years only

"The Safest First Mortgage Real Estate Gold Bonds Available"

First Mortgage Gold Bonds secured by properties completed and occupied under contracts of long term lease by the U. S. Government

The government is the most responsible tenant—and never fails to pay its rent on the day it is due. The Trustee, one of the greatest banks in the country, receives the rent direct from the government, and sets aside money for interest and serial payments of principal as they fall due.

Write for leaflet giving 10 Reasons for buying these safe bonds, and circular describing current issues available.

The New York Times.

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A purposeless and uncertain week ended on the stock exchange today with an irregular decline in prices, mostly fractional. Taken as a whole, the variations for the day were negligible and the "averages" showed practically no change from Friday. But the comparison with the close of the preceding week is hardly more impressive; the difference, after all the alternating forward and backward movements being hardly half a point.

This will be recognized by people who recall the experience of other autumn seasons as not unusual for September—a month which is apt to be a period with few occurrences of interest and with little definite character of its own.

October May Show Trend.

Even when markets have moved to some purpose in September, they have frequently moved in a manner which gave an incorrect view of what turned out later to be the actual trend of things. It is equally the tradition of Wall street that the real character of the situation usually has disclosed itself in October. September has ended disappointingly, when the hopes with which it began are considered. The fact that stock exchange prices refused to decline during the succession of disquieting events at the opening of the month had probably convinced many people that such steadiness meant the existence of a pentup buying power which was bound to make itself felt later. But this time the apathy has continued; perhaps it wil not be shaken off until some distinct and positive turn in the financial or political situation gives the signal.

Other Markets Are Uncertain.

Other markets were as uncertain in their movement today as the stock exchange. Cotton sold down again; almost on the eve of next Tuesday's government report it is lower than a week ago; the cotton trade watching the price with much the same perplexity as that with which Wall street watches stocks. Grain prices also drifted downward. No movement of consequence occurred in the foreign exchange market, where rates dropped off a trifling fraction; most of them ending the week not far away from the previous week's closings.

It can hardly be doubted, however, that the really important financial news of the coming week will have to do with Germany, France and the Ruhr. The saying is familiar that our financial markets are not moved by European occurrences, but it is no less familiar than the other statement that economic world recovery can only follow settlement of the German problem.

New York Reserves Rise.

An increase of $29,505,429 in the excess reserves of the New York clearing house banks is shown in the weekly statement of actual condition made public today. Excess reserves now stand at $23,150,560, wiping out a deficit last week of $6,354,869. Loans gained this week $38,381,000 and deposits increased about $42,000,000. Workers Well Employed, Reserve Bank Reports

"While the labor needs of middle western manufacturing industries are now being supplied without difficulty, workers in general are well employed," says the monthly business review compiled by the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. "High wages offered at some industrial centers, such as Chicago, rather than a widespread labor surplus, account for an increased number of applicants for available jobs in these centers.

"A summary of reports from 296 firms employing approximately 211,000 men shows an increase in employment in August of three-tenths of 1 per cent, accompanied by a slightly heavier increase in man hours worked. Pay rolls showed a gain of 2.9 per cent.

"In comparison with conditions of a year ago, employment at the present time is approximately 15 per cent greater, and pay rolls 28 per cent larger, indicating an increase of 11 per cent in the average pay per man."

Pillsbury Flour Mills Companies Reorganize

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29.—Reorganization of the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills company, Ltd., of London and the Pillsbury Flour Mills company of Minneapolis, with a capital stock of $12,500,000, was virtually consummated today when an amendment to the articles of incorporation of the Minneapolis company was filed with the secretary of state. The amendment authorized the increase of the capital stock from $5,000,000 to $12,500,000.

The British company owned the properties now operated under lease by the Pillsbury company of Minneapolis. That lease was to expire in 1928 and the present program was launched to bring about a closer affiliation between the two companies. The plan is to dissolve the British company, take it over under the Minneapolis company, and pay the British stockholders in stock of the enlarged company.

CHICAGO CURB MARKET

Sugar stocks were the feature of the Chicago unlisted securities market, practically all issues registering substantial advances on the announcement of increases in prices of both raw and refined sugar. Holland-St. Louis led in volume of trade and improved from 5 to high sales at 6½; closing quotation was 5⅝ bid, 6 asked. Columbia, after selling at 5¼, reflected a 1⅝ point improvement in closing at 7. Michigan sold up a full point to a close of 5⅝. Utah-Idaho advanced to 3⅝ and closed at 3¼ bid, 3½ asked.

Considerable price irregularity was noted in the rest of the list. Butler Bros. sold off ⅝ point to low sales at 34, but later steadied and closed at 34 bid, 34½ asked. Bucyrus Company common regained its previous loss of 1½ points, again selling at 40, while the preferred improved a point to sales at 104. Both Channell Chemical class "A" and class "B" shares continued in demand, with the previous advance being held at 63 bid, 66 asked, and 53 bid, 56 asked, respectively. Fairbanks-Morse was easier at 49½ bid, 51 asked. Burroughs Adding Machine improved a point further to high sales at 130. At the close 129 was freely bid, with little stock offered. Elgin National Watch was wanted at 42, ex 25 per cent stock dividend. Beatrice Creamery regained its 62½ cent dividend at 61 bid, 64 asked. A few transactions took place in Creamery Package between 32 and 33½. National Grocer was neglected and fractionally lower at 7¾ bid, 8¼ asked. Albert Pick preferred sold up from 95 to 97½, ex 1¾ dividend, with closing transactions at 96. National Tea preferred sold off 1½ points from 96½ to 95. By-Products Coke was somewhat lower at 45 bid, 46½ asked.

The motor issues were erratic, Ford of Canada closing at 405 bid, 410 asked, a further loss of 6 points. Paige-Detroit lost a fraction to low sales at the close of 20. Timken-Axle steadied at 6⅞ bid, 7 asked. Motor Products, however, continued strong, advancing an additional 3 points to 139 bid, 140 asked. Rickenbacker closed fractionally higher at 8⅞ bid, 9¼ asked.

Transactions in the public utilities were of limited volume and without definite price tone. American Light and Traction showed little change, stock changing hands between 113 and 114. Commonwealth Power, Railway and Light relinquished ½ point at 30 bid, 31 asked, while the Commonwealth Power corporation preferred was off 1 full point at 70½ bid, 71½ asked. Illinois Traction improved ⅝ of a point, stock being generally wanted at 50⅝, with odd lot offerings at 51½.

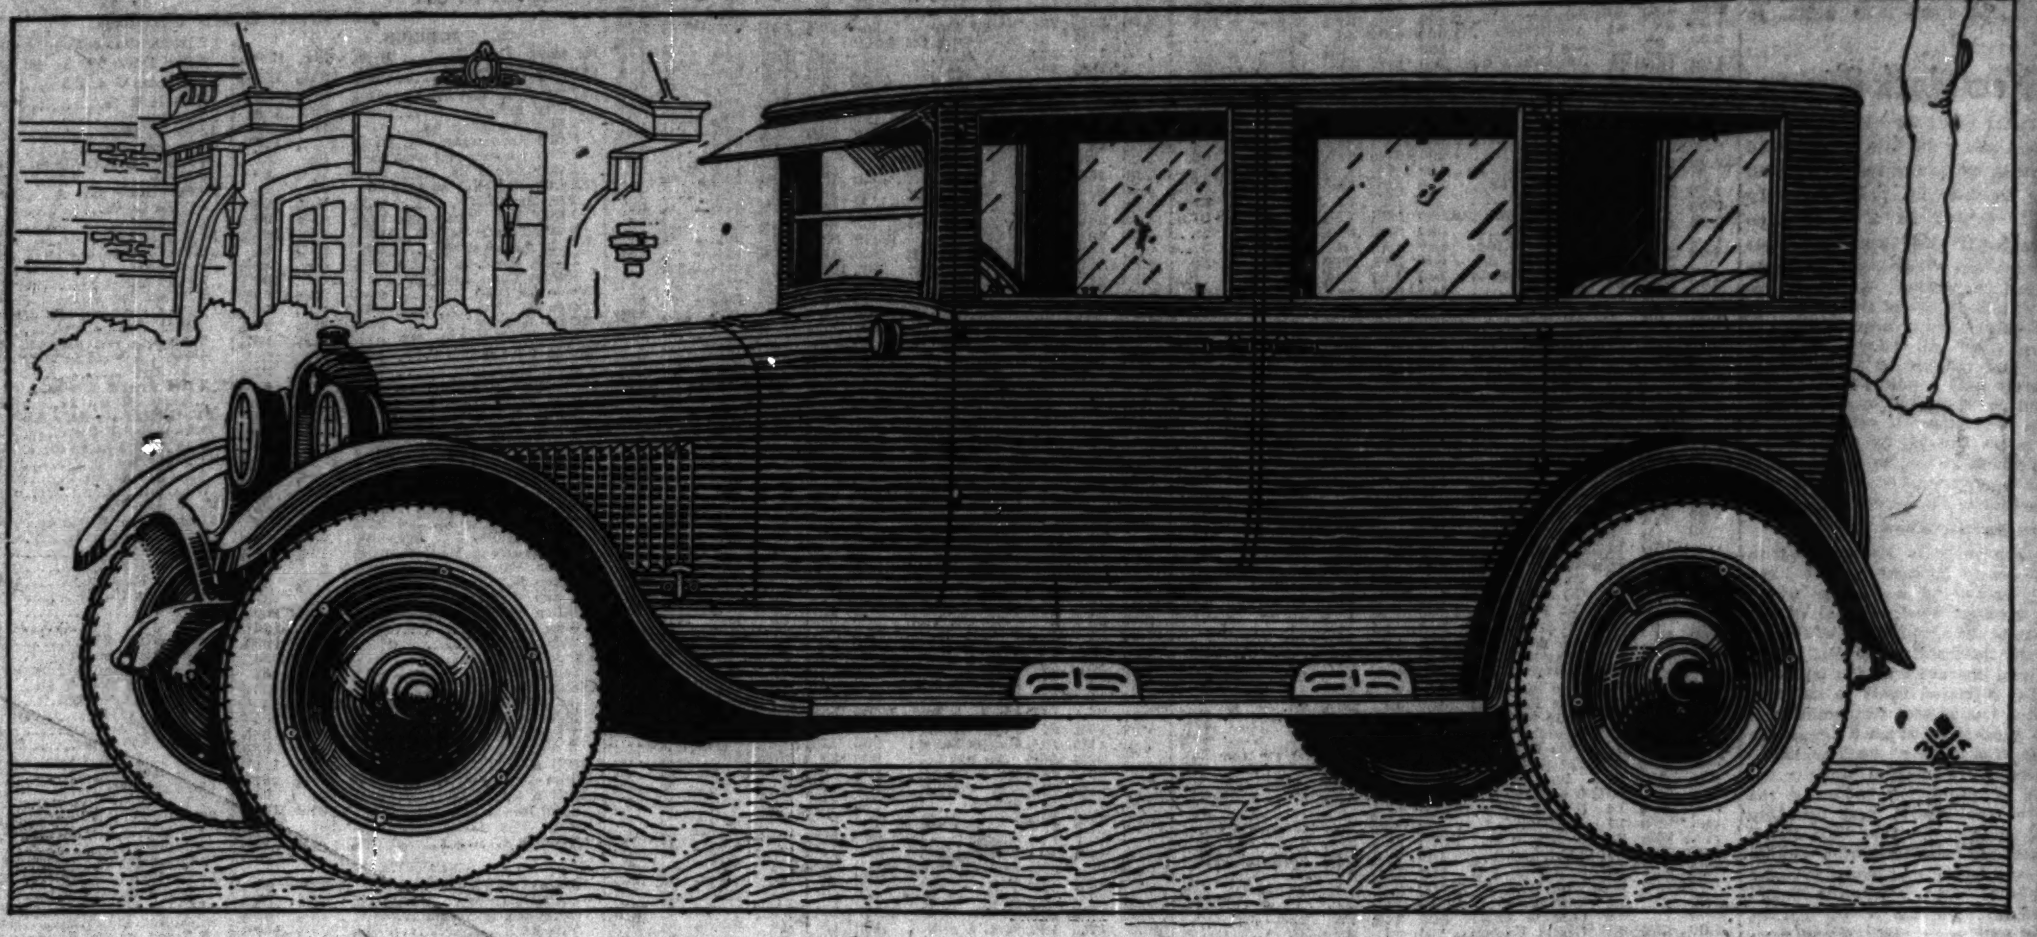
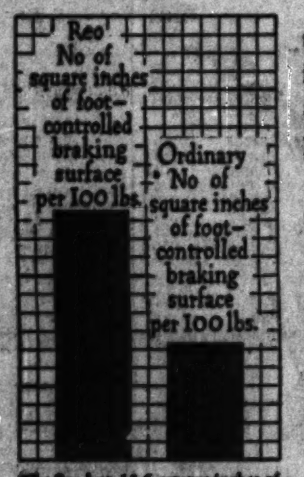
Providing Still Greater Driving Safety



The Reo safety axle and the four Reo foot-controlled brakes

In 1912 Reo initiated the movement for safer driving by providing four foot-controlled brakes. Their principle of design—based on controlling both the clutch and the service brakes with one pedal—has ever since been the Reo standard.



The Reo has 13.6 square inches of braking surface per 100 pounds of car as compared to an average of 6.2 square inches on other cars

Designing and manufacturing brakes that will stay equalized under all driving conditions is, however, one of the automotive engineer's most difficult problems.

It is, therefore, not at all strange that during their eleven years of continuous study and experiment, Reo engineers have frequently discovered ways and means for improving both design and manufacture.

They have increased the braking surface until today the Reo surpasses, we believe, all but the most expensive cars in the amount of foot-controlled braking service per hundred-weight.

Thousands of individual records also show that the Reo brakes require fewer adjustments than those of any other car.

The one unconquered thing

All external contracting brakes, without exception, get out of adjustment and lose efficiency when driven in rain, mud, or snow. Reo has provided the two features that reduce the resulting difficulties to the desired minimum.

First, the emergency brakes—which are of the internal expanding type and therefore immune to weather conditions—are foot brakes, controlled by the brake pedal.

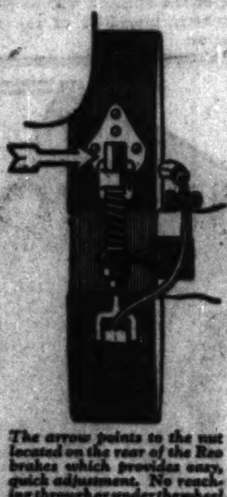
No matter what the weather, the Reo owner, therefore, always has a foot brake that really brakes.

Second, the Reo service brakes—which are of the external contracting type—are supremely easy to adjust, so easy that even the woman driver can take care of them with an easy part-turn of a monkey wrench.



The arrow points to the nut located on the rear of the Reo brakes which provides easy, quick adjustment. No reaching through or under the wheel

Because the take-up is at the rear in the Reo, she does not have to reach through or under the wheel. The entire operation is as easy as taking the cap off the gas tank.

In addition to providing stoppage safety, Reo engineers have furnished exceptional safeguards against extraordinary accidents.

The first of these was the Reo double inner frame—assuring construction so stout that for years the Reo has been famous for its ability to weather collisions with heavier cars and trucks.

The Reo Safety Axle

The 1924 additional safeguard is the Reo safety axle.

With it, even if one of the exceptionally strong driving shafts should break, the wheel cannot leave the axle.

This chart shows graphically the difference in rear axle repair costs on ordinary cars and on Reos

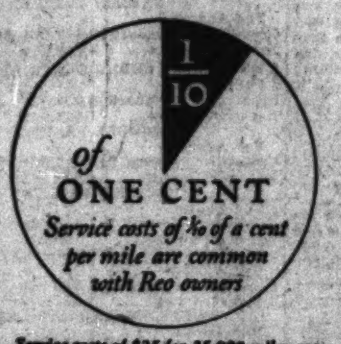
Its supporting union is with the steel axle housing and not with the shaft.

Minimizing Axle Maintenance

The Reo safety axle has two other primary advantages for the car owner.

First, its driving shafts are 1¾ inches thick instead of the usual 1¼, and are splined into the differential instead of being keyed in. They are so stout, strong and firmly seated that it is practically impossible for them to develop the slight "weaving" motion that crystallizes, and ultimately fractures, the ordinary driving shaft.

Second, if an extraordinary accident should break one or both, they can be so easily removed and replaced that the repair cost will be only one-tenth of the cost of similarly repairing the ordinary type of axle.



Service costs of $25 for 25,000 miles are commonly reported by Reo owners in Chicago, an average of 1-10 of a cent per mile

Reo sales this year in Chicago 247% of last year

This great increase is coming from owners of other cars who buy the Reo because they want more power, greater safety, more comfort, and lower depreciation and upkeep costs.

The 1924 Sedan Reo

The New Sedan Reo is a comely and comfortable car, luxuriously silent even in swift motion. There are six special provisions to insure silence: first, the top consists of a non-vibrating, barred construction covered with sound-absorbing fabric; second, the windshield and visor are closely anchored to prevent drumming; third, the door and side glasses are securely set in water-proof felt channels and the rear window is set in close-hugging rubber; fourth, the inner frame of the double chassis defeats power-plant tremors; fifth, the interior wall of hardwood insulates against the noises that an all-metal body would transmit; and, sixth, the three-hinged doors, hung on a dovetailing system and equipped with adjustable rubber bumpers, are triply proofed against squeaks and creaks.

For vision and ventilation there are: a wide windshield and exceptionally ample door panels and windows all made of glass so clear that there seems to be none; the windshield is visored and cleaner-equipped; the door windows raise and lower with crank regulators; the cowl ventilator furnishes a current of cooling air for the foot-boards and is controlled by a screw on the instrument board.

Among the minor conveniences, there is a dome-light fitted with frosted glass and controlled by a switch in the right door-post. The doors are fitted with heavy concealed locks, the left operating from the inside and the right by key from the outside.

In these and many other things, the owners of the new Reo Sedan get every essential of comfort and enduring worth in heaped-up Reo measure.

The Reo Safety Creed

We believe that driving an automobile in the streets of Chicago is a privilege and not a right.

We believe that like any other privilege it should be forfeited if it is abused.

We believe that everyone, whether car owner or hired driver, who repeatedly drives at dangerous speeds should have his privilege forfeited.

We believe that everyone, whether car owner or hired driver, who passes street cars in defiance of the law should have his privilege forfeited.

We believe that everyone, whether car owner or hired driver, who drives an automobile while intoxicated should have his privilege irrevocably forfeited.

We believe that if these manifest things are done, the number of automobile accidents in Chicago will be swiftly and radically reduced.

Fashions Beauty Contests

GIVING A DAY OF ATTENTION TO DETAILS

by Mary Alonsin Neill

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—The time has come, the dressmaking world seems to believe at this moment, to talk of other things—of sleeves and shirrs and tinseled stuffs, of little curleycues and kinks—anything to get styles going on a compromise silhouette that is slim, if not precisely straight, while the great struggle between the manufacturing and the designing part of the clothes business is being settled. The one wants clothes that women by the wholesale can get into comfortably and cheaply; the other desires variation and newness and a high degree of workmanship, regardless of difficulties in the way of copying and regimenting.

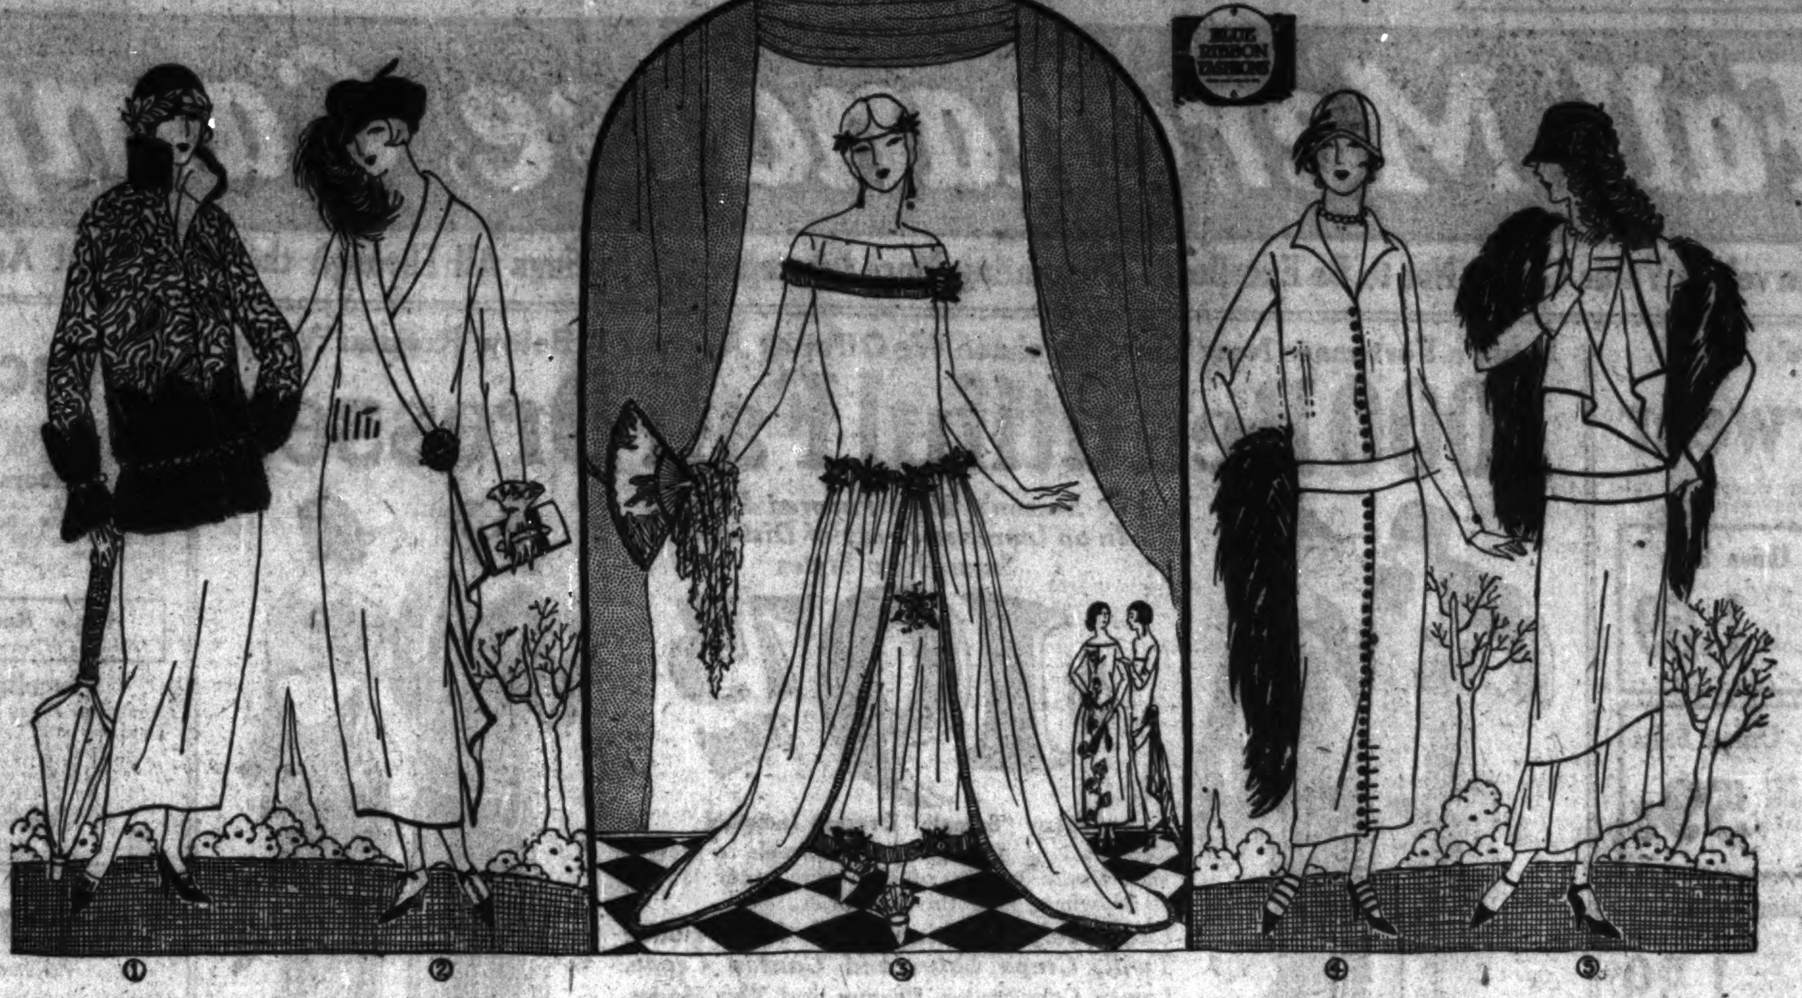
So what we hear when calling upon any designer at reopening her exclusive little outfitting shop is small.

Disks with dangles, for example.

Madam pins a jade and silver one on the front of a black velvet hat she calls "Alsace"—it flares at the back for all the world like a great black bow—and calls it a Chinese hat ornament.

She fastens it at the side of the brocaded wool velour tailleur she wore back from Paris, and points you how much more chic and clever such a watch fob is than the eternal monogram. Lastly, she uses it to catch up the drape of a wood brown velvet dinner frock that is being copied in her shop from a draped princess model she brought back with her.

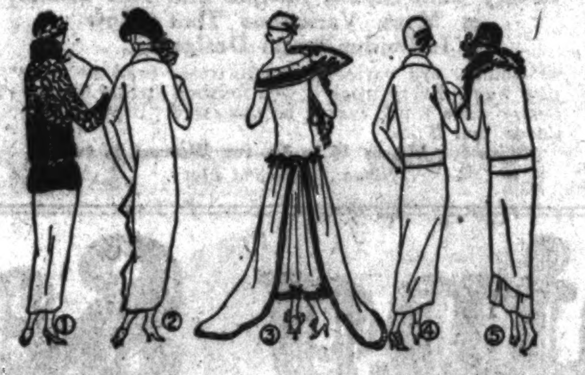
Such a disk, without dangle, I picture second from the left, No. 2. It ornaments a coat frock, the importation of another designer, who bought it for her own wear from a creator whose name is world famous. The character and elaboration of that silver and black ornament is the important feature of this black one piece wool frock, otherwise plain, except for the satin edge of the reverse of the material—wool back satin—which is used for finishing the jaboted panel at the side of the closing. A hole in the center of the disk ornament, sewn to one side of the closing, permits the entrance of the bar fastening, sewn on the other side.



Much buttoning down the front is characteristic of day frocks of the hour. So with model No. 4, second from the right, worn with a two piece fox fur. Color being a detail of great importance, we have here a rich coppery or rust tone in a kasha fabric, which has the unbelted line, though the effect of a belt is produced by an insert of suede leather. Ball buttons of leather, also of the tone of the cloth, are used.

New cloths, particularly velour, plain, mixed, and self-figured, are notable in all fall importations, and will figure prominently in street wear as the season gets colder.

Early September saw us partial, however, to crêpes, satins, and satin faced cloths, such as No. 5, which madam displayed among her Parisian treasure trove. It was of a rich brown shade, and its novelty note also was a note of detail, the contrast of tangerine colored piping. There was a broad leather belt, without ornament and in the dress' hue.



Other views of today's drawings.

The draped revers should be noted, and, of course, the foot flare, here made on a diagonal line.

Many simple little dresses for informal evening or afternoon wear were brought back by madam, made up in the Louis Phillipe style of full skirt and fitted or semi-fitted bodice. She had them in printed velvet, in ottoman silk, and in crepe. Often they were buttoned from neck to waist line, and opened over a skirt of contrasting material.

Color contrast was again the detail of a wonderful frock of robin's egg blue and coral chiffon, pictured as No. 3 in the drawing. Silver ribbon edged the tiny bertha, the extended panels of coral shade at the sides, and the skirt edge of the slip, which was of robin's egg blue. A touch of kolinsky also ornamented the bertha. The made flower knots combined the tones of the frock with silver. The unescapable little shawl was of silver lace.

Shawls played so many parts in this collection! They were responsible, in the first place, for a line of simple black dresses, richly embroidered in spots and on skirt borders with color. These were meant to be worn with one's favorite Spanish shawl, and could be ordered with matching embroidery. Then there was a wonderful wrap of black velvet, combining the cape and shawl vogue. It was fringed, and the shoulder parts fell in long points, with shawl corners described in bands of printed velvet.

Scalloped edges, another style detail, are to be observed both in frocks and suits. A conspicuous exponent of the second sort was a dark gray cloth, No. 1 in the drawing, trimmed with Hudson seal fur, the scalloped edged upward. An allover design worked out in gray and red soutache braid gave the jacket the liveliness which seems to be Vitamine B of today's styles.

Returning to our lady of the disks, she had a great many sailor hat shapes fresh from Paris to show.

They were simple as to height of crown and width of brim, rather "prissy," indeed, but colorful trimming of flowers and tinsel leaves made up for demureness of shape.

Could she interest her first customers in them—her shop being opened just that morning and we observing the reaction?

The patrons loved the new little hats—she had also exquisitely embroidered and silver soutached shapes that fitted the head like bathing caps, and many off-the-face roll shapes. But—"Haven't you got something—er-er—a little more—well, plainer, more tailored?" Madam smiled. She was too good a saleswoman to sigh. She opened another cupboard and drew out several cloches, tinier than ever, it seemed, of felt. The customers fairly gurgled with delight. One bought on the spot a navy blue cloche with a white band of stiff ribbon that finished in a flirt of ends in the air.

"What did I tell you?" said madam, after the customer went. "You can't sell anything but cloches."

She will later. Those sailors were not destined to blush unsold in any shop.

A day of attention to details was closed by looking over little pouch bags and flat purses, ornate with gold and silver patternings, or jeweled ornaments, rich enough for brooches—sprays of flowers, sprigs of coral.

Little silver cloth turbans, now the vogue with evening dress, could be pinned with the sprays taken from the jeweled bags of daytime, madam explained. She surely was mad about ornament transformation, or was it a Parisian infection?

The Last Word in Paris Fashions

NECK LINES ARE CHANGING.

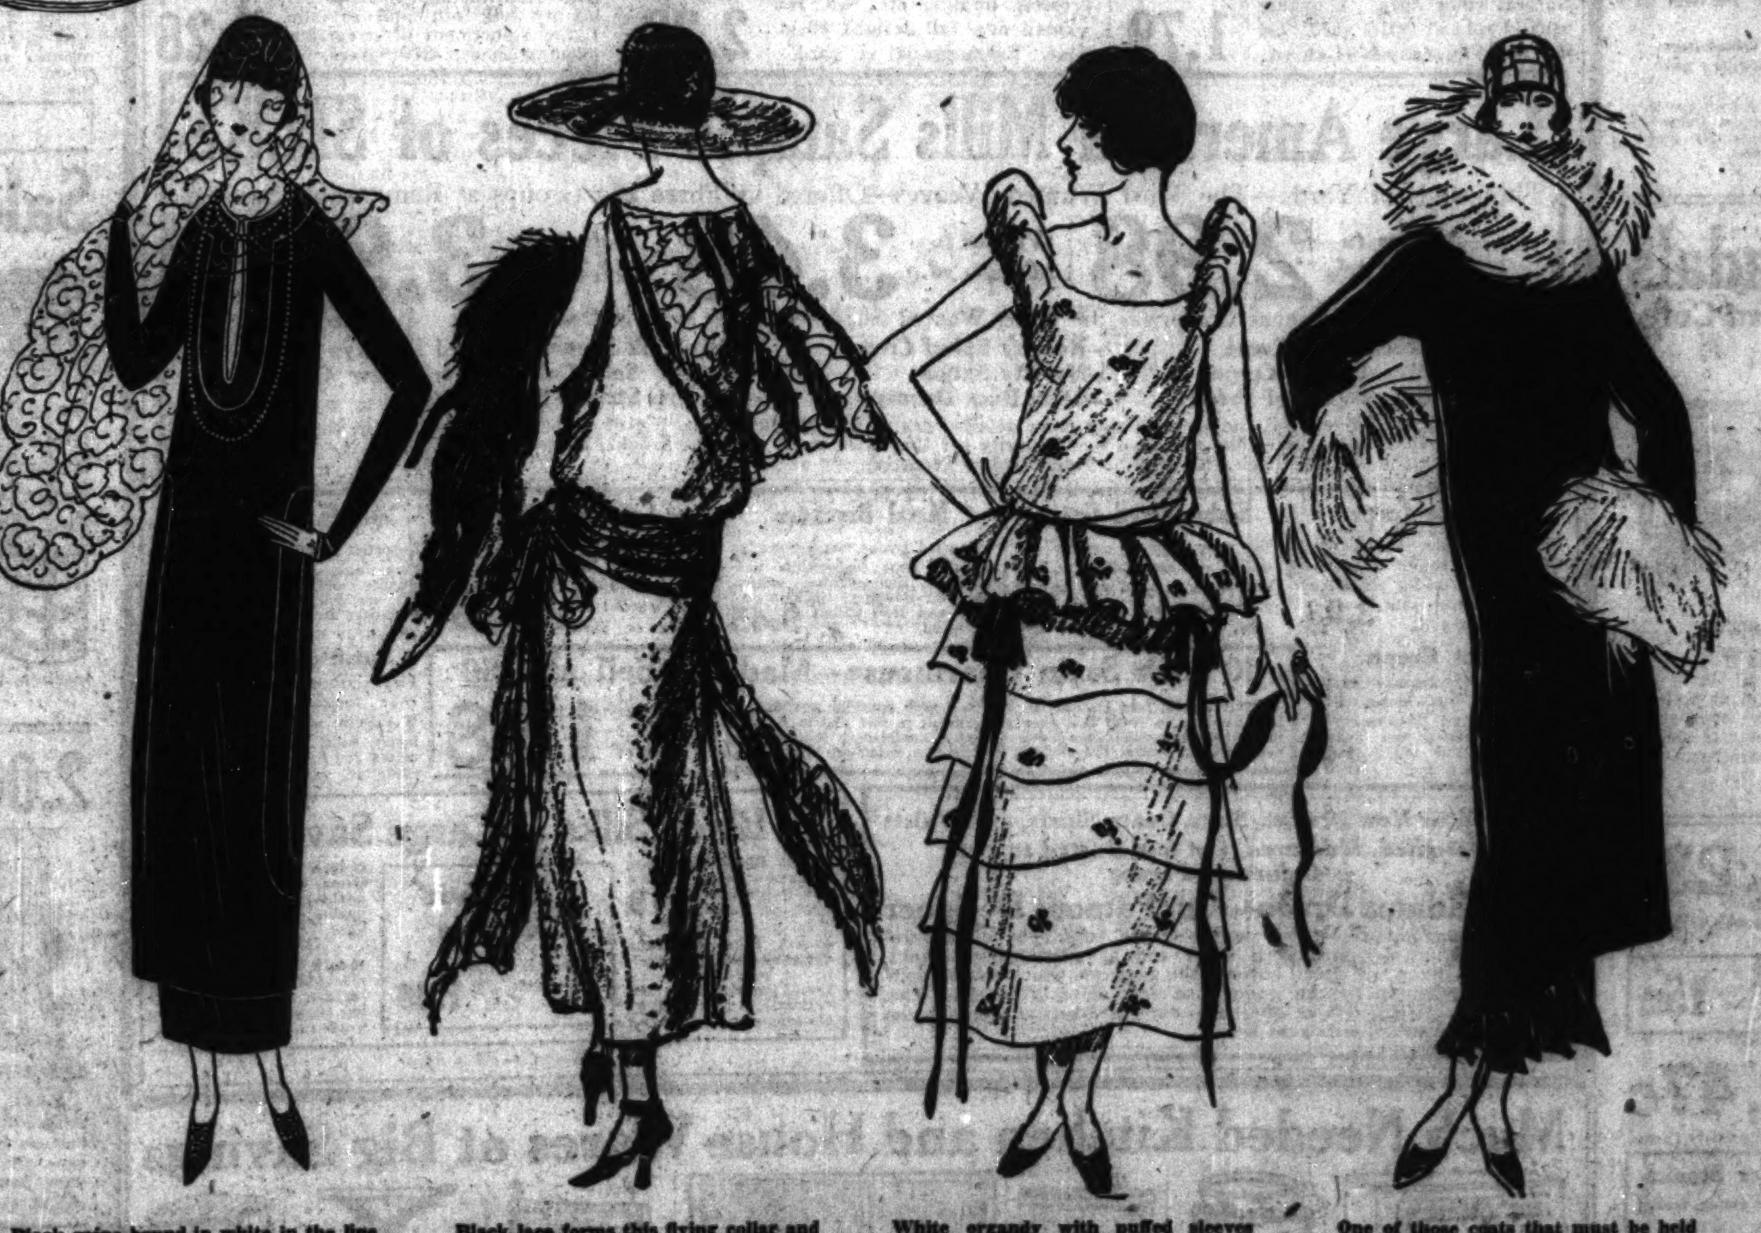
By Mary Brush Williams.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.) — The throat of the dress at the left took the line of a pearl necklace—of the second of the pearl necklace that goes lower than the first one which encircles the throat and is made of the large pearls across the front. The second strand has to perform the more important service of acting something as a sort of punctuation to give importance to the robe and character to the lines. This white tracery on the dress performs that service and acts as a clever, pretty sort of garniture besides. Beyond that it is merely a white band of crepe de chine on a black crepe costume, and the message it carries is that a lot of things are being done to the line of the neck. Lanvin is arranging some of them high in front and low in the back. And she is using short silk coats of silver, lined with fur. Fur is getting to be the most popular of all linings. Perhaps because they have so little that is of good quality over here and it makes a better showing when dyed and put on the inside of something. Still, I don't believe the usage ever started from anything so practical. I don't believe any fashion ever did. Styles are just the opposite in spirit and use to what is practical, and to lay the foundation of them in common sense would give them a bad start indeed.

But we are wandering quite a distance from the neckline. Really just all has been said about it that there is to say. The girl in the drawing wears her pearls besides, perhaps to call attention to the fact that her dress imitates that heavy, falling line. But more likely she wears them because she had them a while, and some are beginning to say, "O, I do think they are such a bore. Whenever are we going to see some other kind of jewel?"

And then those gems charged with color begin to come out, and discussions hinge on whether one prefers one's canary diamonds or those that are [illegible]



Black crêpe bound in white in the line of pearl necklace.

Black lace forms this flying collar and belt.

White organdy with puffed sleeves and ruffled belt.

One of those coats that must be held at the hip.

Of course, it would never do in any dressmaking establishment to let a white line go around the neck of a dress and nowhere else on it, when the line is so integral a part of the robe as in the present instance. And so the skirt is trimmed in sort of double jumping ropes of pearls, too.

Observe how slim is the silhouette. Not all outlines depart from the cylindrical form with which they start. The only concession this one makes is to fall double or, more properly, to come down over a tunic, as of old, but the top line is scarcely more full than the underskirt. It is a pretty dress, and not the least attractive of its features are its long, tight sleeves. The enveloping veil softens the effect withal.

I think I have said it before, but the sentiment bears repetition. Of all the shifts of costuming late summer always inspires over here the prettiest change. Perhaps this is because we proceed on exactly the same principle every year for getting our summer clothes.

That is to say, we do not get any, thinking every spring that the summer will be cool. So many times in the remote past we have been tricked by spending large sums in preparing for a hot spell that never comes that always now we are utterly without costuming appropriate to it in the first weeks of its visitation. Then by September we have the loveliest of summer things going, which are adequately displayed later along the Riviera. We in our country get the benefit of them for our late autumns and our wintering places, not to mention Chicago itself, where back in my day we wore dresses of thin material all the year.

The accompanying model—sketch 2—is one that would not look bad at some of our smart teas in hotels and private dwellings, if swathed for outside wear in a fur coat. It is of black and white printed crepe, in a silhouette that falls straight, and looks lovely both in line and texture as it is combined with delicate black lace. You will observe it has a sort of flying collar, and complementing it are sashes that come from taking yards of the filmy garnishment, wrapping it round the low belt line, and allowing it to fall on either side. The lace with the printed crepe suggests perhaps a blatant robe. It was an achievement of dressmaking skill to accomplish delicacy with such showy materials singly and in combination.

There is a wide brimmed black horse hair hat accompanying, banded in ribbon and set on the side with one of the typical cocardes of Reboux.

Here is somebody essentially French, with her "enfiled" hair and her puffed sleeves standing straight up and her ruffle around the belt and her long, poison-green ribbon hanging from her waist. There is a little design like the ace of spades done in brilliant green on her dress. Better try it for the winter season in the south—and later for next summer; it will not be passe. But more practically it would be a cunning dance dress for a young girl, and this not a thing too easy to get.

Here is one of the coats that the wearer pulls around to the right hip—and holds there. It is in black velvet with long haired, yellow fur. The little ruffle of the day is produced by drawing the coat closely round the dress underneath. Alice Bernard made the wrap.

HYGIENE O

Nasal and Rancous Voice, Typical of Americans, a Defect That Can Be Remedied.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—It is nothing in the way of novelty or surprise for us to be told that as a nation we have the most raucous, sharp, high-pitched, nasal, unmusical voices in captivity.

Why is it? And is it possible to revive our reputation so that when we do sit in at the world court, if we do sit in, the timbre with which our pleas are presented will not offset the beauty of the message?

Vocal hygienists are bringing stress to bear upon the neglectful manner in which children are allowed to use their voices, regardless of tonal effect; also upon the colossal ignorance of the average parent, likewise adult not parent-ed, of the relation of the voice to general bodily hygiene.

The timbre of the voice is largely dependent upon physical structure, to be sure, and to a certain extent it is an ethnological feature. The aborigines [Maoris] of New Zealand have voices remarkably deficient in resonance, due to the ill development of the bones of the skull. The Italian musical utterance is almost a radical peculiarity. The American voice and speech may be deemed a racial characteristic. It is one not to be particularly proud of, as a rule, and the worst critics of the nasal and the raucous are Americans themselves. Which is due, no doubt, to the fact that the defects, being remedial, are defects and not characteristics.

Throat Specialist's Advice.

I had the good fortune to meet Dr. Irving Wilson Voorhees, assistant surgeon to the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat hospital, and adviser to members of the Metropolitan, Chicago, and Century Opera companies, who enlightened me considerably on the subject which should concern us all, since at one time or another we are quite likely to raise a voice. And having so to do, we may just as well make it as soothing to the ear as possible that we may better gain our end.

Apropos of this, I was in a well known theatrical office the other day when there appeared as applicant for a much coveted job as rarely beautiful a young woman as I ever have seen. She was exquisite from head to foot.

"An eyeful," was the blunt manager's verdict, "but hard on the ear drums. She'd be all right to hold up the stairway—but if she ever opened her mouth it would come toppling down."

She really wasn't quite as bad as that. But it just goes to show a voice cannot be overlooked in acquiring beauty assets!

Like good and beautiful permanent molars, the foundation for a clear, pleasing, resonant voice begins with the child. Bodily hygiene is important throughout the entire course, with a few additional points of emphasis directed at the throat, the larynx, the nose, and the lungs.

Vocal Mechanism Is Complex.

"Voice is produced not by the throat alone, as is commonly believed," says Dr. Voorhees, "but by every part of the body. The nose, accessory sinuses of resonators, pharynx, buccal cavity, teeth, lips, tongue, larynx, lungs, bony thorax, diaphragm, thoracic and abdominal muscles, and of course, above all, the central nervous system take part in this complex vocal mechanism.

"Certain physical causes associated with diseased conditions engender disturbances which prevent the muscles concerned with voice production from reacting properly to normal impulses.

WARTS: WARTS CAN BE BURNED off with heat or with chemicals; removed with X-ray, radium or carbonic snow. They can be removed from the face without scar. But the work should be done by a reputable skin specialist—a medical man, I mean. Don't let any inexperienced hand touch them.

J. H.: FOR DOUBLE CHIN: Stand erect with head held as though you were being "strung up" [if you can imagine yourself in such a plight]. Without moving body, turn head sharply to right, three times; then to the left three times. Then relax head and neck muscles, and let the head roll around in a complete circle, going as far forward and back on neck as you can. Then let the head fall forward on chest and backward as far as possible. Rest between these movements or at the slightest sign of dizziness. After having done them, massage the neck with a cold cream, and right under the chin particularly be generous with the massage manipulation. Top it all off with an ice rub. That will put your head back on the shoulders of youth where it rightfully belongs at your age.

FOOT SORE: FOR CALLUSES ON the feet—soak the feet in hot water for about fifteen minutes. Then rub the callused parts with pumice stone [You can buy a stone with a tiny handle on it] and rub cold cream on the spot.

HOUSEWIFE: IT IS SILLY TO say that housework is not hard on the hands. It is. Consequently, one has to exercise more care in their upkeep than if one were doing other work. But it is true, too, that one can do housework and have good looking hands. Keep a piece of lemon over the kitchen sink and remove stains at once. Don't use strong preparations

HYGIENE OF THE VOICE

by Antoinette Donnelly

Nasal and Rancous Voice, Typical of Americans, a Defect That Can Be Remedied.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—It is nothing in the way of novelty or surprise for us to be told that as a nation we have the most raucous, sharp, high-pitched, nasal, unmusical voices in captivity.

Why is it? And is it possible to revive our reputation so that when we do sit in at the world court, if we do sit in, the timbre with which our pleas are presented will not offset the beauty of the message?

Vocal hygienists are bringing stress to bear upon the neglectful manner in which children are allowed to use their voices, regardless of tonal effect; also upon the colossal ignorance of the average parent, likewise adult not parented, of the relation of the voice to general bodily hygiene.

The timbre of the voice is largely dependent upon physical structure, to be sure, and to a certain extent it is an ethnological feature. The aborigines [Maoris] of New Zealand have voices remarkably deficient in resonance, due to the ill development of the bones of the skull. The Italian musical utterance is almost a radical peculiarity. The American voice and speech may be deemed a racial characteristic. It is one not to be particularly proud of, as a rule, and the worst critics of the nasal and the raucous are Americans themselves. Which is due, no doubt, to the fact that the defects, being remedial, are defects and not characteristics.

Throat Specialist's Advice.

I had the good fortune to meet Dr. Irving Wilson Voorhees, assistant surgeon to the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat hospital, and adviser to members of the Metropolitan, Chicago, and Century Opera companies, who enlightened me considerably on the subject which should concern us all, since at one time or another we are quite likely to raise a voice. And having so to do, we may just as well make it as soothing to the ear as possible that we may better gain our end.

Apropos of this, I was in a well known theatrical office the other day when there appeared as applicant for a much coveted job as rarely beautiful a young woman as I ever have seen. She was exquisite from head to foot.

"An eyeful," was the blunt manager's verdict, "but hard on the ear drums. She'd be all right to hold up the stairway—but if she ever opened her mouth it would come toppling down."

She really wasn't quite as bad as that. But it just goes to show a voice cannot be overlooked in acquiring beauty assets!

Like good and beautiful permanent molars, the foundation for a clear, pleasing, resonant voice begins with the child. Bodily hygiene is important throughout the entire course, with a few additional points of emphasis directed at the throat, the larynx, the nose, and the lungs.

Vocal Mechanism Is Complex.

"Voice is produced not by the throat alone, as is commonly believed," says Dr. Voorhees, "but by every part of the body. The nose, accessory sinuses of resonators, pharynx, buccal cavity, teeth, lips, tongue, larynx, lungs, bony thorax, diaphragm, thoracic and abdominal muscles, and of course, above all, the central nervous system take part in this complex vocal mechanism.

"Certain physical causes associated with diseased conditions engender disturbances which prevent the muscles concerned with voice production from reacting properly to normal impulses. Thus anemia and chlorosis through insufficient nourishment of the muscles and improper removal of waste, are not uncommon causes."

The edges of the vocal cords are extremely sensitive to slight influences, according to Dr. Voorhees. For example, pregnancy, a physiological condition, may change the quality and carrying power of the voice markedly. Convalescence from typhoid and influenza frequently shows marked vocal change, for the most part merely temporary.

Chronic diseases are a potent cause of voice fatigue; chronic tonsillitis is especially important. Nasal growths and deformities, purulent discharges, and chronic hypersecretion are also frequently responsible agencies.

Adenoids Must Be Removed.

To have a good voice, either speaking or singing, Dr. Voorhees says it is of utmost importance that the upper airways in the nose be kept in the best possible condition.

"Any adenoid," he continues, "is too much. Adenoids not only interfere with the vocal production, but give trouble to the ear, and should be removed.

"Tonsils if diseased should be removed, because they are a menace to general health as well as to the voice.

"Enlarged thyroid glands will pitch the tone and interfere with a normal sound production.

"A cold should be treated the moment of its 'first sneeze' and not allowed to get in any damaging work on the vocal cords."

Recommends 'Elocution' Course.

Dr. Voorhees, who has made a life study of the voice as it is used both in song and speech, and, incidentally, has prepared a volume for fall production which should prove of tremendous interest and help to singers, young and old, believes public speaking or "elocution," as it used to be called, should be revived as a regular part of every school and college course.

"It has been nearly forced out of the curriculum by manual training, cooking, and many other desirable auxiliary branches of a good general education; nevertheless, it is important," he says, "in America where we are roundly criticized for our nasal twang and slovenly speech. Along with such training, breathing exercises and gymnastics are of the greatest practical value.

Whether a parent hopes to make a "virtuoso" out of the young hopeful or not, proper vocal discipline for the purpose of correct and pleasing speech as well as song, may be begun as early as five or six years.

Vocal Training Beneficial.

"It is perfectly natural for most children at this age to desire to sing; and by taking advantage of this natural tendency, nothing but good could come from thoughtful, intelligent direction.

"In youth there is a better chance of getting rid of throat or nasal production at the outset than when these defects have become ingrained by long habit.

"The teaching of singing in childhood is likely to prove highly beneficial, especially in cases where there is a tendency to delicacy of the lungs. By the healthful exercise of these organs in singing, the chest is expanded, the muscles of respiration strengthened, and the lungs themselves made firmer and more elastic.

"Of course, it must be understood that the vocal exercises are to be strictly moderate as to quality and quantity; that is to say, the lessons must be short, and at most only the ten or twelve notes which form the average compass of a child's voice should be used. On no account must there be the least forcing or fatigue."

If the child is without ear for music, "speaking little pieces" with clear, clean enunciation is recommended.

How to Be Happy Though Married by Doris Blake

What the 14 Year Old Girl—the Sub-Flapper of Today—Thinks About.

WONDER what a 14 year old girl thinks about?

Letters from girls in this embryonic stage of womanhood puzzled me for a long time, and finally I decided the best way would be to get in personal touch with this subdeb flapper, analyze her, and try to learn just how much ammunition she is supplying to the war between the older and the younger generation.

Which I did!

I doubt if you might call her the base of supplies, but she is an element to be reckoned with. She has convictions, and she believes she has a grievance. She, collectively speaking, holds indignation meetings every now and then and the consensus on the older generation at one such pow-wow was: "How women could know so little and be grown up was entirely beyond understanding."

Too Old for Dolls.

"They must agree," said the spokesman, apologizing amusingly for the disrespectful "they" by which the censorious generation is known, "that we are too old for dolls and tag and not old enough to take on the cares of the state and, consequently, we ought to have a little fun.

"Why shouldn't we have boy friends and dates? And what is wrong with staying out until 2 o'clock in the morning when nothing wrong is done?

"We are not bad girls. We only what's the harm of staying out with want a little fun, and that's all. And a boy anyway? The worst a flapper and her "goof" ever do is dance or discuss the latest in novels, psychoanalysis, religious cults, and conscious auto suggestion.

"What has happened to justice?" she put the problem to me. "The man who fills up two perfectly good pages in the Sunday paper isn't the only one who wants to know. The flapper wants to know also.

They Resent Injustice.

"The thing that worries us, however, is not so much the way the older generation talks about us as the injustice with which they treat us. They discuss the young daughters of the neighbors and their conversation goes rather like this:

"'Clarice is such a lovely girl. She always obeys her parents, never comes home late, you never see her near a boy. She wears the most modest of clothes. Really, taken altogether, I think Clarice is the nicest girl I know.

"'But Helene! Merciful heaven! My dear, she is all over the town with boys. She paints like a signboard. Her hair is bobbed and permanently waved. She smokes and dances all the latest and most indecent dances. That girl isn't coming to any good end.'

"Now, Miss Blake," continued the young Portia, "that is not just. For Clarice, though she looks as though butter would melt in her mouth, does things that are twice as bad as anything Helene ever dreamed of. Clarice may never be seen with boys, but she goes with them and what she does is something that Helene never in her wildest flights of imagination thought of. Clarice washes the paint off before her elders see it. She smokes cigarets surreptitiously when there is no one but a boy to see; her clothes may cover her ankle to collar bone, but it is not always the most decollete gown that is the most suggestive. Her hair may not be bobbed, and she may look as if she had just come home from Sunday school, but the boys get an awful kick out of her. Just ask any finale hopper you meet, and he will tell you how a "good" girl behaves in the quiet of her home when her parents have gone to a lecture.

Raises Voice Indignantly.

"On the other hand," the young sophisticate raises her voice indignantly, "Helene never thought of a boy as anything but a good pal; some one to dance with and discuss the topics of the day and play golf and tennis and ride with. In the rather radical opinion of the ultra-modern Helene there is no sex friendship and a boy is just as good a friend as a girl. She would never think of her acquaintance with a boy as anything but a nice friendship, for the sex angle of the matter never occurs to her. Jack, to her, is not a lover, but a friend, and she treats him as a friend. And yet she is bad and Clarice is the nicest girl in the neighborhood.

"The reason for this is that Clarice never lets any one find out about her behavior and Helene does not care who knows what she does, because she knows she does nothing to be ashamed of.

"That same Clarice is the most contemptible product of the twentieth century. She is indecent and deceitful and no really worth while boy has a particle of respect, affection, or anything else for her. And yet 'they' think her type is perfect and that the Helenes who are really good girls, in spite of the paint and the boys, are headed straight for the place of future punishment.

Want Parents to Know.

"We don't see the fairness of it. Of course, we know the boys and girls know, but we want the parents to know also. We don't want to be condemned without a hearing. We want only justice, and we intend to have it. For you understand that flappers aren't young disciples of the evil one, or worthless little hussies. We are natural, human girls, and we want to be treated as such and not as a menace to society.

"We may be radical and Bohemian, but at heart we're good and we certainly don't want to be treated as though we were bad. After all, Miss Blake, it isn't our clothes and our opinions and our boy friends that matter. It is just what we are. And we are all right.

"We never shock a boy by telling him off-color stories. The Clarices just love to tell at crucial moments in their conquest of the male stories they would hardly be expected to understand. Girls who look as though they never heard a worse word than 'Confound it,' and blush every time a flapper swears, have told me facts about sex in language that I would otherwise never have heard. And they are the girls who are wonderful, and are held up to us as models. They are the sort of girls of whom we are told by parents: 'That's the way girls were in my day.' Well, if that is the sort of girl they rave over as being the lovely, old fashioned girl, I'm glad I'm not an old fashioned girl."

"Have you ever stayed out until 2 o'clock?" I injected here.

"No, I never did in my whole life. We are 12 o'clock girls. And I never went to a party that was not chaperoned, either. They are at the houses of the different girls, and their mothers and fathers are on hand."

"And do you smoke?" I queried.

"No, I do not. But I don't see any harm in it if others want to. I don't expect others to do as I do."

"Well, aren't there girls who are a compromise between the Clarices and the Helenes, girls who might better answer the 'like mother used to be'?"

"Well, if there are, they do not count for anything. I don't know them."

"How old are the girls you embrace in this sweeping statement?"

"All the high school girls from 14 to 16."

"How about petting parties?" I asked.

"Well, I must confess I don't know what a petting party is. I never saw one. We used to do the balconnade until our mothers put their foot down on that," she broke off for a moment.

Knee Is Remedy.

"Then you are susceptible to law and order and parental chastisement after all?"

"Well, are we? If we are told no more parties for us if we don't behave, then we vote for the parties and good behavior. And if father or mother, particularly father, decides to strengthen his argument with a forceful palm ——"

"But fathers don't do that nowadays, do they?" I humbly inquired.

"Don't they! Well, if they'd do a little more of it! I couldn't sit comfortably for two days after what I got not long ago and you bet I won't repeat that offense. That's what is so silly about parents—we do what we are told if they tell us right."

"I have a suspicion you like being in the thick of this perpetual warfare, don't you?" I asked.

"Well, it gives us an awful kick. If they're going to make us out sinners, then we are going to pretend we are, that's all. In school the music teacher criticized us because of our short skirts and rolled socks. We just rolled them a little lower."

"Who won out finally?" I asked.

"She did, of course. We got a punishment we weren't looking for."

So, parents and guardians, when this recalcitrant young enigma rises to inquire, "What has happened to Justice?" it may not be liberty she is crying for. Rather, an old fashioned paternal knee to be flapped across, face down!

Great Opportunity for School Teachers and Mothers

Today the subject of correct and comfortable shoes is a live issue in every community. Doctors and nurses and men and women interested in the public welfare are recognizing the physical and mental advantages of shoes which conform to the natural foot, as opposed to shoes which please the eye and plague the physique.

Teachers and mothers have a wonderful opportunity today to set the younger girls a sensible example by wearing correctly built shoes. Many a young woman will reach the full bloom of happiness in correct shoes who may reach the operating table if she throws an unnatural strain on her nerves and her internal organs by constantly wearing pointed or poorly shaped shoes with high French heels.

Cantilever Shoes are recommended to be worn by school teachers and mothers who wish to be sensibly and well dressed. The arch of Cantilever Shoes is flexible like the foot arch. There is no strip of steel concealed in the shank of these shoes as in all ordinary shoes. The well curved shank provides restful and healthful support, which obviates the tired feeling of long standing or walking. The flexible shank gives the arch muscles freedom to exercise, which corrects or prevents weak or fallen arches.

Comfortable toes, moderate or low heels, as you prefer, a natural shape which means comfort and good circulation are other enjoyable features of Cantilever Shoes.

Wear Cantilever Shoes and show the coming generation of womanhood that correct shoes are graceful and stylish, besides conducive to health and happiness. For this good influence you will be rewarded by the enjoyment of physical and mental comfort.

The Heart of Dover

An Iron Heart
That Will Heat Forever

The heart of your electric iron is a coil of tiny electric wire deep within the polished shell. This is the vital source of heat. There are many types of heating elements most of which burn out or deteriorate with age and use. But only one electric iron has a heating element that will not burn out. That is Dover-DOMANCO.

The secret of this amazing new iron is the patented "Vea" heating element. No other electric iron has a heating element which actually becomes more efficient with use.

The exclusive heat reservoir delivers heat to a perfect ironing surface. This surface has specially designed edges making the iron glide smoothly, even on fabrics difficult to handle. The Dover-DOMANCO heats quickly and cools slowly.

We authorize any dealer to give a complete new, 5-lb. heating unit FREE if your Dover-DOMANCO ever burns out.

We have built millions of irons in twenty-nine years and now offer in the Dover-DOMANCO the most reliable, beautiful and economical iron we have ever created and it costs only $5.00, including double-deck stand with curling-iron feature.

Ask any Dover dealer to demonstrate the Five Factors of Dover-DOMANCO superiority.

LOVE LETTERS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every love letter published. So, if you can write a good one, or if you have one in your private or family possessions you would like to enter in the contest, send it to Love Letter Editor, The Sunday Tribune, Chicago. As no letters will be returned send copies of the ones you wish to keep.

PUTTING DOUBTS TO FLIGHT.

DEAR: The letter I received from you today fills me with rapture. But still I cannot help feeling doubtful of your sincerity. Forgive me if I am wrong.

Your letters, though few, are my sustenance. How can I wait until vacation to see you? Shall we never have a chance to talk until then? What a feeling I have when I think of that day of separation when you'll go home—how can I stand to part with one who is dearest in the world to me? You will cease to think of me when I am gone away from the university, and then what shall I have to look forward to in life?

Yes, I will be true to you, and I think you are too noble to go back on your word. And if I should hear you express yourself thus, it would fill me with rapture. It pains me to think of all you are to me, and then never being with you any more after we have graduated. Yes, you may be to me what you said. If you should cease to love me, my days would be spent in longing for death, for you know the only place for a broken heart is in the "hollow earth."

I have but one hope, and that is that you will be true until death. Can't you? Won't you? I only wish we could talk face to face for a few hours, but of course, it is impossible. Sweetheart, if you really meant the contents of your letter, and desire my affection above all others, you know you already have my love; then this is the happiest moment of my life.

Perhaps I have indulged too long in expressing my sentiments, but I hope these expressions will be harmony and sweet music to your ear and heart. And now, dear, I want you to give me one of your photographs. Remember, it will be all I have to live on until college is out. ROGER.

Roger darling: You say life would be miserable unless you possessed the hope of winning my affections. O, that I could be the one to bring happiness to you and cause you to aspire to higher motives.

I think we were brought together by the hand of fate, for some wise and good purpose. Heaven ordained a conformity of affection between us. This being so, you possess a true affection for me, which will assure happiness.

And while you are meditating, I hope you will endeavor to place your trust in me, though unworthy of all you can bestow, a true friend.

Yes, I hope a time will come when we can enjoy that eventful time. Do you agree with the poet in saying, "Love is of man's life a thing apart; 'tis woman's whole existence"? I can, for the life of a woman is to live in love.

I wish I could believe in the reciprocation of your affection for me. It would, therefore, be blessed to receive as well as to give; for in your well conducted sentiments there is a slight possibility of a doubt. The other evening, when you said I need not be doubtful, I wondered if you really meant all the words you intimated.

But I hope the sweet remembrance of me will be kept fresh in your mind and thoughts. May your devotion and affection for me grow more and more, and may you still be mindful of the happiness, which by the most endearing efforts and faithful emotions may be made to develop the charms of our most delightful future!

For me to know there is firmness, confidence, honesty, uprightness, and truthfulness in the words you have written is the most cheering thing on earth.

Little did I think when I was endeavoring to entertain you on that memorable night that I was making an impression on one whom I admired above all others.

I, too, knew after that eventful night that I had met my fate. But still I tried not to harbor the idea of winning your affections. But if I have gained them, it is the granting of one of my desires. And as for wrecking your life, dear, don't you know (even were it in my power), I would be far from it. You have no cause to trouble your mind in that line.

It is not often we have hearts roomy enough for more than one at the same time. ALICE.

Varied Activities of the Women.

Miss Anna B. Hogan of Jersey City, N. J., has been retained to defend a man charged with murder.

Mrs. Bertha D. Horchem of Ransom, Kas., is the first woman to enter as a contestant in an international air race.

Mrs. Millicent Cooper of Lewistown, Mont., recently joined the Washington police department as a finger print expert.

Miss Lillian Westropp is the organizer and president of the first woman's savings and loan company in the United States.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, British Columbia, who is visiting England, has been proclaimed Canada's most famous woman politician.

Grant, Mich., has a woman blacksmith, Mrs. Mary Harris, who has been helping her husband in his shop for the last twenty-five years.

Cuticura

Clears The Scalp Of Dandruff

Treatment: On retiring gently rub Cuticura Ointment, with the end of the finger, on spots of dandruff and itching. Next morning shampoo with a suds of Cuticura Soap and hot water. Rinse with tepid water. This treatment does much to keep the scalp clean and healthy and promote hair growth.

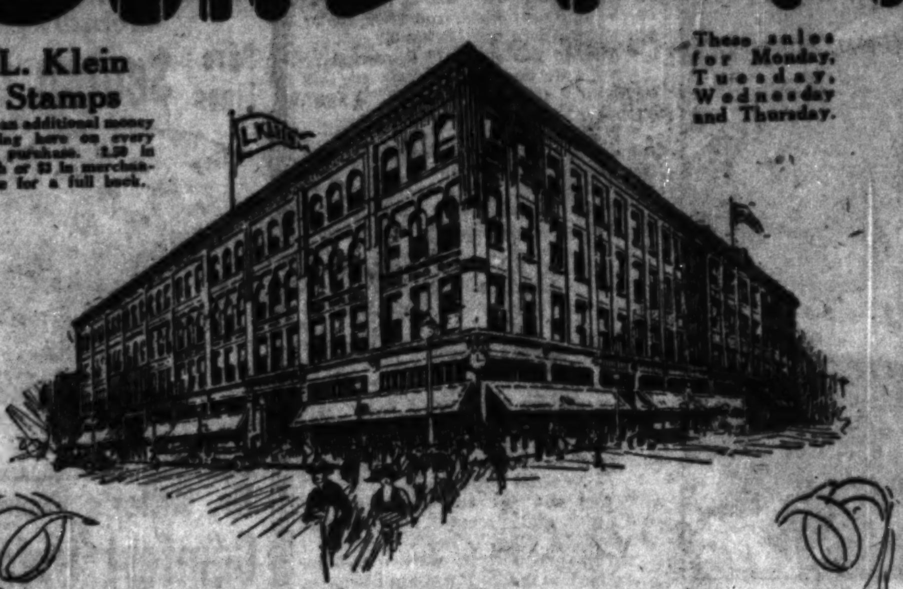
OUR 54th ANNIVERSARY SALE

L. Klein Stamps are an additional money saving here on every 10c purchase. 2.50 in cash or $3 in merchandise for a full book.

These sales for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.



Marking the Completion of 54 Years of Public Service

This marks the 54th year of our steady progress in business "Out of the Beaten Path." An occasion full of sentiment to us and interest to our customers. Gratifying indeed is this proof that each year the L. Klein Store becomes more firmly established in the confidence of the people—with loyal old friends and new ones added.

Our idea of the most befitting manner of celebrating an Anniversary is to share with our customers, who have made possible the growth of this institution, the generous price concessions that have come to us through preparation for this event. Every department in the store will participate. Prices will be lower than ordinary. Everything is ready—all fresh, new, seasonal merchandise for the home and for personal use—all L. Klein quality. Our 54th Anniversary event will be well worth attending every day.

Charges This is an excellent time to open a charge account here.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

By Jane Eddington

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

STEWS.

ONE pound of meat, and that of some of the cheapest cuts—like neckbone, spareribs, or beef shank (sometimes called cow heel)—extended, seasoned, and healthfully balanced with vegetables, when cooked in a quart of water as a stew, will make enough for four good servings. When there are but two in the family this amount may be used for three different meals, and served only once as a stew—the liquid part as a soup, the meat chopped, heated up in a little of the thickened liquid part, and served on toast.

There are also fish stews and vegetable stews, salt pork stews, and stews of game like those or rabbits (hasenpfeffer) and the famous old Brunswick stew of squirrels and chickens. Stews are also made of a bit of fat meat without any lean. Tripe and chitterlings (intestines of the pig, selling at about [illegible] cents a pound) are used by the poorest people of the world for stews, when they can get any meat at all, and such things as cabbage stews have to answer when no meat is to be had.

Stews, while the most economical of dishes, as the central part of a meal are made more substantial if cooked with dumplings or noodles, or thickened with barley or rice, or served with quantities of boiled rice. These things also make them go farther. Only a bit of curried meat and a great deal of rice are served together, in which case the little highly seasoned curry stew is really but a seasoner for the rice, and it is much the same in the case of chop suey, and particularly so with the pilaff—the best pilaff being a chicken stewed and buried in a great mound of rice. Another and often more elegant way of presenting the stew is to put it into a crust and call it a meat pie. Many of the meats cooked "en casserole" are stews.

Fats in a Stew.

The great cooks have believed it the essence of good stew making to have several kinds of meat, more because of the differences of the fats than of the lean part. The fats are really the most abundant seasoning of the stew, and we can use suet and butter with a lamb stew or combine a bit of fresh pork with it, and so forth. We need the fat in starting the stew to cook, sinc the meat is prepared the French ragout fashion the stew will not be a "white stew," and the meat itself will be more edible.

This fashion is to roll the meat, cut in small pieces, in flour, to sear it on all sides in hot, but not burning hot, fat which browns the flour somewhat. In this way the meat keeps its flavor. The vegetables are also better for being stewed a bit in the fat. The old American fashion was to prepare the meat and vegetables and put them into the pot without searing them in fat, and then to add cold water to them.

Flour in the Stew.

More fat can be used, and a richer stew made, if there is a flour thickening cooking from first to last in the stew. The fatter the meat the more flour is needed for thickening. Barley, rice, vermicelli, and noodles are used for a similar purpose. They take up the fat and are made delicious by it.

Perhaps onion comes first. In preparing already cooked meat stew fashion, onions and potatoes are often enough to make a palatable dish. To me celery is almost indispensable in stews of raw meat, and I like the white leaves best for this purpose. The celery leaves in a mutton or lamb stew—slowly and long cooked at simmering temperature which is short of 200 degrees—seem to me about the best part of the stew. Such a stew may be called Greek, since this race uses much lamb and in stews extend it greatly with vegetables.

Lettuce scalded and cooked but a few minutes in the stew may take the place of the celery, and this would make the stew more like those the French prepare. With okra and squash the same stew would be more like that prepared by the Armenians, who would dip it up in various ways, one part over rice or another part over bread, etc.

The tomato stewed with various vegetables and well seasoned with fat makes a good vegetable stew, and no vegetable except onion is perhaps so good with beef as is the tomato. Some people think it necessary to the Hungarian goulash, but the red in this properly comes from paprika. It is a beef stew of some sort with paprika seasoning.

The green and red sweet pepper and the hot pepper are essential to the Spanish, Mexican, and many of the Creole stews. Bean stews are improved greatly by sweet peppers with no meat at all, or but a bit, and something inexpensive.

To some cooks the carrot is almost as indispensable as the onion in a stew. When correctly used and well blended with the other seasonings persons who will not eat carrots in other ways will like it. The turnip is excellent in certain stews, and the story of the cabbage in stews is a long one. There is no edible vegetable thing that may not be used in the stew and has been used—the squash and pumpkin, the parsnip, and even the beet.

Beef Stew.

Use one pound of stewing beef for four persons (you can use the more expensive round steak instead) cut in inch squares, four onions cut fine, one or two carrots sliced thin, a little turnip or not as convenient, four potatoes cut in quarters, and about one quart of water. With the potatoes it is not so necessary to roll the pieces of meat in flour before sautéing in some beef fat (salt pork fat or butter may be used). Cold or hot water may be added to the meat with the vegeables—all except the potato, which should be put in twenty minutes before the stew is done. Let the stew boil up at the start and then simmer for an hour or more until every ingredient is tender. Add salt and any seasonings of the same nature during the last ten minutes. When the potatoes are not used add tomato, etc.

Soup Bone Stew.

An old fashioned dish was made by cooking gently a knuckle bone, first skinned and made immaculately clean, for two hours, and then with onions and potatoes, about two onions and one potato for each person to be served.

A Small Ragout.

The French in making a stew or ragout treat each piece of meat as carefully as they would treat a piece of meat of pot roasting size. Flour and sautéing in fat keep the juices in, and then it is cooked in a thickened liquid which does not penetrate the meat in the same way that water does. Take the fat rim from a pound of round steak, and after you have skinned it cut it fine and partially render it in the frying pan. Cut the lean of the meat into little squares after rolling each piece in a well blended mixture of two tablespoons of flour, one-fourth teaspoon of pepper, and one level teaspoon of salt. If you have some good curry powder add about one-eighth teaspoon of that.

When the frying pan has enough fat in it to grease it well, stew a tablespoon of chopped onion in it without browning, then sear the meat on all sides, turning it with a spatula so as not to pierce any piece. When it is well seared draw to side of pan, and brown the seasoned flour left over, then add a cup and a half of cold water and one carrot cut fine. Stir until the whole boils—then simmer for an hour over a tiny fire. Serve with rice or mashed potato.

Lamb Stews.

There is no end of ways of making lamb stews. It is highly important that each piece of meat used be skinned or the "fell" removed, for this is what gives the woolly taste, if it is left on. Then the meat must be seared on all sides and, with fat lamb or mutton, to use plenty of flour on the meat to be seared and in the thickening of the stew is more essential than with any other meat. Unless many seasoning vegetables are to be used, and especially some celery leaves—dried ones are excellent—any solid pieces of fat should be left out, but see recipe for "Mock Lamb Stew."

Fresh Pork Stew.

For a small stew take one pork chop and cut it into the thinnest possible slices. Roll these in seasoned flour and also the bone of the chop. Sear these well in some well seasoned pork fat, having the left over flour at one side of the pan to heat and brown a little while the pork is being seared. When this is done add two cups of milk and stir and cook until it thickens. Then add one onion cut fine, two potatoes cut in strings, and two small turnips cut the same way—or omit the turnip. Simmer until the vegetables are tender. Salt at the last. If there should be any dark scum on the liquid part, skim it off. If it gets too thick, thin with water or milk.

Lamb and Spare Rib Stew.

Half a pound of shoulder of lamb, half a pound of spare ribs, two carrots sliced, half a green sweet pepper—or use all—several small onions or one large one cut fine, three tablespoons of flour, a little fat in which to sear meat—you may use part butter to improve flavor of stew. Skin the chop, cut into small pieces, and roll in seasoned flour along with the spare ribs. After the meat is seared put in flour left over, blending it with the fat, add cut up vegetables, two or more cups of water, and stir until it thickens. When the stew is two-thirds done, being cooked gently, potatoes cut in small pieces or to suit may be added.

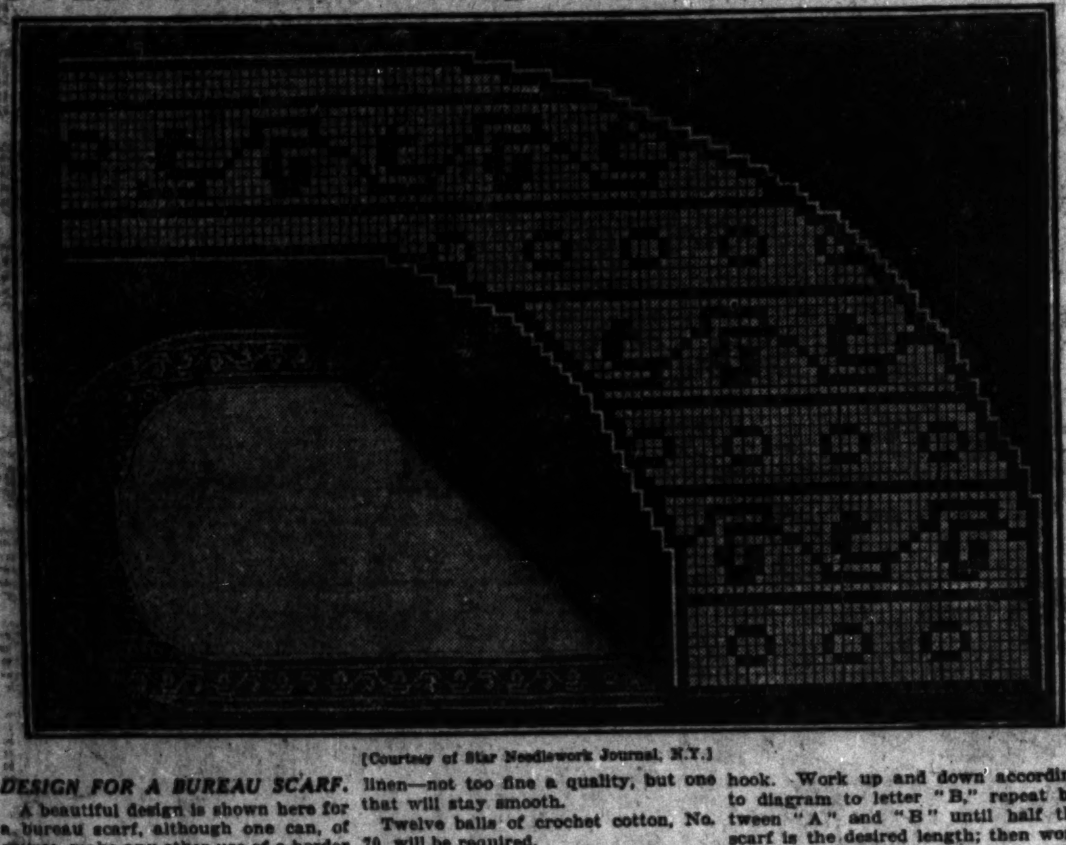
Practical and Fancy Needlework

BY CLOTILDE



[Courtesy of Star Needlework Journal, N.Y.]

DESIGN FOR A BUREAU SCARF.

A beautiful design is shown here for a bureau scarf, although one can, of course, make any other use of a border like this that suggests itself. For a bureau nothing is more beautiful than linen—not too fine a quality, but one that will stay smooth.

Twelve balls of crochet cotton, No. 70, will be required.

To make: Chain 87 for solid meshes, working first d c in fourth chain from hook. Work up and down according to diagram to letter "B," repeat between "A" and "B" until half the scarf is the desired length; then work the center motif, and continue the other half.

MARITAL REEFS

What was the greatest stumbling block to happiness in your married life? Did you have to struggle with too idealistic and too romantic a viewpoint toward mate and matrimony? Was it incompatibility of temperament or interests? Was there an economic reason for the reef you nearly struck? Was your stumbling block age disparity? Religious differences? Too much mother-in-law? Poor housekeeping? Extravagance? Jealousy? Unfair division of the pay envelope? Husband unfaithful, thoughtless, unkind, alcoholic, lazy, deceitful? Perhaps it was some other stumbling block about which you can tell us and which may help some other couple about to embark upon the good ship Matrimony. Tell us about it, won't you? The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published. Address Doris Blake, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Abandoning the Climb.

The hill my husband and I were trying to climb was a steep one called "Jealousy." The car we tried to climb it with was a "Faithless." A poor car indeed for such a steep hill! Our tour was something like this:

Our marriage was the culmination of a school romance. During our high school days we were the most friendly couple at school, and, more than that, the most jealous one, I believe. Then, after graduation, we separated; he to attend a law school and I to attend a school of dramatics. He disapproved of my going away and begged me to wait at home for him, but I refused.

It was then I decided that "absence makes a jealous heart grow bitter." I didn't trust him while he was away and he didn't trust me; faithless and jealous, two factors that spell trouble for young lovers. However, we didn't give up, but consoled ourselves with the thought that after marriage things would be different.

But when we were married we discovered it was the same old story. Troublesome friends kept constantly reminding friend hubby of the wonderful career his wife had given up and he "waxed lean with jealousy." Yet I had given up my career willingly because I felt that the applause of a happy husband was worth more than the applause of the public. But the husband didn't applaud, and my jealous, suspicious nature went on the warpath.

So there we were: two desperately jealous people, in love with each other, trying to climb the hill of Jealousy with only a cheap little Faithless. My husband's business kept him away from home a great deal and I didn't trust him when he was away, and he didn't trust me while I was alone.

So, after days and nights of tears and heartaches, we parted. He still loves me and I am still in love with him, but until we can learn to be more unselfish and broadminded and less jealous we have decided this is the better way. I have gathered up the threads of my girlhood career and have thrown myself headlong into my work. Sometimes it is hard and I am almost persuaded to go back to him, but my common sense intervenes and warns me not to. Faithless, jealous couples, such as we were have no right to establish homes and usher innocent baby lives into a stifling atmosphere of jealousy and faithlessness.

So young, jealous life tourists, if you haven't anything better than a "Faithless," you'd better think twice before you decide to go touring together, because when the "Faithless" gets to the steep hill, Jealousy it is sure to say: "I kin, I kin, I can't."

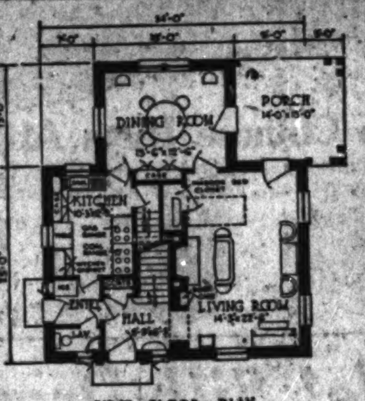
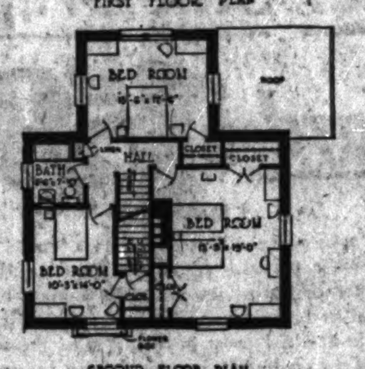
COLONIAL STONE HOUSE.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN



SECOND FLOOR PLAN

TAKING its inspiration from the simple and logical American houses of our forefathers is the compact little house illustrated. It will delight admirers of the beautiful, old colonial houses that abound throughout many parts of our eastern states. Its exterior is planned in exactly the same manner—plain stone walls, unornamented with cut stone, with the porch, entrance feature, and cornice built of wood, painted a light color, in contrast to the varying natural color tones of the rough sawed, rustic buff colored limestone with which the walls are faced.

There is a substantial difference, however. Instead of building the entire thickness of the walls with blocks of stone, quarried and hewn square by hand labor, as was necessary in colonial times, these walls are constructed of a facing of Indiana limestone, sawed square by machinery, and backed up with brick or hollow tile. The stone is left with the rough finish, as it comes from the saws, giving the walls a most interesting surface texture, which, with the marking and sparkle inherent in this kind of stone, relieves the plain surface and gives an antique effect.

The roof is intended to be of blue slate, preferably a light, gray blue, or a greenish gray slate. It could be of stained shingles or dull green shingle tile.

Surmounting the front entrance dorway is a zinc lined flower box.

There is not a piece of cut stone in this little house, except the door and window sills. It is, therefore, a most economical stone house to build.

It is on the inside, however, that this house has its greatest appeal. It claims distinction by the unusually compact and convenient arrangement of the rooms. While planned around a central chimney, like many of the old New England farm houses, at this point the similarity with colonial houses ends. The floor plans are essentially modern in every way and are arranged for the convenience of the housewife who is obliged to do all or a greater portion of her own work. The small percentage of the floor area taken up by halls is at once evident.

Few small houses have such a nice square entrance hall and upper stair hall, and such a convenient kitchen and rear entry arrangement. The kitchen is just a step from the front door, and yet is well separated from entrance hall and living room. To one entering the house, the little square hall seems like a tiny reception room, with its console table under the window and paneled doors leading to the living room, kitchen entry, and coat closet. This coat closet is of the wardrobe type, with cupboard below for rubbers, etc. Opening from the rear entry, just a step off from the main hall, there is a toilet. This arrangement is fine, especially where there are small children.

The wide, straight stairway is of the simplest type, and takes up the least possible amount of space, and, of course is the most economical type to build.

The living room, entered to the right of the hall, measures 14 feet 3 inches by 22 feet 6 inches, and has windows on three sides. There is a large, open fireplace of early colonial type on the long, inside wall of the living room. On one side of the fireplace is a built-in bookcase, and on the other a large in a door bed closet. Both are built in as a part of the wood paneling around the fireplace.

At the rear of the living room there are two glazed, double French doors, one pair leading to the porch and the other to the dining room, which also opens on to the roomy square, porch. There is a large, built in china closet in the dining room, right beside the door to the kitchen.

The kitchen is unusually well planned and compact. In the rear entry is a space for the refrigerator, which is iced from the outside.

On the second floor there are three bedrooms and bath, all with good closet space. The bedrooms are so arranged as to give free access to three sides of the beds, so that there is no moving of them each day, with consequent scratching of floors and wearing out of rugs. From a cupboard in the small bedroom there is a stair leading to the storage space in the attic.

There is a basement under the entire house, amply lighted and ventilated by windows placed in areaways.

The plan and design of this little house lend themselves to a great many different conditions of site. Being so moderate in cost, it possesses great general utility for the small suburban home builder. It could be built quite close to the sidewalk in built up sections, or be located well back on the lot, in more rural suburban districts. This house is intended for a 60 foot lot, but could be satisfactorily placed on a lot as narrow as 50 feet.

From the porch and from the gate to the service yard at the garage, which is placed just a little to the rear of the kitchen, two garden walks lead back to a pergola placed across the back of the rear lawn, thus encircling the open garden space in the center of which a carved stone bird bath or sun dial could be placed.

Mothers know a dose of
SYRUP PEPSIN
Will keep them fit

'First Aid' For Sick Children

THE experienced mother is not alarmed when a child becomes sick. She knows that most of the ailments of childhood are trifling. If it seems serious she calls a doctor, but whether or not she calls him she gives, first of all, a good laxative medicine. The doctor would advise that anyway. It is his "first aid." Such experienced mothers as Mrs. Everett E. Hunt of Belzoni, Okla., who has three children and never any sickness, and Mrs. F. B. Kuklenski of Prosser, Wash., always give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at the first indication of sickness. Such timely doses have saved them much worry.

The Meaning of "Good"

All doctors agree that a thorough cleaning out of the bowels is of first importance for it removes dangerous intestinal poisons. They will also advise a "good laxative," and by "good" they mean one that is effective and yet harmless. They know that there are physics that never should be given to children - calomel, which is mercury and loosens the teeth; phenolphthalein, a coal-tar drug that causes skin trouble; salts, which concentrate the blood and dry up the saliva. They consider Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin safe for all ages as they know it is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. The formula is on the package.

Give Laxative for Colds

Adults should have at least one movement of the bowels every 24 hours, and children two or three. Failure to have it means constipation, then headache, biliousness, drowsiness, lack of appetite. Give a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at bedtime, and there will be health and good feeling by morning. A dose costs less than a cent, and a bottle can be had at any drug store. Colds and constipation come together, so if you notice coughing or sneezing stop it at once with Syrup Pepsin.

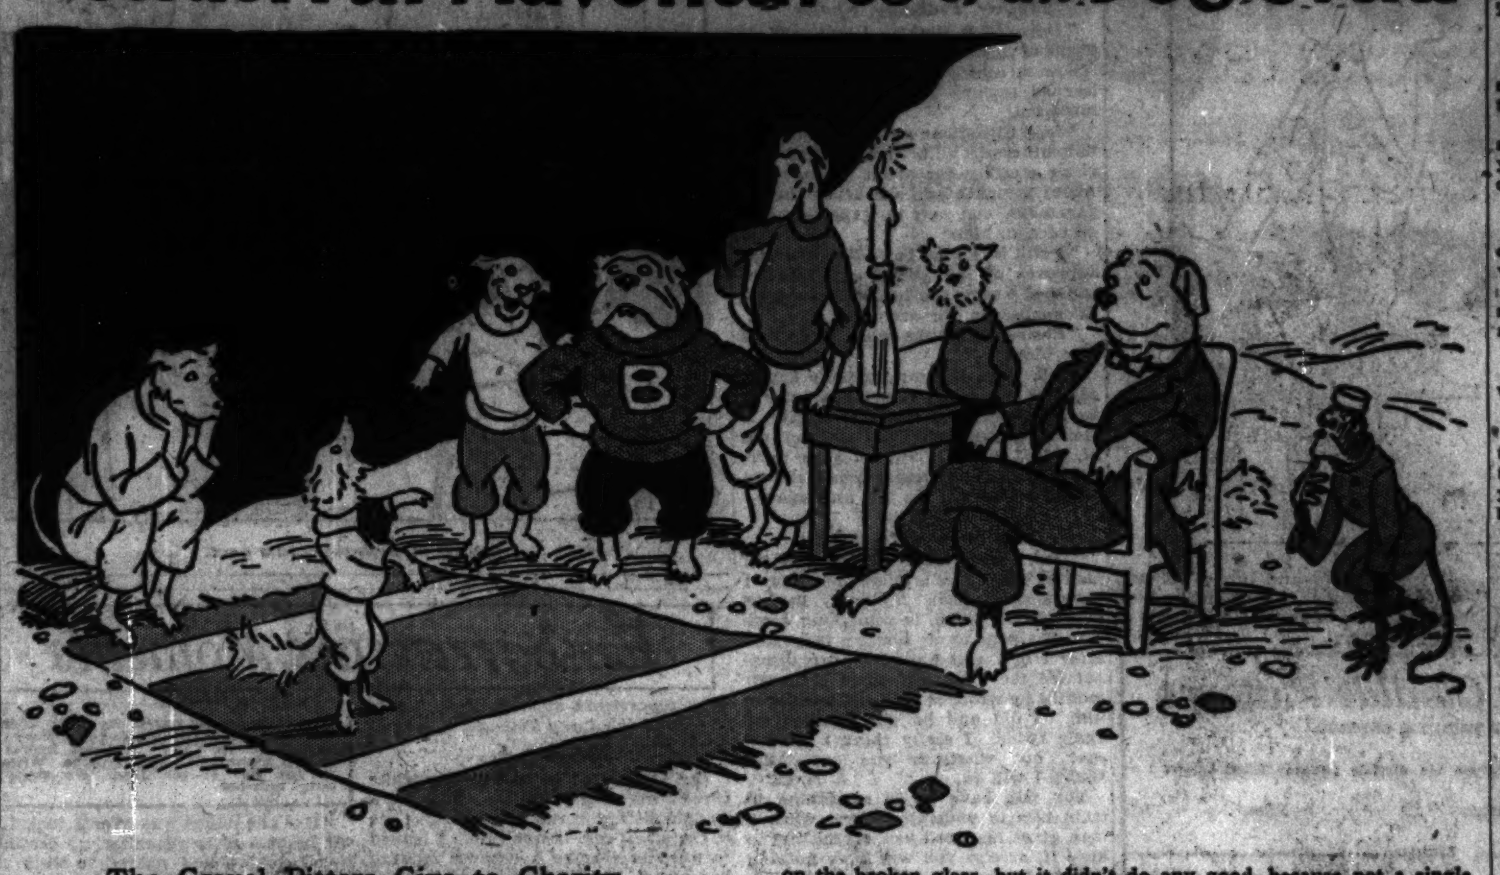
Wonderful Adventures of the Dog Club



The Gravel Pitters Give to Charity.

By Raymond Kelly

"ARE all the pups present or accounted for?" asked Carlo, the big St. Bernard, who was president of the Gravel Pit club.

Granger, the collie, who was secretary, answered: "All are present."

"Are there any bills to present?"

"Yes, two. One is for 60 cents for dog biscuit, and the other is for 40 cents for cheese to be used in making cheesecloth. Mr. Toodles ran that bill."

"I object," cried Ginger, the fox terrier. "That's a waste of money and, besides, you can't make cheesecloth out of cheese."

"I know that," answered Toodles, "but there was no waste, because I ate the cheese. It was good cheese, too, or I'd have saved you some."

"After this," said Carlo, when order had been restored, "members who wish to fight will please do so before or after the meeting, and outside this cave. I enjoy good fighting as much as any one, but there's a time and place for everything. Mr. Secretary, have any new dogs applied to join this club?"

"Yes, sir, one. It's Chico the Mexican hairless dog, whom you yourself saved with the help of Wiggler the monkey."

"Chico can't join this club," objected Bull Bailey. "The charter says it's for both long haired and short haired dogs, but he's neither. He has no hair at all. If he wishes to be a Gravel Pitter, let him raise some hair."

"But he can't," said Toodles the poodle. "He's tried awfully hard to do so. He knocked Mr. Hamilton's bottle of baldness remover off the table and broke it. Then he rolled in it until he got all scratched on the broken glass, but it didn't do any good, because not a single hair come. It's no use at all; hairless born, hairless for life."

"But Chico's an awfully good fellow, said Bingo," and he works so hard at taking care of that blind man that he really ought to have some fun. I think we should change the rules for him."

Then there was a terrible debate. The old dogs all wanted Chico kept out, and the younger ones all wanted him in. So Carlo, who was always in favor of peace, offered a compromise. Said he, "After all, there's not much difference between a fur coat and a coat of fur. Suppose we all chip in and raise the fur to make the little beggar a coat. Wiggler the monkey is, I expect, a fine tailor, and I'm sure all the long haired dogs will help out. I'll give three tufts myself."

"So'll I," said Toodles.

"And I," said Granger.

"Mine's too short to pull," put in Cricket the foxhound, "but there's a cat next door that I've had my eye on for some time, and I rather think you can count on me for a mouthful. It's Angora goods, too, and fine."

"That will be helpful, I'm sure," Carlo answered. "The next thing to decide is whether to mix the fur or put the tufts separate, so that the pups can see their gifts every time Chico is with us. For my part I think a patch fur coat would be artistic, but I'm willing to have it made any way you fellows wish."

"I'm the most modest dog in this club," said Toodles, "and I never brag, though I've plenty to boast of if I wanted to, but I like what I do to show. I'm for a patch fur coat, too."

So it was agreed that Chico should join the club and might wear the fur coat to be made for him by Wiggler the monkey. And all the Gravel Pitters felt very happy, as we all do when we have been generous, which is the best reason on earth for being so, as I'm sure you will all agree.

How to Use the Patterns.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

ALL the smart blouses today are overblouses, and pattern No. 1730 is one of the most becoming types. It is cut with the usual kimono sleeves, but instead of being seamed together both seam edges are bound and lapped at the bottom and buttoned there. The lower part of the blouse is cut in such a manner that the broad band or belt that gives the becoming long waisted effect is not a separate piece but is cut in one with the blouse.

To give and confine the fullness each side of the front and back, the blouse is slashed into a certain perforation, then after the sleeve and under arm seams have been finished the lower slashed edge of the waist is gathered and set on to the upper edge of the broad band that makes the finish at the bottom.

Do the gathering about one-quarter of an inch in from the edge, and as you near the middle front and back make the seam a little narrower. Turn the upper edge of the band in and set this turned in edge over the gathered seam. Baste firmly in position, and stitch close to the edge.

After both sides have been finished in this manner a perfectly fitted lining should be hemmed in place over the bottom of the blouse all the way around, and the opposite edge should be hemmed down over the gathered sections at the top. Across the top, on both front and back, this lining may be left free—that is, in the middle of both back and front—but the upper edge must be turned in and catch stitched down, to prevent fraying. Care should be taken to see that across the middle front and back the lining is not tigther than the outside. If it is, it will show.

Printed crêpes are used a great deal for these blouses; the plain crêpes with embroidery or other trimming in contrasting colors are also smart.

This is to be blouse day, and all three are good looking and not difficult to make. Pattern No. 9922 is a pretty design—opening in the front, and to be slipped on over the head. The side, body and sleeves are cut in one piece, and front and back pieces are cut separately. The belt is cut in one with the front and back, and fastens on the sides.

The pattern gives clear directions for putting together, and no woman who sews much should have difficulty in putting it together. As you can see from the picture, the sleeves may be long or short. Printed crêpe with pipings of a plain color would be one attractive way of making. The neck and front opening could be bound with the plain color, and pipings set in under the front and back edges of the blouse where these pieces are set on to the side pieces. An inch wide outside facing could be used as a finish for the lower edge of the belt, and either length sleeve could have the edge finished with the piping.

If a solid color is used for the blouse, embroidery done in beads or silk floss would be effective and the edges could be finished in the same manner as described for the printed blouse.

Pattern 1714 is for an overblouse crossing in the front and closing at the left side. The fronts are faced and rolled back with the collar, and the sleeves may be long or short. This is a pretty blouse to wear with your fall suit, and the long sleeves will be more suitable than the shorter. A solid color in any of the crêpes or satins would be pretty, and the facing for the fronts and collar could be of a contrasting plain color, or one of the printed crêpes could be used and, if one wished, an inch wide binding on the bottom would make an attractive finish.

Be attentive to the person seated next to you at a dinner party. Don't attempt a long distance conversation with your favorite crony at the other end of the table.

Doris Blake's Answers to Love Problems

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped, addressed envelope.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

Mother Probably Knows.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am now 18 years of age. Two years ago I met a fellow at school and in a short time I learned to love him, and he said he loved me.

"Last Christmas he became engaged to another girl with whom he had been going steadily for about three years. About a month ago she broke the engagement, and now he expects me to go back to him.

"I still love him, but my mother disapproves of my going with him because she says she heard he wasn't a fit companion for any one.

"Please advise me what to do as I love him. BETZ."

Well, Betz, if your mother's knowledge of the young man's character is well founded, you would not want to step into something you are well out of, would you? It will be easier to recover from your present love sickness, if you do not see the boy any more.

Have an Understanding.

"Dear Miss Blake: About eight months ago I met a fellow for whom I care a great deal. The way he has acted, Miss Blake, is something terrible. He came to my house a few times after I first met him, and then disappointed me. In the course of a few months he wrote to me to go back with him. I did and he disappointed me again twice. I really think I am too easy, but whatever you say, Miss Blake, I will do. "A. N. C."

You will have to do something to train him to understand that when a man gives his word you expect him to keep it, or else you will have nothing further to do with him.

Now She Barely Speaks.

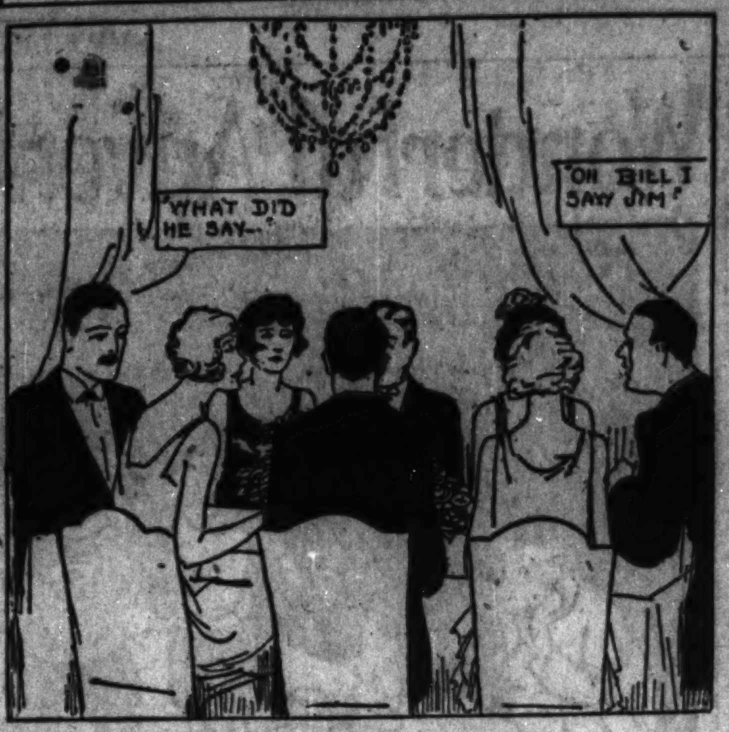
"Dear Miss Blake: I am dearly in love with a girl just 18. I am a few years her senior. I have been keeping company with her for about ten months. We have had some fine times together.

"I invited her to an entertainment and banquet. At this affair she did not treat me as she should. She left the affair without saying a word to me. When I meet her she barely speaks and declines my invitations to go out.

"I feel lonesome without her and have her on my mind, thinking how I can win her back. I am looking to you for advice. H. W. S."

Are you sure you did not do something to hurt the girl's feelings at the fatal banquet? Or were the speakers too much for her? Or what? You will have to find out who or what was to blame for the girl's sudden disappearance, and make apologetic amends if you were guilty, before you may hope to pick up the thread of the romance again, don't you think?

What's Wrong Here?



"WHAT DID HE SAY--"
"OH BILL I SAY JIM"

Misguided.

Not long ago I noticed a long white thread hanging from the collar of a woman sitting in the seat ahead of me in the street car. Impulsively I leaned forward to remove it without making her aware of it. As the car lurched I made several efforts not to jostle her. Meanwhile the passengers about me were watching interestedly. I was feeling slightly embarrassed and finally succeeded in getting the thread and drew it gently but firmly towards me. Imagine my horror and the amusement of onlookers to see nearly a yard of lace drop from the collar. I could not say, "Madam, I have ripped a yard of lace from your collar," so I signaled for the car to stop and with a red face got off amid the laughter of the passengers, while the woman continued her calm and peaceful journey not knowing what had happened to her collar. L. L.

After the Dance Was Over.

Some time ago I went to a dance with a girl friend of mine. While standing there and talking a young man who had danced with me quite frequently asked me for the next dance. I accepted. While dancing he asked if he could escort me home, but being with my girl friend I told him my brother would see me home (though I have no brother).

After the dance was over I took the car home. After reaching my destination I got off and started to walk. I turned around and to my surprise saw a fellow following me, so, therefore, I increased my speed in getting home.

When I reached there the fellow who had been following me said, "You didn't know we were neighbors," so you can imagine my surprise when I turned around and recognized the fellow who wanted to escort me home from the dance. E. E.

Only the Pianist.

We had received a telegram from my eldest brother saying he was married and would arrive next day. He had just been on a musical tour so we were glad to see him.

The next day dawned and we heard scrapings of feet on the front porch. In a second the whole family was at the door, shouting greetings, and congratulations. I sprang at the blushing bride and kissed her.

"I hope you will enjoy a happy life," I shouted.

"Pardon me," she replied with quiet dignity, "I am your brother's pianist. His wife is on the porch."

Being a boy, this went rather hard with me. N. B.

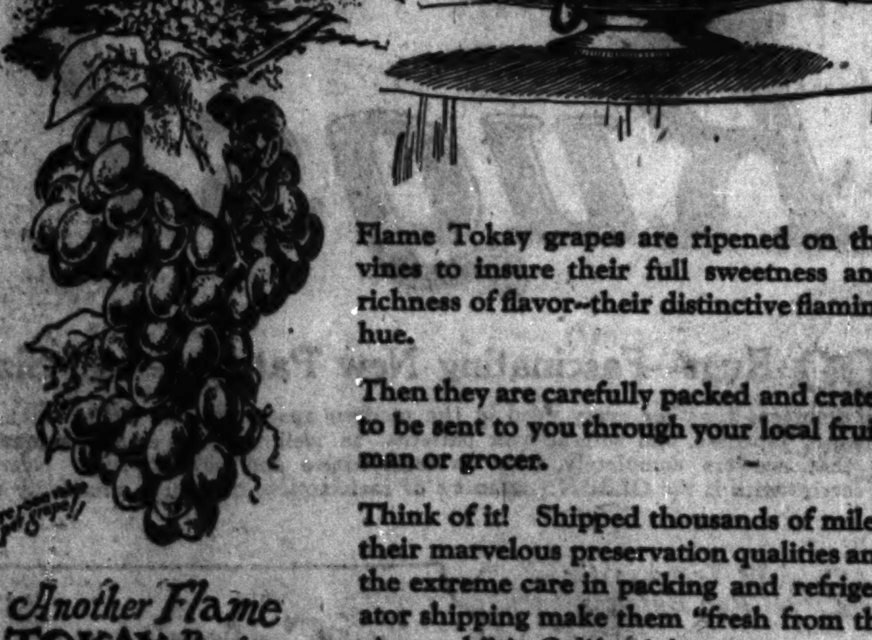
From vineyard to your table!



Flame Tokay grapes are ripened on the vines to insure their full sweetness and richness of flavor—their distinctive flaming hue.

Then they are carefully packed and crated to be sent to you through your local fruitman or grocer.

Think of it! Shipped thousands of miles, their marvelous preservation qualities and the extreme care in packing and refrigerator shipping make them "fresh from the vineyards" in California!

What a different type of grape the Flame Tokays must be, you may say. And they are. Just try them today and convince yourself.

Another Flame TOKAY Recipe

Delightful Salad—
One can of pineapple cut into small cubes; three large oranges sliced thin; one bunch of Flame Tokay grapes cut lengthwise and seeded; one third pound blanched almonds or pecan meats; now sweeten with powdered sugar and allow to stand for one hour. Serve on lettuce leaves topped with whipped cream.

"Mother, introduce me to her—"

THE YOUNG MAN laid a detaining hand on his mother's arm as she walked away from the charming young woman sitting at the piano.

She was beautifully gowned, to be sure, but that was not what arrested attention—it was her sweet face, her fresh coloring!

Any man would have sought an introduction to the lovely player, as did he.

"But you know her already, Tom," replied his mother. "That is Virginia Carter."

"Oh, come, mother—Virginia Carter was the plainest little girl in all the world—"

"Just the same, Tom, you may go and speak to her—she really is the Virginia Carter you used to know. I'll tell you what has changed her so. She has learned the art of caring for her complexion."

Pompeian Bloom—the Most Popular Rouge

A DELICATE TRACE of color in a woman's cheeks unfailingly adds a new beauty and a look of youthfulness. Color in the cheeks also gives more sparkle and depth to her eyes.

Pompeian Bloom is a rouge so perfectly toned to the natural coloring that its use cannot be detected. It comes in a dainty gilt box with rouge puff and mirror. This rouge comes off easily on your puff, but does not crack or crumble in the cake.

Pompeian Bloom is made in the fashionable new Orange tint, also in the Light, Medium, and Dark shades of the rose tint.

A nation-wide test revealed Pompeian Bloom the largest seller in most stores. And justly so!

Used in the following order, the four preparations comprising the Pompeian Quartet will accomplish marvelous results:

Pompeian Day Cream (a vanishing cream) softens the skin as well as "takes" your powder and rouge smoothly.

Pompeian Beauty Powder adheres unusually well and goes on smoothly. In Naturelle, Rachel, Flesh, and White.

Pompeian Bloom is used over the powder, blending with it to obtain a most natural effect.

Pompeian Lip Stick is of perfect color and consistency. Softening and healing, as well as beautifying.

POMPEIAN DAY CREAM (vanishing)	60c per jar

Are You Looking Forward to Social Activities This Fall?

By MME. JEANNETTE

If your summer, out-of-doors, has made your skin too hard, or too dry, or too rough, then your skin is in an unnatural condition, and must be treated.

The science of dermatology has never produced a more satisfying product for these conditions than Pompeian Night Cream. It is absolutely pure, and supplies an oily substance to the skin that is adequate till your care brings back the activity of the natural oil-secretion.

I say "your" care advisedly, for even a professional dermatologist can treat you only when you visit his office, and to bring the skin back to normal requires constant attention at your own dressing table.

A Dry Skin Soon Wrinkles

Just as healthy hair must have a certain amount of oil in it, so healthy and youthful-looking skins must have their quota of oil.

And if your skin hasn't sufficient oil, then you must supply it; for, like flower petals, a dry skin wrinkles quickly. The skin requires extra cream at the end of summer. The wind and the sun and the very outdoor air itself absorb a certain supply of oil from the skin.

This must be replenished before the skin functions naturally again, and the complexion is restored to the appearance of health and beauty.

If your skin is exceptionally dry, you will like the efficiency of Night Cream at other times than before retiring, always being careful to remove the superfluous cream before applying any other creams or powder. But its truest value comes when it is applied at night with a gentle rotary massage to stimulate circulation, and when enough is left on the skin for all the hours of night to nourish the drying under-skin.

Powder and Rouge for Tanned Skins

Remember to use a darker shade of Powder and of Rouge when your skin is darkened by exposure of any kind. These darker shades tone in with your tan or burn and enable you to make a charming appearance even if you are two or three shades darker than normal.

THE INVISIBLE BEDROOM

No Extra Bedroom Needed

If You Have This Beautiful Kroehler Davenport Bed

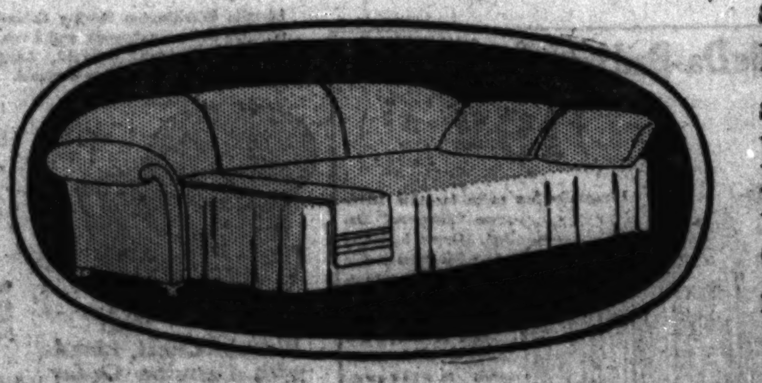
Are you depriving yourself of the pleasure of entertaining overnight guests because you have no extra bedroom? Are you asking some member of the family to occupy a makeshift couch, because your household has grown beyond your present sleeping accommodations?

Such an abandonment of hospitality—such inconvenience and discomfort for a member of the family—are quite unnecessary. Nor is there any reason for burdening yourself with the extra care and expense which an additional bedroom entails.

A Kroehler Davenport Bed makes an extra bedroom unnecessary.

It is a beautiful and distinctive piece of furniture, with all the dignity and grace of the finest davenport. Its low seat and deep, soft upholstery are delightfully comfortable. Its whole appearance suggests luxurious ease, without a hint of the bed concealed beneath the davenport seat.

Yet this hidden sleeping place is a real bed, wide and roomy, and completely equipped with strong, yielding springs and thick, soft mattress. It opens with a single easy motion, and folds up again, with bedclothes all in place, ready for instant use when needed.



With such a convenient and luxuriously restful bed at your disposal, either for occasional or constant use, you can attain complete comfort even in the smallest home. And you can save the rental and expense of furnishing an additional bedroom, and the extra work which another room involves.

Whatever style of furnishings you prefer, you can find a Kroehler Davenport Bed to harmonize with them—charming overstuffed and period designs, beautifully upholstered in mohair plush, tapestry or velour. Or if you prefer, there are coverings of genuine or substitute leather. Designed to match these styles are armchairs and rockers, giving you complete suites of unusual distinction.

The leading stores now have a complete showing of the new season's styles in Kroehler Davenport Beds and Suites. Be sure to see these new designs and learn how very moderate they are in price. Most dealers will be glad to arrange special terms to suit your income. If you do not know the name of the nearest dealer, telephone Calumet 0129 or 0601.

What is on the Inside?

IN upholstered furniture, outward appearance is not always an accurate indication of the quality throughout. What has been put beneath the upholstery largely determines the kind of service which you may expect. Before purchasing, you are entitled to know just how the furniture you select is made, just what materials are used in its construction. These hidden niceties of workmanship are the mark of all good furniture, the secret of long life and good service.

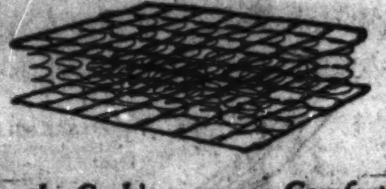
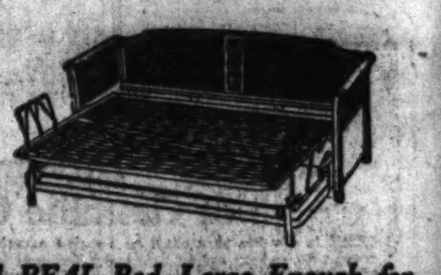
The Materials Used in "Kroehler Made" Furniture

IN any piece of furniture carrying the "Kroehler Made" label you will find frames of kiln-dried hardwood, to give strength and long life. You will find seat springs made of heavy, high-carbon wire. These springs are securely supported to prevent sagging, and flexibly interlocked at the top, to make them yielding and comfortable. The spring edges, you will discover, are double stuffed and stitched. The backs are of the soft, pillow spring type. For filling, equal parts of flax fiber, best moss and cotton are used.



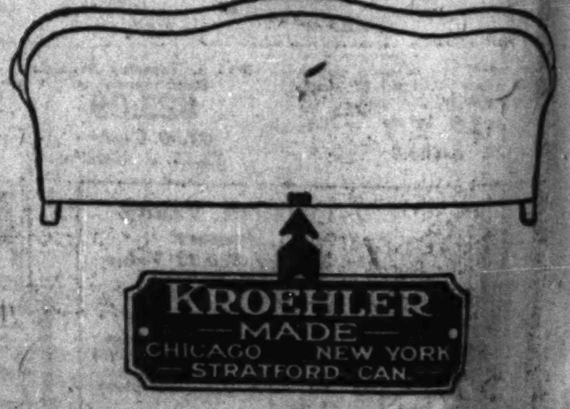
Why the Cushions are so Comfortable

THE seat cushions of the Kroehler Davenport Bed are filled with closely assembled, fine wire coil springs of exceptional quality, made from specially drawn high-carbon wire. These springs, coiled and assembled in our own plant, are so designed that they hold the cushion in shape and secure maximum comfort and length of service. The springs are padded with clean, white, felted cotton.



A REAL Bed, Large Enough for Two People

ILLUSTRATED is the Kroehler Davenport Bed as it appears when opened. The all-steel folding bed frame folds and unfolds with one easy, well-balanced motion. The bed is fitted with a sagless cable fabric and helical springs to insure the occupants restful sleep, and prevent any sagging of the bed in the center. The bed is 50 inches by 72 inches.



Look for this Trade-Mark

ON the back of every piece of "Kroehler Made" Furniture is the trade-mark shown here. When you buy, look for this trade-mark. It is your assurance of quality and service.

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

I want to be the medium through which the friend in deed and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send article to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

BEHIND IT A SHADOW.

HERE is a letter of happiness—a happiness I know we can spread, once the opportunity is realized:

"I want to take this opportunity of thanking you, Miss Brown, for the sunshine you have helped to bring into the life of a poor invalid. We called for the wheel chair you wrote me about, and the people were lovely, indeed. Then, next day, my cousin, after a year and a half of gazing at four walls, got into the great outdoors, into God's sunshine. What a blessing your department is, and my poor cousin and all of us will remember you and Mrs. G, whose thoughtfulness made all this happiness possible! Again thanking you on behalf of my cousin and the rest, I am, Sincerely, Mrs. D. G.

Happiness indeed. But behind it is a shadow—a shadow I know all of us who can will remove! How about the others whose hopes were raised when we printed the generous offer of Mr. and Mrs. G; raised only to be dashed again?

If you could have seen the applications for the wheelchair! Widowed mothers working themselves gray to support crippled children—young girls and boys robbed of their youth by their loyal efforts to support ailing parents—the offer was like a glimpse of heaven to them, to say nothing of the sufferers. And there was only one wheel chair!

If a member of your family has been able, through restored health, to dispense with a chair, may not one of these struggling families have it? Put yourself in their position. Imagine yourself a shut-in, or caring for one on a meager weekly wage. Then imagine your hopes raised, only to be dashed again—and, if you can, I know you'll help!

Just Manage to Live.

"I have heard of your kindness to other needy families, so I wonder if you will help me. I am a widow with two small children. I have been sick nearly all spring and summer, and, although we have managed to live, there never is anything left for clothing. I am not able to do much now, but in the work I do I have to present a neat appearance and I am just desperate for a winter coat and a heavy winter dress, navy blue preferred. The children need dresses for school. We would appreciate anything that could be sent to us. Mrs. B. J. K."

Here's a chance to have our last winter's discards put to a good purpose. The address will be forwarded upon request.

Offers Baby's Basket.

"I have a basket to offer to some mother for her baby. It can be used until the baby is 1 year old. It would have to be called for. M. S."

Please write in if you want to take advantage of the offer.

Widow Has Six Sons.

"I am a widow with six children and find it hard to get along and keep the children clothed. They are all boys, 17, 15, 14, 12, 7, and 1. I wear size 46. I am handy with the needle and can make things over for the boys. I will be so glad to receive anything you can get for me. Mrs. A. S."

A growing problem, and a difficult one, for just one mother to handle. Will some husbands or older boys contribute what they have discarded to help her?

Help Through the Winter.

"I am writing to you for help. I am the mother of a boy you helped, and words can never tell how thankful I am. I am a widow and have two children in school. I work three days a week, but my health doesn't allow me to do any more. My mother is old and is a care. My husband is not with us, but I don't care because he is a drunkard and would spend anything I saved. I have no clothing at all, and would appreciate a winter coat, hat, shoes, underwear, or anything to help me through the winter. I wear size 38 or 40, and size 5 shoes. I can make things over. I can hardly cook on the oil stove I have, so if any one could send me an old cook stove or gasoline range, I would pay the freight. I hope I have not asked too much. I do need help so badly. "Mrs. N. C."

A story that explains itself, and I know that any one of us who can will help.

In Great Difficulty.

"We are in awful difficulty right now. Our house was struck by lightning three weeks ago, and we lost almost everything we had, and barely saved our lives. I was hurt, but am almost well again. We are living in a partly furnished flat, but the rent is so high we can't afford it. My husband can work only a few days at a time; then he is back in bed again. He has diabetes and heart trouble.

"We have five children. Do you think some of your readers could give us some furniture? We know of a nice flat that we can get cheap, if we only had some furniture to put in it. What we need most are beds and bedding, a heating stove, and a dresser. We would also greatly appreciate clothing for boys, 7, 9 and 12 years.

"I expect a baby in five months. I hope you can help us. We cannot pay another month's rent here. "Mrs. J. T."

Will some one with an attic or store room full of furniture being saved for a nebulous future please answer this appeal, and take a load of worry off the mother's mind?

LOOSE BOX COATS STILL HOLD SWAY

By A. T. Gallico.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The seasonal career of the light weight topcoat is short, but, while it lasts, important. For unless you are one of those who bridge the in between seasons by wearing a winter overcoat when just a suit is not sufficiently warm, and wearing no outer coat when the heavy one is too warm, you will find use this time of year for a mid-season topcoat.

While the season to season change in the cut and style of men's coats is so slight that the wearing of last fall's or last spring's topcoat need not cause undue attention to be called to one, there are new models on the market this autumn that offer some variety from the coat you may now have hanging in your wardrobe.

The loose box coat which during the last year has been the most important model among the topcoats is still holding sway, in the Chesterfield model as well as the more negligee one. But the raglan shouldered coat is fast dropping behind in the race for style supremacy, and has more or less gracefully given way to the set-in sleeve. However, for an extra sport coat, provided one has already a more formal coat, there is no harm in having a raglan sleeved model in the wardrobe.

The Chesterfield already mentioned will be seen less than usual this year, probably in the form fitting models. With box back and rather loose drape one will recognize the Chesterfield in various colors, sometimes with fly front, and as often buttoning through. I saw one recently forty-five inches in length, with four buttons, buttoning through, with short lapels, patch pockets, and box back and of green material with a blue line overcheck.

The man looking for an all around coat which will serve his every need, from an automobile wrap to something to wear over an evening suit when the early fall functions commence, will do well to stick to one of these box models of conservative coloring, with the regular set in sleeve and no belt. Felts are being avoided this season more than ever by the smart metropolitan dressers.

There was, however, one topcoat offered by a manufacturer who caters to the best trade which was said to be popular in the far west with moving picture men. This coat is made full, with or without an all around belt, has slash pockets, and buttons with three buttons. This, of course, would serve as a sport coat only. You will find that a sport coat is the only possibility for a belt.

Another coat I saw with slash pockets was of a glenurquard check, with a red and green over plaid. It was raglan shouldered, cut extremely full with a plait down the back, and buttoned with three buttons.

All colors are used in the autumn topcoats, but if one is going to use the coat for a little of everything a dark color is, of course, more serviceable than a light. A dark blue Chesterfield is becoming to any complexion and harmonizes with any suit. A tan or a light brown coat must be chosen with one's fall suits and general complexion and color of hair in mind. We cannot all wear brown. The same may be said of gray. If most of your suits are gray, you will not wish a brown topcoat, but rather one of blue or gray or green mixtures.

Soft finish materials still hold the day. Too much must not be expected of these fuzzy finished goods. The nap will wear off, and the coat will not wear as long as one made of a smooth material, since a soft finish is acquired by means of a machine which scratches up the nap, thus weakening the fabric.

The inevitable wear on exposed parts of a coat is one of the reasons why cuffs are put on the sleeves of almost all ready made topcoats and overcoats, the idea of the manufacturer being that the cuff may be taken off when it becomes worn, and thus provide the sleeve with a new lease of life.

Since a topcoat is not designed to weather the winter winds, it is usually tailored in a single breasted model, and is ordinarily but skeleton lined. There are some men who prefer a more substanital lining to the top of their coats and sleeve, because they affirm that without lining it is difficult to slip the coat over the suit because of the friction of rough coat sleeve against rough suit sleeve. The sleeves are often lined while the rest of the coat is but skeleton lined.

BOYSHFORM BRASSIERES

Be the Figure Stout or Slim—

The straight boyish lines so desired by all the feminine world are the result of wearing a Boyshform Brassiere.

MORE important to the silhouette than any other article of apparel, these exquisite garments give that youthful flat appearance to the figure impossible to obtain in any other way.

Every dainty woman will delight in the Skinner Satin, Satinette or fine broche, of which Boyshform Brassieres are made. She will love the perfect tailoring with which they are constructed.

Boyshform Brassieres give to every figure youthfulness together with perfect comfort. They are snug, yet seamless. Pinchless without the slightest sacrifice to style. They are so beautiful that they may be worn under the sheerest of blouses without the use of a camisole.

Miss Mollie Lee

A specialist from New York will be in our corset section all this week to give expert advice and assistance in selection of the proper brassieres for wear with new fall frocks and suits. Miss Lee uses the Boyshform Brassieres as the foundation for her work. To assist her we have secured quantities of the newest styles of Boyshform Brassieres which we offer at these very special prices.

Do Heavy Meals Begin to Tell?

Follow Your Meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They Give Stomach the Alkaline Effect That Prevents Gassiness and Sour Risings.

Those old-time husky eaters often fall down on a glass of milk or a doughnut, the stomach is heavy, fills with gas, is sour and woefully dyspeptic. Truth is, it had just such attacks always, but they didn't last. Now the stomach needs help and the best thing you can do is to fortify your meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They gives the stomach the alkaline effect, they help it to digest food, they give it materials to do this with, they absorb the gas, stop acidity, relieve pressure, and no matter whether it is pork and cabbage, pie and cheese, sausages and buckwheats or steak and onions, your stomach works without distress and you have none of those troubles due to indigestion or dyspepsia. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store. Then eat and be merry.

GOOD morning!

How's everything?

Did you see all the pictures listed at the top of this column last month? If so, in your opinion, were they the best films of September? Or would you have picked others? Come across once in a while and tell me where I'm wrong.

"THE SILENT COMMAND" was the navy photoplay shown at the Monroe theater when that playhouse changed its name from Barbee's. It was built on a plot that had to do with intrigue involving the United States navy and the Panama canal. It had warships, real "gobs," spies fer and agin, some good acting, and action enough to keep the average fan on his toes. Several "regular" thrills!

"IF WINTER COMES" as a photoplay pleased me better than the book. In the book I got awfully impatient with the hero now and then. One felt—don't you think—like saying:

"O, for pity's sake make up your mind ONE way or the other!"

In the picture, though, you perfectly comprehended Percy Marmont's Mark Sabre—and adore him. I was crazy about the film from start to finish.

"THE MIRACLE BABY" was a "different" Harry Carey "western." Not long on plot, but extremely so on scenery, besides having a most appealing "personal" touch. (Some real snow, too!) Good program offering.

* *

"DRIFTING" gave you a peep at Priscilla Dean over in China engaged in the opium traffic. It was colorful, well directed, and well played. For a program picture it had one stunningly staged revolution, I'll say! Lots of atmosphere, too.

* *

"RUGGLES OF RED GAP"—One of the funniest things you ever saw. Bet even the author of the book from which it was taken laughed himself sick if he was well, and well if he was sick. (And an author usually has so LITTLE to laugh over when the child of his brain appears on the screen!)

* *

"ALICE ADAMS"—Booth Tarkington's novel deftly screened. If you liked the story—you liked the picture.

* *

"TRILBY"—made from the old classic—proved a cinema success. I can only say what I said in the review: "The book was great. The play was great. The picture is great."

News of Screenables Told in Paragraphs

By Mildred Spain.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—Everything lovely.

Jack Barrymore and his wife, Michael Strange, were welcomed to Hollywood Thursday by the four Warner brothers.

Herbert Somborn divorced himself from Gloria Swanson that she might wed her career.

Jerome Storm, Paramount director, left a note on the dining room table for his wife and baby, explaining that he "just couldn't stand married life."

Ben Turpin and the missus have left for the high Sierras to shoot wild game. Ben admits he's feeling wonderful and doesn't care where he shoots.

Gaston Glass signed a five year contract with B. P. Schulberg and, in the argot of Hollywood, has "come back."

James Kirkwood has completely recovered and he and his wife, Lila Lee, were over at the Ambassador plunge watching the dancing in the water the other afternoon.

Edna Murphy and Virginia Fox have returned from Catalina, the last of the vacationers.

The new season is here, and that means show season, especially for Hollywood.

Stars Shone Brightly Everywhere.

The fourth largest industry went en masse to the reopening of the California theater Friday night, the occasion being the first night of "Little Old New York." The audience was silvered with screenables. And then, too, Mary and Doug were present, which brought the score up to the hundred mark.

Mary was in an imported mode of blue tricotine with bands of soft white fur at the neck and wrists and sweeping from the waist to the hem. She wore a small black velvet cloche with a spray of lily of the valley tucked on the left side.

Doug Fairbanks wore his skin a la Hindu, a darker shade than Gloria Swanson's darkest powder. Also Doug's hair was a long bob.

Constance Talmadge was there with Irving Thalberg. Constance was in knife plaited black georgette, a black lace shawl, and flesh colored stockings with black satin pumps.

Her sister Norma wore an ankle length coat of plaid, a black felt sport hat, and Scotch brogues.

Ethel Shannon, who went with Gaston Glass, was in a pink beaded dinner dress and a black velvet poke filled with a valance of white lace.

Effective white chiffon and ermine were worn by Agnes Ayres.

Pola Negri used black satin and a gorgeous wrap of chinchilla to emphasize her beauty.

Viola Dana was in a sleeveless model of black velvet, the bodice quite tight and the skirt gently billowing toward the bouffant.

Green georgette studded in rhinestones was worn by Patsy Ruth Miller.

Blanche Sweet was appealing in the quaint combination of

We've Operetta Voices, but Managers Are Shy

By Edward Moore.

PROBABLY the most ill tempered reason yet alleged for the nonexistence of operetta as a form of entertainment in the United States was given not long ago, when an observer claimed that the modern race of managers was not sufficiently developed to be able to appreciate it. He probably forgot that the attention of most managers, of grand or light opera, is concentrated on box office statements, and that music, heavenly maid, is obliged to come with a bank book or else not come at all.

It has been a customary retort of the managers that the old race of operetta singers has died out, and that they would be put to it to assemble a cast under any circumstances. It is true that the old crowd has pretty well gone and we shall never hear their like again. But there is nothing standing in the way of our hearing something better. As one whose memory goes back to the operetta days of old, I can testify that some pretty bad singing held the boards in those days, and not much that was first class; a few good voices, perhaps, but with a standard of singing far below what is demanded nowadays.

In fact, no later than this summer there was an example of light opera singing on exhibition that was immeasurably better than anything ever dreamed of in the old days. The piece was "Martha," and the four principal singers were Graziella Pareto, Ina Bourskaya, Tito Schipa, and Virgilio Lazzari, about as near to a perfect quartet as one will ever find. The performance was in a place devoted to grand opera, the piece was composed by a German on an English story, and the singers were one Spaniard, one Russian, and two Italians. Consequently, the performance was given in Italian. But it was lovely singing, and if it had been in English would have been quite ideal. That, however, would have been too much of a dream ever to realize.

Plenty of English Speaking Singers.

It would probably be too much to expect them to learn English as long as they are getting fees and applause for singing in other languages, but they are not the only singers. They happened to be an exceptional quartet, but there are other singers, lots of them, who know the English language. A London writer was moved to discourse on the subject of opera generally the other day, and he speaks thus:

"Think what a company of singers—I repeat, singers—could be organized from the fine operatic-voiced flower of Great Britain, Australia, Canada, and the United States. I really feel that these countries could put forward singers who are stage-routined, the equal at least of any, in the lump to be produced elsewhere. To mention a few—Miss Margaret Sheridan and Joseph Hislop from La Scala in Milan, John McCormack from Monte Carlo and Nice, the two singers referred to in the beginning, the choice of our own B. N. O. C., and other companies. And from U. S. A., Marshall, a magnificent tenor, I am told, from Chicago; Queena Mario, soprano; Jeanne Gordon, contralto; Florence Easton, formerly in Berlin; Marie Sundelius, Kathleen Howard, once of Covent Garden; Chamlee, whose family name they tell me is Archer, who sang recently at the Albert hall; Hackett, Clarence

Mr. Faversham Sees to It That the Title Is Clear

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—How worrisome a thing is the titling of plays! Here is William Faversham, admitting at least a bowing acquaintance with the intellectuals, and so forth, of the theater, reducing "The Prude's Fall," first to "Captain Briquet," and later to "A Lesson in Love," for fear, we assume, us common folk would not be intrigued by either of the better titles. We might, for instance, confound prude with prune in the first instance, and fail utterly to be stirred by the suggestion of romance and mystery in the second. But with "A Lesson in Love" staring us in the face every flapper and her mother among us will know what to expect and be prepared.

William brought his new comedy, written by two English playwrights, Rudolph Besier and May Edginton, to town this week, after having tried it in Canada. It is a simple little play tensely played by Emily Stevens as a fascinating widow and Mr. Faversham as a charming Frenchman who undertakes to teach her something of passion's power.

Miss Stevens, you see, is presumed to be frigid and forbidding, ruled firmly by the social conventions of her English upbringing. She is engaged to a surly but eminently respectable Britisher and she is flirting ever so circumspectly with Mr. Faversham's Captain Briquet.

She also has a friend (Gilda Leary) who has, as the saying so frequently is, given all for love, leaving a perfectly sound husband to travel to the Transvaal with an ideal lover. Returning after her lover's death to London she seeks out Miss Stevens in the hope that at least one door may not be closed against her. But Emily turns her away and Briquet, witness to the scene, is distressed. That a woman should be thus ostracised for being true to her love, or at least victim of a too dominating passion, is beyond him.

Proves Himself Master at Lessons in Love.

So the Gallic captain undertakes to teach Miss Stevens just what love can do, even to a perfect British lady. And he certainly succeeds. The second act has not lasted much longer than the second period in Mr. Firpo's recent meeting with Mr. Dempsey, until this heroine is, if not through the ropes, at least leaning groggily against them. And by the end of the act she has cast herself into the captain's arms and is hanging on to save herself till the bell rings.

As a result of the lesson Emily agrees to go with William anywhere, anytime. Also she sends for the friend she had snubbed and begs her forgiveness. She is even willing to break the heart of her uncle, a worthy churchman, and defy her former fiancé to do his worst. At which point William admits he was only fooling and that he has had a marriage license in his pocket all the time.

Mr. Faversham is not very French and Miss Stevens is not very English. But they play well together, and there are tense moments during the contest they wage. Miss Leary's performance of the friend is appealingly human; Edward Emery fusses amusingly as the dean and a large, new

Mr. Cohan Comes to Amaze Us Once More

By Sheppard Butler.

MR. GEORGE M. COHAN bounces airily into our ken again as an insistently recurrent and quite irrepressible phenomenon of the theater. His "Rise of Rosie O'Reilly" is an amazingly good show, and not the least amazing thing about it is that it is laid down on a pattern that was familiar twenty years ago. A plot, some genial kidding, much naïve doggerel, tunes elemental in their simplicity, fleet, slap-bang dancing—all those things Cohan did in "The Man Who Owns Broadway" and in many pieces before that. Yet I venture that no one who has seen "Rosie" at the Grand thinks of the entertainment as old fashioned.

There is something Gilbertian about the Cohan humor that should give a pleasant jog to the memories of those who are older than you or me. You get it at the start, when the prancing bootleggers are chased from under the Brooklyn bridge by a troop of policemen that might have stepped out of "The Pirates of Penzance." You get it again when the policemen lift up their voices in song:

If there were no comic coppers
There would be no comic operas.

Gilbertian in flavor, that, but Cohanesque in execution. Who else could get away with the jaunty impudence of rhyming "coppers" and "operas"? And who else could make us do anything but writhe under such rhythmic inanity as

What do you say?
What do you say?
What do you say?
O. K.

Spontaneous, Amiable and Refreshing.

I have often wondered whether this limpid directness of the Cohan literature is a pose or a gift. In either case, it is uncompromisingly successful with the average playgoer of these United States. No one can imitate it and no one tries. In any one else's hands it would be terrible. But when Cohan perpetrates it, it is spontaneous and amiable and refreshing, with some kind of an odd magic about it. It helped make "Over There" the best of the war songs. It helps make "Rosie O'Reilly" something more than a mere song and dance show.

It clothes the travesty in the piece with a curiously persuasive air. Indeed, Cohan shoots so straight that sometimes you are fooled. I mean, sometimes some folks are fooled. The most devastating case of spoofing in "Rosie O'Reilly" is one that the customers are supposed to know nothing about. There is in the cast one pompous actor who joined the troupe in Boston, only to find himself profoundly puzzled by what was going on around him. There was, he perceived, no sense to the darned play. He prepared to leave, scenting quick failure. They told him to say.

"We're going to Chicago," they told him.

"Why?" he asked.

He came, but I am told that he is still puzzled. He is in

"Diary Dear: Well, here I am alone in Venice; that is, practically alone, 'cause Bill doesn't count. Pa and Ma have gone to visit Germany for a week and took the Baby with them, which is a blessing, if you ask me, because how could they expect me to keep tabs on him with all these canals around here, and, besides, I have other things to think about, haven't I, Diary? There's that wonderful black shawl which I can get now if Bill will loan me the lira that Pa gave him before he left. He doesn't need the money, anyway, since Pa has arranged for our 'pension'—that's what they call 'board' over here. There's a darling bead bag in the same place. I wonder if I couldn't get that, too—all cut steel beads and knitted—it would cost at least $150 in America, and I can get it for 500 lira. All we have to do now, Diary, is coax that loan out of Bill, if he hasn't spent it already, which would be just my luck."

SCENE I.

The Potters are sleeping peacefully in their compartment on board the train from Venice to Munich . . . a compartment in a Wagon-Lit, or Schlafwaggon (sleeping car) is about the size of a solitary confinement cell, with two single berths, one over the other, arranged crosswise instead of lengthwise . . . the door opens with a bang, and the Potters sit up blinking confusedly.

PORTER (to Customs Official):
This is the man that goes to Munich.

MA (indignantly):
How dare you come in here without knocking?

PA (feebly):
Yes, how dare you?

(Official opens up nearest suitcase and begins to go through it . . . Ma sits up in bed, clutching covers around her neck . . . Official calmly pursues search—women in nightgowns are evidently no treat to him.)

PA (to Ma, after trying in vain to understand official's German):
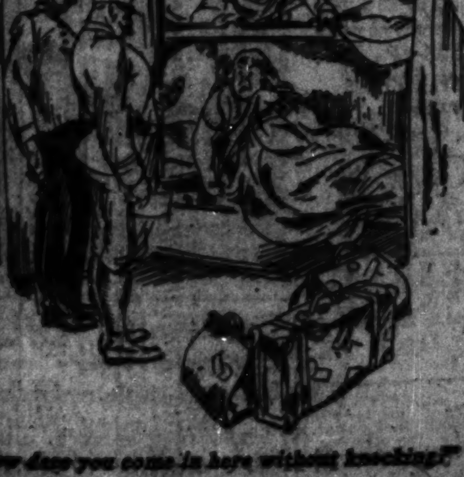
I guess I better go down and open up all these suitcases for him . . . wonder what he thinks we're smuggling into Germany from Italy—spaghetti, I guess.

(The search is finally concluded to the official's satisfaction. It is now officially understood that the Potters are not smuggling garlic or olive oil into Germany.)



"How dare you come in here without knocking?"

PORTER (translating official's series of short barks):
He wants to know how much money you have, where you are going to go, how long you are going to stay, why you are coming to Bavaria, what you are going to do there, when you are going to leave, and where you are going when you do leave.

PA (sun kissed child of Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness):
Tell him it's none of his darn business.

MA (interrupting hurriedly):
Don't get gay, Pa; they might put us in jail.

PA (grumbling):
All right, all right. It's a darned outrage, that's what it is. I'm going to write a letter to my congressman when I get home and have all this foolishness changed. (Making out list of various moneys on hand for declaration.) Look at all these fool moneys and languages and examinations and customs and octrois and doganas and marks and liras and francs and passports and vises, and God knows what. The United States ought to step in and straighten all these birds out.

(The United States will do much better to draw in its feelers and grow another shell if possible.)

SCENE II.

A delightful ride in the early morning through rich fields of luxuriant crops, prosperous looking villages, spick and span, and then—Munich, one of the most charming cities the Potters could ever hope to see . . . they take a taxi to the hotel and Pa alights after giving meter eagle scrutiny . . . it reads M. 1 Pf. 50.

PA (to Ma):
That's not so bad. One mark fifty something.

MA: But you haven't any marks.

PA: That's all right; the hotel will pay it. (Mechanically, to chauffeur): How much? (Chauffeur looks blank.) Quanta costa? (Chauffeur looks blanker.) Combien? (Chauffeur suddenly galvanizes into life . . . French, eh? . . . Pa suddenly comes to and realizes diplomatic faux pas.) Marks . . . how much marks?

CHAUFFEUR (pulling out typewritten list from pocket and comparing it with meter):
Zwei und zwanzig tousand funf hundert.

PA (helplessly):
Gosh, what's that?

HOTEL PORTER:
Twenty-two thousand five hundred marks.

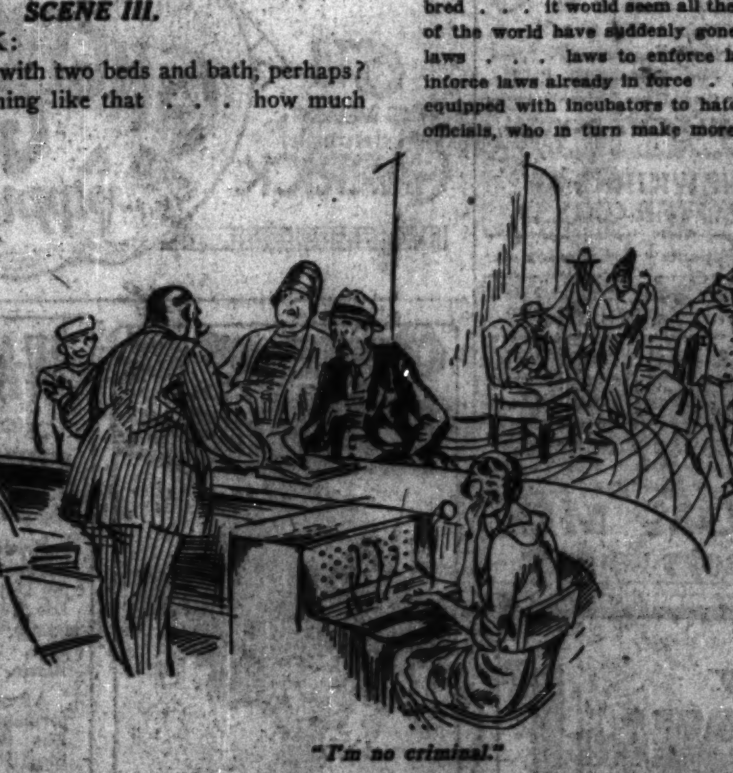
PA: What? It says there one mark fifty something.

HOTEL PORTER:
O, that was before the war; but today you must pay fifteen thousand times that. (Shows them chauffeur's list of index numbers . . . some days you multiply by twelve thousand, some days by fifteen thousand . . . the Potters will run into that later all over Germany.)

SCENE III.

HOTEL CLERK:
Something with two beds and bath, perhaps?

PA: Yes, something like that . . . how much is it?



"I'm no criminal."

HOTEL CLERK:
You can have number 24. (Waves airily to porters, who begin to extract baggage from Potters.)

PA (warily):
How much is it?

CLERK:
You will like it, yes, and breakfast perhaps in your room, no?

PA (stubbornly—he is learning gradually to be a traveler):
How much is that room?

CLERK (cornered):
O, that room, yes. Only five hundred thousand marks. (Hastily): Of course that includes the state tax of twelve and one-half per cent, but there is of course a small tax of forty per cent which goes to the city. (As Pa struggles mentally to convert all this into dollars):
You will register at the police, of course, within twenty-four hours.

PA: Gosh, why do I have to register at the police? I'm no criminal.

CLERK (proudly):
It is the law.

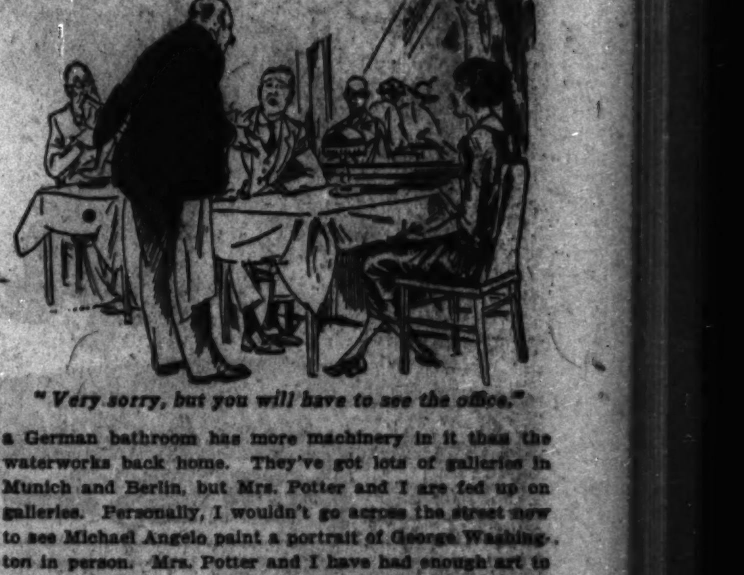
(What a welter of laws and regulations in Europe! And what a conglomerate mess of comical officials they have bred . . . it would seem all the so-called civilized peoples of the world have suddenly gone crazy on the subject of laws . . . laws to enforce laws . . . laws to reinforce laws already in force . . . and all of these laws equipped with incubators to hatch new hosts of parasitic officials, who in turn make more laws to create more officials . . . we're a bit behind in America, but we're catching up fast . . . give us twenty-five more years at the present rate and we'll all be working for the government.)

SCENE IV.

(Extract from letter written by Pa to Rotarian back home.)

. . . You never saw such a busy gang of bees as they are over here in Germany. Everybody's working, but their money is absolutely crazy and nobody knows from one day to the next how much money he is getting for his work. Merchants have quit trying to keep track of the mark, and most of them don't want to sell you anything, anyway; their goods are worth more to them than the marks you give them. But all the stores are full of goods and full of people buying, and there seems to be plenty of food, and it costs nothing. You can get a good meal for two with Rhine wine for about 30 cents American money.

We spent three or four days in Munich, and a couple in Nürnberg, and two or three in Leipzig, and now we are in Berlin. It's like stepping out of the middle ages to go from some of these European countries into Germany. Everything clicks. Even the hotel rooms have two sets of doors and two sets of windows to make them soundproof, and a German bathroom has more machinery in it than the waterworks back home. They've got lots of galleries in Munich and Berlin, but Mrs. Potter and I are fed up on galleries. Personally, I wouldn't go across the street now to see Michael Angelo paint a portrait of George Washington in person. Mrs. Potter and I have had enough art to last us the rest of our lives.



"Very sorry, but you will have to see the office."

You never saw anybody that loved to be bossed around so much as these Germans. It seems to thrill them to have the police order them here and there, and believe me, they have the orderingest police you ever saw here in Berlin. We saw a bolshevik demonstration in one of the big beer gardens here. Orators all over the place bawling out the government, and all the German bolshevikis terribly excited about it all. But the funny part of it was that they were jammed in a tight knot where they could hardly move, while all around them were great big spaces they could have stood comfortably, except there was grass there and there were signs saying "Verboten," which means Forbidden, and of course they wouldn't think of disobeying any signs put up by the government, even if they were against it. Just the same I'll be glad to get out of this country. I'm afraid something is going to blow up here. The poor are getting poorer and the rich are getting richer, and yet everybody is getting madder, and the money is getting sicker, and one of these days something is going to go blooie, and I want to be somewhere else when it does.

SCENE V.

The Potters have been gone ten days, and the hotel in Venice is getting worried about the bill . . . Pa told them of course he would pay them when he got back, but is he coming back? They don't know. Meanwhile Bill and Mamie are eating their heads off, and no money in sight . . . ah, frugal Italian idea . . .

WAITER (to Bill and Mamie, who have come down for dinner):
Very sorry, but the office has instructed me not to serve you.

MAMIE:
But we're hungry . . . we want dinner.

WAITER (politely):
Very sorry, but you will have to see the office.

(Bill and Mamie hotfoot to the office and are politely but firmly notified that there will be no more food for them until the bill is paid . . . very sorry, of course, but you can see it is unavoidable, can you not? Meanwhile Mamie and Bill have spent all their money, and no word from Pa and Ma in Germany . . . what to do . . . what to do!)

(And that's that—until next Sunday.)

Rostand Drama for Chicago?

The idea of a theater guild for Ch cago continues, as it were, to smou der. Tentative and sporadic negoti tions for two theaters have been unde way from time to time; their identity of course, is supposed to be a secre and I am not to say that they are th Cort and Central.

Various plays and various actor have been under consideration. Man manuscripts have been read and man people communicated with.

The project gained some impetu last week when a Chicago manage visiting in New York, encountere Arnold Daly with a play in his pocke and an idea in his mind. The pla was "The Last Night of Don Juan, the last work of the late Edmon Rostand. The idea was that Mr. Dal would like to act it.

"Would you come to Chicago and d it?" asked the manager, Mr. Joh Tuerk.

"Glad to," said Mr. Daly.

So, it may be done.

The piece is keenly imaginative an savagely satirical, showing the grea philanderer harrassed by the devil an confronted by the shades of all th women whom he believes to have bee his conquests. One by one his boast ings about them crumble. Instead o being consigned gloriously to hell a one of the most valiant of evil-doers he is turned into a puppet and set t work ignominiously in a marionett show.

Search is now being made for a suit able actor to play the devil. Nothin definite has been arranged, but thing have gone far enough to have de veloped interesting possibilities.

Gossip of Plays and Players.

"I'll Say She Is," a revue produce in Philadelphia last summer and no tarrying in Boston, is newly give booking at the Studebaker, where i will arrive two weeks from tonight The Four Marx Brothers, familiar fi ures in the varieties, head the cas and numerous other people of varyin importance are in it. This arrange ment curtails by two weeks the proj ected stay of "Up She Goes" an would seem to conflict with the en gagement of the Wagnerian Oper company, now bulletined to reach th Studebaker on Oct. 28. Possibly an other theater will be found for th Wagnerians; as to that, nothing i made known.

"Sunbonnet Sue," Gus Edwards new musical diversion, had its first performances last week in Wilming ton, Del., and will be on tour for an other seven days before coming to the Illinois next Sunday. Marguerite Wright and Robert B. Smith have sup plied the words, and Mr. Edwards the music.

Miss Julia Sanderson, "Skeets" Gallagher, Miss Helen Bolton, and some others are beginning rehearsal this week in "Plain Jane," something new in the way of musical comedy to e produced by A. L. Erlanger. Gal gher and Miss Bolton were of the ast of "Up She Goes" in New York, nd were to have gone with the piece resently to Philadelphia; the "Plain ane" enterprise appears to cancel at.

The latest word concerning importa ons from Europe has it that a com any from the justly celebrated Folies ergere in Paris is to be brought over efore the season is ended. A troupe rom the Grand Guignol (also, of ourse, of Paris) will be along soon, and rom other countries Duse, Sir John artin-Harvey, and the Swedish ballet re coming. An Italian marionette how has been trying its luck in New ork, but lasted only two weeks.

The new Fred Stone show, "Step ing Stones," comes to light week after ext in New Haven, Conn. Most of he Stones will be in it—Fred; his wife, ileen Crater, and his daughter, Doro hy. As usual, Anne Caldwell and erome Kern are supplying respective the words and music.

E. M. Newman, the travel-talker, be ins his annual season at Orchestra all on Oct. 10. He will report this ear on South America, beginning with hile.

Rostand Drama for Chicago?

The idea of a theater guild for Chicago continues, as it were, to smoulder. Tentative and sporadic negotiations for two theaters have been under way from time to time; their identity, of course, is supposed to be a secret, and I am not to say that they are the Cort and Central.

Various plays and various actors have been under consideration. Many manuscripts have been read and many people communicated with.

The project gained some impetus last week when a Chicago manager, calling in New York, encountered Arnold Daly with a play in his pocket and an idea in his mind. The play was "The Last Night of Don Juan," the last work of the late Edmond Rostand. The idea was that Mr. Daly would like to act it.

"Would you come to Chicago and do it?" asked the manager, Mr. John Tuerk.

"Glad to," said Mr. Daly.

So, it may be done.

The piece is keenly imaginative and savagely satirical, showing the great philanderer harrassed by the devil and confronted by the shades of all the women whom he believes to have been his conquests. One by one his boastings about them crumble. Instead of being consigned gloriously to hell as one of the most valiant of evil-doers, he is turned into a puppet and set to work ignominiously in a marionette show.

Search is now being made for a suitable actor to play the devil. Nothing definite has been arranged, but things have gone far enough to have developed interesting possibilities.

Gossip of Plays and Players.

"I'll Say She Is," a revue produced in Philadelphia last summer and now tarrying in Boston, is newly given booking at the Studebaker, where it will arrive two weeks from tonight. The Four Marx Brothers, familiar figures in the varieties, head the cast, and numerous other people of varying importance are in it. This arrangement curtails by two weeks the projected stay of "Up She Goes" and would seem to conflict with the engagement of the Wagnerian Opera company, now bulletined to reach the Studebaker on Oct. 28. Possibly another theater will be found for the Wagnerians; as to that, nothing is made known.

"Sunbonnet Sue," Gus Edwards' new musical diversion, had its first performances last week in Wilmington, Del., and will be on tour for another seven days before coming to the Illinois next Sunday. Marguerite Wright and Robert B. Smith have supplied the words, and Mr. Edwards the music.

Miss Julia Sanderson, "Skeets" Gallagher, Miss Helen Bolton, and some others are beginning rehearsals this week in "Plain Jane," something new in the way of musical comedy to be produced by A. L. Erlanger. Gallagher and Miss Bolton were of the cast of "Up She Goes" in New York, and were to have gone with the piece presently to Philadelphia; the "Plain Jane" enterprise appears to cancel that.

The latest word concerning importations from Europe has it that a company from the justly celebrated Folies Bergere in Paris is to be brought over before the season is ended. A troupe from the Grand Guignol (also, of course, of Paris) will be along soon, and from other countries Duse, Sir John Martin-Harvey, and the Swedish ballet are coming. An Italian marionette show has been trying its luck in New York, but lasted only two weeks.

The new Fred Stone show, "Stepping Stones," comes to light week after next in New Haven, Conn. Most of the Stones will be in it—Fred; his wife, Allene Crater, and his daughter, Dorothy. As usual, Anne Caldwell and Jerome Kern are supplying respectively the words and music.

E. M. Newman, the travel-talker, begins his annual season at Orchestra hall on Oct. 10. He will report this year on South America, beginning with Chile.

HELPS RELIGHT BLACKSTONE

MISS MILDRED BOOTH.
[White photo.]

She comes to the Blackstone tomorrow night to act an important rôle in "The Deep Tangled Wildwood," the new comedy by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly. Miss Booth is reasonably familiar with the stage of the Blackstone, since she had long residence there as a member of the late Frank Bacon's company in "Lightnin'."

Nobody to Blame if Authors Don't Care for This Review

As the world knows, Messrs. George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly are the authors of "The Deep Tangled Wildwood," the new comedy with which the Blackstone reopens its doors tomorrow night. When the piece was given its preliminary performances in Indianapolis last week the dramatists joined the staff of the Star and reviewed their own play. Their enterprise permits The Tribune to scoop its contemporaries this morning by printing an authoritative criticism forty-eight hours before any one expected it to appear—that is, of course, unless it has occurred to some of said contemporaries to print the same thing.

By George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly.

We are always eager to see a new product from the pens of Kaufman and Connelly, and "The Deep Tangled Wildwood," their latest comedy, will probably be every bit as effective in removing certain national evils as their other plays.

Just as "Dulcy" completely stopped bromidic utterances, just as "To the Ladies!" made every one stop going to banquets, and just as "Merton of the Movies" completely closed every motion picture theater in the United States through the suicide of every movie star of any importance, so will the new work of the handsome young playwrights eradicate all the things that make life unpleasant in small towns. Maybe it will annihilate the small towns. You never know how powerful written words can be!

The story of the play is probably in a nearby column. [Editor's note: It isn't.] Here we propose merely to point out the incalculable importance of the piece in every one's life. We knew it would be an important play when we heard George Tyler and Hugh Ford were going to produce it, and we came all the way from New York to Indianapolis just to see how nearly right we were. Last night's performance more than justified the trip. We intend to go to see it several times during the week.

"You have done a big thing in a big way," we said to the authors as the curtain went down on the last act last night.

"No more than our duty," said the lovable young fellows, for it was indeed they.

To the foregoing verdict of two distinctly disinterested persons there remains little to be added, save that in their becoming modesty they have failed to point out that for once authors have been their severest critics (as Merton might say).

Following on the heels of last night's brilliant premiere it would be surprising if the small towns did not go out of business altogether, if the few remaining radio stations were not consigned to the scrapheap and if Winchell Smith were not forced to make amends for all the injustices he has piled on village deacons.

This much is certain: In "The Deep Tangled Wildwood" Kaufman and Connelly have a shaft of satire as keenly barbed as their previous offerings. It takes the hypocrisy of the growing small town to task in a fashion that marks it as a very bright study of contemporary America.

. . . .

Connelly and Kaufman have filled this play with their usual fine humor. They are, in fact, the first stage wits of their time and their new contribution lacks nothing in laughs.

Exit the small town limping.

Delightful Dancing Numbers.

The scene that most delighted us in the new "Music Box Revue" is one illustrating the usual song about the dances of another day. "The Waltz of Long Ago" this one happens to be called, and though the idea is ancient the treatment is new. First the rising curtain reveals a jazzy crowd of nice young people strutting and one-stepping about a garish and highly colored studio. At the back there is a wide expanse of skylight done in vivid reds and yellows. To the right a grand piano. Round about the overstuffed furnishings of a handsome apartment.

As the singer reaches the song's refrain, which expresses her preference for the old-fashioned waltz, the lights fade gradually and are as gradually raised. During the second of darkness the scene changes to one of a room in a home in Washington Square, and the modern young people have been replaced by their grandparents' crowd, the girls dressed in the quaintly old-fashioned gowns of the '60s, the young men wearing the dress uniform of West Point cadets. Again the lights fade and are renewed and the change is back to the studio. The fact that the contrast offered has a touch of sentiment as well as striking beauty, and that the entire change is effected by lights and the quiet substitution of one group of dancers for another, makes the number tremendously effective.

It's More Than Gorgeous.

Of course the new Berlin-Harris production is gorgeous. It has to be. With two previous hits to live up to there is no chance for the Music Box masters to cheat. But it is more than gorgeous. It has taste and humor and enough that is jolly in the way of travesty to justify at least half what the speculators will be asking for it.

The employment of the stage elevators this season reveals a "Fisherman's Dream" that starts upon the sea's surface and dives to its coral depths, where mermaids and lady fish live in splendor and wear no more than half-piece swimming suits. And there is another of Mr. Berlin's songs about Calyfornyah with an illuminated orange grove that is something less than an improvement on nature, but striking as a picture.

The line-up of principals is led by Frank Tinney, who has his amusing moments and likewise suffers a lapse or two. John Steel, the best of the revue tenors, and Grace Moore, who sings so well she took the first audience completely by surprise and started a riot of applause, are the principal vocalists. Joseph Santley and Ivy Sawyer represent the young folks and Florence Moore is the principal lady comic. A Russian singer, Mme. Stroeva, sang a characteristic group of her native laments with supreme artistry.

In the Matter of Display.

It was reasonable to expect that the review producers would all go in for undressing scenes, following the lead of "Artists and Models," which continues to startle the early arrivals at the Shubert, though it has not so much as caused a tremor at police headquarters. The Music Box dodges the invitation to competition, however, and though it has its fleshy incidents, with startled ladies clinging nervously to bits of chiffon in lieu of thicker covering, there is nothing cheap nor brazen about either picture or scene. One young woman, who probably was thought to be extremely daring, wrinkled up under the lights and was clothed in shadows.

The "Greenwich Village Follies" also refuses to compete directly with the "Models" in the matter of display. There is a song in the new version of this entertainment, which also got under way last week, which is at least snappily illustrated. In it the smaller girls are lined up more or less completely dressed and smilingly start to disrobe. Soon, which is to say with the unfastening of the first hook, they are reduced to rolled stockings and slips extending no farther than from "A" to "B." To a chorus of expectant titters they then proceed to unfasten the slips at the neck, and when they fall they are discovered to be jersey skirts that cover all that previously had been revealed. This being Broadway's idea of a perfect joke.

Otherwise the "Village Follies" are up to their yearly average, with an exciting pair of acrobats in the Mandells, a lively young dancer in Buster West, good singers in Marion Green and George Rasely, and the dancing Cansinos. The development of a song called "The Golden Trail," which follows the covered wagons into the west, is particularly well done, with the Josefsson Icelanders contributing excitingly to a fighting finish with the Indians.

On From Chicago.

Two plays that have been tried in the west, Jules Eckert Goodman's "Chains" and the Osmun-Dazey "Peter Weston," have just reached New York. Both have been pretty well received, though not with quite the enthusiasm their producers hoped for after their Chicago experiences.

The Goodman sample is a straightforward rewriting of the "Hindle Wakes" theme in an American setting. The heroine here is another of those brave young ingénues who stands willing to share the responsibility of her misstep with the juvenile and quite defiantly so informs the world.

"No," says she, in effect, "you are all wrong. I was not deceived. I was not a victim. I knew the chances I was taking. And I will settle my own affairs in my own way." For three acts she utterly confounds the good, commonplace folk who are bent on restoring her respectability and then she marries the understanding bachelor, or at least takes his honest proposal under advisement.

Helen Gahagan plays the part here as she did in Chicago but we have Gilbert Emery in the rôle that was O. P. Heggie's in the west.

"Peter Weston," with Frank Keenan playing an abnormally hard individual who rules his three browbeaten children with a will of iron, impressed us as being highly theatrical but dramatically effective in certain of its scenes. Mr. Weston suffers tragic defeat when his older son is hung for the commission of an accidental murder, his daughter acknowledges herself the mistress of the man slain, and his younger son drinks himself to death. Not a cheerful play, as you may imagine, but powerfully acted by Mr. Keenan and Judith Anderson, his leading woman.

HERE'S A SUPER-CHORISTER

MISS RUTH HOVEY.
[Raymor photo.]

Reasons for having her picture in the paper are, among other things: (1) She is, by special dispensation of Mr. William A. Brady, captain of the chorus in "Up She Goes," at the Studebaker, wherein she (2) dances divinely, and (3) understudies the leading rôle, played by Miss Gloria Foy. (4) She was born eighteen years ago in Sweden, where the family album preserves the portrait of her great-uncle, Henrik Ibsen, and (5) she is the only young woman in recorded history who ever refused an engagement with the "Ziegfeld Follies" in New York to come to Chicago in something else.

The New Plays

OPENING TOMORROW NIGHT.

"The Deep Tangled Wildwood" (Blackstone)—A new comedy, with a satirical slant on the small towns and the plays about them, by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, that sapient pair of playwrights who already have "Dulcy," "To the Ladies!" and "Merton of the Movies" to their credit. They have something to say about their handiwork in a nearby column. The list of players includes James Gleason, Robert McWade, Ralph Sipperly, Miss Gertrude Hitz, Miss Mildred Booth, Miss Ida Darling, and many more.

OPENING NEXT WEEK.

"Greenwich Village Follies," (Apollo, Oct. 7)—The fourth of this series of opulent revues, bringing a great deal of scenery and Carl Randall, Karyl Norman, George Rasely, Miss Ula Sharon, Miss Dorothy Neville, and Miss Julia Silvers as its chief performers.

"Sunbonnet Sue" (Illinois, Oct. 7)—A full fledged song and dance production by Gus Edwards, known chiefly of late for his activities in the varieties. Miss Olga Cook and Fred Hillebrand will have the leading parts.

"Time" (Central, Oct. 8)—A new comedy by Arthur Henry, to be acted by Miss Dorothy Francis, Miss Lucile Nikolas, Miss Marie Curtis, Miss Helen Robins, A. H. Van Buren, William Evarts, and William Kirkland.

IMPENDING JOYS.

"Secrets" (Harris, Oct. 14)—Miss Margaret Lawrence in a romantic play of marriage and the Victorian period by Rudolph Besier and May Edginton. Tom Nesbitt, a fine actor, and many others are in the company.

"Molly Darling" (Colonial, Oct. 14)—The musical comedy which we saw, once, at the Palace Music hall, coming for a return engagement with a revised cast headed by Jack Donahue, the dancing comedian.

"I'll Say She Is" (Studebaker, Oct. 14)—One of last summer's crop of new revues, built around the personalities of the Four Marx Brothers, erstwhile vaudevillians.

"The Old Soak" (Princess, Oct. 21)—Don Marquis' amusing comedy of prohibition and its ways, to be played here by Tom Wise and one of those "special companies."

This Is What We Think, but How About You

And, as in the review, I implore you to SEE the picture when it comes your way.

* *

"PADDY - THE - NEXT - BEST THING"—just light, pleasing, not too convincing entertainment, with Mae Marsh as Paddy. The scenes were made abroad.

"RUPERT OF HENTZAU"—Well enough played to make you yearn to read again the book by Sir Anthony Hope. (That's saying something!)

* *

"POTASH AND PERLMUTTER"—As funny as the play, with most of the people who appeared in the "legitimate" impersonating for the screen.

* *

"THE MERRY GO ROUND" was fascinating. This picture was turned out by two great directors—Ernst von Stroheim and Rupert Julian. The former made the horses go so fast that Universal had to page the latter to blow the whistle. Well done from ALL points of view.

And now let's hear from you. Thanks!

See you tomorrow!

VOICE OF THE FAN

Could Have Been Better.

Dear Mae Tinée: What do I think of "The Merry Go Round"? Permit me to say I was somewhat disappointed with the production.

As to the acting, most of it seemed forced and with too much affectation. The scenes where the bully belabors and mistreats the organ grinder are offensive to good taste and highly overdrawn. The best acting, as far as I could see, was performed by the beast who did what he was supposed to gracefully but perhaps with a little too much delay.

The story itself could have been better, as all the count seems to do is to blunder away from his sweetheart and then back again.

MOVIE FAN.

Flies to Our Rescue.

Dear Miss Tinée: I have always worshiped you from afar, but at last my ire has been aroused and I fly to your defense.

Why, Mae, it's a shame the way some people (like D. W. and Little Lilac) treat you. Just because the landlord raised their rent or their basement is flooded is no reason why they should pick on you. I absolutely agree with Sandy McTavish that you're the best critic in the country, and even a leaking ceiling couldn't dampen my enthusiasm for you.

Your sweet "Good morning" is like an early sunbeam or the fresh dew. It's just like greeting an old friend, and I feel as if I've known you all my life. Your "See you tomorrow" links you inseparably with the fans.

Your reviews are all short, interesting, concise, and pleasant. I learn just what I wish to know when I read them, and I really can't understand why some people don't like 'em.

Well, Mae, I must cease this seemingly tiresome chatter, but I just had to register a kick against the kickers. I'm tired of hearing complaints against you. Although this is a "Kick Corner," the kick is supposed to be against the movies or the actors and not against the editor herself.

So here's to you and your "Good morning" and all the other phrases. Long may you all reign. ELSIE.

Editor's Note: Letters like yours

KICK KORNER

Its Object—Objection.

Dear Miss Tinée: You are, no doubt, familiar with the assertion that the average mental age of American citizens is 15 years; in short, morons. And permit me to add that movie fans average several years under that.

I base my opinion on the fan letters in your column. No one but morons of the lowest sort would vote for Valentino or O'Brien to portray Romeo or write such drivel as did "Sandy" and "Helene."

Your criticisms, though necessarily on a level to reach the fans, are usually clear and intelligent, but the fans themselves are morons of the lower orders.

In fact, I know only one class lower. Persons who write letters to the paper and sign themselves

[Editor's note: O. go on! I bet you're as great a fan as any of them. (And YOU wrote in——?)]

Hard to Believe.

Dear Miss Tinée: We have had a great many cannibal pictures at the moving picture theaters in late years, showing savage dances and revealing barbarous customs still practiced in some corner of the world.

It is hard to believe that such human primitiveness yet exists on earth; yes, hard to believe—unless the cannibal picture happens to be followed immediately by some such typical example of modern cinematic art as "The Ne'er Do Well," and then we are brought painfully to realize that human primitiveness exists not only in darkest Africa, but in the moving picture profession in our own United States.

The truth is that the cannibals have it on the white actors on most of our moving picture programs for plain, common intelligence.

"The Ne'er Do Well" is supposed to be one of our best pictures. Rex Beach whote it. Alfred Green directed it. Adolph Zukor presents it. Thomas Meighan and Lila Lee star in it. And Will Hays has something or other to do with it.

All concerned in the picture conduct themselves like boobs. Thomas Meighan and Lila Lee chase each other around a tree, inferring that that is the way a full grown young man and a cultured young woman make love to each other. Even cannibals know more about love making than that.

Notes in Brief on What Film Folk Are Doing

a black cloche, a gorgeous Spanish shawl, and a white dress of summer simplicity.

Enid Bennett was stunning with an amber comb worn high in her smooth blonde hair, a gay shawl from Spain, and amber shoes.

Priscilla Dean, who came with Enid Bennett and her husband, Fred Niblo, wore an excellent combination of black velvet, rhinestones, and a wreath of silver leaves banding her hair.

Lila Lee, who has been so constantly at the side of her husband since his accident, was in a rust colored gown made over cloth of gold.

Lois Wilson, escorted by Richard Dix—you haven't heard?—was in yellow georgette with insertings of cream colored lace.

Some of the others were Percy Marmont, Monte Blue, Helene Chadwick, Sid Grauman, Bull Montana, Mae Marsh, Corinne Griffith, Bebe Daniels, James Morrison, Kenneth Harlan, Elinor Glynn, June Elvidge, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Keaton, Estelle Taylor, Pauline Garon, Helen Ferguson, Carmelita Geraghty, Charles de Roche, Kid McCoy, Mae Murray, Bob Leonard, Clara Kimball Young, Harry Garson, Charlie Chaplin, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil B. de Mille.

Before the film Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Schulberg gave a dinner at their home for Tom Forman, Olga Printzlau, Gaston Glass, Clara Bow, Louis Gasnier, and Ethel Shannon.

There are two other first nights coming, but more of that later. Mabel Normand and Charlie Chaplin each have a night of film glory.

The latest screen sporting event is the makeup contest. Eulalie Jensen has challenged Dale Fuller, to be judged by King Baggott. The idea is that the greatest number of grotesque faces that can be perfected in a given time will be awarded a silver makeup box.

Ask Me! Ask Me!

BUD: Yes, Wallace Reid had the rôle of the blacksmith in "The Birth of a Nation." Have you a bet up?

F. R. O.: Lila Lee and Nita Naldi were the two leading women with Rodolf Valentino in "Blood and Sand." You're entirely welcome.

FRIEND: Just as soon give you an idea what the pictures are about but you know vurr' well that if you're told the story of a plot in detail you'll not "register" the suspense and interest you would, if you hadn't been told what was coming. Honestly—would you?

BOB J.: I'm not a band authority. Suggest you keep your eye on the ads. Sorry I can't help you out, but—just the same—y'wekkum!

A FAN: Your letter reached me. What makes you think she's a "snake"? I don't. Sure—"sweet, cute little love scenes" are fine in their place. Which doesn't make the lady a "snake" does it? [Terribly involved English in that answer but try to "get" me. Thanks.]

TED P.: I've known a few people as thoughtful as you—but not many. Your cards make me feel as if I, too, were seeing the sights you are enjoying so hugely. Have a wonderful time and come back rested and full of pep.

"A Hotel Where You Feel at Home"

For thirty years this hotel has stood as representing all that is best in thoughtful service, hominess, comfort and cordiality. It has become generally known as a real home for a big family.

The superiority of its management, combined with the new Annex which is ready to accommodate people who could not find rooms available before, will appeal to many who are looking for a comfortable, pleasant and economical place to live. The new suites are elegantly furnished, no two being exactly alike. Rooms are spacious and light, equipped with every modern convenience.

Only twenty minutes from the heart of Chicago's loop, in the center of Woodlawn, the location offers the advantages of the "L" road, the Illinois Central, as well as bus and surface lines.

There is a cafeteria, also dining and tea rooms, where special attention is accorded banquets and private parties.

Rates are most reasonable; a room for two persons with private toilet and lavatory, $15 a week; with bath, $20 a week, with or without Murphy Inador bed. Two room suites, furnished to accommodate as many as four persons, $35 a week. These suites admit of many different arrangements and combinations. Some have fully equipped bedrooms.

Located at 64th and University Avenue. Telephone Hyde Park 4400.

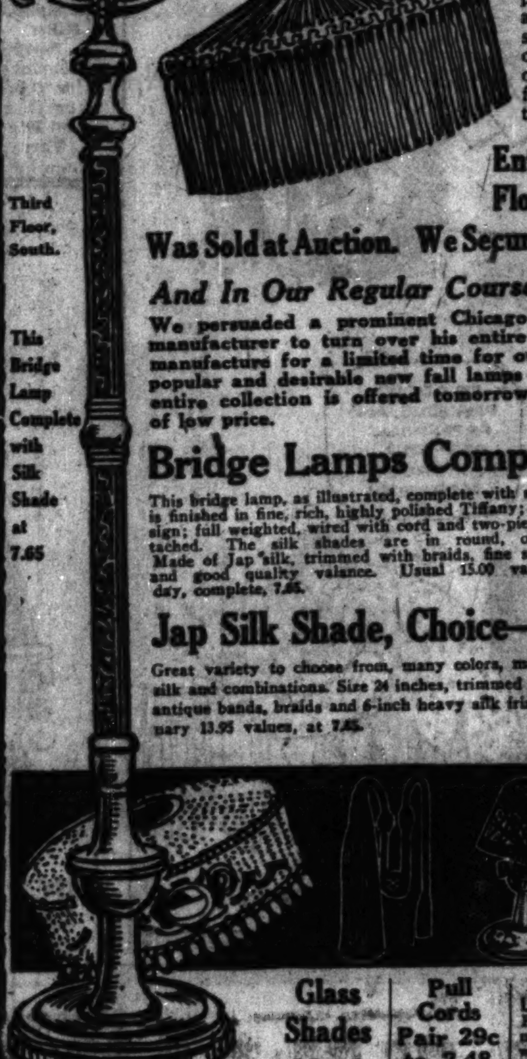
Auction Purchase from Florence Art Co.'s Stock

Choice Lots from Their Stock, 2161-71 No. California Ave., Sold at Auction

And Entire Output of a Chicago Lamp Manufacturer

A Phenomenal Sale



Third Floor, South.

This Bridge Lamp Complete with Silk Shade at 7.65

The points of variety, newness, artisticness and low price were foremost in our minds when we began preparations for a lamp sale, which, measured from the accomplishments, justifies us in calling this our greatest sale of its kind. The illustrations depicting only a few of the great collection can scarcely portray the success of our efforts, weeks of labor and fortune favored us, for at the last moment, unexpectedly a wonderful opportunity was thrust before us—

Entire Stock of Florence Art Co. Was Sold at Auction. We Secured Choice Lots

And In Our Regular Course of Action—

We persuaded a prominent Chicago lamp and shade manufacturer to turn over his entire factory to us, to manufacture for a limited time for our needs the most popular and desirable new fall lamps and shades. The entire collection is offered tomorrow at this unheard-of low price.

There Are Voices for Operetta, but Managers Are Shy

Whitehill, Mary Garden, an Aberdonian; Geraldine Farrar, Landau, tenor—there's at least a nucleus!"

Even with that nucleus, one fails to find the names of either Edward Johnson or Louise Homer.

The Season Gets Under Way.

The concert and recital season shows its first signs of life this week with a number of events of varying importance.

At the Studebaker theater this afternoon the police band of Mexico City will begin a series of three concerts under the direction of Velino M. Preza. The second and third concerts will be given tomorrow and Tuesday evenings at Orchestra hall.

On Wednesday night, at Orchestra hall, J. Burlington Rigg, baritone, will be heard in recital, assisted by Frank Polesny, violinist, former concert master of the Vienna Symphony orchestra. This affair is under the auspices of the United Scottish Societies of Illinois and is for the benefit of the Scottish Old People's home at Riverside.

On the same evening, at Kimball hall, Arthur Zack and Edgar Nelson will give a program of music for the cello, with organ accompaniment.

Thursday night, at Orchestra hall, brings the Edison Symphony orchestra's first popular concert of the season. Morgan L. Eastman will conduct, and the soloists will be John Stamford, tenor, and A. Nelson Brabrook, cornetist.

In the World of Melody.

Passengers on the steamship Albert Ballin, which sailed last week from Hamburg for New York, included Eduard Moerike, the conductor of the Wagnerian Opera company, who is bringing the scores of two operas that are to have their American premieres during the Chicago engagement of the Wagnerian company at the Studebaker theater on Nov. 1 and 3. The first performances in this country of D'Albert's "Die Tote Augen" and Kienzl's "Der Evangelimann" are of interest in musical circles, as the former has enjoyed over 200 successful performances on European stages and the Kienzl work has been given more than 130 times since its first production in Berlin in 1895.

After a season abroad, during which he played some three score concerts, Percy Grainger, pianist and composer, is back in America ready for another extensive tour. He reports that while abroad he added eighty to his collection of folk songs, and he plans to make arrangements of them in various guises and combinations during his spare time this winter.

Single Program for Sousa.

When John Philip Sousa brought his famous band here for a "pickup date" on a Saturday in March of last year, he made the experiment of using the same program afternoon and evening—an experiment in the sense that, on all previous visits, he had given as many programs as performances. He repeated the experiment when here again in October of last year, and found that it was good showmanship for Chicago, as it had proved to be for Boston. So, in his afternoon and evening concerts of Sunday, Oct. 28, he will again confine himself to what otherwise would be the "new-tour bill"; that is, the program containing all of the novelties prepared for the season.

Chief of these—apart, that is, from the inevitable new Sousa two-step—is "A Victory Ball," the tone-poem by Ernest Schelling, the pianist, which the Chicago Symphony orchestra made known in this city last April. It is Schelling's musical reaction to the well remembered war poem of like title by Alfred Noyes. Other novelties are the humoresque on the ditty about Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean, which is said to be quite as elaborate as the humoresque of last year on "The Silver Lining"; "On with the Dance!" a sort of review of dance tunes through the centuries; and the new march already referred to: it is dedicated to and named for the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

WHAT MAKES A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN?

Alcedera.

By Selby Maxwell.

HER EYES TRUTHFUL.

SOME say that Eve is the eternal liar, and that the truth is not in her daughters. This is not so of Alcedera. She does not deceive because she cannot.

When you behold Alcedera, what do you see? Her hair is tinged with copper reflections; her eyes green on the rims of the iris, and have yellow brown at the pupil. Her mouth changes with every emotion, and smiles many times as she talks. Alcedera is Cromagnon in blood.

She belongs to the mild type of Cromagnon, as mild as these people ever get. All of her kind seem gentle on the surface, but they are fiery within and only need to be outraged to bring up the steel in their natures. The bones in a Cromagnon's face are wide and heavy, which gives even the most beautiful of them a rugged, massive look which, if you can read aright, quite portrays the character within.

Alcedera has a face that is narrow for a Cromagnon. Narrow faces always mean mild natures. She is mild. Her emotions are shallow, but her desires are deep. She loves excitement, but will go to pieces under strain.

She cannot lie. Her eyes give her away every time she even thinks an untruth, even though it never passes her lips. She thinks slowly for one of her type, so that a rapid thinker of Nordic blood has a chance to keep pace with her. Here is what one sees when she deliberately tries to tell lies.

She stands smiling and twisting on her ankles. The light is reflected in her eyes. As long as she thinks truth her eyes glisten and sparkle. But the moment she holds back a thought or makes a mental effort at substitution the glitter fades, and her eyes look dull. As you talk to her, watch her, and you can measure exactly the truth as she sees it by the degree that her eyes sparkle. She knows that her eyes tell tales on her, and so she never tries to tell fibs.

The reason why the glitter of the eyes is a sure indication of the truth is simple. All the humors of the head are controlled from the same brain that sifts truth from untruth. If memories are spoken as they come, with no holding back, there is no interruption in the flow of tears to the eyes. But if all the mental energy must go to substituting error for truth there is none left for the tears, and so they dry up. When a person is telling a particularly bad lie, his (or her) eyes are so uncomfortable from lack of lubrication that they are painful and cannot stand the strain of looking steadily at the questioner. This is what makes liars shifty-eyed.

Alcedera's eyes sparkle and are vivacious. What surer proof could there be that she is pure in heart and has nothing to conceal?

Night—Life in the raw. One half of the world in warm beds—the other steeped in misery. Karel Capek takes just two fragments of our human make-up "vanity and self respect" and weaves a story about them, that strings the mind and drives deep into emotion.

Death—If it comes not suddenly how will you view it? What will it do to your mind and your emotions? Luigi Pirandello portrays a most fascinating picture. Can you agree with his mind?

He Stood—Before a picture by Picasso and immediately art, and the part it plays even in the meanest life, was opened wide to him. In this special article the writer pens the thoughts it wrung from him in paragraphs that are searching and brilliant.

If your mind is neither smug nor smothered, you will eagerly read

Concert Schedule Promises Well

F. WIGHT NEWMANN'S schedule for the coming season, newly announced, not only includes an impressive array of concerts and recitals but insures the appearance of the Flonzaley quartet in three chamber music concerts. These concerts will take place at the Studebaker theater Sunday afternoons, Nov. 25, Dec. 16, and Jan. 6. Ossip Gabrilowitsch, pianist, will be the assisting artist at one of the concerts. Mr. Neumann will open his season with recitals by Mischa Elman, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, at the Auditorium, and Georgia Kober, pianiste, at the Playhouse the same afternoon. Vladimer de Pachmann, pianist, who has been absent from this country for twelve years, will be heard in a Chopin recital Sunday afternoon, Oct. 14, at the Auditorium. Minna Ysaeva, dramatic soprano, will make her Chicago debut in recital at the Studebaker on Oct. 14. On Oct. 21 Geraldine Farrar will make her only Chicago appearance this season in song recital at the Auditorium, and on the same day Josef Hofmann, pianist, will come to the Studebaker. Clara Butt, contralto, who has not visited Chicago for a number of years, will be heard in recital on Oct. 28 at Cohan's Grand opera house. On the same afternoon Harold Bauer will give his only piano recital this season, at the Playhouse.

Live attractions between the second week in October and the opening of the Chicago Civic Opera season, Nov. 8, are announced by the management of the Auditorium theater. The Polish Opera club of Milwaukee, presenting the opera "Halka," is announced for the evening of Oct. 14. A week later Amelita Galli-Curci will be heard in concert at 8:15 p. m. On Oct. 27 Nora Bayes and her concert company will make two appearances; two concerts, one afternoon and one evening, will be given on Oct. 28 by Sousa and his band, and John McCormack is billed for a concert on the evening of Nov. 4.

FALLING HAIR

DANDRUFF, itching scalp and falling hair are signs of unhealthy scalp. Sergeant's Mange Medicine makes the scalp healthy. Then it will grow healthy, luxuriant hair. Sergeant's is a real scalp medicine—standard for 50 years. Nothing else approaches Sergeant's for actual results. Its sulphuretted pine and other natural oils kill dandruff germs and fertilize the hair roots, stop falling hair and cause the hair to grow thick and fast all over the head. Results are almost immediate. Barbers apply Sergeant's. A large bottle is only 65 cents at drug stores and toilet counters.

The Sign of Musical Prestige in this community
Where you will find it—and why

There are two vital questions every purchaser of a musical instrument should ask before coming to a definite decision:

> "What is the standing of the merchant with whom I am dealing as a local institution?"
> "What is the standing of the manufacturer whose name the instrument bears as a national institution?"

A satisfactory answer to both should be obtained, irrespective of any other consideration—price, terms, claims or promises. Music for the home is so important a consideration that greatest caution in choosing is deserved.

Your Musical Mentor

Today, in every city and community there are certain shops devoted to that which is best in music. There you will find commercialism, the mere selling of musical instruments, taking second place to a superlative musical service, built upon real desire to serve you wisely and truthfully.

Your individual requirements will be considered. You will obtain the guidance of a musical authority. And the satisfaction of knowing that your instrument comes from a shop of unquestioned musical standing.

He Is The Brunswick Dealer

We trust him with our good name, for 70 years the synonym of quality manufacturing.

World's greatest living artists of the New Hall of Fame, virtually all of whom make records exclusively for Brunswick, trust him to do justice to their achievements, as engraved on Brunswick Records.

And he—from his standpoint—offers you The Brunswick for the singular attainments which have made it supreme, internationally, in the world of musical art.

A Brunswick Phonograph from an authorized Brunswick dealer marks the ultimate in good music for the home. "I have a Brunswick" speaks a volume.

Hear Brunswick Records—100% clearer than old-time records. Hear the Brunswick Phonograph, embodying the exclusive Brunswick Method of Reproduction—the famed Ultona and the sweet-toned Oval Amplifier of moulded wood—by which life reproductions of the heretofore "difficult tones" are attained. Then you will know why all the the world is turning to Brunswick.

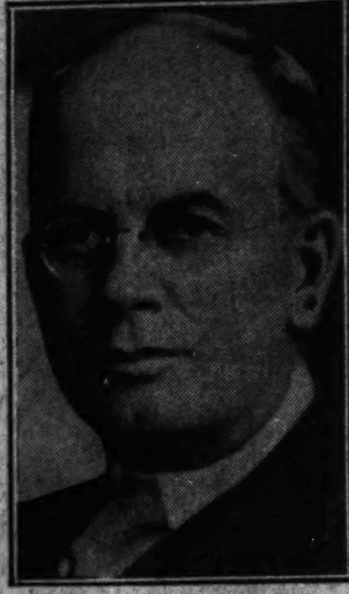
NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Presbyterians Launch Campaign of Evangelism

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

MEMBERS of the Chicago presbytery in 110 churches and missions will begin tomorrow an evangelistic campaign which will continue to Feb. 24. In some of the churches meetings are already in progress. Tomorrow and Tuesday a retreat will be held at the Highland Park Presbyterian church for both ministers and laymen. Invitations are extended to the visitors to remain in Highland Park tomorrow night.

Among the speakers will be the Rev. Robert Clements, pastor of Austin church and moderator of the presbytery; the Rev. John Timothy Stone, pastor of Fourth church and general chairman of the campaign committee, and the Rev. Alfred H. Barr, professor of homiletics in McCormick Theological seminary. The Rev. C. R. Wheeland, pastor of Irving Park church and formerly wholly in evangelistic work, will be director of the campaign; the Rev. A. J. Ferry, Edgewater church, is chairman of the evangelistic committee of the presbytery; the Rev. Roy A. Vale, First church, Oak Park, is in charge of the speakers' committee, and Prof. C. B. McAfee, McCormick seminary, is chairman of the entertainment committee. Special meetings every night will begin tomorrow evening at Arlington Heights, St. Anne, and Endeavor churches. Visiting pastors are acting as evangelists.



THE REV. HORACE G. SMITH.

The Rev. Horace Greeley Smith is pastor of the Hemenway Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago avenue and Main street, Evanston, which will dedicate today its new auditorium and celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its organization. Bishop Thomas Nicholson will preach at 10:30 a. m., Dr. John Thompson at 3 p. m., and Dr. E. F. Tittle at 7:30 p. m. The erection of a new parish house and the rearranging and enlarging of the auditorium have cost $115,000, making the church plant an essentially new one.

St. Paul's English Lutheran church, Greenwood boulevard and Maple avenue, Evanston, will dedicate today one of Evanston's finest churches, costing $185,000. The Rev. C. A. Naumann, the pastor, will be in general charge. At 10 a. m. the Sunday school will march from the old church building, Greenleaf street and Elmwood avenue, to the parish house of the new building, where services will be held. The formal dedication will be held at 3 p. m. The Rev. F. H. Knubel, D. D., LL.D., president of the United Lutheran Church in America, will preach. In the evening Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, will speak. Tomorrow, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings meetings will be held, with addresses by many visiting clergy. Mrs. James A. Patten, wife of the Evanston financier, will be one of the women speakers.

The seventieth semi-annual meeting of the Chicago Congregational association will be held next Tuesday at the South Shore Congregational church, Yates avenue and 73d street, the Rev. Wigent, working, and Everett Ham, father.

The eighty-fourth session of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, embracing Chicago and northern Illinois, will open with a reception at Grace church, Locust and North La Salle streets, on Tuesday evening. The treasurer, the Rev. C. K. Carpenter, will be at the Chicago temple tomorrow to receive money, and on Tuesday the examinations of candidates for the ministry and those in the conference pursuing courses of study will be held at Grace church.

A mission at St. Athanasius' Catholic church, Evanston, will begin today. The Rev. John McGuire, S. J., of Loyola university will officiate. Masses will be held at 5:30 and 8 a. m., the way of the cross at 3:30, and rosary, sermon, and benediction at 7:45 p. m.

A dinner will be given in the Englewood Presbyterian church, 64th street and Yale avenue, Monday evening, Oct. 8, a twhich Dr. Simon P. Long will be the speaker. George M. Turner and C. E. Coe are making reservations.

"Bible Stories of Graft" will be the subject of an address today at 10 a. m. by A. G. Fegert, advertising and publicity counselor, in the parish house of the Lake View Presbyterian church, Broadway at Addison street, in a series on "Christian Citizenship." Next Sunday E. J. Davis will speak on "Christianity Applied." On Oct. 14 the speaker will be Charles S. Peterson, and on Oct. 21 S. J. Duncan-Clark.

The Immanuel Lutheran church, North Maplewood and Shakespeare avenues, will begin today a week's celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary. The Rev. J. J. Breidablik of New York, the first pastor of the church, will speak this morning, and the Rev. J. N. Walstead of Madison, Wis., also a former pastor, will speak this evening. Other former pastors, the Rev. G. O. Paulsrud, Randall Ia., and the Rev. J. A. Quello, Forest City, Ia., and the present pastor, the Rev. T. J. Alvestad, will have part in the jubilee. There will be gatherings every evening and next Sunday.

A Warm Kitchen in Winter
A Cool Kitchen in Summer—with COLES
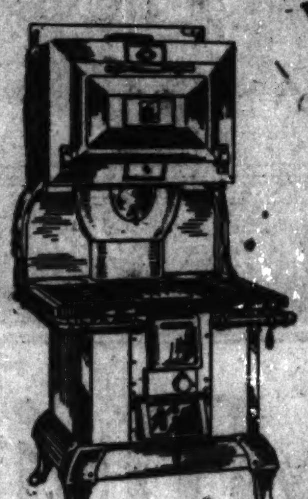
Combination Gas-Coal
High Oven Range



Here are two wonderful ranges in one—a coal range for winter, when you want a warm kitchen, and a perfect gas range for summer, when you want to keep cool. The change from gas to coal or from coal to gas is made instantly. This range is also made for burning coal or wood.

Saves 1/3 to 1/2 in Fuel

This range burns coal with Cole's Hot Blast method of combustion, which saves 1/3 to 1/2 in fuel every year by burning the gases and smoke which other ranges waste up the chimney. The flame rises directly to the oven and circulates all around it, heating it quickly and maintaining an intense even heat which insures perfect baking. The high oven does away with stooping. This range holds fire over night, so that you can sleep later every morning. You will never have to make a fire in a cold kitchen.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater is guaranteed to save 1/3 to 1/2 in fuel every year. It will give you a cleaner and better heated home at less expense.

Two Ranges in One

Cole's Cabinet Gas Ranges are wonderful cookers and bakers. They are economical in use of gas and give a lifetime of service and satisfaction.

This beautiful range takes up very little of your valuable kitchen floor space, yet it will do all the cooking and baking for a large family. The gas burners are of improved type which gives an intensely hot clean flame with little gas. Improved safety devices make accidents impossible. Its graceful and compact design and the smooth finish make this range easy to keep always clean and shining. Many important improvements and conveniences make this the best range investment you can ever make.

The NEAR EAST and EUROPE

Over a thousand people toured Europe in our 60 separate conducted parties during the season just passed.

We are planning, as usual, a whole series of tours to the Near East and Europe this winter. No cruises; no big mobs; always exclusive, personally conducted parties under expert American leadership.

Also a winter travel school for girls, unique in plan and unrivaled in value.

Adventuring 'Round the World
Make the Dream Come True

CRUISING 'Round the World is a Great Adventure—a thousand vacations in one. Even the anticipation of such a Cruise is an absorbing Adventure. That is why you are urged to consider NOW—six weeks before sailing—the 'Round the World Cruise of the New Cunarder FRANCONIA, under the experienced tour management of the American Express Travel Department. This Cruise, in reality, will be one unbroken holiday—133 days—the most glorious days of a lifetime. So novel, so varied, so full of exotic charm that every day will remain with you always—not as a dream, but as a very real experience—a Great Adventure.

And it is so easy to make the dream come true.

The cost, usually the first consideration, is little more than expenses at home for the same period. And as for the necessary time—just a little planning now, a little saving on commonplace trifles perhaps—for this Great Adventure.

Consider the coming Cruise of the FRANCONIA as a possibility for you. In the size and character of ship, in the extent and varied interests of the lands visited, in the luxury of travel on land and sea provided, in the experienced care and attention to details for your personal comfort and pleasure, in the companionship of cultivated people—this Cruise of the FRANCONIA is the supreme opportunity to see and know the world.

Sails from New York November 15, from San Francisco December 4. Returns to New York March 27.

The international offices and personal representatives of the American Express Company around the world are even now making great preparations for your reception and entertainment.

The Pacific and the Orient
To the Flowery Kingdom

DARUMA, the red-cloaked Buddhist Saint, floated to Japan on a rush leaf. Today you take your passage for Yokohama on one of the four palatial Canadian Pacific Empresses of the Pacific. Alongside ancient palaces and Castles of the Shoguns you find the swarming streets of vivacious cities where the supreme artists of the world make the fans, porcelains, cloisonné, embroideries, silks for New York, Montreal, London and Paris. A land of flowers and dainty figures, of shrines and temples, gilded gates and lanterned enclosures, walls of paper, and walls of lacquer and gold, roofs with curving gables and crested ridgepoles, streets of curio shops half a mile long, avenues of stately cryptomerias, gardens that Eve could never have tempted Adam to leave.

Let Nature help you

WHEN the All-Wise Creator made the universe, he placed a group of mineral springs where the city of Excelsior Springs now stands.

The curative qualities of EXCELSIOR SPRINGS waters were discovered in 1880. Since that time, hundreds of thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder diseases, stomach troubles and rheumatism, have been relieved and cured.

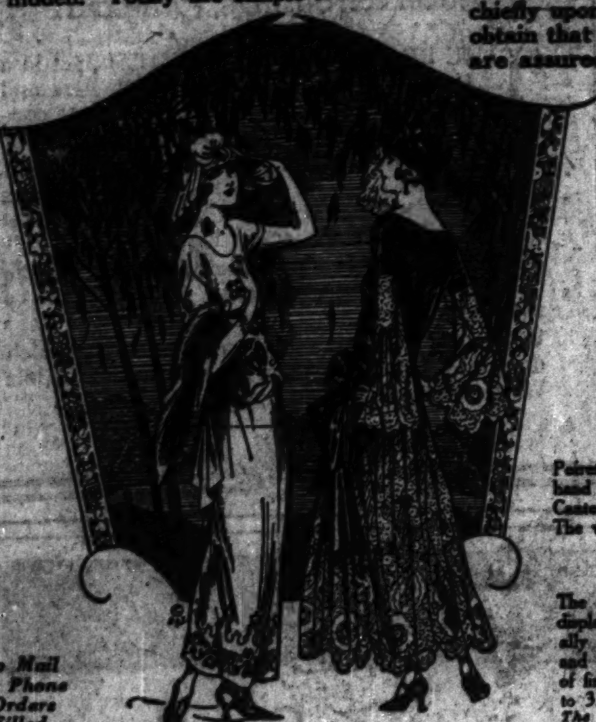
The "Fall Opening" of New Ways to Economy

The accentuated simplicity of this season's styles gives Quality a new importance. In previous years, oftentimes through the use of quantities of trimmings, the fabric of ordinary quality was hidden. Today the simple frock whose attractiveness depends on a mere "catch" at the side, and the very popular straight line coat whose beauty lies in its simplicity of draping, rest chiefly upon Quality to give the garment that rich appearance and the ability to sustain that richness throughout the life of the garment. To obtain that quality at the least possible cost the woman of today shops around and buys to best advantage where Quality and Low Price are assured—and where correct style and wide assortments are a creed.



No Mail or Phone Orders Filled.

New Frocks

35.00

In this group as in all groups, be it men or clothes, one stands out above the rest. This delightful garment is made of the new Kitten's Ear crepe—a soft, silky fabric with a dull luster. The full length of the skirt is tucked, and at the left a slit from waist line to hem shows a gold colored lace in exquisite allover pattern. The lace is attached to a separate underskirt. Others are of Poiret twill, bordelaine, Canton crepe, flat crepe, crepe back satin and chiffon velvet. Fur, beads, braid and other means of trimming are used.

Other frocks up to $85

Poiret twill, Canton crepe, flat crepe, in hand embroidered and hand beaded models. One, an exclusive model, is of satin faced Canton with novel French trimming—a colorful fringe in tiers. The values are unusual. The 12th Street Store—Second Floor.

Undergarments

The dainty silk chemise, gowns and step-ins are here in a wide display of fall shades. Priced typically low at 1.50 to $6. Philippine and hand embroidered undermuslins of fine soft fabrics are priced at 1.98 to 3.50.
The 12th Street Store, Second Floor.

Live Models Will Display the New Fall Apparel

So that you can better appreciate the loveliness of the frocks, coats, hats and footwear, a live model preformance has been arranged. 10:00 to 12 M., 2 to 4 P. M.

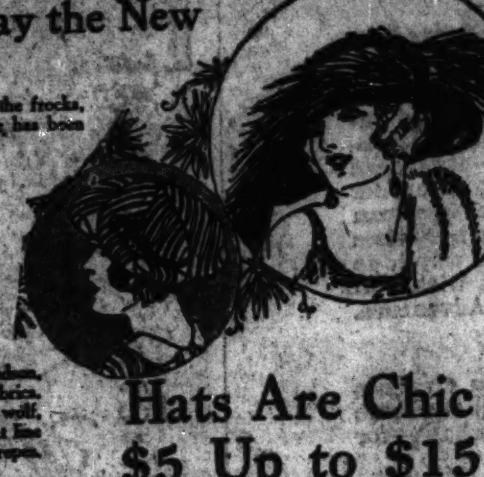
Coats Are All Fur Trimmed

65.00

Lustrosa, Fashona, cut Bolivia, Cordalure, Hudson Seal Plush are a few of the luxuriously soft pile fabrics. Fur trimming is plentiful and novel—opossum, wolf, Viatka, marmink. Coat effects, side ties and straight line models. Lined with satin de chine and fancy crepes. Many are interlined.

Other Coats to $125

Constanza and the fabrics above mentioned are used—squirrel, red fox, beaver, Viatka squirrel and gray squirrel fur trimmings.
The 12th Street Store—Second Floor.



Hats Are Chic
$5 Up to $15

In fact, unusually so, for never have the hat styles been so flattering. A mere uptilt or droop of the brim, or even a bit of gay trimming, and sometimes it is the delicate, soft shades that find such apt expression in panne velvet and silk duvetyn that lends an air of intrigue, of youth, of bewitchery.
The 12th Street Store—Second Floor.

The Correct Corset

for a proper foundation for the new apparel is an R and G

The feeling of comfort that is "built in" in R and G corsets is of no little delight to the women who are accustomed to R and G corsets. The style feature is especially important, for the slenderizing tendencies of the season's frocks and coats demands a corset that will enhance the figure. R and G corsets are a permanent feature at the 12th Street Store—your requirements can always be fitted accurately.
The 12th Street Store, 2nd Floor.

Hosiery

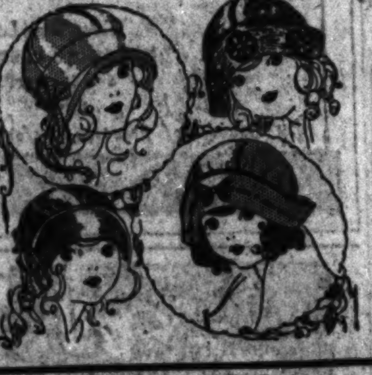
Radmoor, Phoenix, Burlington, Interwoven and other well known brands give assurance of high quality. Beautiful shades and attractive clocking add to the importance of the showing.
The 12th Street Store, First Floor.

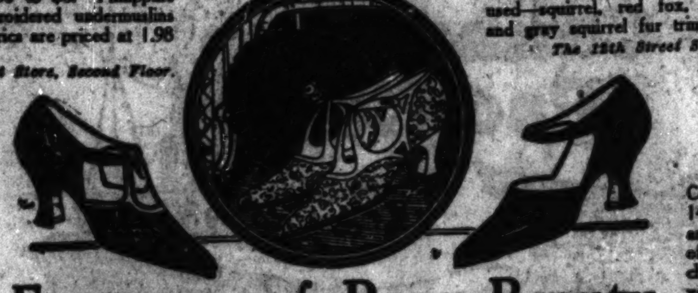
Accessories

A handkerchief in color harmony with a new frock or coat gives added life to the garment. Gloves are new in color and style. Handbags of leather or silk or in beaded models give one a charming place in which to keep little things.
The 12th Street Store, First Floor.

For Tots

Darling little coats that are fashioned like big sister's, and dainty little party frocks of gay color are unusually appealing. Hats, sweater sets, and rompers and dresses in novel hand stitchery are priced attractively low.
The 12th Street Store, Second Floor.





Footwear of Rare Beauty
$5—$6—$7—$8

The open, cut-out effects are most in demand. The strap is varied considerably, and is so designed that it lends trigness to the foot. Suede, patent leather, satin in beaded or plain models, and calfskins are alone or in clever combination of several fabrics. Heels in styles to suit every fancy—baby Louis, full Louis, Cuban, military and low heels, with rubber heels attached.

Low Shoes, Special Group
A one day special—included are suede, satin and patent colt in cut-out models, built on the new French round toe last. All wanted heels. Sizes 2½ to 8. 3.95
The 12th Street Floor, Second Floor.

Children's Hats
Extraordinarily Low Priced

An extra special offering for one day only. 1.47 Unusually pleasing new fall models and shades.

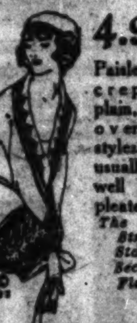
Velvet or suede and krimmer cloth in combination are shown in cute off-the-face effects. Embroidery and ribbons are effectively used for trimming. The colors are splendid—the color combinations are well chosen.
The 12th Street Floor, Second Floor.

Misses' Apparel

Coats for the miss of 7 to 14 years take on the lines and styles of the garments of grownups with slight changes to keep within the youthful, girlish demands. Fur and embroidery are popular trimmings. Priced at 7.50 to 19.75.

Dresses for the young miss are of wool crepe and serges, and novelty ginghams in attractively fashioned garments distinguished by hand embroidery and combinations of several fabrics. On sale at 1.98 to 6.98.

New Blouses
4.98 to $15



Paisley silks and gorgeous crepes, embroidered and plain, with novel sleeves in overBlouse or jacquette styles. The colors are unusually pleasing and go well with the new pleated skirts.
The 12th Street Store—Second Floor.

Special—Hats
A special purchase at the last minute makes great economy possible. Silk velvet in draped effects, turbans, pokes and off-the-face models in sand, brown and other fall shades. 3.50
The 12th Street Store—Second Floor.

Fur Coats

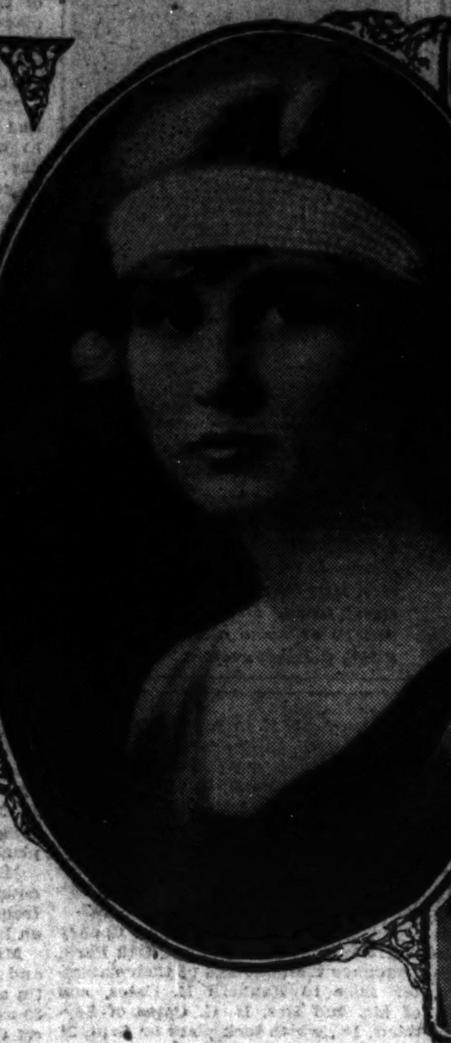
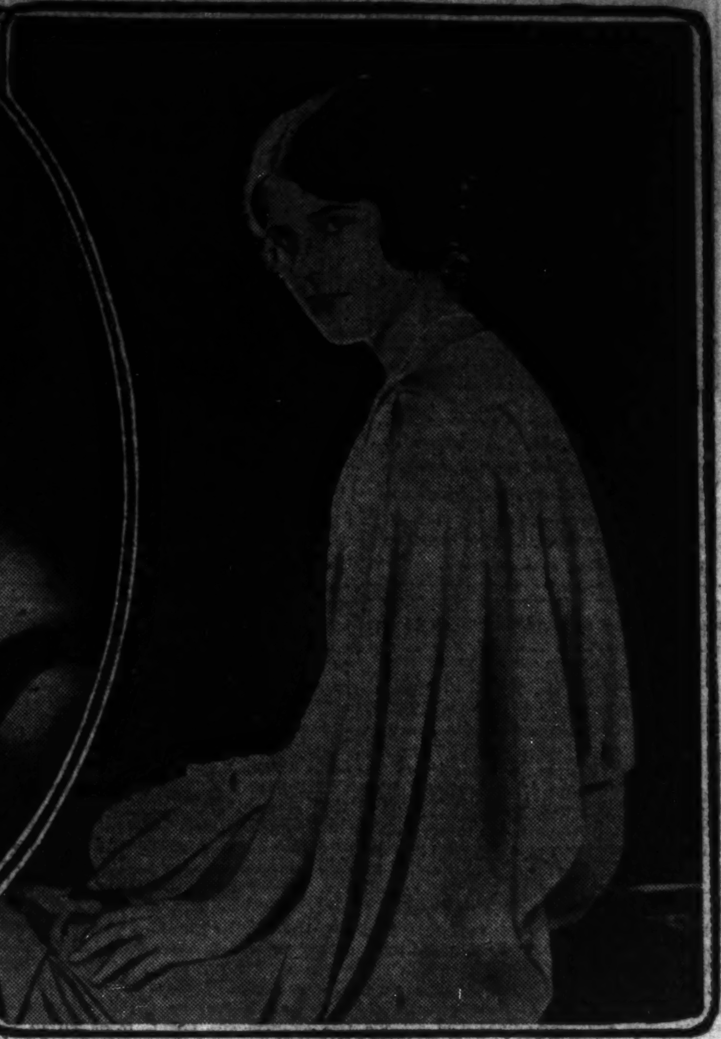
MISS MARGARET MACCAUGHEY.
[Raymor Studio Photo.]



MISS BEATRICE FENTON.
[Moffett Photo.]



MISS LOUISE MITCHELL.

Announcement was made last summer of the engagement of Miss Margaret MacCaughey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew MacCaughey, to Harry A. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus C. Allen of Glencoe. No date for the wedding has been set. Miss MacCaughey made her debut last winter. Mr. and Mrs. MacCaughey have been at the Exmoor club since selling their house in Highland Park in the early summer, but will come in town for the winter shortly.

Miss Beatrice Fenton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Withrow Fenton of Winnetka, is to be married to Stanley Morrill, son of Mrs. Frederick Kingsley Morrill of the Drake, on Wednesday, Oct. 17. The marriage will be solemnized at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in Christ church, Winnetka. Miss Fenton made her debut in 1921.

Miss Louise Mitchell, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell, is returning tomorrow with her mother from a summer abroad and will be with her family at the Lake Geneva residence until they come in to their town residence at 1550 State parkway on Nov. 1. Miss Mitchell made her debut last season.

Europe's Famous Come to Tell Us Their Stories

By Mme. X

It is not so long ago that English and Europeans looked upon this country as, speaking internationally and politically, a pretty negligible proposition. Their literary and artistic fraternity discovered us first. Charles Dickens, Mrs. Trollope, and a few others of their ilk visited us in the years of our uncouth adolescence and, frankly speaking, did not like our looks. Later came such eminent authorities on culture as Matthew Arnold and Oscar Wilde, representing rather widely differing schools of thought, it must be confessed. John Bryce first put us on the map with his great work on this country. Sir John Morley, later Lord Morley, looked upon us with an intelligent eye and conceded to us a measure of importance. But none of the renowned statesmen of Great Britain so much as considered visiting us. John Bright, Gladstone, Lord Rosebery, Lord Salisbury, Lord Randolph Churchill—not one of these directors of the British ship of state thought it worth their while to visit this country, though they traveled extensively on the continent.

Times and the world war have changed all this. Ever since 1915 the spokesmen of Europe have been coming to tell us their story in increasing numbers. Statesmen, generals, industrial magnates, financiers, ex-presidents, ex-prime ministers, crowned heads, royal heirs, and lovely women of the great world, equipped with charm and good looks, have been sent to tell us the virtues and worth of their side in the various conflicts which have been tearing this civilization to tatters for the last eight years.

Talks on Foreign Policies.

Last Monday M. Herriot, who has been making a fine record as mayor of Lyons, France, for eight years, spoke under the auspices of the Chicago council on foreign relations at the Union League club. He represents a more liberal point of view than Poincaire and realizes the necessity for an industrial understanding with Germany and Russia.

A week from tomorrow comes still another even more famous man with a message, the Earl of Birkenhead, lord high chancellor of England durihg Lloyd George's administration. He is one of the most noted public speakers today in his native land. He is a brilliant lawyer, who made his name and fame as F. B. Smith, when his brilliant oratory was used to further many a cause.

In this country his immediate claim to notoriety rests on his somewhat adversely criticized speech at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown in August, when he referred to ex-President Wilson in a way that incurred the anger of some of those who heard him. The words quoted in the papers are not, according to those present at the time, the same as those to which exception was taken. He is not noted for his suavity or for any restraint in emphatic or sarcastic utterance. His subject will be "The Situation in Europe Today," and he comes under the auspices of the English Speaking union, the Daughters of the British Empire, and other British-American societies. He will speak in Orchestra hall at 4:30 p. m.

Nine days later, on Oct. 17, comes the Britisher who is probably to us Americans the most interesting personality in the world today, the ex, and perhaps the next, prime minister of England, David Lloyd George. He will speak at the Auditorium, and his sponsors will be the National Association of Press Auditors and the Chicago Association of Commerce. He, too, I believe, is to tell us about conditions in Europe.

In time we may acquire some knowledge of the subject. But, between you and me and yon gate post, I think we shall learn most from the calm minded American business man who has visited the lands under debate and looked at them, not with the eye of a politician, or the enthusiastic visionary, or the seeker after sensation, but with the clear and practical gaze of an American man of business, who has no ax to grind, no name to make for oratory, no other end in view but to present the truth as he sees it. When we get an opportunity to hear such a one speak, and if we care for the subject, we should seize it.

Mme. Jonescu Seeks Attention.

An advocate for one of the lesser nations, Roumania, Mme. Jonescu, is of the band of propagandists who is seeking our attention today. She is of the troupe of charming women of the world, referred to above, who are chosen with subtle wisdom by their several governments to pave the way for a better understanding between their countries and this western republic. She is a sister-in-law of the distinguished Roumanian statesman of the same name. She, herself, is a writer and poetess, also a newspaper correspondent. She is here, she says, to pave the way for a visit in the course of a few months from Queen Marie of Roumania, and also to sell a choice and costly book on Roumanian art, an enterprise in which the queen of Roumania is likewise interested, as part of the proceeds is to go to the orphans of Roumania.

Mme. Jonescu is a brunette of vivacious type. She speaks English fairly well, but prefers to talk to us in French, in which language she is most fluent. She admires this country enormously, and especially Chicago.

She says our manners are so good! From the highest to the humblest she has met with a courtesy which she says has not been equaled in any other city in this country or in Europe. She likens it to that to be found in France in the good old days of the second empire before France became a democracy in which everybody was as good as everybody else (and some a de'il sight better). I think that this is the first time that this desirable quality has been discovered in us. I am afraid the personal equation must be taken into account. An attractive, well dressed woman with sparkling dark eyes and a ready smile is likely to find this a pleasant and accommodating world.

Mme. Jonescu addressed a gathering of her fellow countrymen and women last week in Indiana Harbor, where the flags of the U. S. A. and Roumania hung side by side. She was enthusiastically received, and although it is not an affluent colony its members subscribed to the book on art, in this joining the ranks of the Astor and Morgan libraries in New York, the public libraries in Pittsburgh, San Francisco, and Aurora. Roumanian art is distinctly Byzantine, and the history of it begins in the thirteenth century and is carried down to the eighteenth.

When one learns that there are between four hundred and five hundred thousand Roumanians in this country, most of them employed in our big industries, one wonders what Roumanian industries are doing. This country is certainly a species of modern minotaur, devouring the industrial possibilities of other, smaller countries.

Laverys Coming from London.

By the way, speaking of coming visitors, the many old friends of the former Miss Hazel Martyn, now Lady Lavery, will be interested to know that she and her husband, Sir John Lavery, the noted English portrait painter, are coming to this country in the late autumn or early winter. They will arrive in Chicago shortly after they land, as they have many friends and acquaintances here.

Lady Lavery is a conspicuous and important figure in the smartest English society of today. Nothing of a social or philanthropic nature is complete unless she is an active part of it. She is both exceedingly good looking and unusually clever. Equip a woman with beauty and brains, and you have something, a force, which no one or nothing can withstand. The arrival of the Laverys will be made the occasion of a great deal of entertaining. Sir John is coming to fulfill some commissions to paint portraits in this country. Lady Lavery is herself an extremely gifted painter and at an exhibit of her work which she gave at the same time that her husband had one a year ago, every one of her canvases found a purchaser, while her famous husband was not so fortunate. A difference in price might have accounted somewhat for this. He was as proud as she was of her triumph.

Chicago bulks somewhat large in London high society and in historic settings. Two fair Chicagoans were presented at the court of St. James last June—Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, wife of our ex-senator, Col. James Hamilton Lewis, and Miss Genevieve Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, while two of the most famous dwellings of the British nobility are now the homes of two former fellow citizens of ours.

Now the Homes of Americans.

That most noted of English castles, Warwick Castle, is now leased and lived in by Harry Marsh, who was a gay bachelor here in the latter quarter of the last century. He is now married and makes his home in England, though he is often in this country, his business being still largely carried on here. Most American tourists who "do" England know this grand old pile of buildings. It was begun by the celebrated Earl of Warwick, known in the fifteenth century as "the king-maker." It has been altered and added to since then by other subsequent Warwicks, and is one of the most imposing of the historic residences that make the British isle so fascinating to travelers, especially to motorists. It is still open to the public three days a week on the payment of a not imposing fee.

This, however, mounts up by the end of a year to quite a considerabe sum, and is a part of the revenue of the present Countess of Warwick. She was a notable great lady in her day and is still to be reckoned with socially, though of late years she has gone in for much reform work and is supposed to belong to the ultra radical element in English politics. In her youth when she was Lady Brooke, she was a celebrated beauty and the then Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII., was numbered among her admirers.

The other famous residence that was temporarily leased by a well known Chicagoite is Devonshire house in London, long the home of the great ducal family of that name. Our former merchant, Harry Gordon Selfridge, took this mansion during the war and, unless I am mistaken, is still occupying it. He is known as most hospitable host and many a wandering Chicagoan finds a kindly welcome there.

His mother, Madam Selfridge, presides at his table, although she is well along in the '80s. She is much admired and loved by the English people who know her. She carries her years gallantly, and is a stately and charming figure in the society in which she and her son move.

World's Fair Thirtieth Anniversary.

There are still many hoary headed, though otherwise buxom, citizens of this western metropolis who remember the World's Columbian exposition of 1893 as if it were yesterday. It was the greatest esthetic event and industrial exhibit ever "pulled off" in this country, and marked a turning point in Chicago's history. From it was born fathered by the late Daniel H. Burnham, the city plan commission, which has been copied in most other of our big cities.

Therefore, it is fitting that the exposition's thirtieth anniversary should be commemorated. Up in Field's third floor they have been working for a week to make a shrine for an exhibit of everything that could be collected in the way of souvenirs of it, which will be shown to the public for a week, beginning tomorrow. This celebration was organized by that devoted and untiring conservator of our past, the Chicago Historical society. It selected this downtown site for the exhibition because the society's home on North Dearborn avenue is not central or accessible; nor has it space enough for such a show.

Among the articles to be displayed there will be the dress worn by the late Mrs. Potter Palmer at the ball that was given at the Auditorium to celebrate the opening of the fair. It was a beautiful white satin gown. The well known Swedish painter, the late Anders Zorn, painted her portrait in it, and the picture hangs today in the Palmer picture galleries in the Art institute. The silver and ivory gavel, which was given to her to use in the meeting of the historic board of lady managers and which she is holding in the portrait, will also be on exhibit in this collection of world's fair souvenirs.

Mrs. Leander McCormick is the head of a committee of the daughters and granddaughters of those who helped make the great exposition a success, a committee whose function it will be to have some one of its members present each day of the weeks' exhibit to receive and record visitors and to assist them to an intelligent understanding of the collection and its main features.

Famous Folk From Many Lands.

These world's fair days were the peak of Chicago's artistic and social history. The fair attracted not only all or most of the notabilities of this country but many of the famous folk of that day from even the remotest lands came to see the vision of beauty that we had created here on the shores of Lake Michigan. The auxiliary congresses were a remarkable feature of the undertaking. To these "talkfests" came delegates from every nation to talk on every conceivable topic. The motto of the fair was "Not Things, But Men"; the motto of these congresses was, "Not Men, But Ideas."

The late Harlow N. Higginbotham was president of the Chicago world's fair board, while the late C. C. Bonney was at the head of the auxiliary congresses. Among the most active of the Chicago hostesses who kept open house during that summer and extended such a hospitality as was never known before were the Mesdames Potter Palmer, Franklin MacVeigh, Charles Henrotin, and Augustus N. Eddy, all of whom have since joined the great majority. Of those still living who belong in this group are Mrs. Marshall Field (then Mrs. Arthur Caton), Mrs. George L. Dunlap, Mrs. T. B. Blackstone, Mrs. Ferd Peck, Mrs. H. H. Kohlsaat, Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mrs. S. E. Gross, and Dr. Julia Homes Smith. The last named is now writing a history of the fair and its accompanying auxiliary congresses.

MRS. CHARLES W. RUSSELL.
[Monfort Photo.]

T. F. Sullivan of 136 North Long avenue announces the marriage of his daughter, Helen Marie, to Charles W. Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell of Los Angeles.

Descendant of Columbus.

Among the famous visitors who were especially invited to be present at the ceremonies when on May 1, 1893, the gates of the exposition were opened were the direct descendant of Christopher Columbus, Cristobal Colon, Duke of Veragua, who came to Chicago with his wife and son and daughter, also the Infanta Eulalia, who, unless I am mistaken, came as a representative of the descendants of Ferdinand and Isabella, the patrons of the discoverer of this hemisphere. She brought with her forty costumes, some one of which was the cynosure of all eyes whenever she appeared in public. She is still alive, though the amiable duke and descendant of Columbus is not. She sends a greeting to the Chicago Historical society and her "best wishes to the people of Chicago" on the occasion of this commemorative exhibit and "deeply regrets she has been unable all these years to revisit America."

Clarence Burley, president of the society, received recently from the present representative of the Colombus family, the same one who came with his parents and sister to Chicago in 1893, a letter in which he expresses regret at not being able to be in Chicago at this celebration, adding, "I pray fervently for the prosperity of Chicago, which undoubtedly is the pride of the American continent, which glory always expresses the dreams and hopes of Columbus, who was the first tone to implant there the cross of faith, emblem of Spain. I beg of you to receive my most cordial and sincere salutations and I remain your humble servant that kisses your hand. Affectionately yours, Cristobal Colon, Duque de Veragua."

The exhibit will be well worth a visit and may it convey at least a hint of the realization of transcendant beauty that the Columbian exposition was to those fortunate enough to see and be a part of it.

MISS BEATRICE PFAELZER.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Pfaelzer of 5045 Drexel boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Beatrice Dorothy, to Daniel G. Arnstein of Chicago. The wedding will take place in December.

Country Still Popular.

Although summer gadders are trickling slowly back to town, the country is still popular and autumn house parties are as gay as were those of summer. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fox are entertaining a large and lively contingent this week-end at their place, "Blue Fox," on the southern boundaries of Wheaton. The house is charmingly situated on the borders of the Chicago Golf club, and from its windows one gets wide views of the course and can watch the players pursuing the elusive little white ball.

The Foxes' parties are always gay and entertaining. Golf and bridge and walks over the fields keep the guests busy, while Mrs. Fox's talents as a housekeeper, especially in the direction of her cuisine, add to the pleasure of those invited that final touch of completeness which prompts one to agree with the sage who said that "the undevout gastronomer is mad."

The opening of the Lake Forest hunt, which was postponed from last week on account of the soggy condition of the earth, due to recent rains, took place yesterday. A good sized field and a numerous gallery followed the course laid out and enjoyed the combination of excitement and delicious air and pretty scenery.

Lovers of California.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman returned last Monday from a summer in Santa Barbara, Cal., both enthusiastic about that region as a summer resort. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dempster also came back from there the week before equally enchanted with their sojourn on the shores of the Pacific. Mrs. Arthur Cable is another California devotee. She spent the last three months there, and arrived in Winnetka with her two children last Thursday. It is a delightful and beautiful region. It has only one drawback. It is so remote from this part of the land. So many, many leagues have to be traversed to reach it!

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aldis, who have been spending the summer in Europe, principally in Italy and France, landed in Lake Forest on Wednesday. Mrs. Aldis devoted much of the time of her sojourn in the former country to writing a history of Italy for the young, a commission given her by a New York publishing house before she left this country. The Aldises passed several midsummer weeks in Horace Oakley's villa on the slopes of Fiesole above Florence. They found the site radiantly beautiful, but even more radiant was the heat of the city of flowers at that season.

MRS. FRANK CONSTABLE.
[Hoffman Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Sullivan of 5008 Vincennes avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Mary, to Frank Arthur Constable on Sept. 15 at Corpus Christi church.

Other wandering Chicagoites who are at home again and getting their lares and penates dusted and in order are Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, who, with their four children, are settling down for the winter in the well known Palmer residence on the Lake Shore drive after a summer, much of which was spent in Venice; also Edward T. Blair, after two or three months on the French sea coast, is again in his Lake Shore drive house.

Others on their way home are Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock, Miss Muriel McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Strobel, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus S. Peabody, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn. Gradually the cohorts are gathering, and before we know it another winter season will be upon us with its mingling of the grave and the gay.

WEDDINGS

No wedding or engagement announcement will be published in The Tribune unless it bears the signature, address, and telephone number of a parent either of the bride or bridegroom. Announcements should reach the society editor not later than the Thursday morning preceding the Sunday they are to be printed.

A Famous Beauty

For 40 years—due to a French-type clay

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For two score years I have been a famous beauty. For 32 years a stage star. Yet I still play young girls' parts. And I look as young and winsome as I did when I began.

The reason lies in beauty helps for which I searched the world. I have supplied them to many others, and they secured like results. I know them to be the best helps in existence. So, by countless requests, I have now arranged so all who wish may get them.

A new white clay

Famous beauties have for ages used some facial clay. French experts first taught me to use it, many years ago. Then all clays were crude and muddy, as many are today. Since then science has found ways to multiply their benefits.

The clay I now use is based on 20 years of scientific study. It is that rare clay which experts proved to bring the maximum results.

It is refined clay, with the useless mud removed. It is white and clean and dainty. It embodies several added factors which bring multiplied results.

This super-clay, which I call my White Youth Clay, will bring to anyone new ideas of what a clay can do.

New bloom at once

New beauty and new bloom come quickly to the user of Youth Clay. It purges the skin of all that clogs it—the causes of sallowness, blackheads and blemishes.

It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. Thus many women, in 30 minutes, seem to drop ten years. And my smooth, baby-like complexion shows what constant use will do.

One must use clay

Every girl and woman should use clay in justice to herself. No one can look her best without it. None can keep her bloom and contour, as have I. Users of clay stand out in any crowd.

But the clay of today is this new-type clay—my White Youth Clay—which science has perfected.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Clay is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 per tube. Also my Youth Cream, which should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth, my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

I urge every girl and woman to use these matchless helps. Let them bring you what they brought to me and mine.

Women Voters' League Plans Lively Session

When greater perils men environ,
Then women show a front of iron;
And, gentle in their manner, they Do bold things in a quiet way.
—THOMAS DUNN ENGLISH—BETTY ZANE.

By Kate Webber.

PLANS are under way for what promises to be an unusually valuable and interesting year of activity in the Illinois League of Women Voters.

The Chicago League of Women Voters forum, which is the central program making body of the League of Women Voters in Cook county, has planned a brilliant autumn program, emphasizing questions of national and international import. It will meet for the first time this club season on Saturday at 2 o'clock at the Congress hotel, when Miss Julia Lathrop, president of the state organization, will give an address on "Women in Politics." Mrs. Willa B. Laird, the new president, will preside.

Two legislative sessions and a convention for the making of a state constitution have occurred since the women of Illinois were fully enfranchised. Of some "lost motions" during the recent legislative session the women are still poignantly aware. The theme of Miss Lathrop's talk is timely and a valuable and lively discussion is apt to ensue. Representatives of all political parties have been invited to participate and women in public office in Illinois will be guests.

Beginning Oct. 31, in the interest of progressive education, the Chicago League of Women Voters forum, in coöperation with the Henry Ryder memorial fund and the department of education of the Chicago Woman's club, will present Mrs. Helen Thompson Woolley of Detroit in a series of lectures on "Habit Formation in Childhood."

The forum will present not only urgent questions of national and international import, and conduct some important conferences under the direction of its research committees, but will through its social committee likewise uphold the ideal and give spiritual interpretation to its principles.

As its most important single objective for the coming year, the state league already has entered upon an active campaign to get out 75 per cent of the voters of Illinois at the next presidential election, in 1924. Mrs. Maud Wood Park, president of the National League of Women Voters, has asked for the coöperation of all state leagues in this effort to get the voter to feel his responsibility and utilize his opportunity. As the preliminary move in this campaign the Illinois league has printed in its September bulletin the vote in Illinois, county by county, for the last presidential election, in 1920. The vote is not particularly pleasing to contemplate; and since women are much worse offenders than men, it is largely their task during the next few months to arouse sufficient interest so that their 46 per cent vote in 1920 may be changed to 75 or better in 1924.

For its more immediate activities the state league has arranged for a school of citizenship, in coöperation with the University of Illinois, on the university campus at Urbana, Oct. 30 to Nov. 2, under the direction of Prof. Garner, head of the political science department. Three lectures and two round tables will be conducted each day by members of the university faculty. Miss Julia Lathrop, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill also will speak.

The state league is arranging a luncheon conference on Oct. 16 to discuss child welfare problems, state and national, with Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau.

The state convention of the league, which will be held Nov. 20-22, will give special prominence to the need of active work in preparation for the elections in the fall of 1924, not only to get out the vote, but to educate the men and women of Illinois on the two big propositions which will be put to them at that time, the hundred million dollar road bond issue, and the amendment to the amending clause of the state constitution.

Owing to the rapid increase in its membership, the Sixth ward league of Women Voters has been forced to seek larger quarters, and is holding its meetings this year on alternate Thursdays in the Woodlawn Masonic temple, 6400 University avenue. The league's general plan of work for the year includes preparation for the 1924 elections, and for this purpose they have secured Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, organization chairman for the Illinois league, to conduct throughout the year at alternate meetings, a citizenship school on the general subject, "Our National Government." The next meeting of the league will be on Oct. 11.

The Evanston League of Women Voters, says its president, Mrs. Walter Atwater, has arranged its program for the year with particular reference to international questions. Horace J. Bridges will speak at its opening meeting, held in coöperation with the Evanston Woman's club, on "Some Recent Attacks on American Democracy." The league has also arranged for Mrs. James W. Morrisson to speak on Dec. 10, at the home of Mrs. E. J. Buffington, on her experiences in Europe during the last few months. Through Mrs. George H. Tomlinson, the league's chairman of international coöperation, the churches are being urged to hold at least one discussion of international questions, preferably at some date near Armistice day.

The Douglas League of Women Voters has already held a successful citizenship school at the South Side Community house and is making many plans for precinct meetings in the various parts of the Third senatorial district as well as monthly meetings for the entire district. Mrs. Irene Goins, president of the league, expressed the belief that the school of citizenship has aroused in women a great desire for political education and that much could be expected from women in the district this coming year.

Mrs. Herbert Smith, recording secretary for the Hyde Park League of Women Voters, in outlining the work of the league for the coming year, said it expected to lay special emphasis on the education of women to the legislative needs of Illinois in preparation for the next session of the legislature.

"Women," she said, "gained little of the legislation they sought at Springfield last spring, but they gained much in understanding of needs and methods which they expect to capitalize during this coming year."

The first meeting of the league will be Oct. 29. Since this date is so near the judicial election on Nov. 6, they are leaving the program open for election consideration and are waiting to put it in more definite shape when they learn what party leaders and party conventions may decide to do.

MRS. HENRY M. BOON.
[Moffett Photo.]

The Arché club, long identified with the activities of the south side, will hold its opening meeting on Friday at 11 o'clock, when Carl R. Krafft will speak to the art study class. A musicale in the afternoon will be presided over by the new president, Mrs. Henry M. Boon.

MRS. JOSEPH MAYER.
[Steffens Photo.]

MRS. DARIUS T. PHILLIPS.

The Chicago Woman's Aid, which heretofore has held its meetings at Sinai Social center, will inaugurate its season's activities on Tuesday afternoon and evening with a reception in the new clubrooms in the Kimball building. Mrs. Joseph Mayer, the incoming president, will be assisted by the other officers. Since its inception in 1882 the club has been a large factor in promoting the cultural and civic growth of the city.

Mrs. Darius T. Phillips is president of the North End club, which will begin its activities for the club year with a celebration of president's day at the Northern Masonic temple. The club has a membership of several hundred women who work each season toward a goal which will prove of benefit to the community.

MRS. WILLA B. LAIRD.
[Matzene Photo.]

Mrs. Willa B. Laird is president of the Chicago League of Women Voters forum, which supplements the work of local leagues. The forum provides for women voters of Cook county and vicinity a central assembly where urgent questions are discussed by authorities and candidates of all parties are impartially presented.

DOWNTOWN CLUBS

The Chicago Woman's club will formally start the season's activities next Wednesday when a reception will be given in the parlors from 3 until 5 o'clock for the new president, Mrs. Alfred Cogswell Tyler, and her assistant officers: Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, first vice president; Mrs. Frank Hugh Montgomery, second vice president; Mrs. Morris Woolf, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank J. Graham, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. William S. Monroe, treasurer. The program will be given by Edna St. Vincent Millay, winner of the Pulitzer prize in poetry for 1923. On Saturday at 11 o'clock the American speech committee will hold an open meeting. Prof. Bertram Nelson of the University of Chicago will speak on "Speech Habits."

Every Woman Seeking to Add "Youth and Fashion" to Her Figure Is Certain to Be Interested in This Corset News

Third Floor—Dearborn Street

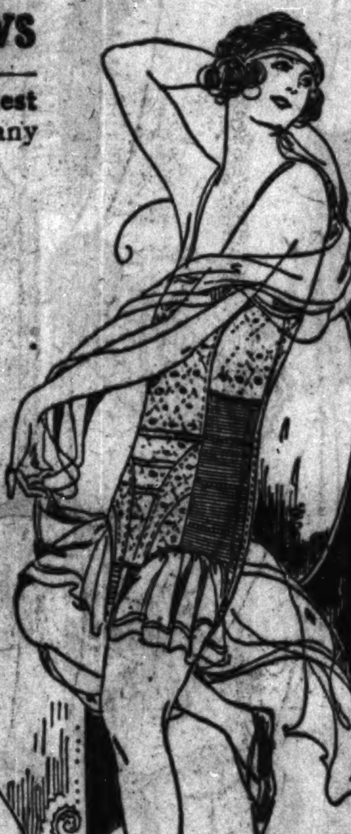
Our Corset Section is today quite the largest and busiest of any in the City—larger and busier than it was at any time before the so-called corsetless fad—

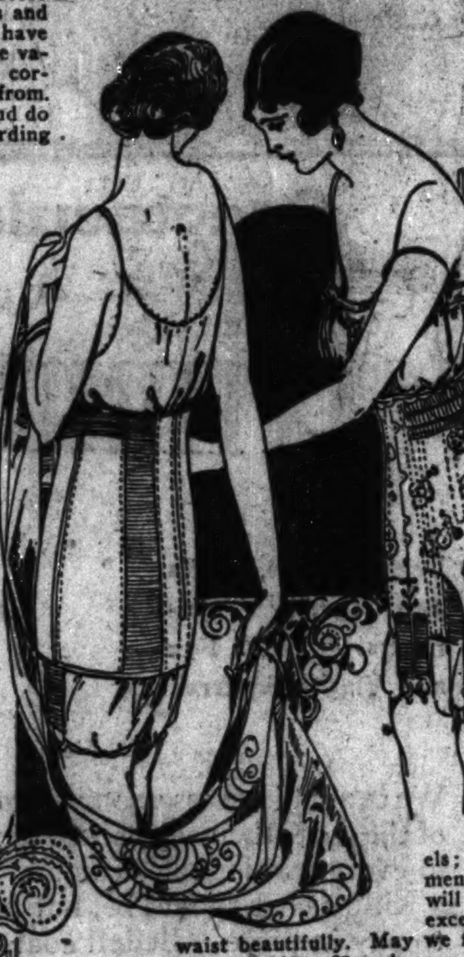
Do you wish to know why—it is because our Corset Section has consistently maintained its corps of corsetieres and the fitting service we are famous for at its very best—

The fitting service here aids every woman, no matter what her figure type, to the fashionable lines of the day without infringing upon her health and comfort. This fitting service is at your command without extra charge. So that our corsetieres can serve you best, we carefully select the makes of corsets we carry—foremost among them are

Warner Corsets

The inherent goodness designed and built into a Warner corset is reflected in the scores of models and styles they make. We have them here in a complete variety of sizes for our corsetieres to choose from. That is why they can and do fit you properly according to the latest fitting methods. Come and let us show you how to overcome enlarged waist lines, hips grown out of bounds and bulgy diaphragms.





Warner's Brassieres
Have you brassiere trouble—visit our brassiere section and let us show you how readily we can fit you, and perfectly, in a Warner brassiere; for instance, we have a Warner brassiere with a built-up shoulder, front and back that takes excellent care of a fleshy shoulder and flattens the bust; elastic at waist line for adjustment; sizes 38 to 50. In two styles; open front or open back; it has solved brassiere trouble for others; it may solve it for you—at $1

Warner Brassieres up to $5 in complete variety.

Warner corset, style N-33, is admirably adapted for the plump woman who likes a corset of extremely low bust and which sets low down without pushing up. Note the hip shield. This corset will give splendid satisfaction if you have it fitted here. Sizes to 32, at........... $5

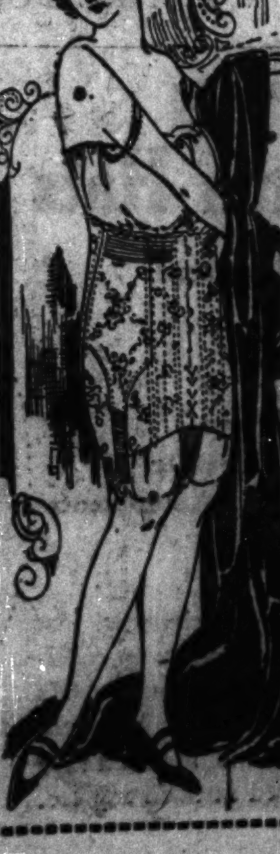
Warner's topless corsets have always been popular with the slight woman, but now women of every type of figure call for these low, comfortable models; some are well boned over abdomen with graduated front clasp. They will not ride up on the figure. Give excellent hip control and shape the waist beautifully. May we fit you to a pair tomorrow. Sizes to 36, at $5 and $4

The topless corset (illustrated above), is made especially for the plump figure with soft flesh evenly distributed. It is very soft and pliable, and is a very popular corset. Made of handsome silk brocade. Sizes to 40, at............. 13.50

The Wrap-Around Corset

As successful as ever, this country-wide favorite with just enough elastic to let you "wrap" it and "snap it." Fashioned of exquisite brocade, or fine, firm coutils, and the narrow sections of elastic that are distinctively "Wrap-Around."

For slender figures, sizes to 32.	For plump figures, sizes to 36.	For stout figures, sizes to 40, at
2.00 to 5.00	2.00 to 10.00	4.00 to 18.50



The Corselette

We are having a tremendous demand for these cleverly designed garments, which take the place of corset and brassiere and which hold the figure firmly and support the stockings. For the growing girl we especially recommend several special styles, as just the garment which is needed. They support the bust, keep the figure erect and trim, but in no way interfere with freedom of movement. The style illustrated is excellent for youthful figure, but corselettes are made in great variety; a style for every type and size figure. We shall be glad to show you the style you should wear .... 1.50 to $5

We have corselettes for stout women in sizes 46, 48 and 50 bust measurements, for morning wear or for traveling. A woman who must spend several days in a Pullman or touring in an auto will appreciate the comfort corselettes alone can bring, at..... $3 and $5

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalm Evans.

You have accepted an executive position in your club for the coming year. Are you familiar with the by-laws of your organization? Ignorance of them is apt to cause trouble, in spite of the best intentions.

A new chairman of a department found this out last year when she was called away from her home town for a month, shortly after taking office. She asked her best friend to preside at meetings and to act in her place, notwithstanding the fact that she had a vice chairman, elected by the club.

Both the best friend and the vice chairman were put in embarrassing positions. Hard feelings, sharp words, and heartaches followed.

When the chairman returned she was questioned by the president of her club.

"How did you happen to ask Mrs. Martin to fill your place while you were gone, when you have a vice chairman?

"Why, Mrs. Martin lives so near me, it was so easy to talk over the work with her before I left. Mrs. Sands (the vice chairman) lives five squares away. Really, I intended no slight."

"But our by-laws state that a vice chairman shall act in the absence of the chairman."

"I haven't read the by-laws. But I will."

She did. She admitted her shortcoming, and straightened out the matter to the satisfaction of all concerned.

She is now considered an authority on the by-laws of her club, and to every new executive she says: "Know your by-laws and avoid trouble."

Moscow Theater Chief Says He'll Remodel "Carmen"

"CARMEN," it would seem, is not exciting enough. It will, therefore, be "revolutionized," according to Vladimir Nemirovitch Dantchenko, who produces works at the Moscow Art theater. His plans depend something on whether the players of that organization will be permitted to come to America again this winter.

"If so," he said, "practically all my best players will be in America. Pending their departure I shall produce as a novelty in Moscow a revolutionized 'Carmen,' with the forces of our music and operatic school. The music of 'Carmen' will be kept intact as much as possible, but the old book of opera will be revised and turned into vital, passionate drama without a drag in the whole scenario. The result will be much closer to the original novel of Prosper Mérimée than the present libretto of 'Carmen' is. If it is a success I hope America will see it and applaud this innovation, marking an important milestone in operatic drama. I shall go to Spain for three weeks to gather atmosphere on the spot.

"An important evolution is taking place in dramatic art and stagecraft. Realism used to be the ideal of the Moscow Art theater. The Russian revolution has necessitated a revolution of the stage, new plays, new productions, a new realism. As an experiment I recently produced before an invited audience of critics Aristophanes' 'Lysistrata.' It caused a sensation and was pronounced the last word in stage art. The old conception of realism has been abandoned and everything now is concentrated to bring out the realism of the soul."

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

What is the best joke you ever heard? If you'll write it out and it is published, $1 will be paid. Address Best Jokes Editor, The Sunday Tribune, Chicago.

No Disputing That.

Small Girl—Why doesn't baby talk, father?

Father—He can't talk yet, dear. Young babies never do.

Small Girl—O, yes, they do. Job did. Nurse read to me out of the Bible how Job cursed the day he was born.

A. L.

Precautionary.

Dentist's Wife—Why do you open the door of the patients room when I sing?

Dentist—I want to let the people waiting know the noise isn't made by a patient.

A. T.

Same Old Story.

Poet—When I shuffle off this mortal coil I shall leave everything to you.

Weary Wife—Well, you've been doing that ever since we were married.

L. R.

More Like It.

A prisoner was brought before a police magistrate who looked around and discovered that his clerk was absent.

"Here, officer," he said, "what's this man charged with?"

"Bigotry, your honor," replied the policeman. "He's got three wives."

The magistrate looked at the officer as though astounded at such ignorance.

"Why, officer," he said, "that's not bigotry—that's trigonometry."

Banish Pimples by Easy Method

Stuart's Calcium Wafers Have Remarkable Action in the Skin to Clear It of Pimples, Blackheads and Other Such Beauty Spoilers.

With all the wonderfully pretty things to wear many a girl is distracted because her complexion is a fright. But here's the way to banish those pimples. Ask any druggist for a 60 cent box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers and follow directions.

Their first action is to remove the sour fermentations that are apt to poison the blood and thus disfigure the skin. The effect is visibly noticeable to those troubled with a pimply skin, or one that is muddy or red or blotchy, scaly and rough and coarse. The Calcium Wafers induce a reaction to healthier tendencies and soon the pinkish complexion begins to assert itself, the blemishes fade away, the dimples seem animated and the entire appearance is one of vivacious beauty instead of unsightliness.

Get a 60 cent box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers at the nearest drug store or write to F. A. Stuart Co., 635 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., for a free sample package.

6 Months between YOU and better PAY —through Gregg Shorthand

Although students are being graduated every week from Gregg School, which occupies the entire tenth floor of the Tower Building, we have never been able to supply enough graduate secretary-stenographers to fill the demands made upon us.

Gregg graduates get preferred positions beginning at far better salary than the average income of young people. But what makes shorthand training youth's greatest opportunity is, the way it places you in intimate contact with men of affairs, where your ability is recognized and rewarded with promotion. The thousands of Gregg graduates who have succeeded in generous measure prove that shorthand is the surest and shortest road to achievement.

If you want to know what a day or evening course at Gregg School will do for you, call in person, write or telephone for our inspiring Book of Facts. It will be issued gladly. Act now; it will not obligate you to find out the opportunities that shorthand holds for you.

Enter at any time; your progress is as rapid as is your wish to make it.

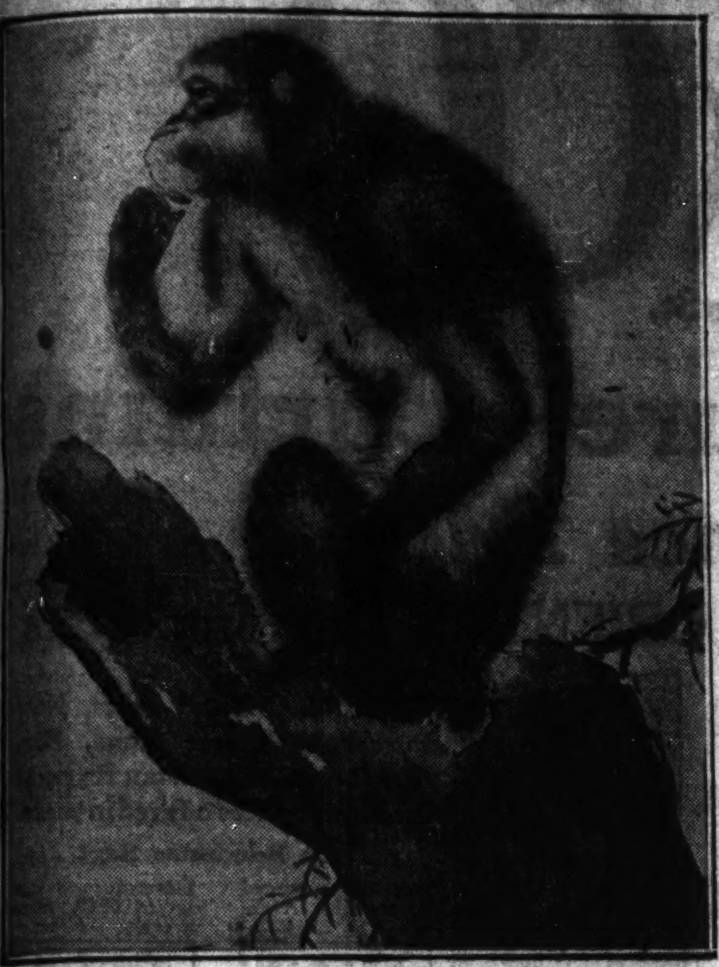
ART AND ARTISTS



"The Mother Monkey," by Hashimoto Kwansetsu, one of the several paintings of animals in the exhibition of modern Japanese art in the east wing galleries of the Art institute.

Comes a Pause in Activities at Institute

By Eleanor Jewett.

ANOTHER month, during which there will be but little change in the galleries of the Art institute, is close upon us. For October the single novelty promised is an exhibit of stage settings, and even it is still in such a nebulous condition that no descriptive details are as yet forthcoming. November, of course, will see the first big show of the winter, the thirty-sixth annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture, safely launched.

Meanwhile in the room formerly devoted to etchings and prints there is now hanging a group of rather interesting paintings, some of them owned by the museum and others merely lent for the time being. They are not new, in the sense that they have not before been exhibited. Nearly all of them have played a part in exhibitions of this or last year. Some of the canvases have been brought from galleries downstairs; others have been shifted from galleries on the second floor.

One is unfamiliar. It is a charming portrait painted by the Spanish master, Sorolla, whose death August saw. The portrait is of Mrs. Lydia B. Hibbard and is lent by Mrs. R. B. Gregory. It is a lovely canvas. Mrs. Hibbard is shown as a smiling, delightful, rosy old lady, with a skin as delicate and soft as the petal of a flower. Her snowy hair is partly covered with a gossamer white cap and a sheer white fichu softens the liquid black of her gown. Face and hands, gown and setting, are beautifully painted. Sorollo has stamped his genius upon this rendering of a fascinating personality.

Across the room is the painting of two little girls running along a beach hot in the sunshine, which is also by Sorollo, and which is owned by the institute. It affords a charming contrast in theme to the portrait, though bearing quite as adequate witness to the powers of the artist.

Lucien Simon is represented by two large paintings. One of a scene in the fields at harvest time gives an excellent idea of the sturdy peasant women of France who bear so large a part in French agriculture. The other painting is "Men on Breakwater," and it, too, is a simple revelation of everyday life among the people of France, the men and boys, some sailors and others not, who hang around the docks, loafing, smoking, sleeping, and talking.

Rockwell Kent in his "Mount Equinox, Winter," has a decorative canvas. In the foreground are deer; behind rise mountains, pine trees growing on their rugged slopes and their tops crested with snow. A clear, dry cold seems to blow from the painting; almost you can feel the chill of winter descending from the frosty sky. The treatment suits the mood. The brush painted swiftly, quickly, abruptly. There are no fine lines or hidden meanings.

Far different is a landscape by Gauguin, "Landscape Te Burao." In the foreground is a weird serpentlike waving of shadow and tree root. A confusion of red, green, blue, and orange plays over the houses and bay. A dog, meaningless, rants about, stamping over the outstretched root of the tree that possesses the entire foreground. It is pure Gauguin, the Gauguin of the South Sea islands, to like whom is to be clever, and to dislike is to be rather out of the swim.

The Snydaker collection of paintings was left to the Art institute with the understanding that the pictures were to be sold and the moneys thus raised added to the institute funds. It was estimated that the collection would bring about $20,000. One little picture, a John Constable, has been sold. The price paid was $1,500.

Mrs. Herman J. Hall, head of the museum instruction department of the Art institute, has resigned and gone to Arizona for her health. She leaves many warm friends behind. Her position was unique and the courses she conducted at the institute most popular. Miss Helen Parker, formerly her assistant, will replace Mrs. Hall.

The Art school of the Art institute will open tomorrow. The rooms in all probability will be filled to capacity. Additional rooms have been provided to care for the increased student body. Industrial art is to be featured in the instruction courses.

Miss Florence Spiehler and Miss Ruth Hutchins of the Art institute of Rochester, N. Y., are newly appointed teachers in design, interior decoration, and costume design in the normal department of the institute art school.

The printing arts department, organized two years ago, has outgrown its quarters, and additional space, with new equipment, has been given it.

The department of museum instruction of the Art institute begins its new season tomorrow. Classes meet regularly once a week, and are designed for the layman who wishes to develop his interest in art. A complete schedule of the lectures will be given next week.

The first lecture of the year is to be given on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Fullerton hall by Dudley Crafts Watson, on "Design, an American Necessity."

The course of lectures on sculpture given each season by Lorado Taft will open on Friday afternoon. Mr. Taft will speak at 4 o'clock in Fullerton hall on "Greek Sculpture, Formative Influences."

Herman Rosse and William Owen Jr. have been granted a year's leave of absence from the faculty of the institute art school.

Leon Bakst is coming to America in November to lecture on the art of costume.

Joseph Birren will return from a successful summer of painting on the Atlantic coast, chiefly about Rockport, Mass., sometime this week. A landscape, "Rockport," by him, was exhibited at the Rockport art show the last two weeks in August.

An exhibition of paintings by Karl Ouren will open tomorrow at the Palette and Chisel club. Mr. Ouren is one of our younger painters of whom Chicago may well be proud.

The thirty-third annual exhibition of the National Association of Women Painters and Sculptors will be held in New York from Oct. 16 to Oct. 30.

Have You, Too, Discovered Luxor?
Preferred by Fastidious Women for a Generation

QUIETLY, modestly, Luxor was first presented to women a score of years ago.

From the first its success was certain! Never before had women found in Toilet Requisites such distinctive excellence. It was a real discovery! A conscientious clerk suggested its trial; a delighted user recommended it to her friends—soon discerning women by hundreds of thousands were enjoying Luxor's surpassing quality—its genuine aid to lovely complexions.

Two truths inspired Luxor's development—that cosmetics should not disguise, but should assist Nature in bringing out beauty; and that only the purest of ingredients can safely be intrusted with this delicate task.

Today Luxor Rouge Parfait is probably the most widely used in America! Matching the shade of the blood as seen through the skin, it subtly enriches Nature's own coloring. In any light, its charm is the same.

Luxor Complexion Powder — exceptionally adherent, supremely fine and smooth—finds similar favor among the discriminating. No irritant lead or bismuth, no ingredient that can become pasty from perspiration, is used—it cannot clog pores. It perfectly protects the fresh bloom of the youthful skin.

And for every toilet need, there is a Luxor Requisite—equally dainty, equally pure, equally fine. Ask for them at your favorite shop.

You can do it better with GAS

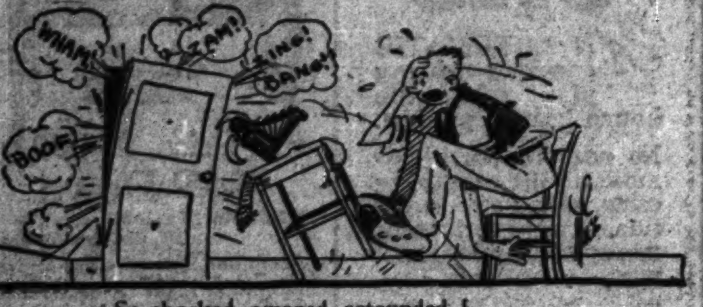
SLAMS OF LIFE

By J. P. McEvoy.

THE DILEMMA.

When I would work, from out your room
There comes a dull and muffled boom,
Or else a sharp and sudden crash
That makes my pulses beat fast with pash,
That makes my heart beat fast with fear
Lest you have skidded on your ear.

And when I've shouted, "Hey, there, YOU!
What do you think you're trying to do?"
There comes a silence, soft as sleep,
Upon the surface of the deep,
A peace immeasurably vast,
That makes me hold my breath aghast.



WHAM!
ZAM!
ZING!
BANG!
BOOF!

So shocked, amazed, astounded I
To hear no more your frantic cry,
To hear no more those thrilling thumps,
Those crashes, smashes, falls, and bumps,
I cannot work until I see
What mischief you have planned for me.

And so it goes most every day,
I cannot work when you're at play;
For when you're loud I'm filled with fear,
And when you're still and I can't hear
A sound from you, my heart beats fast—
I know such virtue cannot last.

SELECTION.

Environment has long been recognized as one of the determining factors in any career. Many a civic or industrial leader looks back to recognize that the foundation for his success was laid in his boyhood home.

Great care should be used, therefore, in choosing the furnishings for a home. Selection should be governed by excellence. Usefulness should serve beauty; beauty usefulness.

A home so planned will be a never failing source of happiness and inspiration. It is, indeed, a worth while effort.

WRITER.

We want a man who can write—a convincing, forceful writer with the sales instinct—one who can dig down into facts and present them in a way that the everyday sort of fellow can read and understand them, thereby influencing sales and building good will for the largest institution of its kind in America. This man must have a fair education—write down from his education instead of up to it; must not be an ordinary "copy butcher" either. In fact we want the exceptional man. The opportunities in this job are simply immense, because it involves editorial, sales, advertising, and collection work. It is the chance of a lifetime for a live man of 35 or thereabouts to become a part of what is perhaps the livest outfit in Chicago. The salary figure will be left open until we find the man. If you think you can fill the requirements of this job tell us about yourself—your qualifications and experience—your age—where you have been employed before—and what you are doing now. Some samples of your work will aid us in determining if you are the man we want. Anything you tell us or send us will be held in strictest confidence. Interviews will be arranged later. Address L C 480, Tribune.

SALESMAN—EXPERIENCED IN THE SALE of high grade specialties, possessing keen intellect and ability to read human nature, a man of force and power capable of placing a solid foundation under every statement, and commanding the respect of the customer, a man that values his time at no less than $7,500 per year, and one that is big enough to secure a maximum result. To such a man we will pay a salary of $3,000 per year plus commission and traveling expenses. That will make possible an earning of $8,000 or more. Our product is a patented one on which we own the manufacturing rights for America. Has proven its merit in thousands of installations. Used by architects, engineers, contractors, industrials, etc. Your work will comprise constant traveling, placing in every city of over 100,000 a number of installations on strictly a money back guarantee basis, the town handling a similar class of equipment. A campaign will be laid down producing a sufficient number of direct inquiries. When all agencies have been established a national campaign will be started, and your services will be required then as a supervisor of agencies at a larger salary. This is an opportunity for a man that can measure up to the required standard to make a permanent connection with a fast growing but young institution that has withstood the acid test and made good. We will require a full outline of your experience and qualifications. The applicant must furnish a bond and show an unbroken record for the past 10 years, a record that will stand investigation. VO-PON

FAMOUS FOR MARCELING.

Let us tell you about the VO-PON school of beauty culture. As you know, beauty culture is practically a new profession, offering wonderful opportunities to those interested in this great work. The complete course consists of marceling, shampooing, [illegible] hair dressing, facials, scalp treatments, violet rays, hair dyeing, bleaching, [illegible] etc. Our method of marceling is a feature of the course. To learn our method of marceling is something you will be proud of. Our marcels remain in the hair longer than any other wave. We have hundreds of testimonials to prove this. Our graduates marvel at the wonderful success they have attained, due only to the careful and thorough instruction you receive at the "Vo-Pon school." You ladies who have taken up beauty culture and cannot get by on your [illegible] come in and talk to us about your [illegible]. We shall be very glad to tell you what your work lacks. Perhaps one or two private lessons with us will put you on your feet. We shall also obtain positions for any one taking instruction with us. The entire course may be completed in six weeks, together with one month's actual experience in one of our various shops. We assure you a position in any first class beauty shop; pay $30 and upward. Our former students, now shop owners themselves, insist on employing VO-PON operators ONLY. For your convenience we have both day and evening classes. Vo-Pon graduates are famous all over the country. See us before enrolling in any other school. WEEKLY TERMS.

Where to Live and How

NEW FURNITURE—
NEVER USED—

has materially aided a number of very desirable guests to decide to live at The Plaisance. The same influence, together with the many other attractive features at this popular hotel, may help you to solve the same problem.

SOMETHING NEW.

There is a strong fascination for every one about things that are NEW, whether it be a dress, suit of clothes, or overstuffed furniture, covered with the FINEST AND MOST EXPENSIVE MOHAIR. May we show you any day between the hours of 9 a. m. and 10 p. m., just how attractive a new apartment may be made and just how you can live here more economically than in an apartment or a home paying $100 or more per month rent?

ECONOMY.

Your rental here includes gas, electric light, laundry, maid service. There is here the best transportation, most beautiful environment with a "front yard of 1,000 acres," garage accommodations, and beautiful cafe, service excellent. Table d'hote dinner, $1.00.

HOTEL ROOMS.

We will have available after Oct. 1st several very desirable rooms with bath.

EXCLUSIVE PATRONAGE.

We have only a very few apartments available now with a greater demand for accommodations than previous years. No hotel in Chicago has higher class patronage of which we are justly proud. We maintain a high standard by demanding good references.

LOCATION.

We are at 1545 E. 60th-st. We use the Illinois Central—60th-st. station. The Elevated—Jackson Park station; The Surface Lines; The Bus, and the Boulevard.

THE CASTLE

A CLUB HOTEL FOR GENTLEMEN.
Rates, $10 to $17.50 the Week.

To be comfortable for the winter your home must not be too far from business, with convenient transportation. You must have a cleanly, well ordered room, abundant baths and showers, and a large lounge in which to loaf and read after business. Added to these, means of exercise and pleasant comradship. The price must be moderate, for like any prudent man, you will count the cost. The Castle will satisfy these requirements. Come and see for yourself, or I will send you a descriptive booklet. The owner and manager is Mr. Adams, who was for many years manager of Hotel Chamberlin at Old Point Comfort, Va. There are remaining a few most desirable rooms with private bath or shower very moderately priced for an extended stay.

This property recently acquired from Catholic bishop of Chicago after one ownership for 72 years, located 2 blks. north of Howard-av., 3 blks. west of Sheridan-rd., 2 blks. east of Ridge-blvd., presents an opportunity which happens once in a lifetime to a few wise builders and speculators. Don't be one of the unfortunate that have been saying, "I can remember when I could have purchased here for $75 to $100 a foot and today it is selling for $300 per foot or higher." The lots we are selling now for $75 to $95 per foot will sell next year for $150 per foot and it will be but a very short time when $300 a foot will look cheap in this location.

NOW IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY. GRASP IT TODAY.

Glencoe.

GLENCOE.

If you want to see something real pretty in the way of a North Shore development drive out to Glencoe today and look over

"SKOKIE HEIGHTS."

Here is a property that is totally different from any other on the North Shore. The lots are all large, mostly 100 ft. front, and range from 160 to 272 feet deep, with all of the improvements in with house connections inside of the walk; 50 feet building line; restricted to one residence to a lot; no residence to cost less than $15,000. Lots are sold only upon buyers making written application. Two residences are now under construction, costing $30,000 and $35,000 each.

We are offering sites at $65 per foot and up. We positively know that the present opening prices, considering location and other desirable features, make it without question the lowest priced property on the North Shore today.

In order that the public may have an opportunity to inspect "SKOKIE HEIGHTS" we will throw open the private road entrance on Green Bay-rd. To reach this property drive out to Glencoe, go west on Park-av. to Bluff-st., then north 3 blocks to the BIG STONE ENTRANCE at Skokie [Dundee] road. We have an office on the property at the Green Bay-rd. entrance, which will be open all day Sunday.

AMERICANS

of refined tastes, who are desirous of locating in a community of select people, where only those who will make good neighbors, the kind of people you would like to meet, will be found.

We are dividing a beautiful estate into generous lots, located in the heart of one of the most beautiful suburbs west of Chicago. Surrounding this estate on all sides are the homes of hundreds of Chicago's prominent business men.

You can find no finer, more desirable location for a home. If you are not going to build for a few years, you will be wise in selecting one of these sites now.

Easy terms will be arranged with responsible parties. For further information address K O 370, Tribune.

RIVERSIDE RESIDENCE.

FOR SALE—Owing to a change in business which requires my moving east, I am placing on the market my home in Riverside, which I otherwise would not think of selling. It is a real home—not one built to sell. It was built in the days when it was possible to obtain material and workmanship that are now practically out of reach. Recently the interior was completely modernized and artistically decorated. Consists of 8 rooms and bath. No-Kol oil heating system. Lot 100x250, beautifully landscaped, and containing many very fine shade and fruit trees. Good location close to depot. Address K T 344, Tribune.

FOR SALE—HINSDALE.

REAL ESTATE—SUMMER RESORTS.

FREE BUS TRIP SUNDAY, OCTOBER 7 TO WOODCREST, CHANNEL LAKE,

Where Values Increase Most.

We have arranged with the Chicago North Shore R. R. Co. for one of their luxurious busses to make the round trip Sunday, Oct. 7. We will take you out and bring you back. Delightful auto ride through beautiful gently rolling country over concrete roads, 55 miles. Accommodations for only 22 people—no more. Many are bound to be disappointed.

Today you can buy summer home lots in advance of the big growth and development that will double and treble, and increase values many times.

The greatest growth in real estate values are not found where man toils, but where he loafs and plays. Coney Island leads the world in the rise in values. Mrs. Rafferty has just sold for $500,000 some shacks which cost her $6,000 fifteen years ago.

Channel Lake is now one of the most popular and fastest growing summer resorts around Chicago. The completion of concrete roads will greatly stimulate this growth. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Woodcrest, the new high class subdivision, offers lots from $250 up, on easy terms. Boating, bathing, fishing, golf and all outdoor sports; romantic walks, bowers of loveliness, wooded hillsides, beautiful vistas, wonderful shade, good roads, all combine to make this the ideal spot for a summer home.

Buy and build your cottage to have it ready next summer. Buy a lot NOW and reap a golden profit with the big advance which is bound to come.

Call, phone or write at once for full information and ticket giving you the free trip.

CRYER & COMPANY,
30 N. Dearborn-st. Central 8658.

Big Sale of RENEWED Franklin Cars

American Roads Are Not Race Tracks

Imagine a car which does not ask you to slow up for rough roads. A car which does not rattle and bump around when it strikes a rut. A car which will travel roads at 40 miles per hour where other cars beg you to slow down to 20.

Imagine such a car and you have a picture of the way the Franklin will behave for you on any road anywhere. We do not need to tell you that such a car will give you the most comfortable tour—that it will not wear you out, whether driver or passenger.

American roads are not race tracks for smoothness and easy corners. They never will be. So the speed of a car on the track or in a smooth road race is no gauge of its touring ability. The Franklin reaches its speed limit at 50 miles per hour. Yet in miles per day it is the equal of any road car built—even those which will do better than 70 miles per hour.

Whatever Your Motoring Needs

A Renewed and Guaranteed Franklin will come up to your requirements. Franklin is the most comfortable car built, regardless of price; is economical to operate, easy to operate (consequently SAFE to handle), and has a longer life on the average than any other car selling within $1,000 of its price.

The Franklin Sedan is the ideal winter car—the only one that protects itself as well as its passengers. It has no radiator, uses no water, needs no attention. Your garage need not be heated. You don't have to fuss with anti-freeze radiator compounds. You have no radiator to drain.

Franklin original engineering principles — DIRECT AIR COOLING—VALVES-IN-HEAD—LIGHT WEIGHT—FULL ELLIPTIC SPRINGS—FLEXIBLE WOOD FRAME—all have stood the test since 1902—22 years. Does that mean "right" to you? All today's talk about light weight economical cars has yet to produce the equal of Franklin economy. Franklin comfort, safety, and easy handling are not approached.

Watch Franklin Brakes

Franklin offers greater safety. In no other car is Franklin's transmission braking system duplicated. The service brake acts on the driveshaft, where the force is multiplied 39 times, and is delivered to the two rear wheels by the differential. Therefore Franklin brakes are the safest to apply with maximum force at top speed. Their power exceeds the brake efficiency standard from 70% to 150%, according to speed.

A New Standard of Buying

A lot of cars have been bought in the past on impression, a short demonstration, and a big hope for the best. We want people to know what they are getting before they buy. So we have set a demonstration standard that will please you. You'll like Franklin's simple starting system, the security you feel when driving, the absence of radiator trouble, the freshness after the trip. The harder the going, the better, because the Franklin possesses advantages that no other car has. It goes when and where others cannot.

Priced Less than You Expect

Come in and see these cars. The prices are less than you would expect. Renewed and Guaranteed Franklins never lose the efficiency of new Franklins. The assortment is wide enough to insure the selection of the model and type you prefer. Nearly all are completely refinished. All are guaranteed. Investigate. A demonstration serves merely to call your attention to distinct Franklin advantages—not to prove them. Daily performance in the hands of owners is doing that.

5 Bargains AT THE Peerless
FACTORY BRANCH.

PREMIER TOURING CAR. This is a standard 7 passenger job, in beautiful condition throughout. Mechanically it is as near perfect as a car can be. Tires, paint, upholstery, etc., are way above the average. This late model car is being sacrificed for immediate disposal. Price $775.

STUTZ SPORT, 1920. This is a car that cannot be classed as the ordinary used automobile. It is mechanically as near perfect as a car can be. It is painted a dark blue and the tires are in exceptionally fine condition. This snappy 4 passenger Sport job will undoubtedly be sold to the first person who looks at it because it is an exceptional bargain at our price of $750.

PEERLESS SEDAN, MODEL 56. This very late Series 6 Sedan has been refinished and will carry our standard warranty. We have never offered a car of this type at a price within $500 of what we are offering this one. We believe that in selling the job at this price we will make a friend of whoever buys it and that it will be the means of selling many more cars for us. In other words, we have put the price low for a purpose. For that reason you will have to act quickly, as you cannot buy Peerless cars like this one that have the appearance of new and that carry our standard warranty very often at our specially reduced price today of $1,250.

OLDS 8 TOURING CAR, 1921. We would like the opportunity of showing this car to any parties that are interested in buying good reliable high grade transportation at such a price that you cannot afford to pass it up. It is a high powered, fast, yet light and economical touring car that is ready to go out and perform satisfactorily for many thousands of miles. Tires, paint, and mechanical condition are very good. Do not let the price we have put on this car scare you, as it is not "junk," but is a good, serviceable automobile that is truly worth more than we are asking for it. Lots of extra equipment and a real buy at our price of $425.

PEERLESS 8, MODEL 66, SUBURBAN COUPE. This is one of our latest series Peerless 5 passenger 2 door coupes, with the two individual Pullman seats in the front, and is without a doubt the best looking car that you have ever seen. It is refinished in attractive Maroon color. The upholstery looks like it had never been used. The tires are fine, and mechanically it will carry our standard warranty. We have never before had a car of this type to offer, and the demand is great at this time for closed cars. If you have never ridden and driven the new Peerless you have missed a motoring sensation that no other car can give you. This particular one is an exceptional offering and will be sold to the first lucky purchaser at a price that represents over $1,000 off of what it would cost to duplicate this car today. See this smart looking car at once. The price is $2,650.

CADILLAC TYPE 55 TOURING CAR. We do not believe a car of this type and in this condition has ever been offered for so little money. Top, upholstery and paint are in exceptionally good condition and the mechanism operates wonderfully smooth; has 8 tires, spotlight, clock, lock, other extras. Will be sold to the first caller for $300.

CADILLAC TYPE 57 TOURING CAR. The mechanism of this late "single-letter 57" Cadillac is in condition that we consider good. It has the double lined top, small cowl lights, and well equipped with tires, spare, etc. To the man looking for mechanical performance, this would make a strong appeal. Priced way below its intrinsic value at $600.

OLDS "4" TOURING 1922 MODEL 5 PASS. A light weight, economical refinished automobile that puts up a new appearance throughout. Is in nice mechanical condition and should render highly satisfactory service for a long period of time. Equipment is complete, including exceptionally good tires, spare, and extras. We can offer this car at $650.

HAYNES MODEL 45 CHUMMY 4 PASS. 4-DOOR. A snappy, well built, close coupled 4 passenger that will appeal to the most exacting buyer. Entire car is newly and attractively refinished, with wheels to match, and the mechanical condition we consider excellent. Top, upholstery, and tires exceptionally fine. Bumper, motometer, cowl, ventilator, etc. $550.

DURANT "4," 1922, TOURING. Like new in every respect. Original finish. Driven only 7,700 miles. Cord tires excellent, brand new spare, motometer, transmission lock, stoplight, etc. A real buy at $650.

FURNITURE STORE—THE OPPORTUNITY of a lifetime for one or two men to get into a high class, profitable, ready going business in one of the fastest growing neighborhoods on the North Side. The store is well established, carries a beautiful line of furniture, rugs, household goods, and novelty merchandise; every article is new, fresh from the factory; two large floors, well lighted; steam heat; a long lease and cheap rent. It is located on a prominent side of the street. The price is $22,000, cash or trade for income property. Terms will not be considered. Experience not necessary, as the present owner is willing to devote part of his time to pass on his 15 years' highly trained furniture experience to intelligent buyers who are looking for a profitable business and who have the money or property in trade. Don't miss this opportunity. You will not need any more money than the original investment, as the stock alone will bring more than double the retail price, not including the equipment that goes with this high class business. In reply please state address and telephone number, also if you have cash or property. Address S 62, Tribune.

Your Child's Health

Ready for Bed

This picture is on the trade mark tag attached to every genuine Dr. Denton Garment.

Depends on the Fabric used in making the garments in which the little one spends the long, recuperative hours of sleep.

Dr. Denton Soft-Knit Sleeping Garments are made of our hygienic fabric, knit from special yarn spun in our own mills from unbleached cotton, with which is blended some soft, natural-colored wool.

Every Mother Should Know that bleached and unbleached cotton are as different as black and white.

Bleached cotton is COLD, absorbs and holds perspiration like a sponge—a ready conductor letting the vital body-heat escape, and conveying cold to the skin. It is ideal for summer, but clammy and cold for winter wear.

Unbleached cotton, used in Denton fabric, is WARM. Each fiber is still covered with the natural cotton wax and will not absorb water. Perspiration is carried off on the surface of the loose-spun fibers and the child's skin is always dry and warm.

To secure the utmost softness and durability we use only high-grade cotton and wool, double carded.

Our loosely twisted yarn, knit in an open stitch, and the natural smoothness of unbleached cotton, give our unique Soft-Knit feeling. The hygienic qualities of Dentons are spun and knit into the fabric.

No dyes or chemicals are used, only new materials washed with pure soap and water. Our washing process avoids stretching. Dentons do not shrink when washed at home, but keep their original shape and elasticity.

Body, feet and hands are covered, protecting the child from cold, even if bed coverings are thrown off.

Our patented, extra-full seat provides ample room in seat and crotch.

Dentons are well made in every way; elastic outside seams, collars double thickness, good buttons, strong button holes, facings all stayed.

Ideal for fresh-air sleeping, camping or touring.
(We also make Soft-Knit Hoods for outdoor sleeping.)

Dentons have a mottled, light-gray color that does not readily show soil. Each size is amply proportioned.

Denton quality is rigidly maintained.

Our prices are always low in relation to quality; as we are the largest and only exclusive makers of knit sleeping garments.

Sizes 0 to 6 have turn-down cuffs; sizes 7 to 14, plain cuffs. Sizes 0, 1 and 2 are extra large at hips to allow for use of diapers.

Insist on genuine Dentons. Our name is on neck hanger and our trade mark is on tag attached to each garment. If you cannot get Genuine Dentons from your dealer, write us.

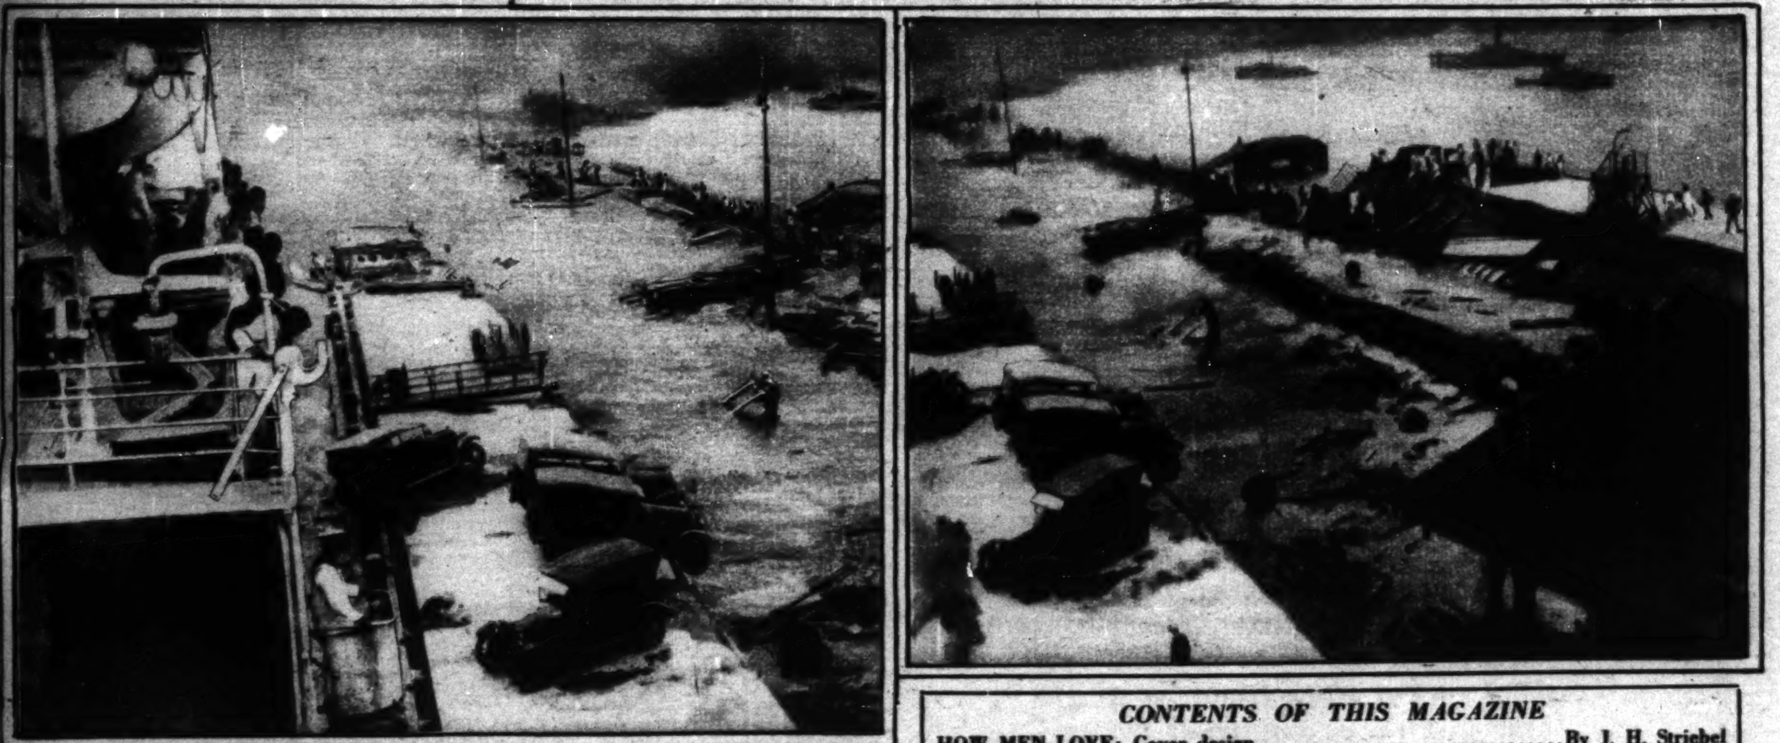
YOKOHAMA ROCKING AS THE EARTH QUAKED. Every object in this picture shows movement, which would indicate it was taken while the earth was actually shaking. It is, no doubt, the first photograph ever made of an earthquake in action. The men running in the foreground appear to be fleeing the loading sheds, which are sliding down, about to topple upon them. In the center can be seen the boat's gangplank, tossed high on land, probably by the first great shock. During the disaster 1,039 separate quakes shook Japan. (Photograph copyright by Pacific & Atlantic.)



HOW GREAT TIDAL WAVE WRECKED Yokohama water front. The photograph above shows part of the steamship Empress of Australia, an ocean liner from London, which was in Yokohama harbor when the 'quake began. The purser of this ship snapped this and the other pictures on this page. Note the autos tossed crazily about on this pier, the wreckage of the second pier sheds shown in the picture to the right, and the debris on the piers and in the slip of water between them.

(Both photographs copyright by Pacific & Atlantic.)

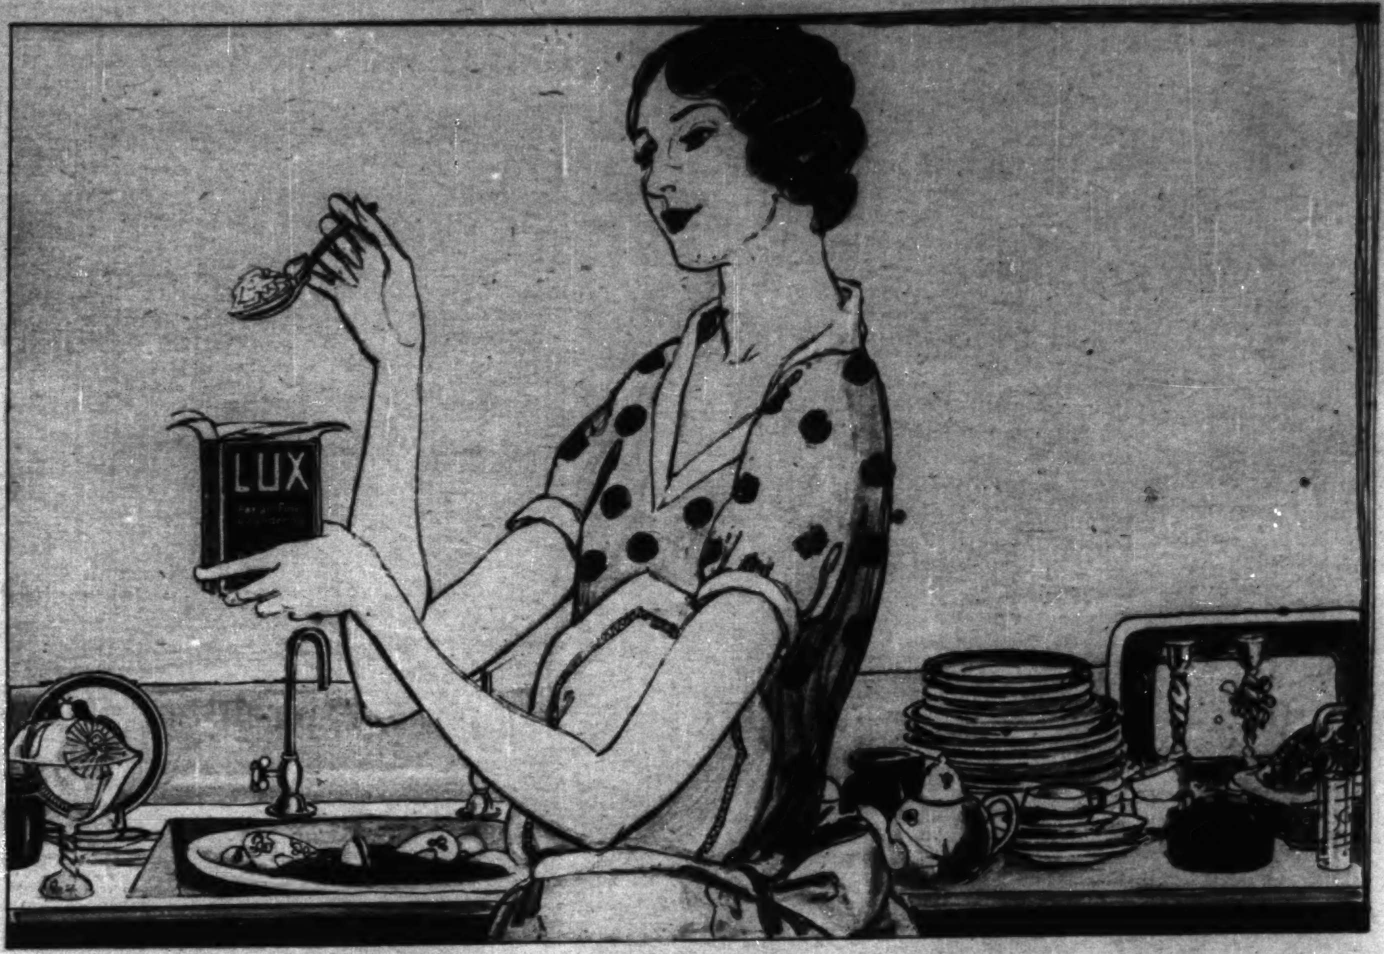
NEXT WEEK

THE YOUNGER SON; Ambitious mother imports an ancient and withered noble for pretty Lucy, but Cupid sends along a young and handsome secretary; a Blue Ribbon short story..........By Gene Markey



135 dishwashings in the big new package

Tissue-thin flakes—as easy on your hands as fine toilet soap

JUST one teaspoonful of Lux—and your dishpan is full of rich suds. One teaspoonful—you can hardly believe it. But try it for yourself.

Flip it in your pan—turn on the hot water. Now watch the suds foam up!

The one teaspoonful will wash your breakfast or lunch dishes; for the dinner dishes you may need two teaspoonfuls. Even so, the big new package of Lux will do 135 dishwashings. That's all the dishes for six weeks! The familiar regular size package will do 54 dishwashings.

Won't roughen hands

An hour and a half every day your hands are in the dishpan. If you use harsh kitchen soap for washing dishes naturally your hands get rough and red. Your skin was never meant to put up with the ravages of strong soaps. Nature meant it to be soft and lovely to touch. She tucked away beautifying oils in little pockets under the chiffon-thin outer skin—just to keep it supple and pleasant to touch.

Strong soap literally burns up these oils. If you use it three times a day in your dishpan your hands show it—they get so rough and scratchy you can hardly bear to touch them.

The new way to wash dishes rids your hands of that in-the-dishpan look

Lux won't dry these important beautifying oils. It leaves your hands soft and as satiny smooth as Nature meant them to be. These pure, gentle flakes rid your hands for good of that telltale in-the-dishpan look.

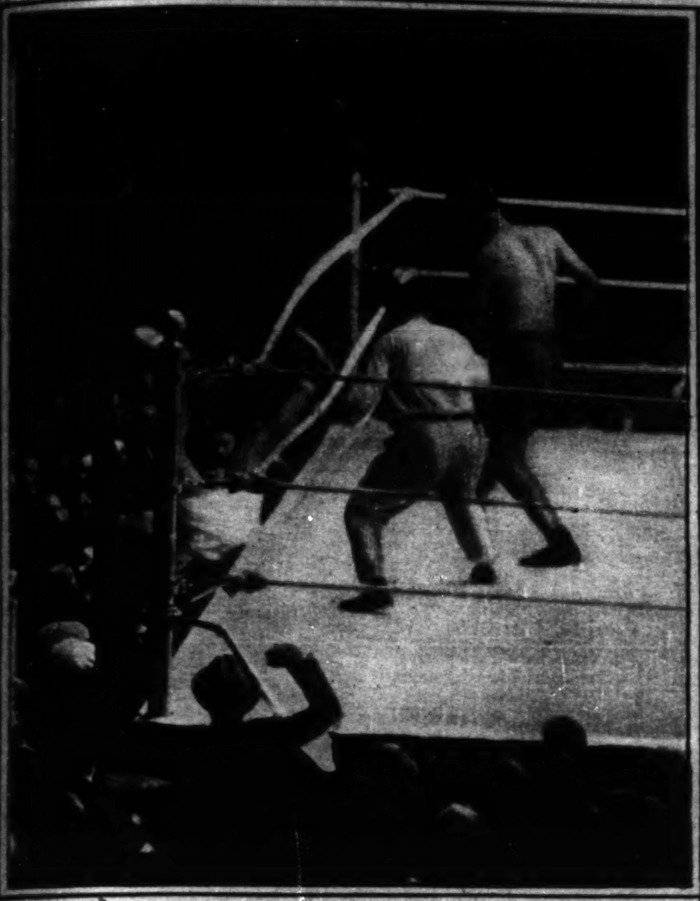
Dishes that sparkle—in half the time

No fussing with kitchen soap—waiting for it to melt, beating up a suds. Just a swish of your dishmop in the soft Lux suds—and out come your dishes clean and sparkling.

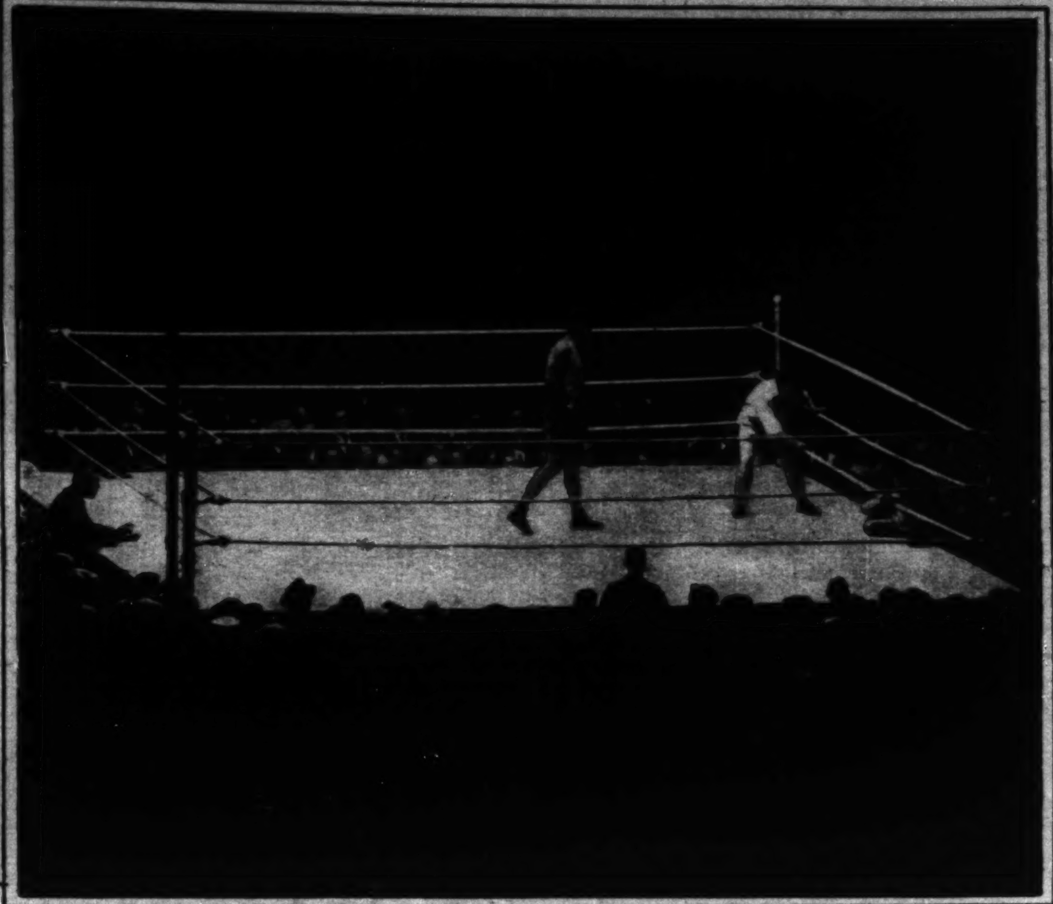
You don't have to wipe your dishes when you use Lux. Simply rinse them in good hot water and put them in a dish-rack to dry. Lux won't leave them streaked and cloudy.

Don't let that hour and a half in the dishpan leave its traces on your hands. Wash today's dishes with Lux. Keep a package right on your kitchen sink and use it for all your dishes. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

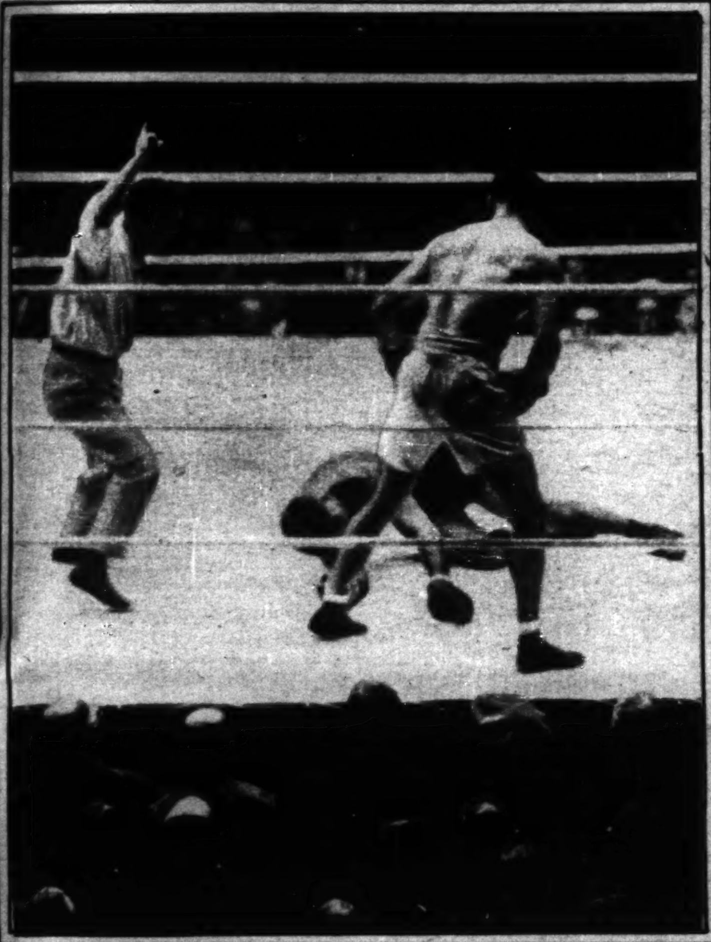
· THE · BIG · FIGHT ·



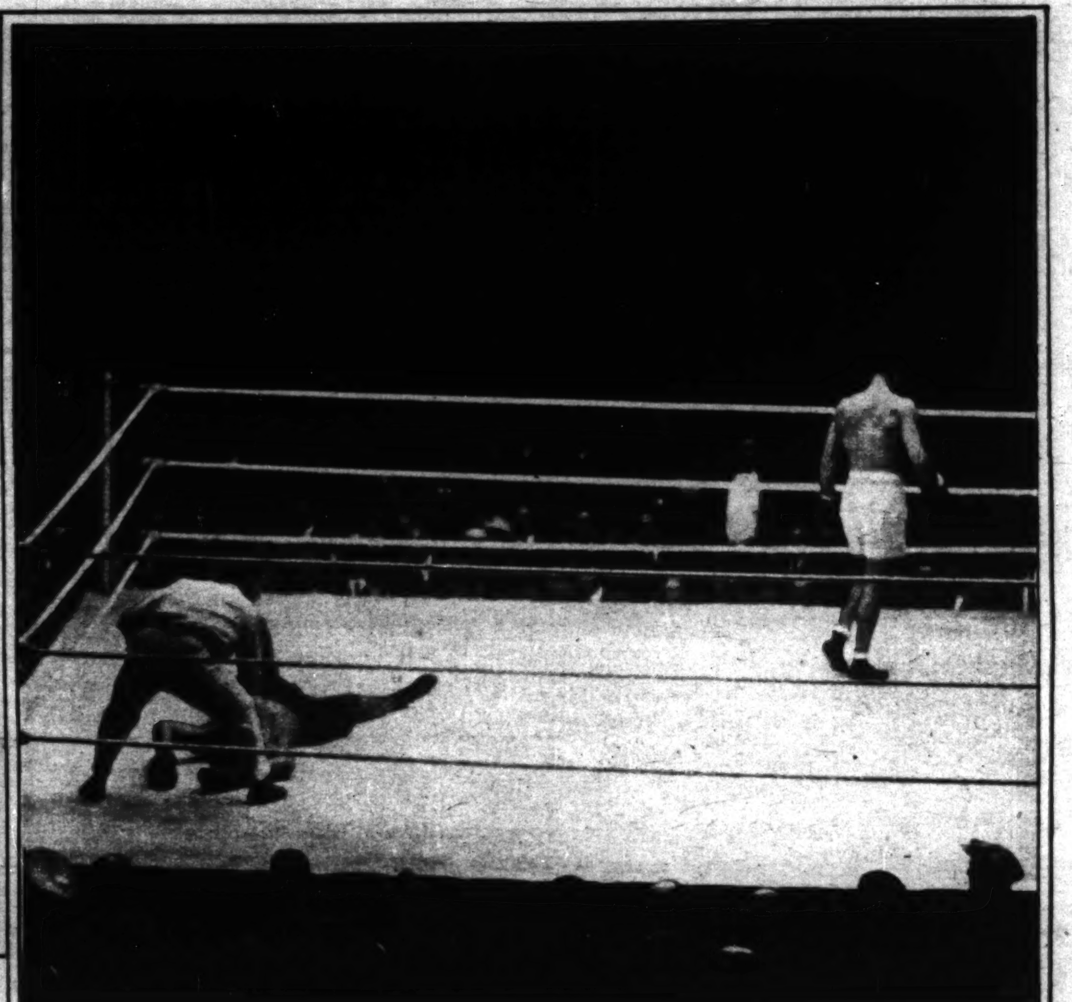
DEMPSEY CATAPULTED THROUGH THE ROPES by one of Firpo's tremendous right swings. The "Wild Bull of the Pampas" caught Jack off guard with this punch. Dempsey had floored the giant six times in the first round, and went in wide-open to finish his job. The game Firpo surprised him with a right that almost took the title to the Argentine.



WAS DEMPSEY HELPED BACK into the ring? This photo shows he crawled through the ropes without aid. But New Yorkers who saw the fight films say there is a cutout immediately following the blow which knocked Dempsey headlong into the press seats. If Dempsey really was helped back into the arena, it was a foul for which he could have been disqualified. The referee saw no such foul.



THE KNOCKOUT, with Firpo vainly trying to raise himself on his hands and knees. A murderous left to the body and a pile-driver right to the jaw sent him down for the eighth time in two rounds. Even Firpo's great strength was gone, and he rolled over on his back as the referee tolled off the fatal ten count.



STILL THE MIGHTY CHAMPION, Dempsey walks to his corner while the referee counts out the unconscious challenger from South America. Some 85,000 people paid $1,082,593 to see the battle. It lasted just three minutes and fifty-seven seconds. But it was worth the price, the critics said—the greatest heavyweight battle in ring history.

PRIZE·WINNERS of the FLEISCHMANN Yeast for Health CONTEST

The Fleischmann Health Contest closed August 15. But so tremendous was the response that the judges have been busy ever since—reading, comparing, deciding. Here, finally, are the 153 prize-winners—selected after careful consideration of thousands and thousands of reports.

This Contest has given us a new conception of the unique place won by Fleischmann's Yeast in millions of American homes. With such nation-wide enthusiasm—with such unanimous tribute to the power of Fleischmann's Yeast—with such a host of men and women to whom this fresh natural food has given new health and joy in life—it has been exceedingly difficult to narrow down the selection to 153.

Our sincerest thanks to each and every one who took part. So excellent were hundreds of reports which must go unrecognized that we regret there weren't prizes for all; but we want the authors to know that none will go unappreciated. And, as dozens of people put it; "whether I get a prize in this Contest or not, Fleischmann's Yeast has given me the biggest prize already—the prize of perfect health!" THE FLEISCHMANN COMPANY, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

READ THESE EXTRACTS FROM PRIZE-WINNING REPORTS:

"Constipation had become chronic," writes Mrs. Allan Ramsey. "As quickly as my system got accustomed to one remedy, I'd have to hunt a successor because it ceased to 'work'." Then she started eating Fleischmann's Yeast. "In two months my internal economy was operating like a well-oiled motor. Today my complexion is clear, I no longer catch cold at the slightest provocation, and I have none of the old-time drowsy dullness that accompanies constipation."

"The age of miracles is still here," asserts a New England lawyer, Ellery H. Clark, "Inside of a fortnight after beginning the Yeast treatment, I noticed a distinct improvement in my health; in a month I was a 'come-back'—literally a new man. Within a year I had regained the lost twenty pounds; my nerves steadied; my appetite returned. I am today in the pink of condition, and a convert for life to Fleischmann's Yeast."

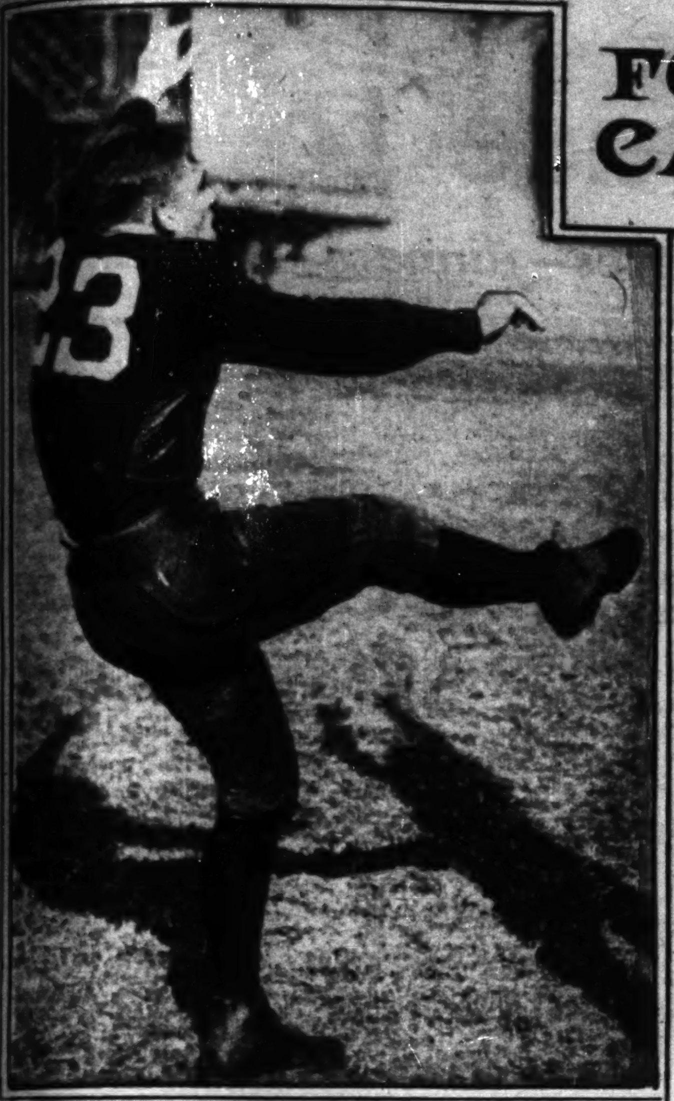
"When I began eating Fleischmann's Yeast," says a western lumberman, Wesley Ray, "I weighed 135 pounds. Now I weigh 183. But it isn't the added weight I want to tell you about—it's the different feeling. Before I began Yeast I felt like I imagine an old broken-down draft horse feels. Now I feel like a 2-year old colt."

"Years of strong medicines had not only deprived me of health but had ruined my teeth," writes Mrs. B. M. Moore, a former trained nurse. "I first tried Fleischmann's Yeast in a glass of milk, then I took three cakes a day, and soon realised I had never been sick—I had been starved. Fleischmann's Yeast changed my life. Now I weigh 123 and still gaining. Husband has a 'new wife' and the children a happy, patient mother."

"I didn't mind getting gray, but oh! how I hated to be fat," writes Mrs. Florence A. Locke, "Now I can stoop without puffing and am as slim as when a girl. Since taking Fleischmann's Yeast, some folks say I am the busiest woman in town. I know I am the happiest!"

"Picture a girl of twenty," says Mrs. Vermet, of Montreal, "with a face, head, and neck covered with sores. You can understand I was cynical at first about Yeast. But three months later you'd never have known that I ever had been disfigured. I feel like standing on a mountain top and telling the world about it!"

FOOTBALL CAPTAINS



CHICAGO'S GENERAL in the "Big Ten" conference campaign is Jimmy Pyott, an Oak Park boy. He is one of the Maroon's best bets in the back field.

(TRIBUNE photograph.)

MICHIGAN'S ALL-AMERICAN HALFBACK, Harry Kipke, will direct the Yost eleven. Kipke is one of the great punters of the day. He also is a marvel at advancing the ball under most trying conditions.

(TRIBUNE photograph.)

ILLINOIS' captain is John W. McMillen. His sterling play at guard last year made him an almost universal choice for the All Conference team which the experts select each year after the season's battles are over.

(TRIBUNE photograph.)

NORTHWESTERN has chosen William McElwain to guide its gridiron warriors. Bill rates highly as a back field man. He has a pet grievance—football fans will insist upon calling him a "boy wonder." Bill insists he's grown out of the boy class.

(TRIBUNE photograph.)

OHIO STATE has intrusted its command to Boni Petcoff, tackle. Ohio hopes his work in the line will land the Buckeyes right up at the top in the Big Ten championship struggle.

Do you now refuse to go, to theatres – dinners – dances where filmy gowns – low cut – demand exquisite skin?

Let these – Beauty Secrets
of Monsieur VIVAUDOU restore your complexion and the beauty of your skin.

Are you embarrassed by the havoc summer winds and sunshine have played with your skin and complexion?

Do you feel compelled to refuse attractive invitations (perhaps from "the only man" – the invitations you would most like to accept) rather than risk exposure of your neck and shoulders, in an evening gown, to the gaze of your critical sisters?

If so, be comforted!

For, with the aid of the Beauty Secrets of Monsieur Vivaudou —"world's greatest beauty scientist"—you may quickly, and easily restore the natural beauty of your skin and complexion. Read, in the descriptions below, about these Beauty Secrets and what they will do. Then get them quickly, and use as directed. You will soon be able to accept any invitation, and be proud as ever of your appearance. You will be the envy of admiring eyes, instead of an object of pity.

The Beauty Secrets of Monsieur Vivaudou are most potent in restoring beauty, after summer sun and wind have done their utmost to ruin your skin and complexion.

It is easy to get these Beauty Secrets at the toilet goods counter in high grade department stores and drug stores. Ask for Vivaudou's Beauty Secrets. You'll find all the sales people know them well—and recommend them highly.

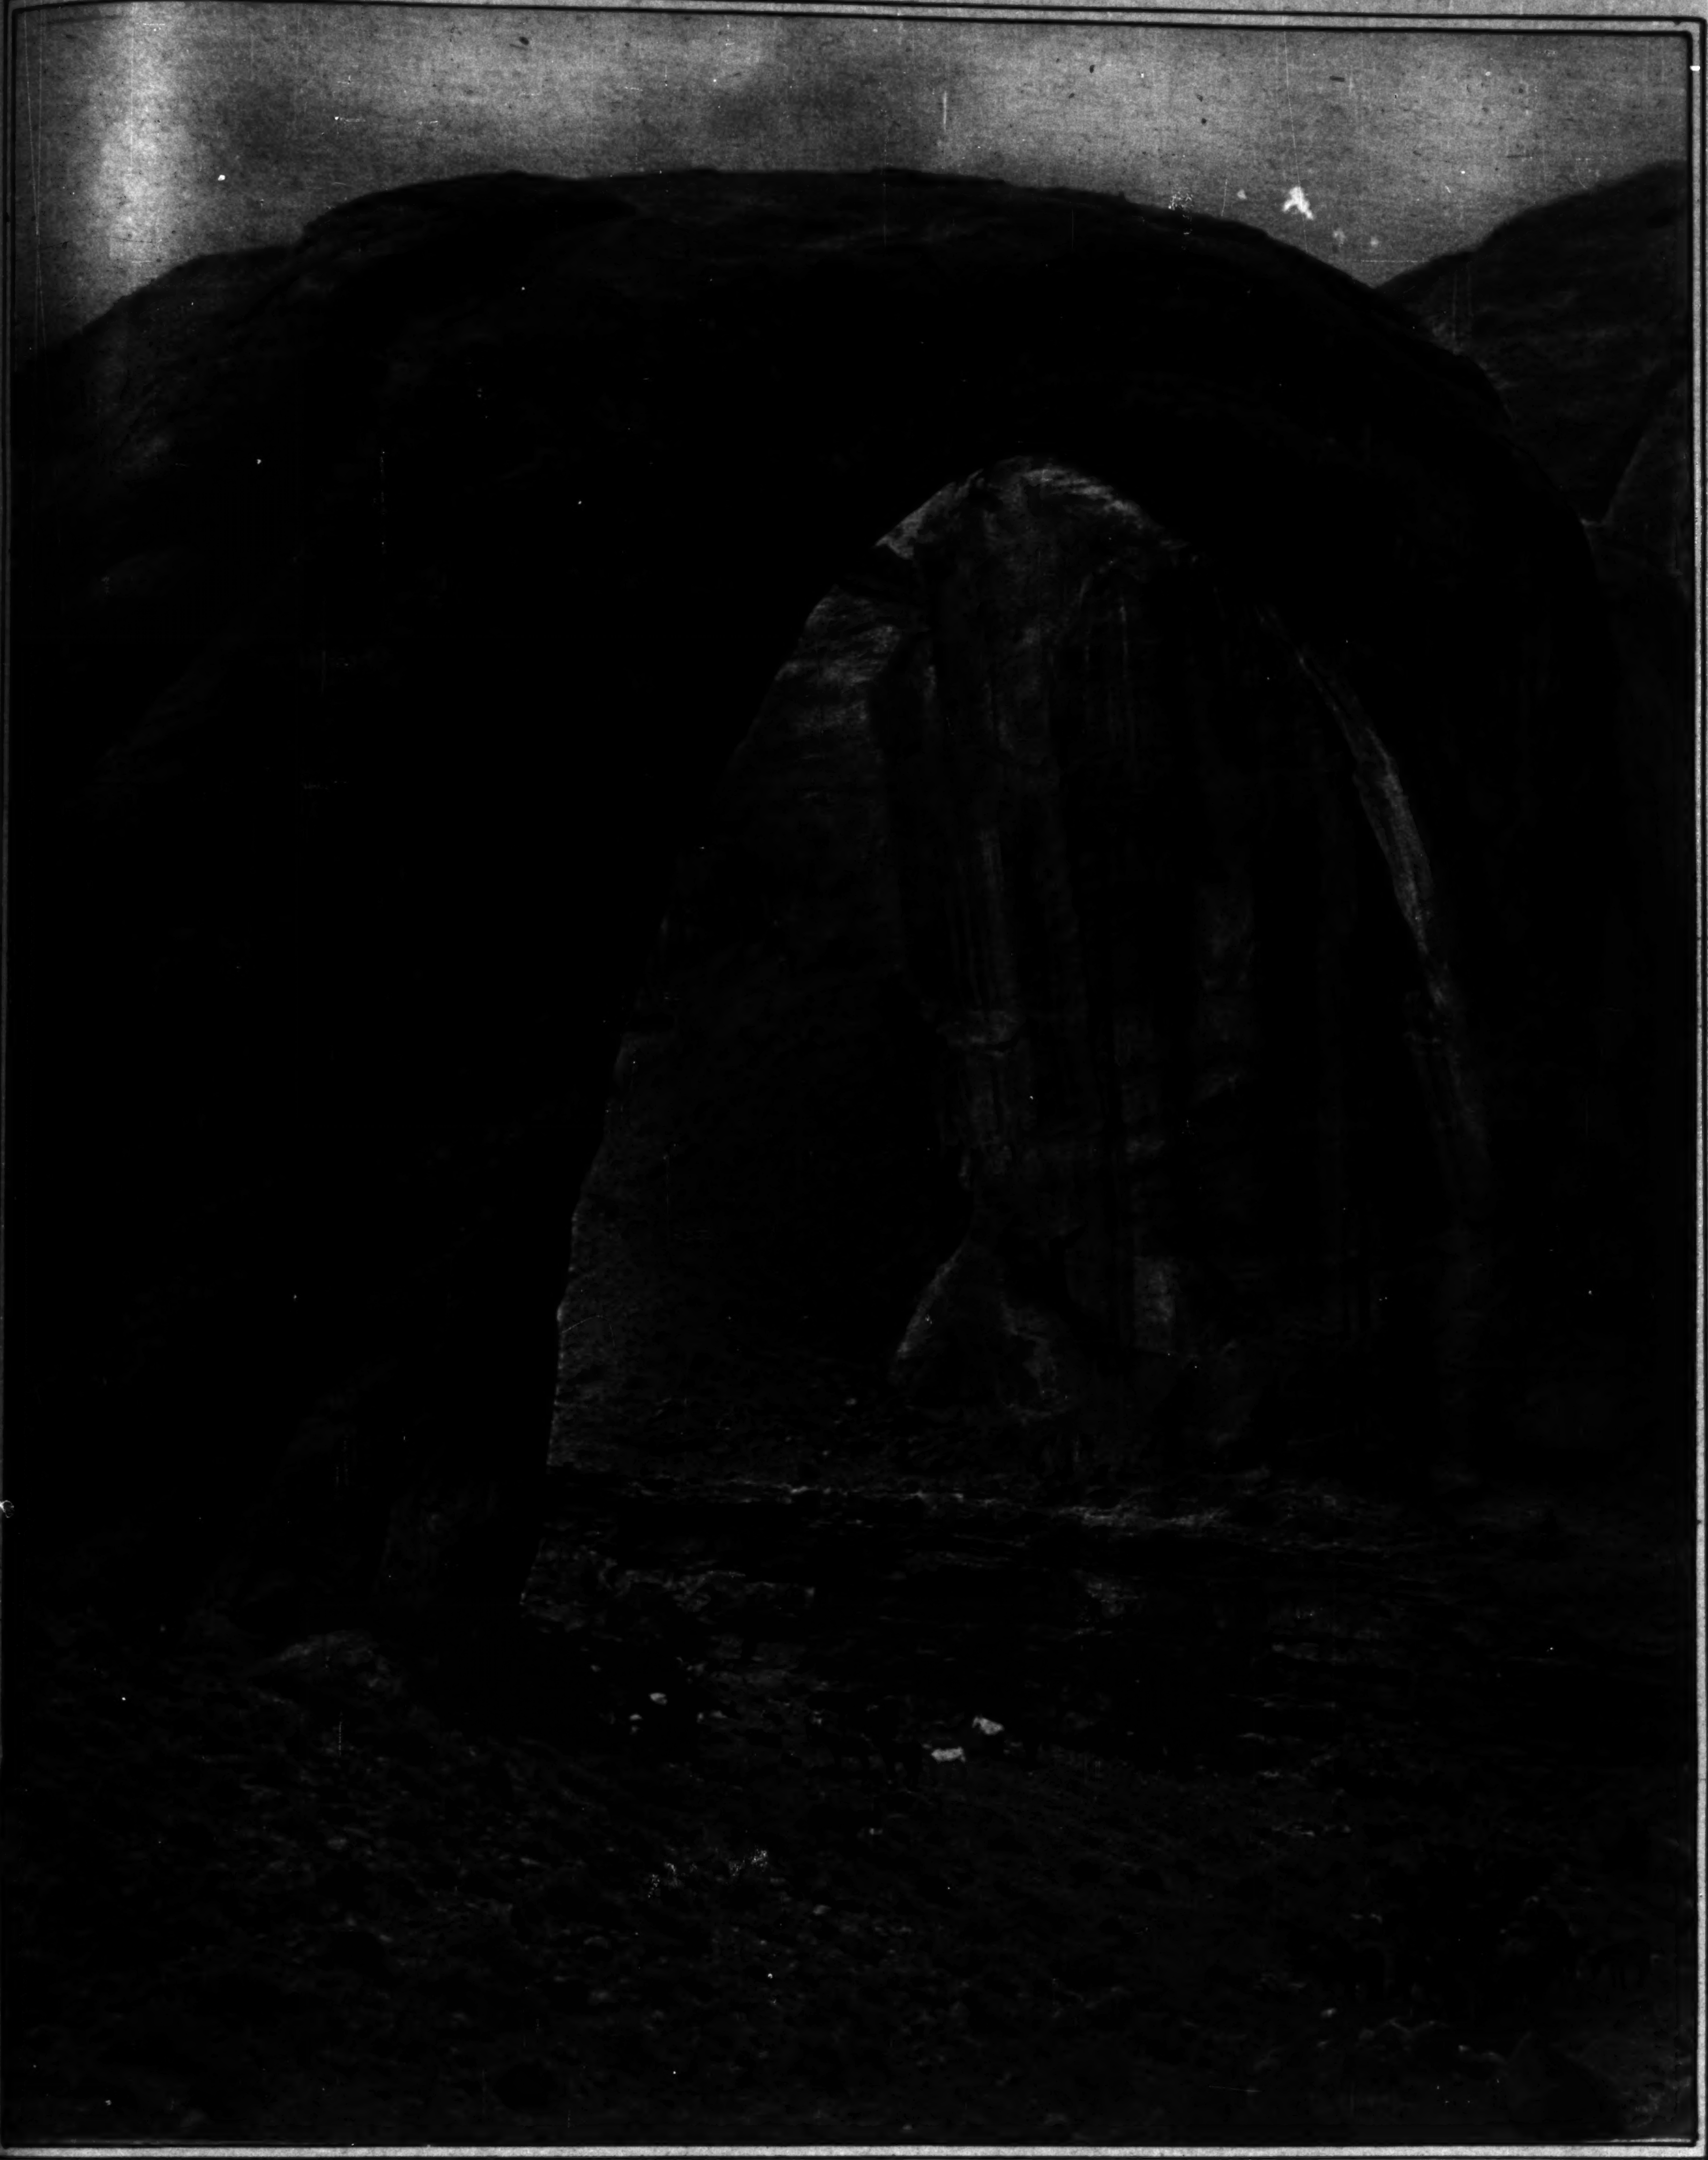
SEE AMERICA FIRST



THE GREATEST BRIDGE IN THE WORLD is Rainbow natural bridge in southern Utah, near the Arizona line. Discovered in 1909, it has been visited by only about 200 whites. The Navaho Indians call it Nonnezoshe. The bridge is 309 feet high, with a span of 275 feet. The Capitol at Washington could be placed under the arch, with room to spare. Four miles away the hardy tourist can see the bridge from atop Navaho mountain, but it requires two days and thirty-five miles of hard traveling to reach it.

NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS

Blue Ribbon Fiction

BY Maria Thompson Daviess

Magic Moonlight Helped the Bootlegging Lothario Lead Her Into a Desperate Situation; It Made an Odd Case for the Interesting Young Sheriff.

GIDEON WYCKLIFF is the kind of man who arrives in a perfectly innocent town and plants nice little discords in every bunch of women friends into which he glides. He never makes men jealous of him; consequently, they like him; make him one in all their high sign orders and introduce him everywhere. Women like him because he allows them to flaunt him for the purpose of making all their friends jealous, but keeps himself out of the mixups with an all-man toploftiness.

I intrigued him—or I thought I did—right out of Clarissa May's hands, and I loved him for his gentleness in dragging himself from her clutch. Cliss is my best earthly friend. She has a mind like a Mexican dagger stuck in a silk stocking, and I think she knows that she is the best plus.

"Kate," she said to me, with one of her serene looks which always mean danger to me or one of our mutual enemies, "don't forget to remember that Gideon Wyckliff never scalped your best doll or swung your white kitten by its tail, as Billy Hughes or Tom Buchanan used to do. Be careful how you play with him. You're a whale of a highbrow and supersophisticated, but you're awfully simple in spots."

She then proceeded to point her eyebrows in front of the mirror in the dressing room of the golf club, where we had met from the ballroom for repairs.

"Well, he has resided in our midst long enough to win you—win you for a good friend, it seems, Cliss," I answered, partly in cattish vein. I live in loving concord with Cliss, but it's hard. She adventures broadly whenever and wherever she chooses, but cautions me.

"Perhaps," she answered, as she put a noncommittal dab of powder on her chin and deftly swirled it out. She knows exactly how to goad me into being insulting.

"You were seen frequenting a strange car with an entirely strange man last Thursday, about whom I have failed to ask or lecture you," I exploded.

"The man was strange to your informant, you mean," she corrected me, kindly. "Because, of course, Bess Condon told you. But every one who reads a paper in this town knows Timberlake Welles, if they have not had the honor of meeting him face to face."

"Oh!" I cried. "You mean the sheriff, who's catching bootleggers every other minute and turning their whisky into jail instead of drinking it up or selling it all, as the other catchers do? I look in every newspaper for what he does every morning. It's as good as the sportlights!"

"And his choice sport is putting the dishonest 'catchers'—you mean deputies—as well as the poor bootleggers in padlocked rooms in the jail and penitentiary. Nobody he arrests is safe."

"Where did he come from, anyway?" I asked, past my powder puff.

"He's the best known lawyer out in Goodletts, but he's the sheriff of the county because he believes law enforcement is the salvation of us all. He speaks of it in the same tone one uses for religion. He's a wonderful man."

"You always are the first to sight big game, Cliss," I said in real envy. "Don't spoil him until I see him in the wild state."

"Couldn't be done—he's not that kind.'

"How and where did he discover you?"

"Somebody has been bootlegging into this club, and he officially asked me over the hedge, while I was practicing teeing out on the course, to come outside and tell on whoever it was. I came when commanded, got in his car, drove out the road far enough for Bess to meet me, and was most courteously returned to my bag of golf sticks—as an unprofitable vein."

"Couldn't you even tell him enough to amuse him?"

"No! If I had known anything definite I'm afraid I would have given it to him; as I say, he's wonderful—really."

"Little hot Scotches do hop around this club rather unafraid, don't they? Gideon and Billy even discarded teacups for glasses last night. Gideon seems to go to Billy's head," I mused through a hairpin.

"That is one of the points in the call-down I am going to deliver while you stand patiently and take it. Something must be——"

Just at this point Henrietta Wright ruffled herself in the door.

"Gideon Wyckliff asked me to tell you he is waiting for you at the side door with your car parked to the left of the entrance gate," she said to me as she began to assault her broad face with powder and a heavy hand.

"You are not motoring tonight?" Cliss half asked and half commended, with a quick glance from which I fled before she caught me.

I tried my best to slip out of the club, but my morals were assaulted by one of my best friends on the steps of the side porch.

"Drinks—supposedly of sulphur water—at the pavilion at twelve forty-five tonight. Better get back," whispered Bess Condon. "Pirtle's got a half case of Scotch, but he's afraid to serve it in the club grounds. We're all going across the road to the public pavilion over the Sulphur Spring—nobody will be there at midnight. Do come."

"All right," I answered as I ran down the steps past her.

MY heart was as light as my feet as I hurried out to where I saw Gideon beside my blue car. Two men were talking to him, and they moved away as they saw me coming. One was Pirtle, the steward of the club, and he touched his bare forehead as he passed me.

"Who was the man with Pirtle?" I asked as I settled into my seat back of my wheel and stepped on the gas. One of the most subtle weapons a man can use against a woman is to make her feel he thinks she can drive her own—nay, any—car better than he possibly could. Gideon Wyckliff is that sort, and, besides, he has no car of his own—he uses ours and us.

"That was the steward of the Capitol club, Gleaves. Nice chap! Let's take the Paradise Ridge road. I want to make love to you."

I didn't answer him, but turned Bluecar out towards Paradise Ridge, silvery dim in the moonlit distance. The scent of honey locusts and the tang of plowed fields beat against us as we rode with the south wind, on and up the hills, in a wildly exciting race to get away from—or to—love. I was not sure which, so I drove like mad.

The fact that a woman enjoys a reputation for being an expert in love stuff is no proof she knows a thing about it really—she is probably an awful amateur kind of experimenter. My girl friends think a lot of men fall in love with me, but they don't. All men like me because I am really interested in what interests them and let them tell me all about it.

A man can look just as devoted, and more so, if you sit with him off in the corner and let him whisper how he is going to do a man across the room in a business deal tomorrow as when he is giving you soft suitor sayings. Using such perfectly honest methods, a woman could parade a hundred suitors by reputation who were really just genuine friends whom she can heckle and persuade at will.

Still, sometimes I have suspected myself of being a freak. For it is the truth that I was, until lately, a husky young woman; I'm led to believe rather easy to look at; free, happy, and twenty-one, and had never been kissed—except damply by Billy, Tom, or the rest in puppy-love pets. I have never liked the idea, and I sidestepped the real thing. How was I to size up a real lover when I met him in the road?

Then into my youngness Clarissa introduced Gideon Wyckliff. It was at the Capitol club New Year's ball, and I danced part of every dance with him. Clarissa tantalized me with him for six weeks, and by the middle of May I was alone with him on the Paradise Ridge road, going like mad.

"Stop!" he finally ordered me, and laid his hand over mine on the wheel. "Let me look down over this ledge into Happy Valley."

I ran Bluecar to the edge of the ledge and obediently stopped. Just below us I could see a few dimmed lights clustered around one bright arc light.

"Is that Newtonville?" Gideon asked me as he leaned forward and peered over the precipice.

"Yes. The lights look like stars in a pool of moonlight. That arc is at the railroad station. Shall we go on?"

I put my hand on the starter, but found it immediately engulfed by both of Gideon's. Up to that minute in my life I hadn't met fear, but with a pounding heart I looked in Gideon's face. Oh! I was frightened, and I didn't know why. Then Gideon smiled into my eyes with a blazing, blinding radiance which made my brain reel. I drew back, but he took me gently enough into his arms and kissed me in a way which I am sure few men are artistic enough to perfect. I suspect most good men and true of being awkward of arms and lips when the real woman—but I can't be sure—yet.

At any rate, out there on the edge of the world, Gideon Wyckliff initiated me into the mysteries of romantic dalliance with such high art that no shocks troubled my green emotions. He carefully and skillfully led me up to a sort of mediaeval eighteenth century state of mind, in which a woman longs for picturesque sacrifice to prove her loyalty to her hero, and he anchored me there.

Then, with my head between his palms, he worshipfully asked me to break the law of my state and put myself in danger of the penitentiary for him and, in case of disaster, with him. My heart was filling my whole body with excited gallops, and my brain, I am now sure, had entirely swooned.

"Whatever you want of me is yours," I answered him in words suitable to a bewitched woman. He held me strongly and let my rattling heart take a breath against his, which it needed. I became liquid ready for him to pour into any mold. As things came out, I am thankful for that half hour just for the sake of testing the values of others—but it had to end.

"At last I've found a woman with a sense of adventure that matches mine. We must have sprung from the loins of two old pirates who sank each other's smuggling galleys in midocean. It's breath in my nostrils to beat the game." As he thus exulted he again brushed my mouth with eager lips.

"Tell me just what to do and I'll do it," I said with the same adventurous flare in my voice as was in his, but in plain rather than flowering words.

"Wonderful woman! This is the whole layout. From different people in different places up in the Dark and Bloody Ground I have collected about a hundred gallons of the best whisky produced by that famous state in the last fifteen years, and right under the eye of the law itself have had it put up in half gallon molasses cans in a little canning factory which usually deals with sorghum cane.

"For six months I have been skylarking around, placing it with choice friends and friends of friends. Good fun, you know! And it makes them listen when you talk selling coal and iron stocks to them. Old Colonel Stanley Cartwright sent me to Billy Hughes' father, your club president, and I've planted forty gallons around the club, along with a lot of Coal and Iron Preferred. Pirtle is to jingle the discreet keys and collect the cash. The Capitol club, through Gleaves, has taken thirty gallons. It's really great sport, especially with you in it." As he spoke he tilted my chin and administered another narcotic pet on the northeast corner of my mouth.

"What'll we do if we get caught?" I asked right past the kiss in a rather small voice for a bold and adventurous law breaker. From reading about some results obtained by Clarissa's Sheriff Timberlake I knew how near the state prison loomed to Gideon's scheme, and my kiss-drugged mind would keep asserting itself against the adventure.

"Not a chance of being caught. Here's the plan: The night accommodation from Louisville passes Newtonville and stops there at the station near the crossroads grocery. It delivers all freight, and tonight it puts off two crates of molasses cans, billed to the storekeeper, who is my man. About that time we arrive, and, if all is well, we'll take oh the whisky half of the cans, while the rest, of real sorghum, go on his shelves right in full sight, as a blind. Repeat tomorrow and next night! Perfectly simple and exciting!"

"But the papers say a terror of a sheriff has bootleg lookouts on all the roads into town," I found myself saying.

"Lookouts, yes; but they'll not be looking out for such a bootlegger as you. If they should stop you they'll be dazzled and let you go before they look under the seats and into the box of the car. You've got a deadly charm, and you'll use it. I know I can trust you for that, because you are so bewitching I want to sit right here with you in my arms and let all that perfectly nice whisky get away from me. Don't turn your face away from me." But I was releasing the brake and feeding the spark, so that I could not take time for petting.

"On our way," I said, tingling with the sport of running the blockade. But suddenly a picture of the state's prison rose in my mind. "Anyway, it's a handsome building," I answered myself, recklessly and out loud.

"What?" Gideon asked; but just then I cut a daring corner around a downgrade that took his breath completely.

IT consumed only a few minutes, with my knowledge of the byways and hedges of Paradise Ridge, for us to slide down into the valley to the road, about a mile beyond the crossroads store.

"Stop in that cedar glade just before you get to the store,” my knight directed in a low and thrilling tone of voice and manner. “I'll go down, and we'll bring the crate around the back way. Keep out of sight.”

“Certainly, officer, look us over well.”

Being still in the mediaeval age state of mind, I did as he told me—partly. I let him get out and slip into the shadow of the dark cedars, but in a few minutes, regardless of the fact that I was a furtive law breaker, I padded across the road, climbed a stone wall, and filled my arms full of gorgeous honey locust blossoms from two gnarly old trees which scratched my hands in vigorous protest at being robbed.

I had hardly got back to the car when I heard cautious footsteps under the trees and saw Gideon and another man carrying a large crate between them. They set it down on the off side of Bluecar and rapidly packed cans from it into the bottom of the back of the car, shoving a lot into the box. Being a friendly soul, I had bought an unstylishly friendly car, so as to take on all I wanted in the way of friends at all times. And Bluecar absorbed many quarts of old bourbon that night as I sat and watched. After they had fitted into place the last square can with its picture of a sorghum tassel on its face I threw my locust boughs back over the lot.

“Good camouflage,” laughed Gideon as he nodded a dismissal to the grocery man, lit a cigaret, swung himself in, and put his arm around me. “With such a comrade at arms—or, rather, within arms—as you, the world is ours. Let's go!”

We went like the wind. And then we were stopped! From the first moment I knew we had just as well drive right on out into the state's prison. Escape never entered my mind, and Gideon, in his hurry, failed to put it there.

We were coasting merrily down Melvin hill on the edge of town, and Gideon was saying choice things with his lips against my ear, which made my heart race dangerously, when a car coming towards us suddenly turned itself across the road in front of us and one of the two men in it held up his hand.

I stopped, and, with an oath under his breath, but with no word to me, Gideon slid to the road. As he walked to the front of Bluecar he met one of the men from the racer in front of us.

“I'm sorry to trouble you, sir,” said a nice, firm, smooth voice, and as he spoke the man took off his hat to me, “but I'm inspecting cars going into town tonight for contraband liquor. It'll only take a minute.”

“Certainly, officer; look us over well,” replied Gideon, and I saw him glance up the road to where the owl interurban was coming at a slow speed upgrade. And, as if to get well out of the matter of the search, he walked to the track side of the road and lit a cigaret. And he did get out of the situation while the getting was good—to this day we don't know how, and I wish he would write to us from Shanghai and tell us how he managed to step aboard that flying car and disappear completely, forever. He must have some sort of wings—there are many patterns since Lucifer's day. The officer in the road didn't even attempt a shot, but just stood looking after him.

“My first complete get-away this season,” he said as he turned slowly towards me after he had treated himself to a low whistle. “I'm sorry, madam, but you are left alone to tell the tale. Let's have it.”

“The truth and the whole truth is that there is a crate full of cans packed under the locust blossoms, and my name is Katheryn Merritt, eight sixteen Westlake avenue,” I answered, pertly, but with breath that I seemed to be drawing from a tank in my chest from which I had not before pumped.

“Thank you,” he said, as if I had done him a great personal favor; “and I will have to trouble you to come into my car while I put my deputy into yours to drive your load safely into—into custody.”

“Do I go to jail with the cans?” I asked as I climbed swiftly down and started with him towards his car while the deputy climbed into mine.

He didn't answer, but helped me in and then swung in beside me.

“Am I arrested?” I asked.

“You are,” he answered, and glanced down at me with a grave look that had real pity in it.

“Well, I feel safe from—from him, anyway,” I said, with a sigh, as I settled myself down beside my captor, while my brain cleared and my heart began its usual steady pace.

“I can see how any woman would feel that way,” he answered me, and between the sounds of his words I read just what he thought of Gideon Wyckliff's flight from me—and him.

“I prefer to be in the hands of the law rather than his,” I said, with my teeth in a grit.

“I understand,” he said as we turned off the road into the street that led to the public square, in which the jail was situated. Then he slowed down his car, looked me full in the face, and said:

“Miss Merritt, I want you to realize just how serious your situation is, and I don't want you to talk about it to me or any one else until you have conferred with the lawyer you must employ immediately.”

“How serious is it?” I asked, and I surprised myself that I was not in the least frightened. I had looked for a second into the face of a real, and what I now know was a justifiable, fear out on the lonely hillside with Gideon Wyckliff, and this quiet, courteous, steady-eyed man couldn't raise a ripple of terror in me after my deliverance from that.

“If you are proved guilty of what you seem to have been doing the penalty of the law is from six months to three years in the penitentiary. I had full particulars of this whole sorghum molasses scheme except that you would be in it—and that's why I don't want you to talk—even to me.” Then he looked at me with such compassion that I simply could not be frightened by him, and nothing I could do could keep me from enjoying myself.

“He said it was great sport and no danger—but he didn't know about you,” I was beginning to say.

“Sport all right, with five thousand dollars if he pulled it off. He won in Memphis and St. Louis, but——”

“Is he a professional?” I gasped.

“He is—but let's not talk,” admonished the officer; then sat silent and troubled of countenance.

“THERE'LL be no magistrate awake before whom I could commit you at this hour of the night,” he broke his stern silence to say. “I can send an officer home with you to keep you in sight until morning. I don't like to take you to the jail to detain you the rest of the night.” Kindness fairly beaded his voice and eyes.

“I'd rather go to jail than to wake grandfather up to let in a policeman arresting me. You don't know grandfather,” I hastened to say. “Grandfather is all the family I have, and I am his only kin. We are rather severe on each other, and if I have to bring this down on him tomorrow morning I know I had best not wake him in the middle of the night.”

“Of course, to detain you at the jail is the regular procedure, and I have no authority to send you home. I'll make it as easy for you as I can.”

“Could you lock me up and guard me yourself?” I asked, and as I spoke I was conscious of the fact that I had moved closer to him as a child clings with fright.

“Why—er—yes, I suppose I could,” he answered, and his keen eyes snapped and his lips almost unlashed a smile, but not quite.

“Then I'd love it—that is jail!” I exclaimed with delight at the certainty of being for the immediate present rescued from grandfather in his night cap and all other fear.

“No,” he answered, and I saw his eyes and mouth go grave in a second, “you won't like jail—it's not for you—damn that—God, what am I going to do?” The fear I somehow seemed unable to feel showed in his voice.

“I don't mind just for tonight if you'll lock yourself in with me,” I hastened to comfort him.

“I won't have to lock you up until I have committed you before the magistrate—I've just got to keep you in sight. Won't you let me take you home—and—and sit with you, say, on your front steps to fulfill the law I'm obliged by oath to fulfill?” he fairly pleaded with me.

“That will be the very thing—only let's make it the back steps, so as not to wake grandfather. In the morning, after he's had his coffee, we can safely go in and get some breakfast with him. Then he'll go with us to commit and jail me,” I exclaimed with joyous hospitality.

“Do you still fail to understand what has happened to you, or are you just plucky?” he asked me as he turned his car in the direction of my home.

“Neither,” I answered. “If you hadn't told me not to talk I could tell you what almost happened to me tonight, from which you saved me, that pales all your penitentiary threat into nothing, but you said——”

“Yes, you mustn't talk about yourself—or—Wyckliff tonight,” he said, with a grim look superceding the admiration for my seeming courage in his face. Just then he turned into the avenue and stopped across the street down a little way from my front door.

“Follow me, and tiptoe through the garden,” I said, as we crossed the dead quiet moonlit street.

We passed with safety under grandfather's window, because the bed of lilies of the valley was a fragrant carpet under our feet, crowded between the flowering almond and Old Purple lilac, and sank upon the top back step in great relief. Two blowsy rows of pink peonies sentineled the walk that stretched away from us to the back gate, and a little budding early rose swung from the back door and snarled at our elbow. The good old moon was still on her job of chaperoning me and lit us up like a cool day.

"It's lovely, isn't it?" I asked as we settled down, side by side. "Won't you smoke?"

HE did, and while he did we talked. I believe in salvaging all you can out of any kind of disaster, and as the law had started in to smash me I wanted to know all I could about the law. Now was a dandy chance. I began by trying to get all the information possible about bootlegging, but my guest evaded so many of my questions that I shifted to divorce, with all its ramifications, because I might have had to get one from Gideon Wyckliff if I hadn't got caught bootlegging instead. After a while I found we were talking about international law and universal peace and things that no man had ever condescended to talk about with me before. We went deeper and deeper and dreamed higher about what could come to mankind and womankind if only they individually were square with each other and kept the golden rule, which was all law in the making. It rather surprised me that he could be so choicely eloquent, but he was the first constable I had ever talked to, and how did I know but what they are all deeply attractive men?

It is weird how time speeds away from you when you are interested, and when daylight came he was just telling me about how—when he came back from France with his regiment—the Statue of Liberty had suddenly loomed at him out of a cloud in New York harbor. The first sunbeam brought me down out of his cloud, and I beheld it gilding my white dancing frock.

"Oh, grandfather has an inhumanly early breakfast!" I exclaimed. "I'll just have time to get into some daylight clothes, if you'll excuse me." Then I stopped short, for a troubled expression had come into his eyes, embarrassed and—and pitying. I remembered that he was in honor bound to keep me in sight, and, just as embarrassed as he, I sank back on my step. "Please, Oh, please, don't feel badly about me. I really am all right, and I don't mind jail in these clothes," I was pleading when Lily Pearl brushed into the situation with a broom and dust pan. Lily Pearl is coal black, modern African, and has wits which she keeps about her. She looked as if she was accustomed to seeing me sitting on the back steps at sun-up with a policeman any old day. She was about to make a discreet retreat when the officer stopped her.

"Wait a minute," he commanded. "I appoint you as a deputy constable to take my prisoner up to her room to change her clothes. Then return her to me, or suffer the penalty of the law. Here's your badge of office," and he handed her a badge out of his pocket. "Perfectly legal, since she has her franchise, I assure you," he said to me.

Then Lily Pearl arose and shone in her affection for me. She was the color of coal ashes, but spoke firmly.

"Say, Mister Officer," she said, with a gulp, "whatever Miss Kate am arrested fer I done it myself. I done bin to jail, but it would kill her."

"Lily Pearl, you are the real thing," I said as I put my arm around her trembling shoulders. "Come on, before he changes his mind," and I drew her up the back steps with me.

True to her appointment, Lily Pearl stood strictly and literally by me for an hour, then returned me, refreshed and blue linen clad, to the officer on the back steps.

"You are all right, Lily Pearl; here's your fee," he said, and he exchanged a greenback for the badge. Then Lily Pearl hurried in to serve grandfather's coffee and give me the signal for our entrance as soon as he had drunk it.

In a few minutes she called, and with a great manner I swept into the dining room with my policeman behind me, expecting an immediate explosion, which I received, only of a different kind from what I had expected.

"Why, Timberlake Welles, where did you come from this time of the morning? But this, or any time, you are welcome!" grandfather exclaimed as he shook hands with my captor, his face wreathed in smiles.

Timberlake Welles! I might have known! The impulse to rush off to the telephone to tell the whole thing to Clarissa, was almost too strong in me, but I was stopped by seeing and hearing grandfather handed the bomb.

Mr. Welles was quiet, rapid, and business-like in telling grandfather his facts of my case, and if I expected any explosion I was disappointed. The expression on grandfather's face simply froze my whole body into a kind of terror, for he grew white and his eyes sank back into his head.

"Have a cup of coffee, both of you, while I telephone Harris Grafton to meet us at the Magistrates' court," he directed in a controlled voice and without a glance in my direction. "He's the best criminal lawyer in town, eh, Welles?"

With my head up in the air, I poured the steaming coffee into the two cups and held my hand steady as I passed Mr. Welles' to him. Lily Pearl had been standing helpless and trembling behind me. Then, in a few minutes, the three of us went out the front door and across to his car. Grandfather's lips were set in a grim line, but his old knees trembled a bit, so that Mr. Welles helped him into the back seat. Then he turned towards me and held out his hand to help me, with his lips and eyes firm and grave.

"Will you stay right by me through all of it, whatever it is?" I asked, as I laid my hand, which was cold and beginning to tremble, in his.

"Every advantage I can get for you you shall have," he answered me, looking straight into my eyes. Only six weird, adventurous moonlit hours had I spent with that man, and yet somehow I trusted him to help me through this terrible adventure—some way.

While he drove us into town I told grandfather all about it, and I could see him grow whiter and stiller.

"You knew he had whisky concealed in those cans and where he intended to sell it?" was the first question he asked me. Grandfather is a retired judge, and he was handling me professionally.

"I did. I knew his whole plan, but not until just a few minutes before we began to carry it out," I answered.

"You did not know of it when you left town with him?"

"No."

"There's a chance—ignorance—infatuation—coercion," grandfather was muttering to himself, trying out each word as he whispered it—words that insulted everything in my nature. Then it was that my soul turned over and shuddered. What wouldn't those men do to me to save me from imprisonment? I was in their hands, and they could shatter the integrity of my whole life if they chose by dragging me again in open court through that half hour out on Paradise Ridge cliff when I was not myself and was made Gideon Wyckliff's tool.

To have to admit myself an infatuated fool to Clarissa and Billy and Bess and the rest—I, who had held my head so high! And what would they believe of me, found willing to break the law at a man's bidding, a man who promptly abandoned me to the consequences? "Infatuated fool!" I could not bear it! I almost stretched out my hands to the broad shoulders of the representative of the law which was hounding me to beg him to protect me from it and himself. Then he turned and spoke with pitying gentleness.

"Miss Merritt, your car is standing over in the yard, under guard. Is there any personal thing you would like to have out of it—before it is turned in?" As he spoke he stopped before a dingy building I knew to be the city hall, with the jail behind it.

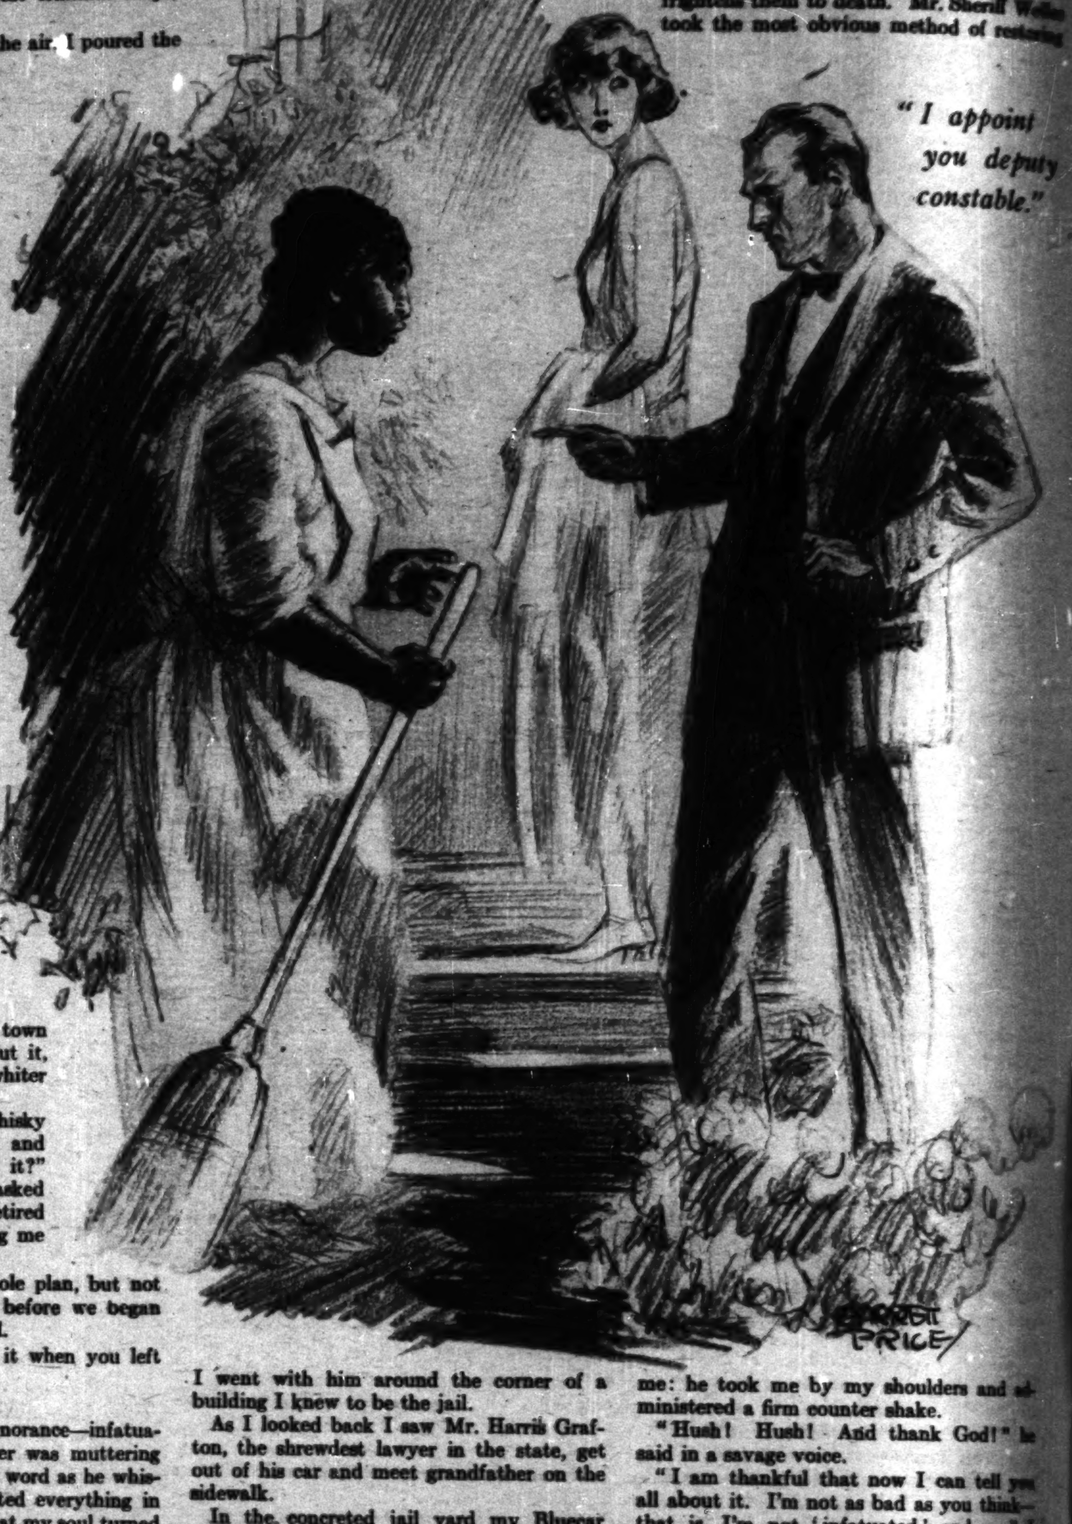
"Turned in?" I asked, dazedly.

"Yes. I'm sorry, but the law confiscates all vehicles caught loaded with contraband."

I love that Bluecar as I do Clarissa. But I saw that the law is a dangerous stone wall for a woman to run a car against.

"Thank you—I don't know. I always leave so many things in the car. Could I look?" I faltered.

"Certainly—come with me," he said, and I went with him around the corner of a building I knew to be the jail.



"I appoint you deputy constable."

As I looked back I saw Mr. Harris Grafton, the shrewdest lawyer in the state, get out of his car and meet grandfather on the sidewalk.

In the concreted jail yard my Bluecar was standing, with two policemen guarding it. It was dusty and splattered, but the heap of dying locust blossoms was still bravely sending out perfume, as if to help the situation.

"They had orders not to unload it except in my presence, but I will help you get to the pockets by moving the cans about," said Mr. Sheriff Welles as he lifted the faded boughs gently.

Then, suddenly, a black rage possessed me. Those squat, homely tin cans with the sorghum picture and innocent lettering, "Old Sweetning," seemed incarnate devils to humiliate me, "an infatuated fool!" In a second I struck out at them. I picked one up and, with all my might, I smashed it on the curb.

One of the police guard started towards me, and Sheriff Timberlake Welles came around the car—then we all stood still and amazed. Did priceless old bourbon gurgle into the gutter, mingling its perfume with that of the honey locusts? It did not. A black gaub oozed out on the curb and spread out on the pavement—rich, juicy molasses of the best kind.

"Sorghum!" exclaimed Sheriff Timberlake Welles in the same joy voice he would have used if I had unearthed the Russian crown jewels.

The two policemen turned their backs, and I could see their shoulders were shaking with what they considered a joke on their chief.

"They put in the wrong crate!" I exclaimed.

And suddenly I began to laugh, too, the sobby, shaking laughter that comes to a woman when she either gives in to or is retrieved from a tragedy, and which most men do not know how to manage, though it frightens them to death. Mr. Sheriff Welles took the most obvious method of restoring me: he took me by my shoulders and administered a firm counter shake.

"Hush! Hush! And thank God!" he said in a savage voice.

"I am thankful that now I can tell you all about it. I'm not as bad as you think—that is, I'm not 'infatuated,' and——" I gasped as I clung to him there behind those convulsed constables' backs.

"Well, I am; but let's go tell Judge Merritt about the molasses," he answered in a cool voice, as he settled me firmly on my feet and failed to give even one glance at my face, which I knew to be radiant.

"You can have the sorghum if you will take it out of my car," I said to one of the policemen, who had, by that time, turned half around.

"And see that you stick your mouths tight with it," their chief growled in a tone of voice which made me sure no other citizen in the country, save, of course, Clarissa Mayes, would ever know of my and the sorghum's adventure.

"I sweetly escaped the state's prison, didn't I?" I had the audacity to ask the serious sheriff as we walked back up the street to grandfather.

"Some day you'll go up against something you can't escape," he growled at me with a determined glint in his eyes, but the leashed smile strained so that at last it was freed.

I wonder!

A FEMININE CONSCIENCE

By Owen Oliver

Deliberately She Made the Mistake in Old Jacob's Will; and It Presented a Difficult Problem for the Masculine Conscience.

SOME people regard the typist as part of the machine. Others regard the machine as part of the typist. It is merely a difference in point of view, but it makes a difference in the regard of the typist. There was just this cause why Bertha Standen, shorthand typist to Tompkins and Read, liked Mr. Arthur John Tompkins and did not like his cousin, Mr. Arthur James Tompkins.

To the outer eye there was very little to choose between the two young men. Both were presentable "boys" of about five and twenty, the nephews of old Jacob Tompkins by different brothers; both had done averagely well at their schools and universities; both applied themselves with zeal and industry to their uncle's business; both were averagely good looking and averagely well mannered; both said "please" to Miss Standen when they gave her an instruction, and both said they were "sorry" when they taxed her specially hard; but she felt that Arthur John really was sorry and Arthur James only said it as a form of speech.

Besides, there was a morning when Arthur John brought in a great handful of roses. She gasped at the sight; took the liberty of burying her little nose in them for a moment as they stood on his desk.

"I couldn't help it," she apologised. "They are so lovely. So lovely!"

"Nice, aren't they?" he said. "I came up from the country this morning, and my friends made me bring them. I was at the Wakefords; Wakeford and Porterman. You know. Now, shall we start?"

She sat down, and her pencil flew over the pages of her shorthand book, and the pages flapped over, one after the other. Whenever he paused for the moment she sniffed in the scent of the roses; and once, when he was puzzling out a condition, she looked round at them and put her face near for half a second. She loved flowers so, and had to limit herself to six pennyworth for the sitting room every Saturday. Her mother was a widow, and there was very little coming in except Bertha's salary.

"O! The dear, dear roses!" she thought. And then Arthur John continued dictating:

"In regard to your proposal for a rebate of five per cent in lieu of the usual discount of—no, wait, please. The discount isn't usual under these circumstances."

He paused again to consider his point; looked up at the ceiling. Miss Standen buried her face in the roses again. His eyes came down just before her face got quite away. He laughed and she laughed. He went on with his letter; but he kept his eye on the typist. A pretty little person, but rather tired looking. Nice little nose; the Venus nose in a small size.

"That's all," he concluded the dictation. "I hope you haven't got 'roses' down in your script! There are more than I know what to do with. So let's share them."

"O, Mr. Arthur John!" she gasped.

He gave her a generous half, and they adorned her rooms for a week. As the rose leaves fell she gathered them up and kept them in a bowl. Several times afterwards, when he returned from country week-ends, he gave her some of the flowers which he brought back; and twice he gave her theater tickets. At the annual dance for the employés he danced twice with her, though she could only expect to be honored by one of the firm once, and she had received this recognition from old Jacob himself. He rarely went below buyers; but "little Standen" was a trier, and he liked triers. Perhaps the small sized Venus nose also had its influence on the tough old rascal.

She looked upon Arthur John as a "dear, kind chap" right out of her sphere, and he looked upon her as a tired little person with a pretty little face and the best of the typists—which she certainly was. That was approximately the size of their feelings—at any rate, they thought so—when she made the great mistake in her typing.

OLD Jacob sent in a hurry at about eleven in the morning and demanded Miss Standen at once. She was to put all other work aside to do something special for him, and to take her machine to his room, so as to do it out of the sight of others.

He stared hard at her over his bushy eyebrows when she appeared.

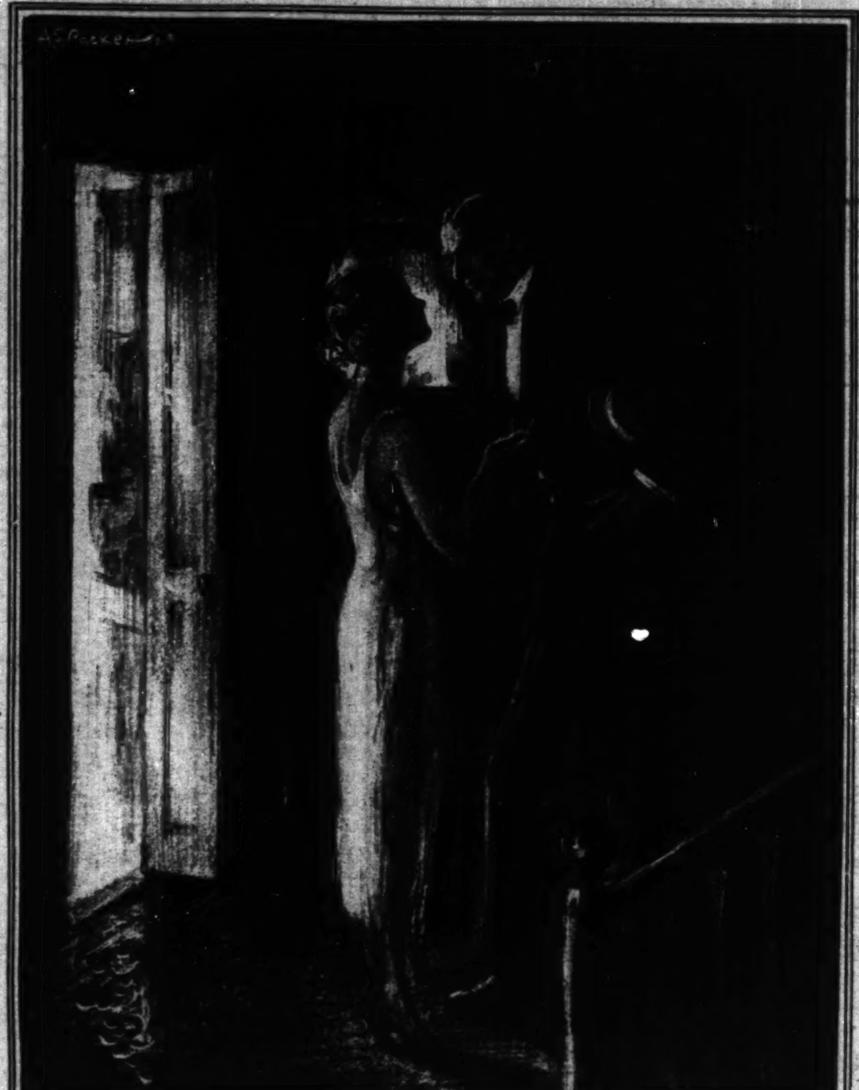
"Good morning, Miss Standen."

"Good morning, sir."

"You understand the meaning of confidential."

"I hope so, sir. I am sure I have never——"

"No, no! But you women have tongues in your mouths. This is a piece of work which you are doing privately for me. You must give no hint of it to a single soul. You understand?"



"H-have you a m-match?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, it's my will. There's no difficulty in typing on parchment, I suppose?"

"The machine will do it, if you don't want a copy," she told him.

"Very well. Sit down, please. I have seen reason to alter my will. I do not wish my lawyer to see the change. He is an old friend, and would probably have the impertinence to argue with me. It wouldn't make any difference to my intention; merely hot words between us. He's in a bad state of health. Don't want the quarrel. Well, here it is. You can copy it as I have amended it in red ink, and we'll read it over afterwards."

"Very good, sir."

She sat down at her machine and typed industriously and unemotionally, until she came to the alterations. Then she felt ridiculously upset, for the chief change was this: that whereas formerly Arthur John and Arthur James were to have twenty thousand apiece now Arthur John was reduced to ten thousand and Arthur James was advanced to thirty.

There had been a difference between Arthur John and his uncle, she knew. Every one in the firm knew it, and they had heard that Arthur John was going elsewhere. But they had not supposed that the trouble was so bad as now appeared from the amended will. The general sympathy was with Arthur John. The trouble was believed to be that he would not marry in accordance with his uncle's wishes—which was correct—like his cousin was doing—which was correct to the extent that Arthur James' wishes agreed with the old man's. It was also suspected that Arthur James had fomented the trouble. This suspicion was wickedly wrong, for Arthur James was an honorable, if somewhat cold, young gentleman; but it served Miss Standen for an excuse for the error which ultimately ended her career as a typist. You see, the mistake which she made was a deliberate one!

She knew from experience that old Jacob's mind was always on about three other things when he was reading through a document typed to his instructions and that he would pass most mistakes. So she decided to make an error and chance it slipping through. It did slip through.

The error was that Arthur James had the ten thousand and Arthur John the thirty thousand!

The document was duly signed and witnessed by the cashier and herself; and she went back to her work and didn't trouble much about the matter. She was quite satisfied in her feminine mind—which, mark you, is a totally different thing from the masculine mind, and must not be judged by its ironbound theories—that she was a better judge than old Jacob how his fortune ought to be distributed. She considered that she had prevented injustice and done justice, as nearly as the conditions allowed. She would have made it fifteen thousand and twenty-five, allowing her employer to have some voice—even an unjust voice!—in the disposition of his own property; but she judged that new amounts were too likely to catch his careless eye. Having to be unjust to the extent of five thousand, she had erred on the right side. She was rather proud of it!

IN the next fortnight, however, three things happened which troubled her (feminine) conscience.

In the first place, before leaving, Arthur John took occasion to correct emphatically the rumor, which had come to his ears, that his cousin had in any way worked against him.

"He stood up to the old man against my going," he declared, "till the old boy threatened to kick him out and disinherit him; behaved like the gentleman that he is. There's not a straighter chap in the world than Arthur James; and don't any of you forget it; and mind you get this d—— lie stopped, Hardy"—he was talking to the young assistant manager, whom everybody liked—"and tell them they ought to be ashamed of themselves for believing it."

Miss Standen felt ashamed to the point of wishing that she had risked putting fifteen thousand and twenty-five thousand; wished this still more when she noticed that Arthur James was terribly upset by the departure of Arthur John.

She was in the room of the latter, just before he went; and his cousin came in and put his hand on his shoulder and said, "Dear old man." The tears were in both their eyes; and in hers. She buried her face in the last lot of roses (he gave her the whole bunch this time) and went softly out.

"The place won't be the place without you," she heard Arthur James say, as she was closing the door. She agreed with him. Arthur John was such a kind chap. No more roses! How mother would miss them! She cried over her poor old mother, since it would be absurd to cry over Arthur John.

The second thing was that Arthur John was specially nice to her on saying good-bye. He didn't think it would be so hard to go, he stated, if he kept up his friendship with the people he liked there. Well, he liked them all; but he meant those he liked specially, and so——

"I can send you some of my flowers sometimes," he suggested, "can't I? Somehow I'd got to think, whenever any one gave me a fine lot, 'how Miss Standen will laugh when she sees them!' You—er—you're so fond of flowers that—it was more pleasure to give you some than to keep them all, don't you know. You see what I mean?"

"I see that you are very, very kind," she whimpered; "and there will never be any one I shall like to work for half so much; but I can't let you send me flowers."

"I don't quite see how you can stop me," he laughed. "Once you smell them you won't be able to make yourself send them back. I know you!"

"You don't really," she denied.

At the back of the (feminine) mind there may have been a spice of provocation intended by the remark; but no one—not even a story writer—is ever quite sure what is in a (feminine) mind!

"No one does in business," she added.

"But, of course," he told her, "when I come to the place now I must call at your mother's, just to see that you are alive! I may, mayn't I?"

"Of course," she stated, primly, "mother will be pleased to see you. She has appreciated the flowers so much; and your kindness. I have, too, Mr. Arthur John."

She wished then that she had put twenty thousand and twenty thousand. If Mr. Arthur John meant to be acquainted with her out of business people might think that she had a personal motive for making the mistake. Besides, if ever—it was absurd to think of such utterly unlikely things, of course, but, as a remote contingency, she had to face a possible situation:

"Bertha, will you marry me?"

"Arthur John, I have a confession to make."

It was a confession, she thought, which he would never forgive. He had a man's queer view of such things. She considered that it was an unreasonable view; but she would not like him not to have it. She could have confessed much more easily if she had made it twenty thousand apiece, she felt sure.

The third thing was that old Jacob was very kind to her; praised her work and patted her on the shoulder.

"You've brains in that little head of yours," he stated; "and, what's more, I trust you. I think I must put you into the actual business. If there isn't much opening for a woman here or in the wholesale generally some of the retail business might take you as a buyer, when you're a bit older and have gained some experience of the trade. A great many houses have women buyers; quite good berths, my dear. You're too clever for just writing down what other people say; able to put in something of your own. I expect you often feel as if you want to, eh?"

Miss Standen mopped her eyes. She was painfully conscious of having had the wish and acted upon it!

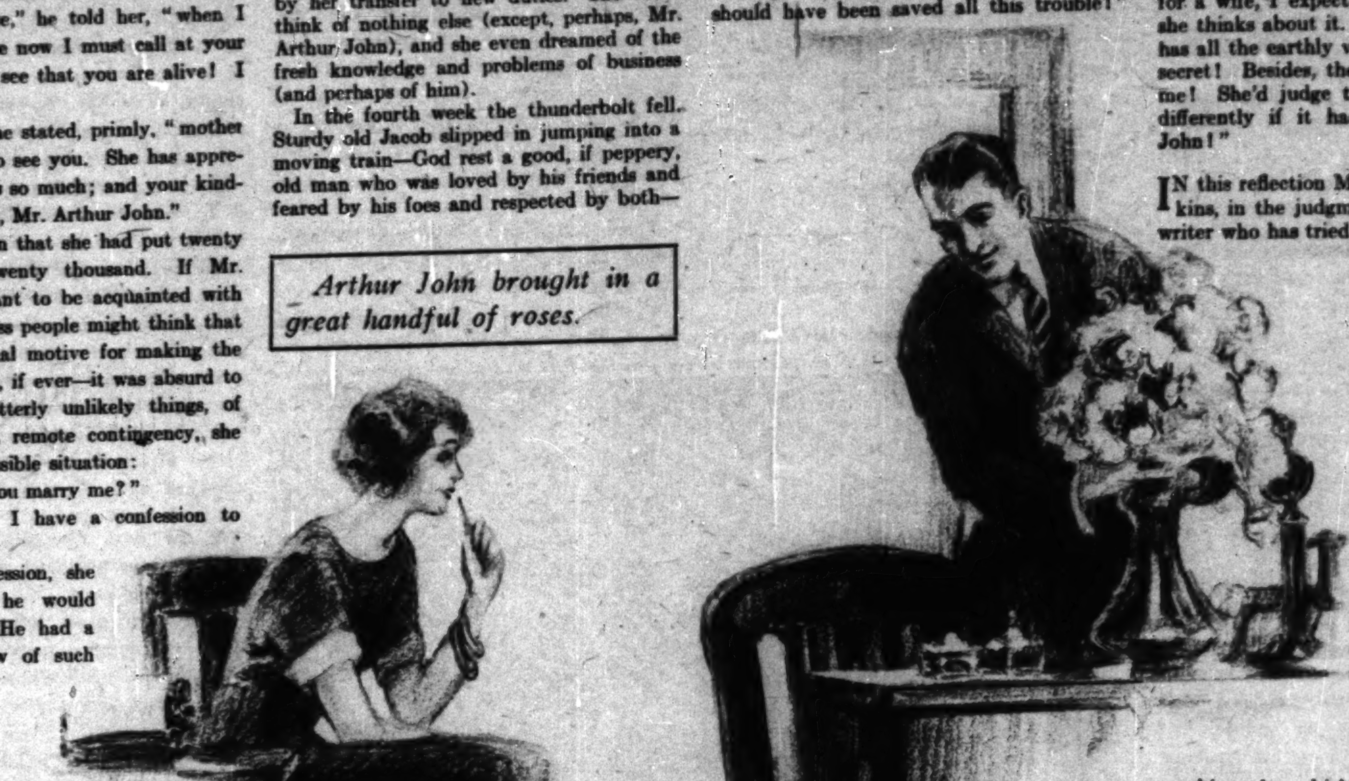
"You are so kind, sir," she acknowledged; "so kind that—there are things I'd like to say and can't."

She felt then that she had had no real right to deviate from his instructions at all; or, at most, only to the extent of making it fifteen thousand to Arthur John and five and twenty thousand to Arthur James.

"I'm sure," she told herself, "Arthur James would have been quite satisfied with that. O, dear! I think I shall give up trying to be better than other people and putting things right for them. No one ever thanks you for it. If only I could get hold of that will. I know! I'll tell Mr. Tompkins that I keep worrying whether I put it down right and I'm afraid he didn't check it carefully enough for such an important document and ask him to look at it and make sure. Only that seems like robbing Mr. Arthur John. I wouldn't mind him only having twenty thousand; but ten doesn't seem fair. How can I help his uncle to be unjust to him? O, dear! What shall I do!"

SHE pondered over the question for three weeks without coming to a decision. She really had good (feminine) excuses for delay. The first week was the little interval for reflection which any lady allows herself. The second week was not a week for deciding anything. She heard that Mr. Arthur John was coming to the town on Sunday. So all her spare time was occupied in wondering whether he would call, in putting the house in order in case he did, and in remembering that he had called and was going to call again. The third week was engrossed by her transfer to new duties. She could think of nothing else (except, perhaps, Mr. Arthur John), and she even dreamed of the fresh knowledge and problems of business (and perhaps of him).

In the fourth week the thunderbolt fell. Sturdy old Jacob slipped in jumping into a moving train—God rest a good, if peppery, old man who was loved by his friends and feared by his foes and respected by both—and his time for making and remaking wills was over. Miss Standen went into hysterics when they brought the news into the office.



Arthur John brought in a great handful of roses.

They telephoned to Mr. Arthur John; and Miss Standen went in to Mr. Arthur James. She didn't seem as if she could speak. So he gulped two or three times and spoke first, differentiating between the woman and her work very kindly that time.

"You're sorry, I know," he told her, and held out his hand. "There's no need to say it. I heard how it knocked you over. Better go home and rest a bit. Best chap I ever knew, on the whole. He had a great idea of you, Miss Standen. Only yesterday he was saying that he could trust you, and——"

"He couldn't!" Miss Standen screamed. "He couldn't. That's what I've come to tell you. He made me type his will when he altered it, and I made a mistake in it!"

"A mistake?" he queried. "But I suppose he read it over and corrected it?"

"He ought to have," she said. "Of course he ought to have; but he didn't notice it. He was never good at reading over."

"Do you mean that you remembered the mistake afterwards and didn't tell him?" Mr. Arthur James asked, rather sternly.

"I didn't tell him; but it wasn't afterwards. I made the mistake on purpose!"

"Good heavens!" cried Mr. Arthur James. "Really, Miss Standen——"

"I—I thought it was so unjust. The old will left twenty thousand each to you and to Mr. Arthur John. He had altered it in red ink to thirty thousand to you and ten thousand to Mr. Arthur John. It wasn't fair. It wasn't fair."

"That," said Mr. Arthur James, stiffly, "wasn't for you to judge. You were acting as his agent, and he trusted you. You proved yourself untrustworthy. I don't think this firm can trust you any longer, Miss Standen. I suggest that the best course will be for you to resign."

"Yes," said Miss Standen. "Yes. Men don't understand. Any woman would—never mind. I altered it to——"

"That doesn't matter," he told her, wearily. "My cousin and I made a sporting agreement when we came here. We have been like brothers all our lives. We didn't wish to become rivals. We shall share equally whatever comes to us. However, you left it at twenty thousand each, I suppose?"

"No-o," she said. "I thought he would notice that. So I—I just changed the names. If only I'd known of your agreement I should have been saved all this trouble!"

She looked at him almost indignantly. "Well there's nothing more to be said. I will send in my resignation."

"Yes," Arthur James assented.

He bowed and she bowed. She walked to the door firmly; but, as she put one hand on the handle, she raised her handkerchief with the other. He was not so cool hearted underneath. He loved a woman—very much—and he had a suspicion that his cousin loved this remarkably feminine and wrong headed little creature.

"Miss Standen," he called. "A moment, please." She turned back. "Sit down, will you." He placed a chair for her and took one. "You are a woman," he said. "I am engaged to one. I am finding out that they are very difficult creatures for a man to judge. They don't look at things in a man's way. I don't know that we want them to. You came and told me, so I think that you intended to do right—in a woman's way. That doesn't seem to be a very good way for business."

"I never said I was a business woman," she told him, applying her handkerchief vigorously. "I only went into it because mother hadn't—that doesn't matter to you."

"I was thinking," he said, "that only you and I know of this. It won't make any difference to me. So there's no need to mention it to any one else if you will make me a promise."

"I've told you I'll resign!" she cried. "Of course I will."

"There is an alternative," he told her. "My proposal is this: There are two consciences, I think—a man's conscience and a woman's conscience. I ask you to promise either to resign or to promise that, in future, you will use the male variety in matters of business. I will trust your word. Anyhow, I shall tell no one."

"Mr. Arthur James," Miss Standen said, "I—I think you are—splendid. But I can't stay because I want you to tell Mr. Arthur John. If you don't I shall have to tell him myself, and I don't seem as if I can bear it. I expect that was why I came to you. I thank you."

She darted for the door, and was gone so quickly that he had no time to make effective protest. He stood and frowned and rubbed his hair; laughed a little and shook his head.

"Well, I'm d——!" he muttered. "The little devil! I thought Arthur John was a bit sweet on her, and she on him. Umph! I don't know what the old beggar will think of it; but her conscience would do all right for a wife, I expect. I'll ask Marian what she thinks about it. No, better not. Mary has all the earthly virtues, except keeping a secret! Besides, the alteration was against me! She'd judge the morality of it quite differently if it had been against Arthur John!"

IN this reflection Mr. Arthur James Tompkins, in the judgment of an humble story writer who has tried for many years to read the fascinating riddle of woman, got at a great truth. The feminine conscience is personal, and the masculine conscience impersonal; and that is the size of the difference between them!

Miss Bertha Standen went home and spent the late afternoon and the early evening considering how she should word the letter of resignation and what she should tell her mother; even considered the desperate expedient of confessing the exact truth, on the (feminine) ground that she could not think of anything else which her parent would believe.

At eight o'clock there was a knock at the front door. Bertha had told herself a hundred times that she would never see Mr. Arthur John again; but she wondered whether every knock that came was his. This one was.

"O!" she gasped. "I didn't expect that——" And then she remembered the way in which she had decided to begin her explanation, if she ever had to make one to him. "You must recollect that I am a woman. And you are a man. And——"

"That is exactly why I have come," he stated. He stepped inside the door and closed it. The passage was very dark then.

"I—I'll light the gas," she stammered. "H-have you a m-match?"

"No," he stated, decidedly. It was an occasion upon which even the masculine conscience did not require truth. "What a naughty little girl you are!" He got his arm round her. "What a naughty, naughty little girl!" He squeezed her close.

"Ye-es," she agreed. She squeezed herself closer.

"It was very wrong, you know."

"That's just what I think," she agreed. "I'll never do such a wicked thing again."

"I'm afraid you'll do a lot of others," he observed, "if you're not well looked after. I think I had better look after you."

"That's what I think," she said. "I'll—I'll—you can trust me, you know! I'm very sorry, of course; but, really, he oughtn't to have left a will like that."

As a matter of fact, they found that he hadn't. He had torn up Bertha's will the day after it was made and executed another, leaving his nephews equal shares in the business, which they valued at about forty thousand apiece.

"Which," Mrs. Arthur John Tompkins (née Standen) often tells her husband, "shows that I was really right, though perhaps my way of doing it wasn't quite—at least, not exactly—well, you know what I mean!"

"MOTHER OF GOLD" by EMERSON HOUGH

MADRE d'ORO

Blue Ribbon Fiction

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE!

JOHN PALMER, a veteran engineer; "Pug" Hallock, Dan Silsby, and Barry Allison are in Mexico seeking "Madre d'Oro," the mother lode of the world's gold, which Palmer says he has located. The prospectors meet a beautiful girl, Luisa Martinez, sister of the girl Palmer stole from her proud Spanish family and married. The Americans take Luisa with them.

Back in Denville, O., Allison had confided his secret to Mary Westlake, and she had promised to wait one year for him. But Randall Trent, the richest man in town, loves her and follows when Dr. Blakely orders Mrs. Westlake to Mexico for her health. Dr. Blakely and the Westlakes are at the home of Father Ernesto, a Samaritan of a district where folks never grow old.

Father Ernesto tells Mary that John Palmer learned the story of Madre d'Oro from Pedro the Old, the ancient servant of the Martinez family. On an old Spanish map he shows her the supposed location of the mother lode. Mary leads a party to the cave in the desert where lives Pedro the Old. Mary tries to pry from Pedro the secret of Madre d'Oro. The knowledge that a woman knows so much of the great Aztec secret kills Pedro.

Palmer and his party push rapidly toward the valley of gold. They find two images which had been carved, ages before, out of some solid block of gold. The find convinces them they are near the mysterious Madre d'Oro..

TENTH INSTALLMENT.

The Spreading News.

IT was a sad and self-reproachful Mary Westlake who reappeared at the Ranch of Good Hope after the tragic journey into the interior. The death of old Pedro still appeared to her as due in some sense to fault of her own. The thought of that gave her great self-recrimination. She felt that she ought not to have urged the old man, ought not to have let him know of her own partial knowledge of the secret which he had guarded literally with his life.

Dr. Blakely himself could not conceal his professional chagrin and disappointment in this denouement of what he had planned as a triumphal scientific tour. Indeed, he frowned even as he declared politely, professionally, to Mary Westlake that she was entirely guiltless, that the old man's time had come, and all that. He remained lukewarm regarding any further tarrying in Lower California; announced that he himself would be quite willing to return to the States.

The latter resolution fitted well enough with Mary's sudden plans.

"Mother! Mother!" she exclaimed, when the two found themselves alone after her return to the ranch. "Take me away from here! Let's go home! I feel as though something were after me—everything seems to conspire. I can't explain—I want to go back home!"

Her mother was none too happy at the separation from her home and the life-long companionship of her somewhat dour lord and master, from whose bedside she had not previously been absent in forty years of wedlock. Fretting somewhat over the strange ways of life hereabouts, she was willing enough to agree with Dr. Blakely that the condition of her health now would warrant her return. She also felt, uneasily, unconsciously, the strained tenseness of the atmosphere which suddenly seemed to envelope them all.

Randall Trent had turned mysterious. His was the nose for affairs, not for scientific investigations. He intended to turn these late events to his own interest so far as that might be possible. The little vesper bell, on the first evening of their return, brought him to the side of the young woman who had spent most of the day in tears. He persuaded her to walk with him again, away from the house, to the shade of the great tree near the little murmuring stream.

"Mary," he began, "I've got something to say to you tonight!"

"Yes?" She spoke wearily. She knew what he wished to say. It bored her, irritated her.

"O, well, we'll waive the usual question," Trent went on. "You know perfectly well how I feel about that. But what I want to say is, it's plain there's something rather deep under all this situation here. I don't think you have told me everything."

"Well, and why should I? Am I under bond to do that?"

"Certainly not. But you leave me to guess at things. Well, I may say I've not done so badly at that."

"Guessing is a free and open privilege. Yes?" She did not smile, did not even ask him what he had guessed. He went on.

"Well, I've guessed why you were so willing to come down here with your mother—this outlandish place. It was because that man, the one you say you're waiting for, Allison, is somewhere down in this part of the country. He's in old Mexico, I suppose?"

"I never denied that, did I?"

"No. But why is he there? He is a mining engineer. There's a big gold strike that is being hidden down there somewhere. The press dispatches had that news months ago. I've been figuring out a few things."

"Marvelous, Randall! Marvelous!"

He did not wince.

"Yes. The gold game is one at which more than one man can play. Well, I've run across the cold truth down here—where we have been."

"Indeed!"

"Yes! I knew you never would argue that way with old Pedro except for one reason. And it was for that other man! So then I figured that Pedro and Barry Allison and the missing mine all come together somewhere, in some way."

"That's very wonderful, Randall!"

He frowned this time.

"Well, I felt out old Anita. I knew she had heard something and would translate for us both. She had something on her mind. She certainly connected what you said, in some way, with her father's death. I got the old man here, Father Ernesto, to translate, make it plain for me."

"And what did you find?" The girl's voice showed her endeavor at calm.

"You've seen the big map in the dining room inside?"

"I had not noticed it."

"Well, it's a couple of hundred years old or so. It was brought here by old Pedro himself, God knows how long ago. Father Ernesto has always kept it as a sort of curiosity.

"Well, that map shows all the old mines of that period of the Spanish occupation. It shows the old sailing routes around the foot of Lower California, to the western seaports of Mexico. It shows most of the old trails, especially the old Spanish road, which ran from Vera Cruz to Guadalajara, and forked there for San Blas and Acapulco.

"But that's not all," he went on, watching her as he spoke. "On the map there is marked—sort of question mark it is—the Spanish words which mean 'Supposed situation of the Madre D'Oro.'"

She started at that word in spite of herself—the last word she cared to hear from his mouth. He noted it.

"Oh, you begin to follow me? Well, that word in print sort of struck me in the face. That was the word which Anita said she had heard you using with her father, old Pedro. She said you accused Pedro of knowing something or doing something about the Madre D'Oro. What was it?"

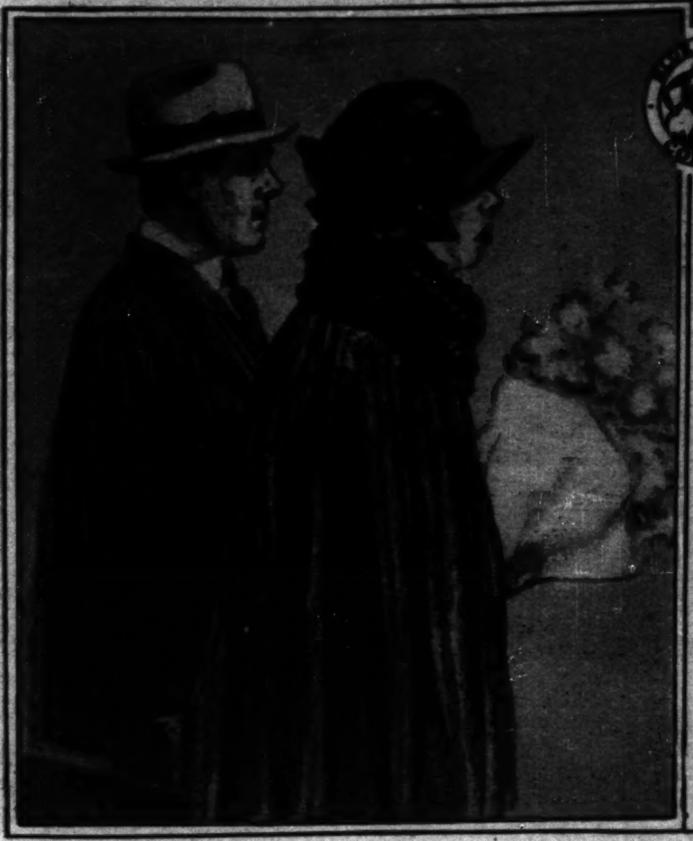
She had betrayed her lover.

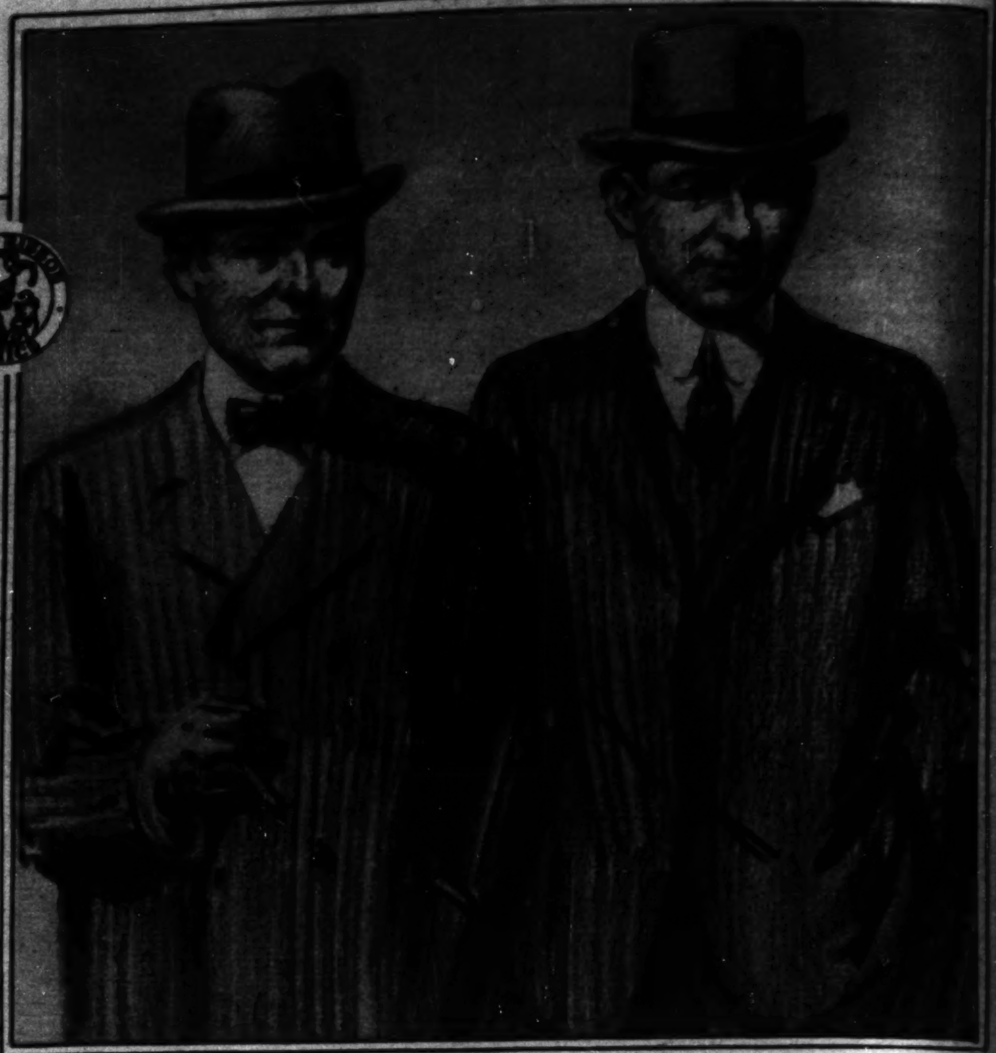
THE SUNDAY COUPLE

By W. E. HILL

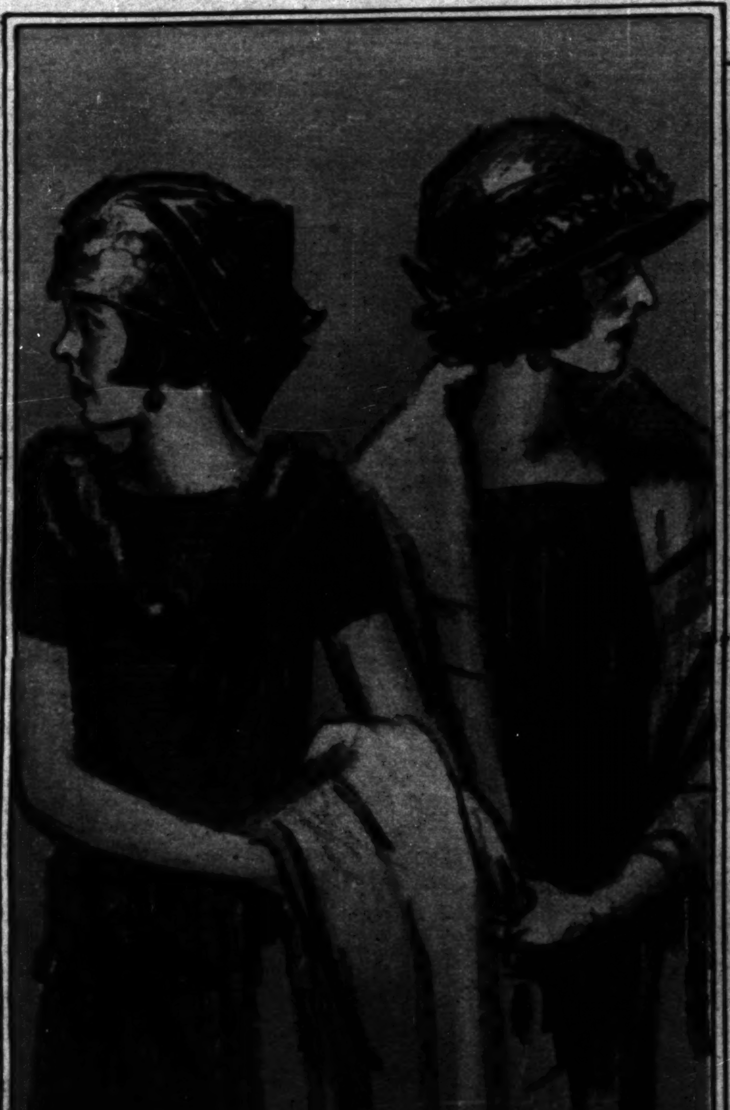
Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.



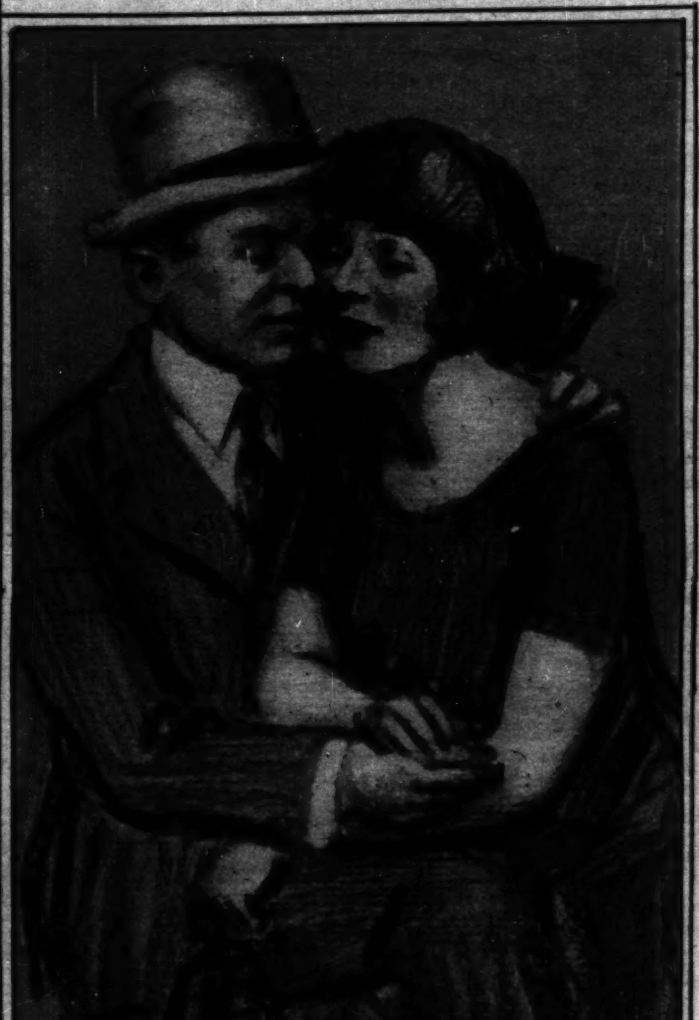
Late in the afternoon the weekenders from the suburbs begin to arrive, bag and baggage, with large bunches of late flowers and autumn leaves.



The young bloods, Joe and Morrie, are just out for a stroll—looking over the girls, and one thing and another.



The girl friends, Maida and Grayce, have forsworn male escorts. Maida is one of those nice, healthy girls who appeal to weak men, and Grayce can't find her ideal.



The very loving couple are mixing it up on a park bench. They are going to get very mussed up before the afternoon is over.

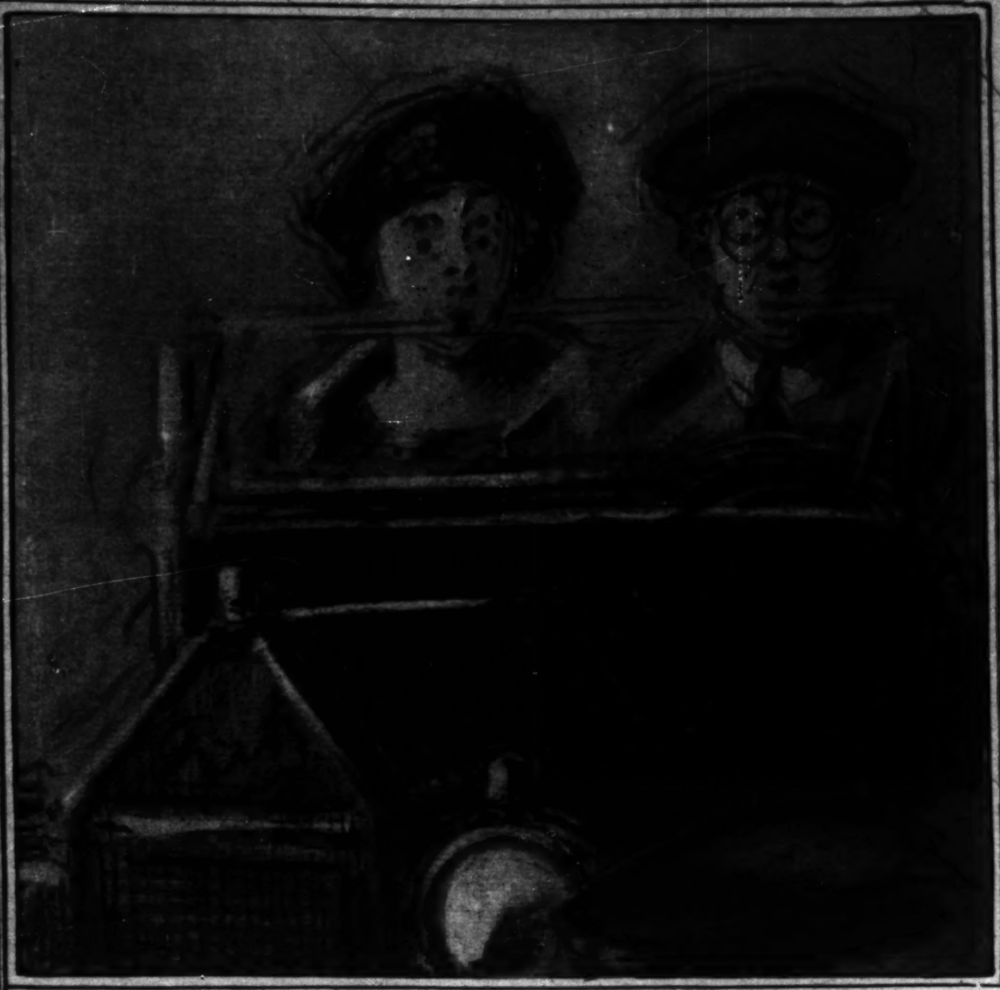
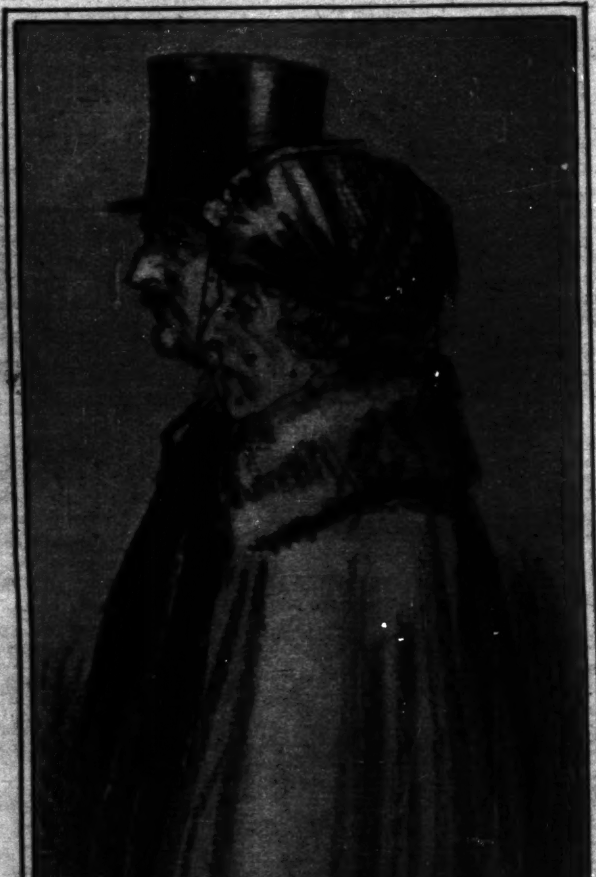
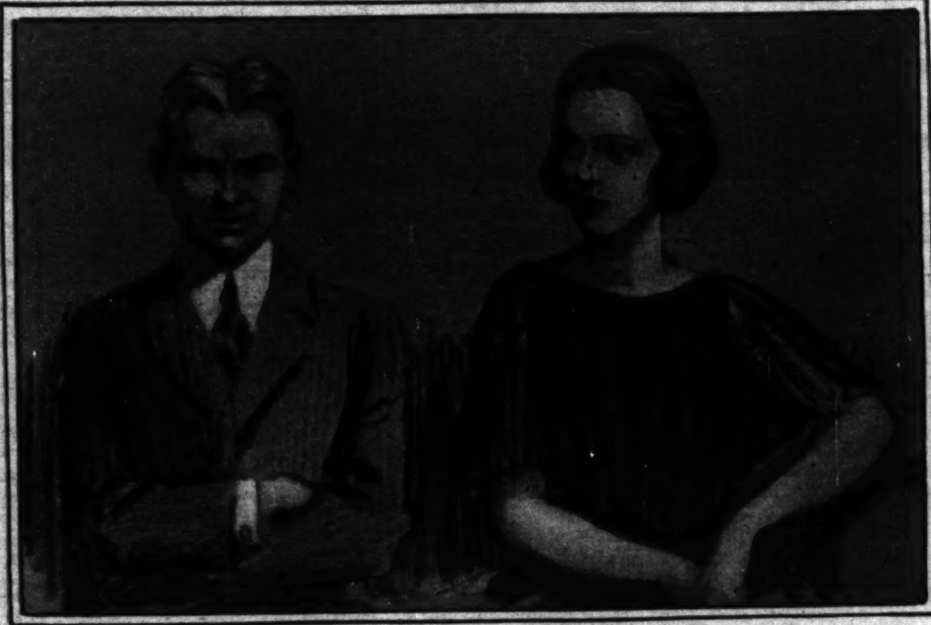
The semi-engaged couple. One day Josephine thinks she loves Norwood, and the next she thinks she hates him. First they plan to marry in November and then Josephine has hysterics and decides it never can be, not in a thousand years. This afternoon she has told Norwood she will marry him a year from next April, though she doesn't love him. Josephine is keeping a sharp lookout for anything that may turn up. Norwood is walking in darkness.



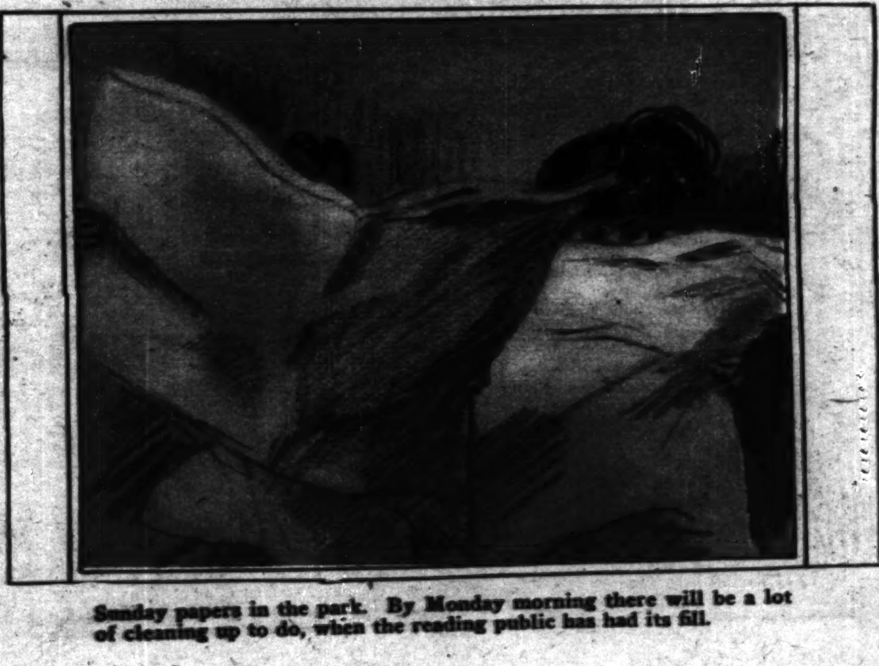
The little outing in the flivver. The car has stopped at a crossroad, but the engine is going strong, as you can see. The flivver has done two thousand miles or so, but it's the end of the season.



The very correct couple. They might almost have come from church, but they haven't. They're going calling.



The Sunday call. The shy couple are not getting on well at all. They seemed to know each other so well last week. Now conversation has flagged and they are in a panic.



Sunday papers in the park. By Monday morning there will be a lot of cleaning up to do, when the reading public has had its fill.

"There's a Jewel for Every Use"

"I shall never tell you, Randall. You have no rights in any eavesdropping proposition. Beside that, old Pedro is dead."

"Yes, and with him died some big secret! You make me guess what that was? Well, I guess your trouble with Pedro was over the Madre D'Oro and over Barry Allison! Am I a thousand miles off the truth? That word, 'Madre D'Oro,' on the old map, is what got me going. And you know something about the Madre D'Oro; because you were talking about it with Pedro. You can't deny that.

"There are times when a thing is so keen that it sharpens up a man's own ability in reasoning, guessing, whatever you care to call it. Now, I believe you think Barry Allison knows where the Madre D'Oro is today. I don't really even know what the Madre D'Oro is—it is some sort of a lost mine, of course. The Spaniards seem to have lost it. The newspaper clippings which I have been seeing seem to indicate that it has been found again, or something just as good. Now, what I am wondering is whether the old Spanish mine is the same thing which the newspapers mean."

"You're in the wrong business, Randall. You ought to be in Scotland Yard!"

"Well, I have got more than that to go on. I have heard all about a certain John Palmer, who used to live in here on the Martinez ranch, where old Pedro lived, and who disappeared toward the southeast a few years ago. Well, he took with him the beautiful daughter of the rich Martinez family. Old Pedro used to live on that estate—the owner is Enrico Martinez. His family came there from old Mexico, God knows how long ago. He is rich and proud, Enrico Martinez. Well, John Palmer broke his pride. He stole his daughter. Did you ever hear of John Palmer?"

"Why should I tell you? But surely I have never met him."

"Never heard the name—never heard Barry Allison mention it?"

"What could it mean to you? And am I under cross examination here? What is it to you, that you ask me these questions?"

"Then you won't tell me?"

"Certainly not. I'll say nothing one way or the other. Go on with your guessing, but please don't trouble me with these matters."

HE smiled at this. "Well, Anita and Father Ernesto helped me more than you did. They told me that John Palmer and his beautiful bride, Dolores Martinez—they were married before they left this country—disappeared somewhere on the west coast of this peninsula. They took ship there, and then they disappeared, that is to say. Father Ernesto knows that old Pedro talked with John Palmer about the old lost Spanish mine. He knows that John Palmer had seen this old map many a time. He thinks old Pedro told Palmer something which he never told you or any one else.

"Now, that's the big secret which is not yet uncovered. You say I should belong in Scotland Yard? Suppose I did solve that riddle for you? What would it mean for you if I did? Would you give me my chance? Come, my dear, will you let me play this game? Will you make my chance equal with his? Will you give me a year, say, to come back to you, win or lose, on the proposition of finding out what all this means?"

He turned a few steps away, excitedly, hands in pockets, before he went on. "Besides, my dear," he added, "if I found that old mine we'd only be richer. I don't need to find it in order to be rich enough. The other fellow does."

Pale, unhappy, the girl stood twisting the fingers of her hands. It seemed more than ever as though all the world were conspiring to tear the veil of secrecy from her plans, herself, her heart and soul. The practical, commonplace tones of Randall Trent still came to her ears.

"Yes, we think John Palmer, some years ago, learned enough from old Pedro, from the old map, to start out on a little treasure hunt of his own. As you know, I have reason to think that it was on precisely that same hunt that Barry Allison also has started."

"You have been at much pains, sir!" Scorn wreathed her lips now.

"It was only my right. If a man loves a woman he has his rights. And I'm not thinking of myself alone."

"What, then?"

"I am thinking of you also."

"I thank you very much."

"What you don't see is that, if we found that old mine down there, you would be the richest woman in the world. That is to say, provided that we found it through my own work. There is little law or order down there. For a poor man with no influence or no money to stumble on riches in a foreign country like that might mean little or nothing to him. With my connections, with my own money, it would mean, I say, that you would be the richest woman in the world. Yes, that's true, if half of what I think is true.

"Come now. Suppose you take me in on the gamble as well as the other man. Give me a year—give him his year, and let my own year end on the same day as his. He's got as good a start as I have. Give me my year."

She shook her head, looked out across the little valley toward the great moon rising above the rim of the eastern hills.

"Mary Westlake, your people never despised me. Your mother doesn't, though her daughter does. You don't answer."

"I would be willing to promise you almost anything if you would all go away and leave me. I'm very weary. I'm almost worn out with all this. Have you no respect for personal honor? Haven't I told you that when a girl has given her word to a man she ought to keep it? You ask for a year. How can I give a year to more than one man? That's not my idea of honor!"

"Listen to me, Mary Westlake! To a man and woman only one law runs—it is the law of selection. All is fair in love, my dear; and all I'm asking is an even break. If we two men have the same scent and something of the same start, let's see who finishes first. I'm satisfied that he has some knowledge—that you have more knowledge—about the Madre D'Oro than I can claim. All right, I'll take that handicap. At the same time I'm sure you're keeping back something from me—you were talking of that with old Pedro. You two knew some secret."

"A fine secret it is, if all the world knows it! If Anita and Father Ernesto and everybody else knows what the secret is, including yourself, why should any of us trouble over it?"

Trent flung himself into the little rustic seat and leaned back, immaculate in his modern clothing, debonair, sure of himself as always. "I don't doubt that ultimately I shall know all there is of this secret, lock, stock, and barrel," said he. "If you will not tell me I will have all the more zest in finding it out for myself. Yet it might be the best thing in the world for you if you did tell me."

"You're thinking of the gold, the money of it? Is that the greatest thing in the world?"

"Well, the two greatest things in the world run together hand in hand—money and love, my dear! They work out mighty well together in partnership. Put it out of your mind that there is only one man in the world for any one woman in the world. For you—you could choose among the best. It's no more wrong for you to marry the right man, or some man, than it is for water to run down hill."

"Well, then, Randall, that's all settled. You feel very safe about it. I've always known something of the profound content you have felt with yourself." Still he did not wince at the thrust.

"I don't play any game to lose it, that's true," said he; "in business or anything else. But I'll get back to my old question. About this lost mine, will you give me an equal chance with the other man? Come, that's fair."

"The world is before you both," replied the girl, sighing.

"What reward, when I have found that mine!"

"Your extreme virtue, Mr. Randall Trent, ought to be your own reward! Oh, yes, I'm sure it will be no trouble for you to stroll over and find that lost mine. But why bother about me? There are many more beautiful women in the world. If you came out with all the riches which you're holding up before my eyes, would you have any trouble, according to your sort of philosophy, in having the pick of the women in the world? Couldn't you try again, Randall? Wouldn't water run down hill in your case the same as mine? Wouldn't you marry some one else? I think you would. But what I know is that Barry Allison will never marry any one else—and that I never will. You see, a girl does know some things, feel some things, surely. Have you no consideration at all, since these things are true?"

"Not so much," said he, setting his teeth together. "I don't play any game to lose it. And I swear, I love you so much, so awfully much, that sometimes I think I would rather have you for my wife than to find all the lost mines in the world."

"Why, thank you, Randall! That's fine of you! That sounds like a bank settlement to me. Yes, I'll say you're fair—very fair, very frank."

SHE rose; would have left him sitting there. The sight of her tall goodliness did indeed almost drive him mad, the spell of the evening and their youth conspiring. He would have caught at her hand. She evaded his grasp, went on speaking, slowly, wearily.

"I have nothing more to say about it, Randall. I can't change my own soul, whatever way you may feel about it. But one thing you must remember. There is nothing I know about the Madre D'Oro that I'll ever tell you—not one stiver, not one iota!"

Now he broke out in rage. "But what you knew you told him—what he knew, he told you!"

"As you like! I'll say you have tortured me about enough. I'm going into the house now. Tomorrow, we're going back home."

He fell sullen all at once. "All right. You can go that way. You couldn't go where I'm going, anyhow, that's sure."

She tried a little dissimulation with him. "Nonsense, you're going nowhere! You would not be so foolish as to go off on a wild goose chase like that, with nothing certain whatever."

"I'll report when I come back," he rejoined, sullenly. "One thing sure, if I make any find I can do something with it. I can put the United States government, the United States army back of anything I do. I can put all the money I own back of anything I want."

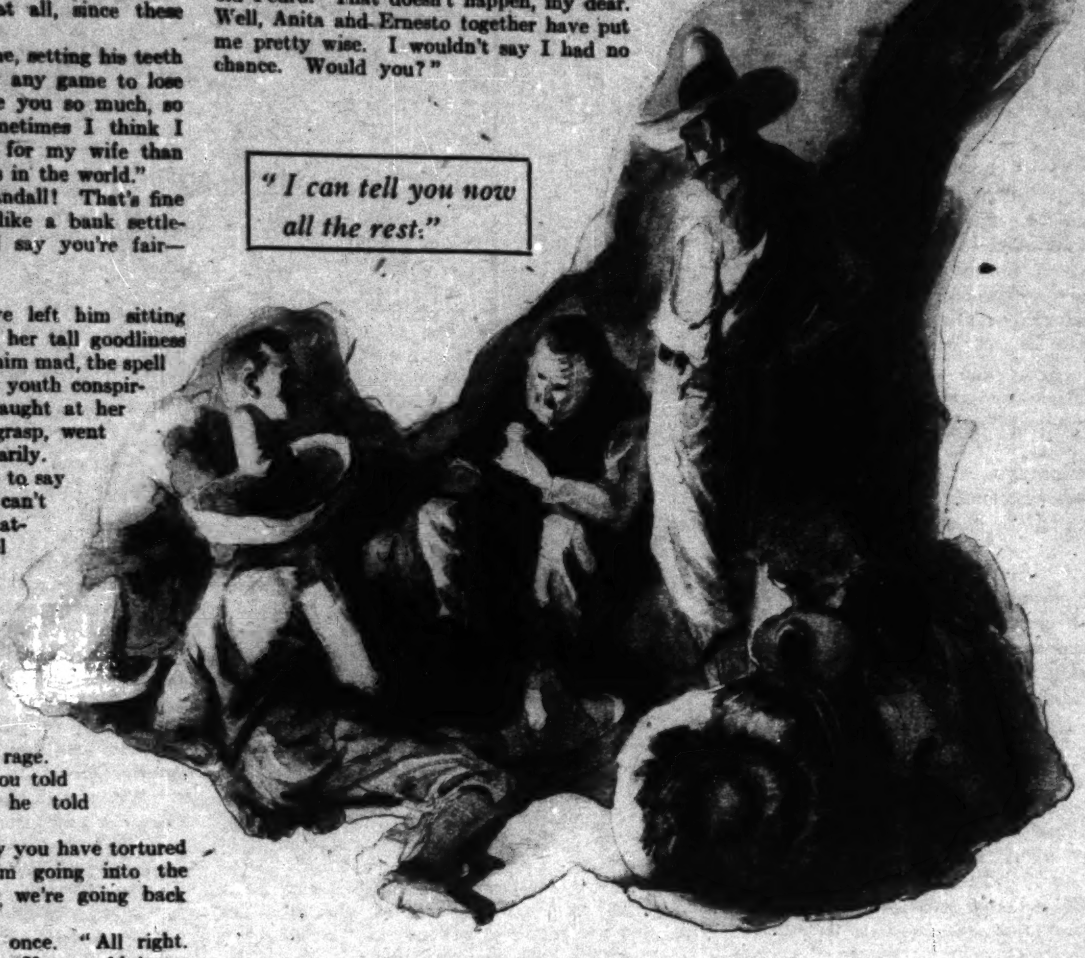
"What do you mean?"

"Well, since you ask. I'll tell you just a little. Over at Magdalena, on the west coast, there are two or three army planes come down for maneuvers. It may be I can travel quite as fast as anybody else—travel by map at that! It won't take so long. I may be back in Deneville long before the other man."

Mary Westlake felt her heart grow cold within her bosom. Something in the aggressive objectiveness of the man before her gave her a feeling of awe, of fear. He represented the apotheosis of material success—of what men sometimes call good luck, good fortune. Romance, imagination—excepting imagination shown in material achievement—he did not own. And yet she could not avoid comparing this man's methods with those imposed upon her lover by his own want of the material means of success. In her mind she could see Barry Allison, gaunt, weary, fainting, traveling afoot across the interminable leagues, over the desert sands, under the desert sun. She heard this other man's voice go on, hard, metallic.

"And when I do come back to Deneville, I hope you will see the truth. You accuse me of eavesdropping? No, it was the old Mexican woman who did the listening in. She says that what you told Pedro killed him. She says she knows very little about the great mine, but that she thinks her father knew a great deal more. Of course, her tale seemed a little bit wild to me. Old Aztec priests, for instance, don't go running around in sandals and serape today, like old Pedro. That doesn't happen, my dear. Well, Anita and Ernesto together have put me pretty wise. I wouldn't say I had no chance. Would you?"

"I can tell you now all the rest:"



Now a sudden feeling of helplessness came upon the girl. She dropped her face in her hands, moved her head from side to side in bitter self-reproach. She had betrayed her lover! She had betrayed the sacred thing which she ought to have reverenced absolutely, religiously. She had proved unworthy of the trust which had been placed in her. If everything failed now, it would be her fault! Did that mean that another man would win where Barry Allison must fail? The mere dread of that, suspicion, fear, left her a-tremble of sheer misery.

"Oh, I say! began Trent, clumsily, "I wouldn't feel so cut up about it. You know I wouldn't hurt you for worlds."

"But you have! But you did! Suppose I were the means of helping you and holding back him—I mean——"

"Then you do admit that he's down there!"

"Yes! I do admit it!"

"So? Very well!"

"He has more at stake than you have, and less to win with. Well, we'll let him take his chances. I think he can take care of himself no matter what comes."

"He has none the best of me at that, I fancy," Trent smiled.

"Very well, so be it! Go where you like, Randall. I shall hold to the faith of my fathers. I shall keep my word."

"Of course," she went on, "I don't thank you for following us down in here. I wish you had not. I can't hold you back from doing as you like, going where you please. Do then as you like—and may God defend the right, as the old knights used to say. That's all I can say to any one. Good-by!"

She was gone. He sat alone. In the cool suave air of the night rose the fragrance of a very excellent cigar. Randall Trent was not much agitated. It was his way to see himself successful.

THE four adventurers who had taken upon themselves the solution of a problem old almost as the hills through which they traveled, met with better fortune than they had license to expect. If pursuit had been made by any of the inhabitants of Loma Verde, no evidences of that fact yet had appeared.

They pushed on, along the edge of the great mountain range, in and out of the foothills which thrust forward across the plains, day after day until their steady travel had carried them deeper and deeper into the mysterious interior of old Mexico.

It would have been impossible for them to escape all touch with the native population. At times they could not avoid the solitary riders of the plains, could not avoid little placitas huddled here or there under the shadows of the hills; but thus far they had been able to escape actual detection. Their own costume, their silence and reticence, the acquaintance of John Palmer with the native tongue, and, above all, the inescapable identification of Luisa and her woman with the native population, all conspired to serve as passport for them.

They were not held up in any way for almost two months' travel south of the great Chihuahua plateau where first they made their rendezvous. Their path, perforce sinuous at times, had covered perhaps seven hundred miles. Now they had approached within reaching distance of the great Anahuac plateau.

Close at hand there lay the ancient focus of all the old civilizations of that strange land. Here once had been the center of the first Spanish invasion, as also it had been the center of the aboriginal population. The marvelous capital city of the Mexican republic lay not so far ahead.

Now indeed these travelers must use every care. Here was modern civilization, built upon more than one ancient civilization. Each of these had been merciless in its day to any man who presumed too much. All of these four travelers knew they no longer were in their own country. Here the game was touch and go.

The nature of the vegetation by now had changed somewhat. They encamped one night in the shelter of a grove of trees whose rich luxuriance showed the climate of the Tierra Templada of Mexico, one in which nature is most lavish of her gifts. Before them tinkled a little stream coming down from high hills. The cover of the forest concealed their tiny cooking fire. The animals hobbled close at hand found abundant grazing. They still were well to the northward of the Old Spanish road, but not so far to their westward lay the rich and well settled mining regions, crossed by many modern railroads. The little glade in which they lay had been discovered by the mountaineer instinct of old John Palmer, who had broken away from the faint trail they were following to the south, and followed his suspicion that here, among the foothills, they would find a more unfrequented spot.

By this time they all were gaunt and sunblacked almost as natives. Their horse furniture was wholly Mexican and much worn, their costumes Mexican and more than much worn. A passing traveler, even discovering them now in their little encampment, might well have mistaken them for natives wandering through. Perhaps they might have wondered at the presence of Luisa and her woman; but certainly they, too, could have created no suspicion among strangers as to the nationality of the party.

This evening old John Palmer was peculiarly moody as he sat apart, his head dropped, twisting to pieces between his fingers a twig which he had broken from a bush. As he sat now on his bed-roll, the pocket of his coat swung low. He took from it a heavy object which he held and sat regarding it studiously for a time, as though demanding of it answer to some question to which it could make reply if so it liked. But the strange, half-smiling face of the ancient image made him no answer at all. It had smiled thus for centuries—a smile carved in solid gold, covering the secret of centuries.

Barry Allison passed by on his way to the horses, and saw the older man sitting thus. "Well, John," he said. "What do you make of it! An odd little image, isn't it?"

"I don't make so much of it," replied John Palmer, slowly, "beyond what we all talked of before. It shows that these people must have known of some great deposit of free gold. This didn't come out of quartz—it's clean, solid, an integer in itself."

"Well, that's not so impossible, is it, John, after all you have told us, all we have read? There would be room enough in the Madre D'Oro for a good many pieces like that, would there not?"

John Palmer nodded, his sunken eyes grave. "Yes, I know that," said he.

"You've never doubted it at all, have you, John?"

"No. How could I?"

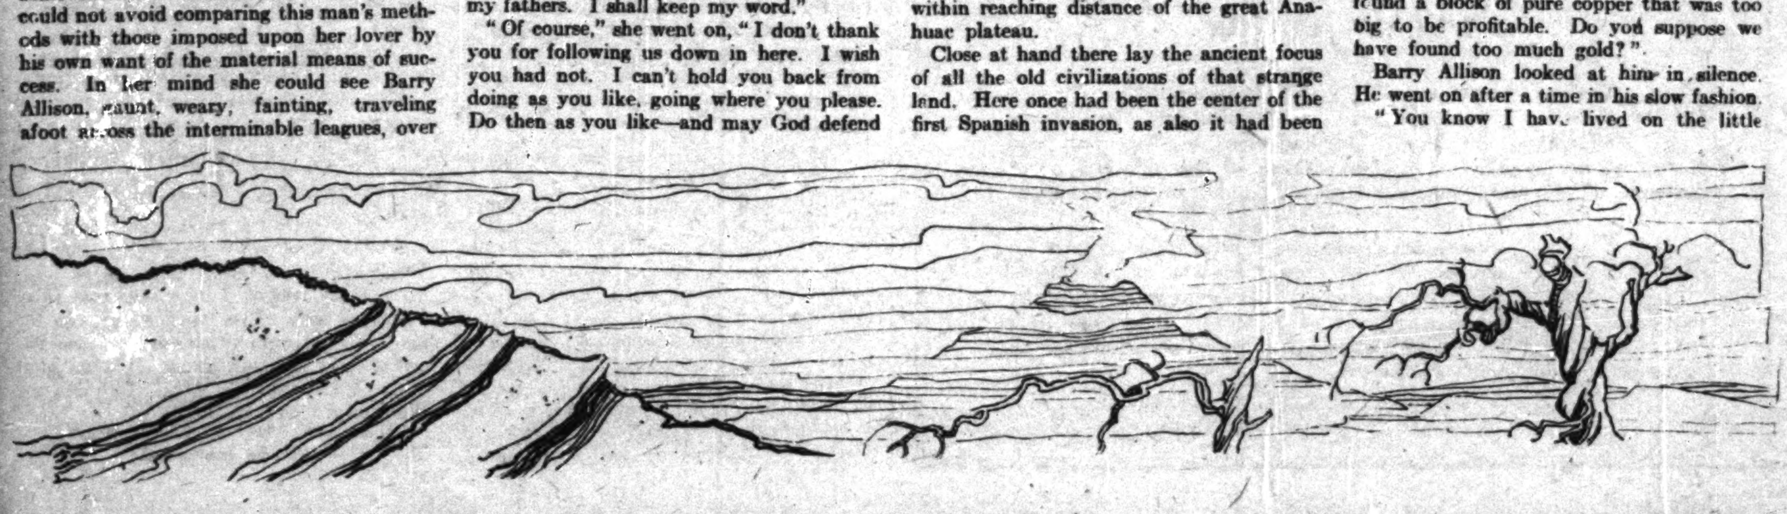
"Well, you've never told any of us exactly how much you knew."

The old man looked at him soberly for a time before he answered. "I wouldn't need to tell you much, would I?"

He held up the little image in his hand. "Sometimes in the old copper mines they found a block of pure copper that was too big to be profitable. Do you suppose we have found too much gold?"

Barry Allison looked at him in silence. He went on after a time in his slow fashion.

"You know I have lived on the little



After other women have grown old

they are still young

How does the actress manage to stay so beautifully young, years longer than other women?

How does she keep her skin so fine and clear though she covers it with make-up—what keeps it always fresh in spite of late weary hours?

* * *

By careful study of her skin she has discovered the two indispensable things it needs to keep it in the fresh, supple condition she demands.

First the kind of cleansing that restores the natural softness and clearness of her face—every bit of dirt, every trace of cosmetic, every shadow of weariness taken away. Then the exquisite morning freshening that actually beautifies, and guards it besides from every coarsening influence.

For these two fundamentals of skin loveliness, she has learned to depend on the two entirely different creams that Pond's developed especially for this purpose of keeping the modern woman's skin young—Pond's Cold Cream and Pond's Vanishing Cream.

In their making, just the right amount and only the finest quality of each ingredient is employed. That is why they do the actual benefit to the skin for which the creams were formulated.

With these two marvelous creams you will be safe from the common troubles that make a woman's skin look older—the pitiful coarsening of chapping and wind-burn, the dry scaling skin, or the horrid pasty look of the skin that is allowed to accumulate oil and dirt.

Soon your skin will acquire that lovely smoothness and fresh transparency that you cannot help but notice in the women whose success depends on being lovely and who have been compelled to find the right way to care for their skin.

* * *

Beautiful actresses of the stage and the screen tell how wonderfully smooth and fresh these two creams keep their skin.

And many other women write such enthusiastic letters as these:—

"Pond's Cold Cream takes out the dirt that clogs the pores. Also by gently massaging with the cold cream I find there is no place for wrinkles to come. I have used Pond's Cold Cream and Pond's Vanishing Cream for over ten years. Although I am thirty my face looks twenty and I think I owe it to the use of Pond's Two Creams."

Begin tonight to use this method regularly. Buy both creams in jars or tubes. The Pond's Extract Co., 131 Hudson St., New York.

Edwin Bower Hesser

Mildred Harris says, "In spite of the trying lights and cosmetics, Pond's Two Creams have kept my complexion young. I can depend on this method."

See what this famous method will do for you

First With the finger tips apply Pond's Cold Cream freely. The very fine oil in it penetrates every pore of your skin. Then wipe it off with a soft cloth. Dirt and excess oil, the rouge and powder you have used during the day are taken off your skin and out of the pores. Do this twice. Your skin looks fresh and is beautifully supple.

And then Smooth on a delicate film of Pond's Vanishing Cream very evenly—just enough for your skin to absorb. Now, rouge—powder. How velvety your face feels to your hand! How charmingly fresh it is in the mirror! It will stay fresh and powdered for hours. Nothing can roughen its fine smooth textu no matter what exposure you are subjected to.

Rio La Luz that comes out of the big valley? I have told you that?"

Allison nodded.

"Well, we'll be getting down there before long now. A few more weeks will put us through. Yonder was my home for several years. I can't stay away from it now, though home it is no longer. There lies the cause, the reason for my first going down into that country. I reckon I need not talk any more of that.

"Well, old Pedro, back in the peninsula, told me once what I later found to be true—no prospector ever found the color of gold in the Rio La Luz. I suppose the lower river has been prospected in its time—every stream in the Rockies and the Cordilleras has been. But I'm a miner myself, and I tell you there isn't a color of gold in the whole valley of La Luz. And yet——"

"Yes, John?"

"And yet that's the outlet of the richest valley in all the world, my boy! I am going to tell you now about these things, try to give you some more reasons, so that you won't think me entirely crazy in this matter.

"I'm trying to show you how it can be possible that a mine of gold big enough to admit the carving out of things like this"—again he held up the image in his hand—"could have existed so long, could have been suspected so long, and yet never have been found.

"You see, they did find the color of gold in other streams—followed it up and found great placers, great mines. They located quartz mines of gold and silver both. But it was this extreme richness of the country, the great success that all the early adventurers had in finding rich mines, that kept quiet the secret of this other mine, the richest of them all. So you see, what you have thought meant improbability really meant absolute possibility.

"More than that—it meant the truth. I know the truth. For years, I tell you, I have lived within touch of the Madre D'Oro. I tell you I have put my hand on the gate of the great valley itself. I can tell you more—I can tell you all. Yes, I think that now I am safe in telling you all. Go get the other men."

Allison beckoned to Silsby and Hallock. They all sat or stood, silent, close to the little fire, near old John Palmer as he sat upon his bed-roll, the little image of gold still balanced in his hand.

"FRIENDS," said John Palmer. "We have been together now for nearly a month. On the trail, men learn to know each other. I think I know you now. I have trusted you from the start, or I never would have called for you. I feel now, I know, that you have been tested. You're the pure article—like this——" Again he held up the little golden image.

"Yes, I think I can tell you now all the rest, all I know about the Madre D'Oro. If anything happens to one of us, the others must carry the thing on through. I had reason not to talk too soon. The secret of the Madre D'Oro has never been guarded on a basis of friendship, but on a basis of absolute and inviolate secrecy. Only three men until now ever have known it. We are four. We may not always be four. So it is time we all should know.

"I have told you that for reasons of my own I lived down in that little valley which has been my home. There I have been lost to the world, absolutely, year after year. I was contented. Everything I asked of life I had there.

"I tell you, I have lived for eight years within arm's length of immeasurable riches. I did not need them. I have found more than that, outside the valley of the Madre D'Oro!

"But then——" His lean face was drawn a trifle, spasmodically—"I lost all that I had. The woman whom I loved, the woman who brought old Pedro to trust me and to tell me all he knew about the Madre D'Oro—the woman who led me to the valley of La Luz—died. She's down there now, at what once was my home.

"Well, when that happened, I felt alone in the world. I was frightened. Then all at once I went American again. I wanted my own friends, men of my blood, in whom I could trust absolutely. How should I know? I remembered our old promise, years ago, when you were boys. I sent for you. Then I wondered if I had been safe in sending. Now, after many days, I have concluded I was safe. I have found you open and clean. I trust you as much as I do myself.

"Do you, then, all of your, feel willing to take on the rest of this knowledge, and the burden of this secret, with all it means? You don't need to. You can draw back yet, if you have any feeling that it is not wise to go farther on."

"I stick!" said Barry Allison, sharply. The others nodded. Old John Palmer nodded also.

"Gentlemen, I got the secret of the Madre D'Oro from old Pedro Sandoval, peon of Enrico Martinez, the rich Spaniard, who lives in the heart of the peninsula of Lower California. He trusted me because he knew I loved—Dolores Martinez.

"That old man, old Pedro, was then the oldest man in the world in all likelihood. He must certainly have been above 150. He may have been above 200 years of age—no one can tell. But he told me, and I believe it was the truth, that he was the last man to whom the secret of the Three Guardians ever had been imparted. He said that the other two guardians were killed. When he left this country and went far off with the Martinez family, across the Gulf of California, he gave up all thought of ever telling any human being what he knew about the secret. He said he would let it die.

"He did not let it die. I tell you, it was the love of a man and woman which opened old Pedro's lips to me. It was he who sent that woman and myself down into this very country below us here—into the Valley of La Luz. And I can tell you now, in case I should die—find the Rio La Luz, follow it up—and then you come to the gate of the Madre D'Oro!

"Whether Pedro is alive today, I don't know. I doubt it. For the last few days I have been feeling as though he must have died—I can't explain that. But meantime, you and I have been getting acquainted. So, whether Pedro lives or dies, I think it right and fitting that you should know as much as I do. So, I repeat—find La Luz and follow it up. You cannot fail. La Luz is hidden in the volcanic foothills of Orizaba. We'll come to it after a time, if we all live."

Silsby was moistening his lips, finding it hard to talk, so great had been his intentness. "But, John!" he broke out at last, "She—that is to say—your wife——"

"You would ask if she knew the secret also? She never did. She was content never to know it. I never knew her to inquire for it, though suspicion she must have had. We were happy enough. That was all she asked. She was wise. But she did know that the secret of the Madre D'Oro itself was in the possession of her family. And she knew, of course, since we had come all the way down in this country on that purpose, that where we set our stake must be close to the Madre D'Oro. We were so happy, I say, that she never wanted anything more. She never knew whether or not I actually knew the last detail of the secret of the great vein. We never discussed it."

He looked up at the three brown young faces about him, eager, gaunt, hollow-eyed, and he saw a question in their eyes.

"But did I myself know the last item? Did I myself prove the truth? Have I myself seen? That is what you want to know?

"Yes! Yes! If we live, I can lead you to it directly. If I die, you can go there yourselves. Now, since we are within reaching distance of the end of this trail, and since I feel you are safely to be trusted, and to be joined to the long list of the guardians of the Madre D'Oro, I have told you what I have."

He sat silent for a long time. His eye was moody as he resumed

"Yes, my friends, I have seen that thing which we seek. Eyes have never seen the like. Words cannot picture it. The imagination cannot measure it. If it is a great thing, it is a terrible thing. It draws us! We cannot turn back now!"

SEVEN DESTROYERS CRASH TO WRECKAGE on rocks off Point Honda, Calif. The Delpha, in the foreground, was first to smash against the rocks. The pounding waters soon split the hull in half. Helpless and riding at a perilous angle just back of the Delpha is the destroyer Young, in which twenty-three enlisted sailors were trapped in their bunks and drowned. Farther back are the other five wrecked fighting ships. One is already overturned in the hammering seas.

Would Juliet Have Enchanted Romeo in the Broad Light of Day?

WOULD Juliet's enchantment have held Romeo's imagination if she had stood on the sidewalk at 42nd street and Broadway at noon of a Summer's day?

Would Romeo have felt his fine madness of love if Juliet's beauty had not been made magical by a tender moon in the dusk of night?

It is hard to tell, but it is worth thinking about. Particularly by the thousands of women today who fail to realize that they must be much more careful about their appearance under the harsh rays of the sun than in the kindlier lights of night.

Thousands of women today look haggard, artificially white in daylight—for the simple reason that they do not realize that face powder and rouge which make them lovely in the softer lights of evening cannot withstand the test of the sun's cruel rays. These women have not discovered that there are genuine daylight shades—*Peaches-and-Cream and Peaches two innovations in Bourjois JAVA Face Powder.

Peaches-and-Cream is a tan-and-rose out-of-doors shade, radiant and soft . . . Peaches is a delicate tan with the faintest touch of pink, giving the glowing effect of wind and sun.

Bourjois has been making JAVA Face Powder for 50 years. It took years of scientific experiment to develop Peaches-and-Cream and Peaches. For the first time in the history of face powder manufacture, such shades can be offered to the women of America with the assurance that they have passed every test of the sun's harsh rays.

Peaches-and-Cream and Peaches are on sale at all good drug stores. If you are unable to secure them at your druggist, mail the coupon for a sample.

"As a Natural Beautifier, there is Nothing like Yeast Foam Tablets" says famous Follies Beauty "Miss 1923"

Miss AVONNE TAYLOR of the Ziegfeld Follies and forthcoming Famous Players-Lasky Star,—designated by Mr Ziegfeld as "The Perfect Type of the Natural Girl."

Drawn by [illegible] from photo by [illegible]

"THE greatest curse of the passing flapper," says Florenz Ziegfeld, premier picker of feminine beauty, "is the eternal powder, rouge and lip-stick. The girl of today has gone back to Nature, physical well-being and a natural complexion. I believe Miss Avonne Taylor, of the Follies, is the most perfect type of the natural girl of 1923."

Referring to this statement, Miss Taylor says: "I have found that the average diet can be supplemented with excellent results by the occasional addition of Yeast Foam Tablets.

"I often eat this yeast of yours and I find that it not only improves my digestion, but as a natural beautifier of skin and complexion there is nothing like it.

"I heartily recommend Yeast Foam Tablets as a general tonic and conditioner and specifically as an aid to natural beauty."

Pimples, boils, sallow skin and such disorders are usually caused by wrong eating and deficient foods. Yeast Foam Tablets reach the real root of the trouble and supplement your regular food with a substance essential to lovely skin and a clear, fresh complexion. Don't endure skin blemishes when they're so easily corrected.

Get Yeast Foam Tablets from your druggist; eat them regularly and see how much better you look and feel.

These tablets are pure, palatable and easy to take. They keep and they do not cause gas.

Made by the makers of the famous baking yeast, Yeast Foam and Magic Yeast. Like these baking yeasts, Yeast Foam Tablets are a pure food product; not a drug or medicine.

GEORGE A. BILLINGS probably aspired to be a President when he was a youngster. The Rockett-Lincoln Film company has given him that privilege. He impersonates Abraham Lincoln in "The Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln." (And being a movie president is better than being no president, isn't it?) —Mae Tinee.

EDWARD HORTON is the man who plays the feature role of Ruggles in the Paramount production, "Ruggles of Red Gap," adapted from the story by Harry Leon Wilson. The reason his hat is not all here is because it wasn't in the original photograph. But it IS a good picture of a nice, clever looking chap, don't you think? —Mae Tinee.

SIGRID HOLMQUIST is one of the new screen beauties. She hails from Sweden, and was exceedingly present in Jack Holt's "A Gentleman of Leisure." Judging from this photograph, nothing less than an earthquake could ruffle her. (And that not much.) —Mae Tinee.

MARJORIE DAW, actress, and her brand new husband, EDWARD SUTHERLAND, director, are said to have given up the idea of a honeymoon. Can't seem to get away from work. HOWEVER, there's still a little music now and then to cheer the dragging hours in Hollywood. —Mae Tinee.

This tooth paste does more than clean

It stimulates the mouth glands to keep the teeth clean

IF you want to keep your teeth free from decay you must use a tooth paste that does more than clean your teeth.

Day and night the acids of decay are forming all over your teeth. Brushing will not stop them. Only your mouth glands can do that.

Pebeco makes the mouth glands work normally. As soon as it enters the mouth, full quantities of fluids from these glands begin to clean the teeth—they cleanse in between the crevices where the tooth brush cannot reach. As fast as the acids form, these fluids neutralize them and wash them away.

Pebeco makes your teeth as clean as a dentifrice can and it aids your mouth glands to keep them clean.

Oily skin

How you can correct it

An oily, shiny skin is not only unattractive in itself—it is especially liable to infection from dust.

You can overcome this condition by using, each night, the following treatment:

FIRST cleanse your skin by washing in your usual way with Woodbury's Facial Soap and luke-warm water. Wipe off the surplus moisture, but leave the skin slightly damp. Now with warm water work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap in your hands. Apply it to your face and rub it into the pores thoroughly. Rinse with warm water, then with cold. Then rub your face for a few seconds with a piece of ice.

Within a week or ten days this treatment will bring about a marked improvement.

Get a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter. A 25-cent cake lasts a month or six weeks for this treatment and for regular toilet use.

Everybody thinks it's silk

The More Dainty You Are, The More You Like It!

LINGETTE combines the softness and luster of silk with the sturdiness and extra wear of cotton. Lingette can be thoroughly cleansed in warm suds. It is quite the best fabric you can buy for lingerie, petticoats, bloomers, coat linings, princess slips, negligees; also pajamas, and children's dresses.

Not genuine unless
The name is on the selvage,
or the label is in the garment.

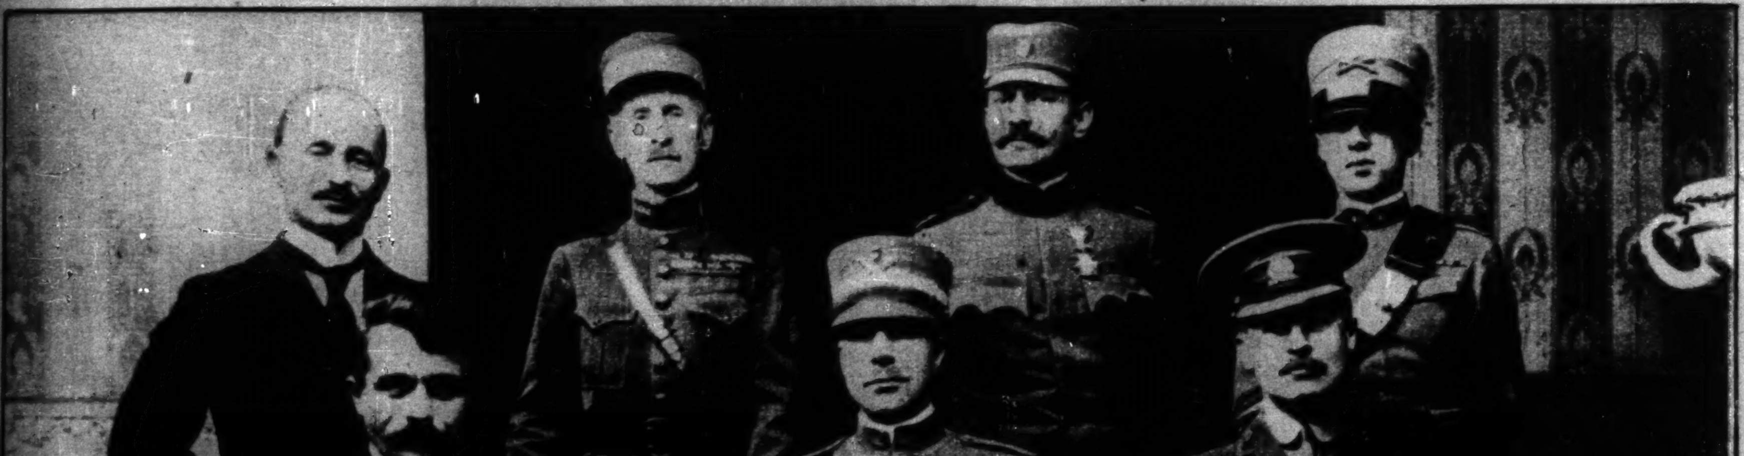
ITALY SEIZES CORFU to enforce its demands for reparations from Greece for the assassination of the Italian members of the Greece-Albania boundary commission. These Italian troops were landed after Mussolini's warships had bombarded the ancient island fort. The shelling killed nearly a score of Near East refugees, mostly children who were being cared for by American relief workers. (Photograph from Pacific & Atlantic.)



THE GRAECO-ROMAN CRISIS was precipitated by the slaying of the Italian members of this commission. Gen. Enrico Tellini, seated in the center, and Lieut. Bonaccini, standing at extreme left, together with two others of the Italian mission, were shot down by bandits on a lonely road near Janina. The outrage followed a decision by the commission giving Albania some frontier territory Greece had gained in 1913. War clouds darkened Europe when Italy demanded humiliating reparations from Greece, but Greece finally bowed to Mussolini, the Roman dictator. (Photograph from International.)

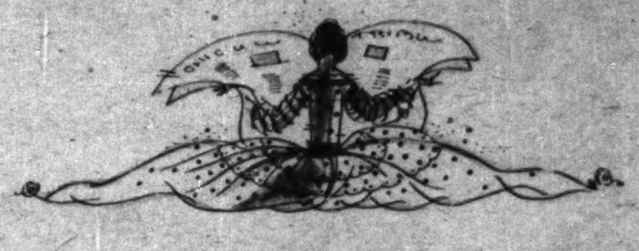
WHY CHICAGO WOMEN READ THE TRIBUNE 7 DAYS A WEEK



THE TRIBUNE is an every day necessity to Chicago women. In it they find expert help and most pleasant divertisement. . . . The latest thing in fashionable wear both for themselves and for the men folks. Beauty Hints by Antoinette Donnelly. "How to Keep Well" by Dr. Evans. Coy ladies sought in the lists of love consult Doris Blake. Mae Tinee and Sheppard Butler tell about the drama ---screen and spoken, respectively . . . Patterns for frocks and dresses by Clotilde. Culinary cunning---kitchen lore ---by Jane Eddington. Welfare work by Sally Joy Brown. Embarrassing Moments --- Bright Sayings of the Children . . . come in for their share of attention . . . Society news---general news (more than half the questions asked by The Inquiring Reporter are submitted by women), and then the advertisements! and the Want Ads! . . . What other medium offers such daily concentration of interest? Where can an advertiser hope to find a richer field for quick response to fair appeal?

Pauvre fille— had she but known!

On beach or links or court—riding or motoring — tempting an ardent sun brings quick and painful penance for mademoiselle's fair and tender skin. But La Mynuette Bleaching Face Powder would have protected her complexion — kept it white and beautiful! La Mynuette is, vraiment, smooth as the fairy-dust from a rose petal —and as fragrant. It whitens. It clings. It is indeed, un poudre supreme. You will find it, in its chic casette of pink, at most good shops.

Originators also of La Mynuette Boudoir-size Compacts, Blending Rouge, Vanities and Fruit-Kist Lipsticks.

DO YOU REMEMBER 'WAY BACK WHEN—

JOSEPH HOFMAN came to America in 1887 to give a concert tour, but was forced to quit by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children? The noted pianist and composer was 11 years old then. He was born in Poland. His father was a composer also.

(Photograph from Frank Rosengren, 611 N. State Street.)

WALTER DAMROSCH'S handsome face made feminine hearts flutter when he began conducting important musical organizations before he was 20 years old? He was born in Prussia in 1862, but his father, a noted musician, brought him to America in 1871. At Gen. Pershing's request Mr. Damrosch founded a school for A. E. F. bandmasters at Chaumont, France, during the great war.

LITTLE CHARLES MARSHALL, now dramatic tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera company, donned fur cap, heavy coat, and galoshes to brave the cold winters of his boyhood home in Lewiston, Me.?

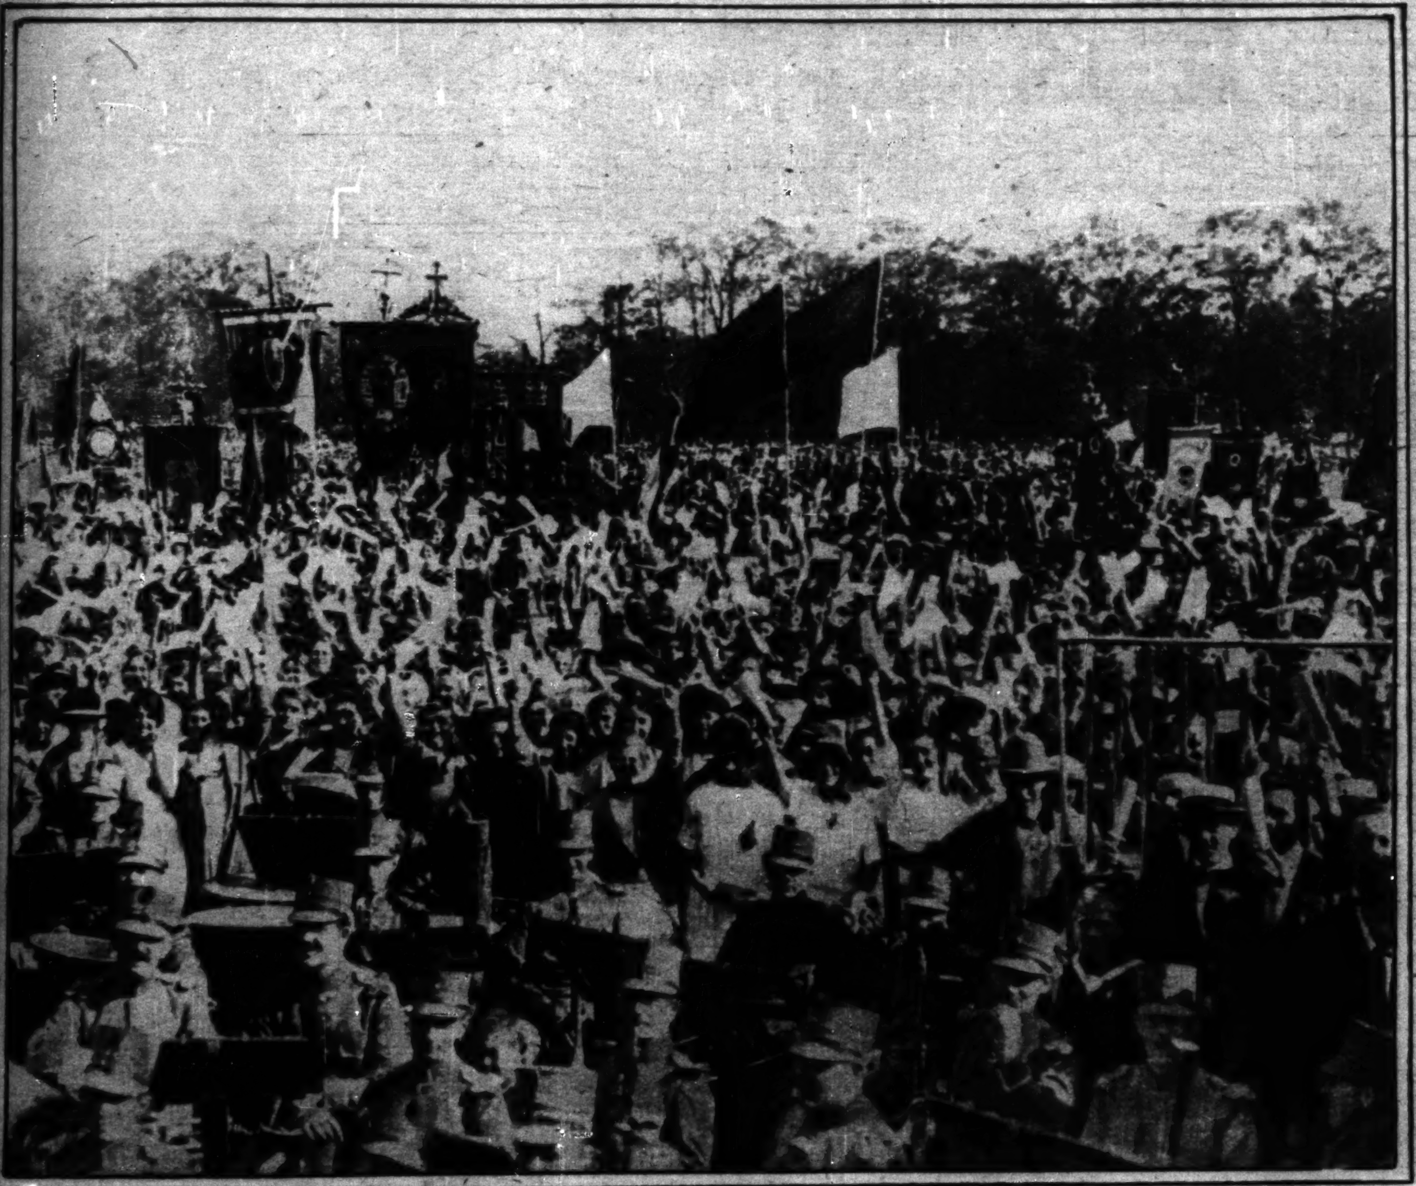
IF YOU have any baby or childhood pictures of well known people, send them in. We'll pay $5 apiece for those we use. In case you wish the picture returned, you must send self-addressed, stamped envelope.



QUEEN'S JUBILEE makes all Holland gay. The picture shows part of the great crowd which cheered Wilhelmina at The Hague on the twenty-fifth anniversary of her installation as ruler. Wilhelmina was only 10 years old when her father, William the Silent, died in 1890. The queen mother, Emma, ruled until Wilhelmina became of age in 1898.

The Song of the BLUE SPRUCE

They stand - those towering spruces-
So sturdy, straight and tall,
Wind-swept by many a combat,
Storm-wrung from spring to fall.

Yet each straining struggle strengthens
Every shred, from root to limb.
While the lashing, slashing branches
Strum the cadence of their hymn:

"Oh, MOSINEE, it is for thee
We grow in strength increasingly:
Our toughened fibres soon shall be Made into sinewy

MOSINEE!"

I'LL COME BACK WHEN THE LEAVES BEGIN TO FALL-
-SIDNEY SMITH-
I GAVE YOU A QUARTER TO RAKE UP THE LEAVES IN THE YARD AND YOU HAVEN'T HALF DONE IT- GET BUSY NOW-
AW, GEE, PAPA- IT'S SUCH A BIG YARD-
NOW GO AHEAD AND EARN THAT QUARTER- JUST GRAB THAT RAKE LIKE A LITTLE MAN AND SHOW ME HOW YOU CAN WORK-
YES SIR-
PUT A LITTLE GINGER INTO IT- AT THE RATE YOU'RE GOING SPRING AND A NEW CROP OF LEAVES WILL BE HERE BEFORE YOU GET THESE LEAVES RAKED-
OH, LET THE CHILD ALONE- ONE WOULD THINK YOU WERE BOSSING A SECTION GANG.
ALL RIGHT- TAKE CHESTER INTO THE HOUSE- PAMPER HIM- I'LL EARN HIS QUARTER FOR HIM AND YOU CAN GIVE IT TO HIM- THEN HE WON'T BE OVERWORKED-
AFTER ALL, IF YOU WANT TO HAVE A THING DONE RIGHT YOU MUST DO IT YOURSELF- WHEN I GET THROUGH LEAVES WILL BE AS SCARCE IN THIS YARD AS ESKIMOS IN THE SAHARA DESERT-
AFTER I'M THROUGH RAKING THIS YARD IF SOME POOR GUY COMES IN HERE AND WANTS TO TURN OVER A NEW LEAF HE'LL HAVE TO BRING THE NEW LEAF WITH HIM-
I'LL MAKE THIS YARD AS SMOOTH AS A POLITICIAN'S TONGUE- ANY ONE LOOKING FOR A LEAF WILL HAVE TO CLIMB A TREE-
IT JUST SHOWS WHAT SOME ELBOW GREASE AND THE FAMOUS GUMP LOOSE-LEAF SYSTEM WILL DO-
THAT'S WHAT I CALL A NEAT LITTLE MONUMENT TO INDUSTRY- EVERY LEAF ARRANGED IN APPLE PIE ORDER- ALL INDEXED AND NUMBERED LIKE THE BOOKS IN A PUBLIC LIBRARY-
OH MIN! COME OUT HERE- BRING CHESTER WITH YOU-
WHEN SHE SEES THIS LAWN SHE'LL THINK I USED A VACUUM CLEANER WITH A LEAF PICKING ATTACHMENT!
